TOO MUCH COAL
is sometimes the complaint of the householder. Gets hold of a lot which is nearly all slate or dirt and won't burn. Not from us, however. That which we sell is SUPERIOR COAL
and burns well, but not too quickly. Is clean, bright and hot. Every ton sold is full weight and full value. None so good at these figures.

KEEP OFF THE EARTH
During the cold and wet weather as much as possible—that is, keep as much shoe leather between the soles of your feet and Mother Earth as you can conveniently carry. It's wisest in the beginning and cheaper in the end to provide yourself with shoes having good solid soles—cold-proof and water-proof, if possible.
We are selling exceptionally good shoes of just this sort for men and women; children, too.
Well built, with broad, heavy soles and with stout uppers.
They're a very paradise of rest for weary feet, and a paradise of economy for weary purses.

HOW TO MAKE GOOD COFFEE

Simple Directions Which Any Woman Can Follow.

It has been said that the good coffee brewer is born, not made. While this is true to a great extent, any one may learn to make a delicious cup of coffee after reading the following directions: In the first place, purchase a small coffee grinder and grind your coffee. In this way you will be sure of getting the true aroma. Next make your coffee in a pot of granite ware instead of tin and be sure to place the empty pot on the back of the stove in order that it may have a thorough heating before the coffee grounds are placed in it. Next pour the boiling water into the pot over the coffee. This water must be hissing hot. Next close the coffeepot very tightly in order that the aroma may not escape and allow it to stand ten or twenty minutes. It may be as hot as possible, but do not let it boil if you wish to preserve its delicacy of taste.

MAKING DRIP COFFEE.

Drip coffee is made in the same way, except that the coffeepot is two stories high, and in the upper section the water is poured over the grounds, allowing them to filter through a sieve.

A simple way of making drip coffee consists in allowing the hot water kettle to come to a boil, then putting the coffee into a bowl and pouring over it the boiling water. The bowl is next placed in the opening of the boiling kettle and covered with a saucer. The coffee is ready in about ten minutes.

No true epicure will allow his coffee to be poured into a china coffeepot. This changing of pots wastes too much of the precious aroma.

TEACHING ETIQUETTE

How Mrs. Gentlewoman Increased Her Unpleasantly Small Income.

When Mrs. Gentlewoman found herself almost penniless at the death of her gay clubman of a husband, she was in despair, never having been fitted for any other occupation in life than giving great entertainments or assisting at those of her friends. Things looked very black for her indeed. At this juncture she went to an afternoon tea, and it was while watching the antics of a very newly made rich woman that an idea flashed through her anxious brain. The next day the following advertisement appeared in an exclusive society paper:

"A lady of culture, belonging to the best circles both here and abroad, will instruct social aspirants in the most correct forms of etiquette. Strict secrecy maintained."

From that moment her future was assured. She had many answers, and her charming manners joined to her discreet silence as to the identity of her pupils brought her many more. Today she is doing well—very well indeed. The lessons are private, and the secrecy of the confessional is maintained about them. Mrs. Parvenu is taught how to stand, how to handle her train without taking headers over it; an imaginary dinner is served, and she is taught how to act as hostess; an imaginery dance is given, and she is taught how to bow, to sit properly and to use her fan in a dignified manner. Miss Goldmines, too, is taught how to wear her new Paris frills and how to converse in a fascinating manner when introduced to eligible young men. Altogether Mrs. Gentlewoman's little heart to heart etiquette talks are a great success. And, as is only right, she charges a good round sum for giving the benefit of her long experience.

SHE IS TAUGHT HOW TO BOW.

She Paints Microbes.

Miss Katherine M. Montague, a Baltimore girl, educated in the scientific department of Johns Hopkins university, has been called as an assistant in the pathological department of the Pennsylvania University Medical school. Miss Montague has proved herself a phenomenally skillful artist in the field of painting microbes. It is to be hoped she will not after awhile imagine that she herself has them all.

In the New Woman's Sphere.

PARDON me if I rehash a chapter of congressional proceedings which is now ancient history, for it is a record of several weeks ago. It is an occurrence in the United States senate, the most solemn and "etiquettish" masculine organization in existence, with the possible exception of the British house of lords. The headlining of the newspaper dispatch says, "Tillman and McLaurin In Furious Combat With Fists Upon Floor of Senate." Yes, but women are too emotional to be allowed to take part in politics! Further, the dispatch says: "T. insinuated that M. had sold his vote for federal patronage. M. called T. a liar. T. sprang over three chairs and viciously attacked M., striking him in the face with his fist. M. hit back, striking T. on the nose, drawing blood." Just so! But women are too emotional to be trusted with the ballot or to take part in politics! Further, this dispatch concerning the cool and powerful white male who permits not himself to be governed by his feelings says: "Again T. struck out frantically, this time with his left hand. The blow did not hit M., but struck in the face Sergeant at Arms Dayton, who had sprung over the desks in the effort to reach the two belligerent senators." But women are too emotional to take part in politics! Once more: "The two senators were still striking wildly at each other, some of the blows landing upon Mr. Layton. An instant later the angry senators were pinioned in the arms of Senators S. and W. Finally they were forced into their seats. T. was white as a sheet. As he sat in his seat he drew his handkerchief from his pocket and wiped blood from his face." Here in the senate of the United States occurred a "scrap" unexcelled in vulgar fury and brutality in the lowest slums of men, white, black or yellow. Nevertheless, woman, you—you are a weak, hysterical creature, governed wholly by your personal feelings! Look up to man—powerful brained, calm, self controlled man—as your superior! Hide yourself within your own inferiority! You are too emotional to take part in politics—you!

No organization of men could have been more warmly or honorably welcomed at Washington than the national American woman suffrage convention was. Hon. Henry B. F. Macfarland, president of the board of commissioners for the District of Columbia, himself made to the women the address of welcome to the capital, and more than a thousand visitors were present to greet them. A Washington paper says that perhaps no meeting of the association ever aroused so much interest among Washington women themselves as the one of 1902.

There is one Turkish woman in the Ottoman empire who is a regularly graduated bachelor of arts. She received her degree from the American college for girls at Constantinople.

At a woman suffrage meeting a man asked Rev. Anna Shaw how women could be made to overcome their petty jealousies. Note Rev. Anna's reply to him, "So long as the Sampson-Schley case is on I wouldn't say anything about petty jealousies if I were you."

Lately at dinner I sat opposite a girl who wore diamond rings and licked her fingers.

Women who think they try every way they know how to earn a living and always fail are either mentally deficient or slumpy, mostly slumpy.

A lady proposes a summer camp for girls where they can live in tents and swim and row and take tramps through the woods. Certainly, but there will be much more enjoyment if there are a few men along.

A queer thing happened lately. The University of Pennsylvania conferred some honorary degrees on distinguished individuals, and the individuals were present to receive them. One of them was an iron faced antique who has distinguished himself by bawling aloud early and late against the emancipation of woman, but what else he is distinguished for I don't know. He was made a doctor of laws. As one of the guests of honor there was present a gentle little woman who was also made a doctor, a doctor of letters, because of the service she had rendered in the field of literature. She was Miss Agnes Repplier. The world still moves, thank God, in spite of iron faced antiques!

Those who listen month by month to the feeble humor of woman's club papers seem quite unconscious of the real humor of the situation.

Overheard in a restaurant: Man of the First Part—It always takes me an hour to dress in the morning. Man of the Second Part—How can you put in all that time? Man of the First Part—Oh, I monkey around. I have to shave, you know. Man of the Second Part (with an air of great superiority)—Well, I don't shave, and I can dress any morning in three minutes by the watch. He looked it.

"Believe—believe me—Richard." Her hands tore feebly at a slender chain that had slipped down into her bosom, and drew a little locket into view. He recognized it.

"I believe you," he said, gently, at length. And he did; he had never doubted it in his heart.

"It is the last prayer of the woman—who in all these years—of suffering—shame—has loved you!). Go to him! He will come—my child's life—save the child for—her mother's sake! Let me see her!"

The soldier had faced every danger of the battlefield without a tremor. In the presence of this woman's awful agony his heart failed him. "The lost papers—duplicates—duplicates! Richmond is yours—Lee's army—destroyed!" He stood up then, and was cool, his eyes reading her pale face as an open book. He turned to the door.

"Surgeon," he said, "come to this poor girl. Louise, I will return." He rode to headquarters and laid before his chief all the facts. A long discussion followed.

"It is a desperate venture, general, and if I fail—death! I know that. But if I succeed, it may mean life for many a man in this army. Still, let me be frank; I shall go not for that alone."

"The decision is with you, colonel. My advice is against your plan. And yet—if that information opened the road to Richmond—it would mean Gen. Somers."

"I have your permission?" There was no answer. "I shall start in 30 minutes, then," said Somers. The general gave his hand in silence and turned away.

"Avoid capture," he said, sadly. Day by day familiar faces were passing from him.

"I shall not be captured. If it comes, it will be a soldier's death," was the reply. He reentered the presence of Louise clad in the uniform of a confederate captain. The old negress was with her, and, hat in hand, a young man, her son, was delivering a message to her. Somers caught enough of the words to gather that he came from Richmond.

"How did you pass through the lines?" he asked, abruptly. The negro grinned and was silent. "Can you guide me through—quick, man, speak." The negro looked at the uniform.

"Yes, sah. But it's er long ways now—an' through the swamp, too."

"Louise, for your sake and the child's I shall try. If I return no more—it will be because I—have failed!"

"Come—to me, Richard—kneel. And now, God—bless you. 'Tis a sinful woman's prayer—but He will hear—even me, a murderess!"

"Murderess! Louise!"

"I tried to kill him—tried to end it! I fired to kill in my despair—it was the wrong man. I saw dimly—through the blinds—another woman's room—under the light of a match only—and I killed him—an innocent man!"

"Louise—in Richmond—through the blinds—a year ago?"

"Ah, you heard of it?"

"I was the man."

"It cannot be!"

"It was a wing-room. She was kneeling before me, and the bullet struck here!" He drew aside his hair and rested his finger upon a white spot. "Brodnar—"

"God is comforting me," she whispered. "The rest will come." Tears streamed down her cheeks from her closed lids. Somers chose the moment to leave her.

"Keep her alive until morning," he said, to the surgeon. "I will come then—or not at all." And then to the negro: "Now, my boy, $100 in gold if you guide me safely into Richmond and back. Will you need a horse?" The negro shook his head.

"No horse can cross whar I gointer go." He led away briskly into the Chickahominy swamp, and when Richard Somers found the stars again he was within the lines of his enemy with the Richmond lights in sight. Not until then did he remember that he had no knowledge of Raymond Holbin's whereabouts. He stopped, amazed that he had failed in this vital matter.

"Do you know Mr. Holbin in Richmond," he asked of the negro, "Mr. Raymond Holbin?"

"Yes, sah, 'course I know him. We all b'longs to es ma."

"What! Then that house back yonder! Whose is that?"

"Dat's his house, sah, I reck'n. Don't nobody come out but him, to see es little gal."

"His girl! Her name—what is her name?"

"Calls 'er Chicky most generally. Sometimes he called 'er Nanon." Somers stopped then and stood with his face toward the stars in breathless reverie a few moments.

"My boy," he said, "you saw the woman who was shot?"

"Yes, sah."

"She is dying; that is her child and she does not know it. Here is all the money I have with me; it is yours if you will go back with all your might and tell her about the child. Do this, my boy, and God will bless you."

"How you gointer get back, marster?"

"That doesn't matter!—go! go! Here is your money—be quick now!"

"...g it along wid you, marster." The negro vanished as a shadow within a shadow.

"And now, Louise," said the soldier, as he plunged on into the city, "God is comforting you!"

So far as the chance of detection was concerned, Richard Somers was as safe on the streets of Richmond that night as in his own camp; but he realized that perhaps he had a difficult task before him to find Raymond Holbin. And if he found him, what then?

The city was in a turmoil. Excited men and women crowded the streets and wounded soldiers were on every side. There was to be little sleep that night in Richmond or in the next five to come, for the fate of the city hung in the balance during the seven days' battle. Somers carried off his novel experience boldly, and, passing into the Spotswood hotel, he sought a directory. His search for Holbin's name was at once successful, and, taking a note of the address, he went forth and prepared himself for the final trial. His safety lay in the character of the service he was rendering to the woman to whom Holbin owed much. At least he argued so. How little he knew the depths of villainy he was about to probe!

A policeman directed him to the address secured, and he found himself before a spacious and pretentious mansion of the older style. There were lights in front and he hesitated, prompted by some intuition. If he could get to the rear, he imagined, and question a servant, the risk would be less. There seemed to be a garden and a wing, and upon a side street he found an entrance through an iron gate, which stood ajar. Entering and passing a horse tied in the shrubbery, he approached the wing-room without connecting the place with any impression of memory; but suddenly, as he neared the closed door, the plashing of a fountain smote his ear, and the experience of a memorable night rose to mind. The iron gate, the gravel walk, the shrubbery and the wing-room! All were there; and above all the low music of the fountain. Then, swift as a flash of lightning, rose his promise. He was pledged not to enter. But as he stood, his mind confused and without power to measure the significance of the new facts, the door opened and a young woman stepped out. The light from the iron lamp swinging overhead fell full upon her. He saw that her face was womanly, sad, and beautiful, a face hallowed by the sufferings of others like unto those he had seen so often in the convent and hospital. A vague half memory of it arose in his mind. He lifted his hat instinctively as she paused in surprise.

"I fear you have made a mistake," she said, gently. "Whom do you seek?"

At the sound of her voice he uttered a low cry; and then—

"Frances!"

At the same instant she recognized him and started forward; but, checking the impulse, she drew back, stunned and distressed.

"God has arranged it for us," he said, a glad note in his voice. "I have found you without seeking; I have looked into your face without knowing—why—what is it?" The girl had drawn beyond the reach of the arms stretched out towards her and was sadly shaking her head.

"What does it mean?" she said, in fear, her voice trembling. "Why are you here in that uniform?"

"Upon a mission requiring the utmost secrecy, Frances; discovery would cost me my life! I shall explain—"

"A spy! You a spy! Ah, I can believe all the other things now—they told me only the truth!" She began to wring her hands; then suddenly drawing up her slender figure, she said:

"Capt. Somers, leave these premises at once—and Richmond, or—yes, even I—will give you up to the law." He saw her mistake, but he was as proud.

"You condemn me without a hearing."

"Your uniform, your presence in this city condemn you!"

"No Somers was ever a spy. I have risked my life to help a dying woman," he said, quietly. "I came here to see a man named Raymond Holbin."

"Raymond! What of him?"

"You know him, then?"

"Yes! Yes! He is here—in this house!"

"Take him my message, and we part for all time, Frances; tell him that Louise is dying—tell him to come here to me—"

"Louise! Oh, sir—wait! Will you not tell me who is Louise?"

"A lovable woman whose life has been a failure. It was she who fired the shot that night—not at me who once loved her, but at Holbin, as she thought, the man who had brought her nothing but sorrow."

Amazed and dumb, Frances was regarding him with questioning eyes.

"And the child?" she began, weakly.

"Ah, there is the most pitiable part of it. Holbin has never married Louise." The girl covered her face an instant.

"Forgive me," she said. "I wronged you—my friend."

"You do not say my husband. So let it be."

"I cannot," she answered, in great distress, "when I think of my poor boys dying and dead all around me!—some day when it is all over, perhaps;—but not now, not now! But oh, sir," she exclaimed, looking in terror about her, "come inside, come in; the danger is frightful."

Somers drew himself up and saluted. "Kindly deliver my message. I shall wait here."

"You must not—you shall not! Quick, sir, into my room."

"It is the room of a young girl," he said; "if I am discovered there the life that I lose is nothing compared to her loss!" A struggle was going on in her heart. Her face was white, and a wan smile dwelt upon it.

"It is your wife's room," she said, "and you will be safe there."

SPEAK OUT.

The Searchlight of Publicity is Pleasing Plainfield People.

Publicity is what the people want. Let the public speak on the subject. There has been too much claim—too little proof.

There is only one kind of proof for Plainfield citizens.

The experience of people we know. When friends and neighbors endorse. No question about such evidence. This kind of proof backs every box of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here is a case of it:

Mrs. W. W. Mills, of No. 86 Summit avenue, says: "I suffered at times with a severe pain across the small of my back and in my hips. If I did any lifting or stooping my back became lame and sore, and though I used plasters they only helped me for the time being. I was feeling very badly when I had my attention called to Doan's Kidney Pills. They were so highly recommended for troubles like mine that I got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store. I felt their good effects in a few days. When I had finished the treatment my back was better and stronger and I had much more energy to attend household duties."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

MICE IN THE SHEEP'S WOOL.

New York Farmer Finds Eighty of the Tiny Creatures Ensconced in Fleecy Homes.

Adsit Bailey keeps a good many sheep on his farm in the town of Urbana, says a Bath (N. Y.) report. He noticed the other day, on going out to feed his flock, a black spot on the back of one of the sheep.

When he went to look at it the spot instantly disappeared. Then another black spot appeared for an instant on the sheep's back and as quickly went out of sight.

This time the farmer saw that the black spot was a mouse, and while he was looking at the place where it had been a third black spot came into sight at the same place on the sheep's back and disappeared as the others had.

Then Farmer Bailey thought it was time to investigate, and he thrust his hand down into the sheep's thick coat of wool and found three snug and cozy mouse nests, each with a new-born litter of young ones in it. He lost no time in breaking up those odd mouse colonies, and then looked over others of his sheep, with the result that he found four more in the depths of whose wool mice had chosen warm places to build nests and bring forth their young.

Ten nests were found in all, containing an aggregate of 80 young mice. The sheep seemed not only not to mind the presence of the mouse nests in their fleeces, but acted as if they were not pleased with their removal and the destruction of their contents

ORANGES AS CARD-CHIPS.

Novel Feature of a Lazy Game Played by Turks to Keep Themselves Awake.

During Ramazan the sale of oranges in Constantinople fell off in a most surprising manner, and the reason was still more curious, says the London Telegraph. It was because the government had suddenly issued an order prohibiting the game of "skambil kiat" in public places, and had seized all the cards. At first the connection between oranges and a card game does not appear clear, but it comes about in this way: At the time of Ramazan all Turks try to keep awake as much as possible, and the cafes are full at night. The assembled crowds of porters, boatmen, etc., pass the hours playing cards, dominoes, or backgammon, but the favorite game is skambil, as it finishes very quickly and is no trouble.

The keepers of the cafes used to insist on each player (there are four) buying an orange for a half-penny, the winner taking the lot. In this way large quantities of oranges were disposed of, but the business suddenly came to an end with the stoppage of "skambil," for dominoes and other games take too long to make an orange a sufficient stake.

The Southern Way.

"Your northern girls may have the style and all that sort of thing," said a southern gentleman to a northern gentleman the other day, "but our girls have the breeding." And, indeed, says the Boston Transcript, southern manners and southern courtesy are a different fabric from that which is known in our strenuous social and industrial life. Take, for instance, the southern way of issuing invitations. Instead of intrusting them haphazard to the mail by a careless messenger, the southern girls fill the family carriage with their girl friends, and a generous hamper of lunch, to be enjoyed en route, making a pleasant day's outing, while stopping along the way to leave the invitations for the forthcoming festivity. It is a delicate personal attention almost unknown to northern customs.

Decorated Boleros.

The fashion of elaborating lace with embroidery, hand painting and jewel work or small gold sequins prevails more extravagantly than ever. Decorated evening boleros are among the most extreme notes of the season's extravagance, and the girdles and neckpieces that usually accompany them are quite as lavishly decorated.

A NEW RURAL NOVEL

Will Deal with Life in Indiana in Mexican War Time.

Booth Tarkington, No d Hoosier Author, Is Now Putting Finishing Touches to It—About to Become a Benedict.

Booth Tarkington, of Indianapolis, the well-known author and playwright, is completing the concluding chapters of another Indiana novel.

The new book will make its appearance in time, the author's friends assert, to answer a double purpose. It will come not only at an opportune time for the publishers, but will not be amiss in assisting the author in furthering his political ambitions.

For Booth Tarkington, the author, expects to become Booth Tarkington, the politician.

Then, in addition, there is a strong rumor going the rounds that Booth Tarkington, the bachelor, is about to become Booth Tarkington, the benedict. Mr. Tarkington, however, does not admit this assertion. He will not countenance the rumor. Neither does Mr. Tarkington's family, unless, in truth, the author's mother be excepted. She has been quoted as admitting that the author and the young woman whose name has been linked with that of Mr. Tarkington by the gossips like each other—nothing more.

Yet an intimate friend of the Indiana author said only a day or two ago: "Mr. Tarkington is working on the last novel he will write before he is married."

"However," as Mr. Tarkington, himself, says, "the rumor does not affect the novel now in hand."

As in his first success, says the Chicago American, the author will return to Indiana for the plot of his story. It will be laid in the city of Terre Haute, where, by the way, the author's father met, wooed and married the author's mother, and it will deal almost exclusively with bits of Indiana character. Mr. Tarkington considers it his most pretentious and most successful effort.

The book has not yet been named—the author insisting on one title, the publishers suggesting another and the author's friends advancing a third. It will be a romance dealing with life in Indiana, in the vicinity of Terre Haute during the time of the Mexican war, and it will convey not a few of its incidents to the famous Catholic school near Terre Haute, "St. Marys of the Woods." The book, however, Mr. Tarkington insists, will not be classed as a historical romance. This he says in the face of anticipating critics who have endeavored to predict the character of the work.

(Noted Indiana Author Soon to Become a Benedict.)

The love story is delicately woven round the lives of a girl studying at the Catholic institution and a young man of the clear-brained, horny-handed class peculiar to the early period of Indiana's history.

Mr. Tarkington said: "I will doubtless hear more from my friend at Seattle now. Shortly after the production of 'The Gentleman from Indiana' friends of mine residing in Seattle, Wash., sent word to me that a certain resident of that city was parading under the name of Booth Tarkington, claiming to have written my book. He was buying copies right and left and sending them to his friends with a neat little picture of himself and a card saying that this was his first venture into literature and he wanted their criticism. My friends desired to know whether I would have them expose him or not. It seems that he also claimed that while he had written the book I was reaping the golden benefits in the shape of royalties. It did not take me long to decide what to do. I wrote them to encourage him in his 'pipe dream,' explaining at the same time that every copy he bought was putting that much more money in my pocket. I needed the money.

"This latest effort of mine is in some respects a more elaborate one than any of the others preceding. At least I have worked harder on it. Of course, I cannot say what success it will meet with—in fact, there are as yet several incomplete chapters.

"I have endeavored in my book, nameless as yet, to combine romance and character delineation. At the time of which I have written the farmers and townspeople were of such a character as to attract the most fastidious student. I have also endeavored not to become historical, and I think I have succeeded to a certain extent. The life of the story will rest in the hands of the people in a very short time."

PLAINFIELD WON.

Defeated Basket Ball Team of Rahway Y. M. C. A. at Rahway Last Evening.

After a close and exciting game, the basket ball team of the local Y. M. C. A., defeated the Rahway association team, at the latter's gymnasium, last evening, by a score of 17 to 13. For some time it looked as if the Plainfield team was scheduled for defeat, as the gym was much darker than it is used to playing in and it worked under much difficulty. The first half of the game ended tie but in the second the visiting team pulled out and ended with the four surplus goals.

The teams were composed as follows:

Plainfield.		Rahway.
Cranston	r. f.	Cuttle
Denton	l. f.	Bagley
Cahoone	c.	Chapin
Giles, Hand	r. g.	Boland
Heinecke,	l. g.	Keyes

Score—Plainfield, 17; Rahway, 13. Goals from the field—Cranston (3), Denton (2), Heinecke, Cuttle, Bagley (2), Chapin. Goals on fouls—Denton, Cahoone, Chapin. Fouls—Plainfield, 9; Rahway, 16. Referee—Physical Director Stiles, of Rahway. Umpires—Walter McNaughton and C. E. A. Heywood, of Plainfield.

BARN BURNED.

Building Owned by Wm. Smalley, of New Market, Destroyed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Market, March 25—A fire broke out Sunday night in the barn owned by William Smalley, of this place, and completely destroyed the building, as well as the contents and adjoining small buildings. It was late when the fire was discovered and Mr. Smalley was unable to get enough assistance to put the fire out. This is the third time he has lost a barn by fire. The origin of the fire is unknown. The only thing saved was the live stock.

Richard Albrecht and Son Drowned.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Brunswick, March 25—A telegram from Everett, Ga., announces that the body of Richard Albrecht and his son were found in a stream near that place. Albrecht was the lessee of the Hotel Winsor, of this place, and he worried lately over money matters. He went south to secure employment and his death like that of his son is believed to have been accidental. The bodies have been shipped north.

Preparing for Martens.

In preparation for the annual return of the martens, a sure sign of spring, W. W. Coriell, of West Front street, is making the usual repairs to the bird house in front of his building. Each year the martens return and hold a reception.

HOFMANN IS COMING AGAIN

Has Promised Ward Stephens to Give Another Musical Evening in This City.

A few months ago, Ward Stephens treated Plainfielders to one of the most artistic and enjoyable musical evening that the music lovers of this town have ever been privileged to enjoy at home. For weeks afterwards those who had the opportunity of hearing Josef Hofmann play on that memorable evening talked about the "musicale" and many regretted the opportunity lost to them of hearing such great artists so near home.

Last week Mr. Hofmann returned to New York after making an extended tour of the United States playing in all ninety-nine concerts. Mr. Stephens met him upon his arrival in the city and asked him for one more evening before sailing for Europe. Mr. Hofmann graciously acquiesced and April 11 was the evening set. Mr. Hofmann will be heard this time at the very attractive home of Mrs. Lawrence Myers and not only artistically but socially the evening will undoubtedly prove a "red letter" one in the Plainfield calendar. Miss Laura Graves, one of New York's charming singers, will add to the attractiveness of the programme.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—G. M. Macintyre has moved from Elm place to 828 West Sixth street.

—G. P. Hinman and family, of the Stillman building, moved to Brooklyn today.

—Mrs. Lincoln has taken possession of her handsome new ressdence on West Eighth street.

—Miss Jessie Stites, of Steiner place, has resumed her position at Dr. Cooley's Sanitarium.

—Miss Jennie DeCamp, of the borough, has secured a position at the Crescent Embossing Works.

—Mrs. F. T. Woodhull will give a tea to the young women of Woodhull & Martin's, tomorrow evening, at her home in West End Park.

—Mrs. Demezier und her daughter, Miss Demezier, of Washington avenue, will break up housekeeping soon and remove to Mrs. Truell's on Central avenue.

—Ira L. LaRue has rented his new Park lane property, Netherwood, to Robert Hall, of Belvidere avenue. Mr. LaRue has also purchased of the owner, Mr. Male, the property, 815 Second place.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Florence Shepherd, of Chicago, Ill., is the guest of Mrs. Chas. Potter, of West Seventh street.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Dougherty, of Newark, have returned from a visit with friends in this city.

George W. VanNest, Sr., of Martinsville, accompanied by his son, William, spent yesterday with George W. VanNest, Jr., of East Second street.

George E. Marx, overseer of the poor in this city in 1896-97, came to Plainfield last evening to visit friends. Today he called at The Daily Press office. Mr. Marx is now assistant superintendent at the Berkshire Industrial Farm, Canaan Four Corners, N. Y.

Wanted to Jump.

C. B. Cassidy, of Philadelphia, who has been under Dr. Cooley's care for nervous troubles, returned to his home Sunday. He engaged Constable John Gjettlesen to accompany him. While on the train Mr. Cassidy made several attempts to escape and jump from the train. It was with great difficulty that the constable restrained him and succeeded in getting the man to his home.

Grass on Fire.

The tall grass in the rear of the houses on Arlington avenue back of Ninth street caught fire this morning and threatened to set fire to the dwellings. The people in the vicinity turned out and extinguished the flames before much damage resulted.

Thief Came to Plainfield.

A horse stolen from A. V. D. Polhemus, of Franklin Park, last Wednesday, was traced to this city by the detective society at that place. When officers reached here, however, the thief had escaped to Perth Amboy.

To Fix Budget.

It is expected that the yearly budget will be made up at the next regular meeting of the Common Council, Monday evening, April 7. The several committees have about completed their work in this direction.

Has Not Resigned.

Joseph O. Osgood, of North Plainfield, desires The Daily Press to state that he has not resigned his position as chief engineer for the New Jersey Central.

SAID FAREWELL TO ONE MUCH BELOVED

Impressive Funeral Services of Wm. R. Mattox Were Held Yesterday Afternoon.

SERVICES AT GRAVE.

G. A. R. DELEGATION ESCORTED THE CASKET TO THE CEMETERY.

And Conducted the Services at the Grave—Beautiful Floral Emblems—Rev. J. O. McKelvey Was in Charge at Warren Chapel.

The funeral services of the late William R. Mattox, whose death occurred so suddenly last Sunday morning, were held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from Warren chapel. The chapel was crowded with relatives and friends, showing their esteem and love for one who had won their affection and admiration. There were also present members of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., Howell Division, No. 97, Sons of Temperance, and city officials. There was the usual stack of muskets and the American flag draped over the casket.

Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of the chapel, conducted the services. He read appropriate Scripture selections after which he made a few remarks. He spoke of the Civil War, in which Mr. Mattox took a part, and likened that battle to the Christian's battle for victory. Mr. McKelvey was impressed that the battle for righteousness was more important than the battle of years ago and he urged all to fight the good fight of faith and to put on the whole armor of God. He referred to the part that Mr. Mattox took in the Civil War and how bravely he fought for the freedom of the slave.

At the close of the discourse, Grand Worthy Patriarch Scribner, of the Sons of Temperance, read the funeral discourse from the society's ritual. Then an opporunity was given all to take a last look at the form of the departed.

There were floral tributes in profusion. There were pillows from Post No. 73, G. A. R., and the police, of this city, a large wreath from the Woman's Relief Corps, an emblem from the Sons of Temperance, a bouquet from the Christian Endeavor Society and a handsome tribute from Corporation Counsel C. A. Marsh, of this city. In addition there were many tributes from relatives and friends in Newark.

The remains were then escorted to Hillside cemetery for interment. [Preceded by the Independent Fife and Drum Corps, the veterans, followed by the relatives in carriages, took up their march to the grave. At the cemetery the veterans took charge of the service under the direction of Commander Berg. He was assisted by Comrades James Atwood, W. W. Coriell, W. C. Smith and Chaplain Goodwin.

After the ritualistic parts there was the customary salute by the firing squad, composed of Col. Perry, John Vail, John Finley, John Wagner and Edward Willis. Henry Frazee was the color bearer. At the close of the service taps were sounded on the bugle by Commander Berg and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. Mr. McKelvey.

Those who acted as pall-bearers were Charles B. Stephens, Josiah Ungast, William Pangborn, William C. Smith, H. C. Corsa and Abram King.

No Small-Pox in Plainfield.

During the past few days it has been generally reported that there are cases of small-pox in this city. This is not true. The Board of Health states that there is not a single case in the city at present. The people have evidently confounded the two cases in Piscataway township as being in Plainfield.

BEAUTIFUL MUSIC BY WELL TRAINED CHORUS

Fourth Private Concert Given by Choir of First Baptist Church Last Evening.

WAS GREAT SUCCESS.

THE ACCOMPANIMENT OF THE STRING QUARTETTE WAS FAULTLESS.

Admirable Chorus Work and Fine Solos — Chief Number Was Rossini's "Stabat Mater"—Gounod's "Gallia" Completed Programme.

Chorus and instrumental music of a character seldom heard in Plainfield held the enthralled attention of a gathering which completely filled the First Baptist church, last evening. It was the occasion of the fourth private concert given by the choir of the church, assisted by a well trained chorus of thirty voices. The perfect blending of tones and melodic rhythm of both solo and chorus parts revealed a careful selection of voices and conscientious training.

The solos were taken by Miss Luella C. Harris, soprano; Mrs. Ferdinand Ward, contralto, George H. Smith, tenor, and William Homes, baritone. In the string quartette were Otto K. Schill, first violin; Miss Dorothy Waldo, second violin; Ferton L. Waldo, violo and Dr. Leonard Waldo, violoncello. This accompaniment, as in the previous concerts, was faultless and of exceptional merit. Much of the artistic effects produced was due to the finished conducting of Edward J. Fitzhugh. Howard M. Case presided acceptably at the organ and Miss Jessie Utter accompanied on the piano.

The concert opened with an andante by Mozart, by Mr. Case, which was rendered with his admirable finish. Following a chorus in two parts, "Evening Hymn" by Schumann and "Ave Maria" by Smart, the main work on the programme, Rossini's "Stabat Mater" from the translation of the late Dr. Abraham Coles, of Scotch Plains, commenced with a perfect swing and balance which foretold a musical treat. The predeliction was verified throughout, not a passage being interpreted wrongly or without the proper effect.

Admirable chorus work strongly supported the rendition by the artists. Miss Harris's sweet soprano was never heard to better advantage and the parts assigned her were faithfully reproduced. The tenor of Mr. Smith was responsible for many difficult passages being brought out with due prominence, not a line being lost in the rendition. Mrs. Ward's contralto and Mr. Holmes' baritone, in volume and range, were exceptionally pleasing. The story told is a plaintive one and in keeping with the life of the author.

The intermediate number was a meditation by the string quartette which was perfectly harmonious. All the players handled their instruments in a manner which showed complete mastery.

In conclusion, Gounod's "Gallia" was rendered with soprano solo and chorus effect. It was a fitting climax to the evening's musical feast. The work of the chorus again demonstrated the clever leadership of Mr. Fitzhugh who led the singers through the difficult parts with ease. It is a grand number in itself and the manner of rendition added much to the enjoyment of the throng that filled the church.

NEW SERIES STARTED.

Plainfield Building and Loan Association Held Its Annual Meeting.

The Plainfield Building and Loan Association held its nineteenth annual meeting Monday evening, at which time the ninth series was opened with 350 shares. It is likely that in the future a new series will be opened each year.

The election of directors resulted as follows: L. E. Barkalew, Henry Leifke, W. R. Codington, Joseph C. Blimm, J. E. Flannery, B. F. Coriell, Lewis Klein, Jacob Voehl, J. P. Homan and W. A. Woodruff. Clarence Goss and David W. Jones were newly elected directors and they will fill the vacancies owing to the death of F. S. Runyon and John Porter.

The officers elected are as follows: President, L. E. Barkalew; vice president, Henry Leifke; treasurer, W. R. Codington; secretary, B. F. Coriell; finance committee, W. A. Woodruff, J. P. Homan and Jacob Voehl.

—Dr. J. B. Probasco, of East Front street, has purchased a horse from Stonewall Jackson, of Somerset street.

ASBURY'S HOTEL WILL COST HALF MILLION

Plans Being Made for an Immense Structure on Fifth Auenue, Asbury Park.

SOME OTHER PROJECTS.

PROMISE THAT A NEW STONE RAILROAD STATION WILL BE BUILT.

Not So Much Opposition to Sunday Trains—May be Allowed to Stop at West Asbury—About the New Hotel.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Asbury Park, March 26—In the hotel district and through the business streets of the city there has spread the story of a magnificent $500,000 hotel to be erected in Ocean avenue at the extreme northern end of the Park. From financial centres the story gained credence when it became known that Founder Bradley had contracted to dispose of the block at the foot of Fifth avenue to the hotel company which has been formed with a paid-in capital of $300,000.

The plans for this splendid structure are said to be elaborate and complete in every detail. The house will be built in the form of a Maltese cross. It will contain 270 rooms, arranged in suits, and with hot and cold water baths of fresh and sea water in each suite. There will be amusement halls, bowling alleys, observatory, casino, sun parlors and public rooms fitted up with Oriental magnificence. Asbury Parkers have been so accustomed to "hot air" schemes that news of this innovation was naturally received with incredulity. It seems certain, however, that this project, at least, will go through and that the new building will be started during the summer and completed in time for the season of 1903.

From other and less credible sources come stories of a new stone railroad station to be built on the site of the present dilapidated structure, of Sunday trains and a new theatre. That the station will be built this summer is doubtful, although it is said land has been purchased on the west side of the railroad track with a view to establish a double station for the landing of north and south bound passengers on either side of the tracks.

Opposition to the Sunday trains is not so pronounced in Ocean Grove, and the authorities there, it is said, are practically willing to concede the right to stop at North Asbury, provided the main station, which more nearly joins the campmeeting ground, is not made a stopping place. At present all Sunday trains are stopped at Interlaken, on the north side of Deal Lake, which is outside the prohibitory mile limit. South of Ocean Grove trains have been permitted to stop at Bradley Beach and Avon, within the mile limit, and the officials of Asbury Park, who are on record as petitioning for Sunday trains, claim that this city is entitled to the same concession.

With the approach of sunny April many cottagers have made their appearance and the lethargy of dull winter is thrown off. Storm doors have been taken down and at many of the hotels the work of preparing for an early opening has begun. Should the weather prove warm, there is little doubt that the first week in April will witness a general influx of summer residents from Newark, New York, Philadelphia and other cities, which will bring joy to the hearts of the merchants and hotel-keepers.

Special Service.

During the service at St. Joseph's church, Thursday morning at 8:30 o'clock, there will be a procession, the Blessed Sacrament being carried from the high altar to the temporaay repository. Sixty children of the parish will compose part of the procession, and they will sing while the Sacrament is being conveyed.

In Justice Mattison's Court.

Proceedings on contract have been commenced in Justice Mattison's court by John F. Wilson against W. W. Drake, of Greenbrook road. The writ is returnable Monday afternoon. Hetfield & Hetfield have brought suit in Justice Mattison's court against Caroline Fritz. The suit is on contract and is returnable Friday.

Who He Is.

H. H. Joy, who has recently been chosen organist of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, is a brother of Clyde R. Joy, of Keokuk, Iowa, who is the president of the State association of Y. M. C. A.'s of that State.

SCHOOL BILL WAS PASSED

Only Governor's Signature is Lacking to Place it on the Statute Books.

MANY BILLS PASSED.

But the Annexation Bill Has Not Yet Appeared in the Assembly—Is Expected There Today—Lots of Lobbying Done for and Against That Measure.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, March 26—The educational authorities breathed a sigh of relief, yesterday, when the general school law was passed by the Assembly and now only needs the signature of Governor Murphy to make it a law. There is no doubt that it will be there very shortly. The advocates of the Greater Plainfield bills, however, were not so fortunate. The annexation bill still failed to make its appearance in the Assembly. Its supporters are confident that today will see it there.

Since Monday, when the annexation bill was first expected back, Somerville and that end of Somerset county has had a faithful few in the lobby, working for the defeat of the measure. Yesterday afternoon, a little delegation from North Plainfield came down to aid them. The great bulk of the North Plainfielders are, however, working for the passage of the bill in question.

Both Senate and Assembly had a very busy day yesterday. The school bill occupied the entire morning for the lower house and met with active opposition on the part of Hudson county. The Essex county members accepted the result of the conference of the State leaders and supported the bill in half-hearted fashion. It was finnally passed on a vote of 37 to 19.

A bunch of other bills went through the Assembly while the Senate was kept busy both morning and afternoon, passing a number of bills and defeating others.

DUAL MEET WITH SUMMIT

LOCAL Y. M. C. A. TO TAKE PART IN ATHLETIC AND GYMNASTIC CONTEST.

As Result of Agreement Before the Inter-Association Meet Was Held.

Although it was officially announced, yesterday, that the Summit Y. M. C. A. team had won the championship banner in the inter-association meet held recently in Newark, the Plainfield association will have a chance to show it is equally strong.

According to an agreement made before the start, it was arranged that in the event of Summit's being awarded one of the first two places, it would enter into a second contest with the team from this city. The contest has been decided upon and will be in two sections; one to be held in this city and the other in Summit. The dates have not yet been selected but will be very soon as the men are at present in good practice.

The inter-association contest was really Plainfield's as more points were made but disallowed on account of fouls claimed. If a protest had been made, enough points would in all probability have been allowed to place Plainfield in the lead.

Physical Director Heywood received notice, yesterday, from the officials of the meet that he had been appointed secretary and treasurer and he was instructed to purchase the banner to be presented to the Summit team. He expects to confer with the leaders this week and decide upon the design.

Planning for State Convention.

There was a regular meeting of the Loyal Temperance Legion yesterday afternoon at 117 Elmwood place, when plans for the coming State convention of the organization were discussed. The convention will be held in the First Baptist church Tuesday, April 2.

More Room Now.

There are now only sixteen patients at Muhlenberg Hospital. A short time ago there were thirty-one. Most of those discharged have recovered, while others are much improved.

Re-elected Trustees.

J. R. Joy, W. R. Codington and George Burgess were re-elected trustees of the First M. E. church at a special meeting held at the church Monday evening.

ABOUT THE CHANGES ON JERSEY CENTRAL

W. A. Garret Will Succeed Mr. Besler as General Superintendent of the Reading.

OTHER CHANGES MADE.

SKETCH OF CAREER OF JERSEY CENTRAL'S NEW GENERAL MANAGER.

Is a Western Man and Began His Railroad Career With the C. B. and Q. — How Some of the Others Started Their Careers.

As a result to various changes recently made in the management of the New Jersey Central it is believed in railway circles that the Philadelphia & Reading will gradually operate different departments of the Central until there will be but one set of officers for both roads. While W. G. Besler, since 1900 the general superintendent of the Reading Railway, has been appointed to succeed Vice President Warren, who retires June 1, the change has practically been made, as the latter will take a vacation from this time on.

Mr. Besler was born at Galesburg, Ill., March 30, 1864, and attended school and college there. In 1881 he entered the employ of the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad as clerk. After serving five years as clerk and chief clerk in the offices of the train master, superintendent, general superintendent and assistant general manager, he left the road to take a special course in the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He re-entered the service of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy in 1888 as night yardmaster and served three years in that position, and as trainmaster and as dispatcher. Later he constructed and operated the Illinois Valley and Northern, a branch line of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy, and was for six years superintendent of the St. Louis division of the same road. In September, 1900, he was appointed general superintendent of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, which position he resigned to accept the place with the Central Railroad of New Jersey. Mr. Besler served two years as president of the Central Association of Railroad Officers and one term as president of the St. Louis Railroad Club. He is a member of the Northwestern Association of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and of the American Railway Engineering and Maintenance of Way Association.

In connection with the above change, announcement is made that W. A. Garret, who has been superintendent of the New York division of the Reading, has been appointed to the position of general superintendent of that line. Charles A. Beach is to be superintendent in place of Mr. Garret. Mr. Beach has been superintendent of the Reading's Atlantic City line for a year, prior to which time he was terminal nsuperintendent of the New Jersey Central in Jersey City. J. B. Harrington, who has been assistant trainmaster of the Atlantic City division, was made superintendent, to succeed Mr. Beach. The appointments all seem to give satisfaction to the personal friends and subordinates of these officials. Mr. Garret began his career in a ticket office and Mr. Beach as a water boy on a gravel train. Mr. Harrington started as a car cleaner.

Officers for Ladies' Aid.

The following officers have been elected by the Ladies' Aid Society of the Crescent Avenue church: President, Mrs. William Scribner; vice president, Mrs. W. R. Richards; secretary, Miss Julia Ketcham; treasurer, Mrs. Charles Wright.

Stage to Social.

A social will be held by the congregation of the Springdale M. E. church, Friday evening, at the home of John Cooper, of that place. A stage will leave the corner of Front and Somerset streets at 8:20 o'clock.

Lecture on "The Empress Frederick"

Miss Sarah P. T. Borst will deliver a lecture at the home of Mrs. A. T. Slausson, at 215 East Ninth street, Wednesday afternoon, April 9, at 3 o'clock. Her subject will be "The Empress Frederick."

Annual Musicale.

The annual musicale at the Seventh-Day Baptist church will be given early in May, when a fine programme of music will be presented.

Sunday's Offering.

The offering at the Crescent Avenue church Sunday will be for the deacons' fund for relief work.

FINDING OUT COST OF SEWAGE SYSTEM

Borough Sewage Commission Decided to Get Estimates on Sewers and Disposal Plant.

ONE LIKE PLAINFIELD'S.

INVESTIGATION SHOWED IT WAS THE MOST AVAILABLE FOR BOROUGH.

Will Secure Estimates at Once and Report to Borough Council as Soon as Possible—Meeting of Commission Last Night.

In the course of a few weeks the Borough Sewage Commission expects to be able to furnish the Borough Council with comparatively accurate estimates as to the cost of laying a system of sewers in North Plainfield and the establisment of a sewage disposal plant on somewhat similar lines to the one now in use in this city. At the meeting of the commission last evening, it was decided to get these estimates as soon as possible so that a report might be made to the Borough Council.

While it has been a comparatively easy thing to decide on plans for the sewer system itself, the commission has not found it such an easy matter to select the means of disposal. It has been decided that a sewer to tidewater would be entirely too costly a burden for North Plainfield to bear alone. A disposal plant was the only other alternative and investigation showed that a system very similar to that in use in Plainfield showed the most successful results. So estimates will be obtained for such a plant.

Last evening's meeting was attended by all the members of the commission with the exception of George D. Hallock. The session was a secret one, held in the Council chamber and was largely devoted to an informal discussion of what facts the various members had learned. The estimates will be obtained at the earliest possible moment and the results transmitted to the Borough Council without delay.

GOOD FRIDAY SERVICE.

Programme for Union Meeting to be Held at Trinity Reformed Church Friday Evening.

The union Good Friday services will be held Friday evening in Trinity Reformed church, at 7:30 o'clock, when all the churches of the city will unite. As usual, the service will include short addresses on "Meditations on Words from the Cross," and the order will be as follows:

First word, "Father, forgive them; for they know what they do," Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass; second word "Verily, I say unto thee, today shalt thon be with me in Paradise," Rev. L. R. Howard; third word, "Behold thy Son; behold thy Mother," Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards; fourth word, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me," Rev. C. L. Goodrich; fifth word, "I thirst," Rev. E. M. Rodman; sixth word, "It is finished," Rev. J. McMurray; seventh word, "Father, into thy hand I commend my Spirit," Rev. C. E. Herring.

The service will conclude with silent prayer, an offering for the Children's Home and the benediction.

STILL INVESTIGATING.

Promise is Made That Results of Investigation Will Bring Out Some Surprising Things.

It has been generally supposed by some people that the Councilmanic investigation of the recent fire in the Babcock building had been dropped. This is not so. The investigation is still going on in a quiet way and at the proper time a full report will be submitted to the Common Council.

It has been learned withih a few days that additional new facts have been secured which will surprise the people when the report is presented. The many differences of opinion, regarding certain things in connection with the fire, are gradually being straightened out and the true state of affairs is being learned.

Purchased Orange Grove.

Clifton & Campbell, local produce merchants, have just purchased an extensive orange grove near Tampa, Fla., from which they expect to reap an abundant crop of oranges. The grove is one of the oldest and most productive in that State. They still own other groves in Florida from which they receive a steady supply of fruit.

MALE ART GALLERY REOPENED TO PUBLIC

Many Took Advantage of the Opportunity to View the Local Collection of Art.

MANY RARE CURIOS.

CHIEF AMONG THEM WAS THE GILBERT COLLECTION OF BUTTERFLIES.

Some of the Valuable Articles Displayed in the Upper Rooms of the Public Library—Will be Open Tuesday and Friday Afternoons.

After being closed for the winter months the Job Male Art Gallery was thrown open to the public yesterday afternoon. Quite a number took advantage of the opportunity to view the rare paintings, curios and other things in the art world which grace the various rooms on the second floor of the Public Library building.

Extensive repairs have been made and the entire gallery renovated. The walls are now attractively decorated and the woodwork and floors have been painted. For the first time in many years the two apartments in front on the second floor have been opened and the collections there reposing are well worth seeing.

The room to the right, in front, contains a large glass case in which are the figures of Japanese, life size. They represent the artisan, merchant, officer of the law, priest, high caste woman and a child. All are garbed in characteristic costume and the effect is attractive. In another large glass case is a collection of at least 100 birds, mostly South American species. The rich plumages in variegated colors, present a novel sight.

On the walls are hung many pictures which belonged to A. C. Baldwin. They are works in water color and in the main are scenes abroad. A huge water color, "The Holland Fisherwoman," from the brush of George Wharton Edwards is hung in a conspicuous position. These are but a few of the things to be seen in this room.

In the room opposite there is placed in the centre of the floor a large glass covered table containing a valuable collection of Indian relics. There's any number of arrow heads, axes, grinding stones and other implements of war and peace, which were used by the red man. Of course all are in stone. A skull, said to be that of a Lenni Lenapi, whose camping grounds were in what is now Delaware and the southern portion of Pennsylvania, is preserved here. This was found on the bank of Green brook.

Two large brass plaques, one of Shakespeare and the other of Mendelssohn, are placed near the door, and about the room are placed a number of shelves. On these repose costly specimens of Chinese ware, in porcelain and cloisonne, made in ages past. This collection is one of the most valuable in the United States. It is known as the Schoonmaker collection and was donated by Mr. Male. Among the rare specimens are urns, bottles, plaques, vases, bowls, idols, incense burners and ornaments.

There is to be found, for instance, a handsome urn made in the period of the Ching-Hiva dynasty, in 1650 or thereabouts. You can gaze on an idol made and worshipped in the period of Keen-Lung, which dynasty began in 1736. Then again you see a tea cup brought down from the time of Kang-Hee's dynasty, which history says commenced in 1661. It is useless to enumerate the many priceless treasures to be seen in this collection.

In the main corridor upon the walls are to be found among other etchings those portraying Daniel Webster, Abraham Lincoln, the marriage of Pocohontas, DeSoto discovering the Mississippi and Falstaff mustering his recruits. Many stuffed birds also adorn the hallway.

In the centre of the art gallery proper, which occupies the entire rear of the buliding, is the Gilbert memorial collection of butterflies. This includes some 2,000 specimens of butterflies of rare value. The collection is the most valuable in New Jersey and is one of the finest in the United States. Butterflies from all countries are to be found in the twelve cabinets in which they are mounted.

The collection of coins presented by the chlidren of John Taylor Johnston attract attention for among them are to be seen pieces of money that circulated in the time of Christ. Coins of the Papal States, Lom-

THOSE WHO COME AND GO

NOTES CONCERNING PLAINFIELDERS AND THEIR MANY GUESTS.

Some of Those That Go to Make Up the Day's Budget of Arrivals and Departures.

Miss May Duckworth, of the local telephone office, is enjoying a few days' vacation.

James Atwood, of Trenton, a former resident here, attended the funeral of W. R. Mattox yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowerie, formerly of the borough, but late of Westfield, will move this week to their former home at Somerville.

The Misses May and Eva Murray, of Baltimore, have returned home after a week's visit with Mrs. Ross H. Foster, of Maple avenue.

Orlando E. Chamberlin and his daughter, Miss Georgie Chamberlin, formerly of this city, are visiting in town for a time. They are residing in Chicago.

LITERARY.

Chief among the attractive features of the Easter Ladies' Home Journal is the opening installment of Helen Keller's own story of her life. The fact that this, and all the autobiography which is to follow, were actually written by the wonderful girl hersef is only equalled by the remarkable literary merit of her production. There is a delightfully personal article about "The President's Daughter," accompanied by a hitherto unpublished picture of Miss Roosevelt, and a pretty story of the singing of Easter carols in a New York belfry on Easter morning. Neltje Blanchan tells "Why the Birds Come and Go," and the Journal's two splendid serials, "Those Days in Old Virginia" and "The Russells in Chicago," are given space. The new children's department, called "The Good-Time Garden," begins in this number. Mr. Bok discusses several timely subjects on the editorial page, chief among them the growing tendency of the American father to neglect the companionship of his children. The illustrations, which are beautiful and numerous, include one of Mr. Taylor's exquisite pictures of southern life, and a double page of college girls at their studies. The departments are more interesting and helpful than ever. The beautiful Easter cover is the work of A. E. Foringer. By The Curtis Publishing Company, Philadelphia. Ten cents a copy; one dollar a year.

Could Not Breathe.

OLD POINT COMFORT, RICHMOND AND WASHINGTON.

Six-Day Tour via Pennsylvania Railroad.

The fifth of the present series of personally-conducted tours to Old Point Comfort, Richmond, and Washington via the Pennsylvania Railroad will leave New York and Philadelphia on Saturday, April 5.

Old Point Comfort Only.

Tickets to Old Point Comfort only, including luncheon on going trip, one and three-fourths days' board at The Hygeia or Chamberlin Hotel, and good to return direct by regular trains within six days, will be sold in connection with this tour at rate of $15 from New York; $13.50 from Trenton; $12.50 from Philadelphia, and proportionate rates from other points.

For itineraries and full information apply to ticket agents; Tourist agent, 1196 Broadway, New York; 4 Court street, Brooklyn; 789 Broad street, Newark, N. J.; or Geo. W. Boyd, assistant general passenger agent, Broad Street station, Philadelphia. 3 26 2w of flesh and strength, little barking, obstinate cough and a little pain in the chest may not mean galloping consumption, but they are signs that prudence will not neglect. A few doses of Allen's Lung Balsam cause a free discharge of mucus and so loosens the cough. It heals the inflamed air passages and all its beneficent work is accomplished without a grain of opium.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

A number of changes are being made in the management of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. Vice President Warren has resigned and W. B. Besler has been appointed general manager, a new position supposed to supersede the vice presidency. It is further intimated that William A. Garrett, superintendent of the New York division, will become general superintendent of the company, and Charles A. Beach, superintendent of the Philadelphia division, superintendent of the New York division. There is one more change the people of this section of New Jersey would like to see made, and that is, the restoration of S. M. Williams to high authority and responsibility in the company. The road was never better managed than when Mr. Williams had control. He increased the tonnage carried by each train. He reduced the cost of carrying and he was one of the money-makers for the road. He has a record which it is practically impossible for any other man to equal, and no man could improve himself. Mr. Williams left the road when a general change took place under its purchase by the Philadelphia and Reading; his return to the road would give satisfaction to every man who served under his management.—Elizabeth Journal.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

The New Jersey Review of Charities and Corrections for March is out and, like its initial number in February, it is filled with news of deep interest to all persons associated in charity enterprises. There are interesting articles on "The Catholic Factor in New Jersey Charities," "The Woodbine Colony," "State Home for Girls," "Imprisonment for Debt," "Training School for Consumptives," and many other subjects. The paper also contains a helpful digest of the recent conference held at Trenton and makes some suggestions.

The paper also states that Judge Vail assigned in one fortnight more cases than the probation officers of Morris and Middlesex counties have had during the past year, and adds: "Boys cannot learn to swim without going to the water, nor can the probation system succeed without application."

It is also stated that "the probation system has found its way into Union county, Judge Vail having recently appointed Mrs. E. E. Williamson probation officer. No salary is attached, the county undertaking, however, to pay the office expenses and the salary of a deputy, in which capacity Mrs. Amy Stone, of Elizabeth, is serving."

THEATRICAL.

Immediately following Easter, the Keith theatres will inaugurate the most brilliant season of vaudeville ever offered the devotees of this popular form of amusement. Their booking agents in Paris and London have been instructed to engage the greatest artists upon the European stage, and their books in the home office show the names of the most prominent stars in America. Next week at Keith's Union Square Theatre in New York, the famous "Girl With the Auburn Hair" will continue her spectacular performance, which has constituted one of the premier hits of the current season. The comedy element will be supplied by Walter Leroy and Florence Clayton in their screaming success "Hogan of the Hansom," which is undoubtedly one of the funniest acts ever seen upon the American stage. Maud Huth will make her debut at this theatre in her clever monologue, introducing her inimitable Coon and Irish songs.

Matthews and Harris will present their ever popular comedy, "Adam the Second;" and America's greatest dancers, Genaro and Baily, will be a special feature. Mignonette Kokin, European character artist, is sure to prove a hit in her clever specialty, and the same may be anticipated for Bruet and Riwcieres, the French duettists. Claudius and Corbin are the greatest banjoists, and will appear with Thos. Nast, Jr., crayon artist; Crolius and St. Alva, eccentriques; and a dozen other stars. Noon till 11 p. m.

—Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Greenwood, of Somerset street, will move in a short time to 8 Grandview avenue.

—The two dwellings, being built on Thornton avenue by John Lloyd, give promise of being most attractive homes in that already desirable section of the city.

OTIS RETIRES.

The General Says He Will Not Travel Nor Write a Book.

CHICAGO, March 26.—Today General Elwell S. Otis is a private citizen. After forty years in the United States army he has turned over the command of the department of the lakes and the department of the Dakotas to Colonel McCaskey of the Twentieth infantry, who will remain in charge until the arrival of General Arthur MacArthur, who succeeds General Otis.

General Otis will remain two days more in Chicago before leaving for his home in Rochester, N. Y. Mrs. Otis and the general's three daughters, who have been traveling in the south, will join him there.

"I am glad to be retired," said the general. "I have been a long time in harness and am ready for a little leisure. When I feel like work, I have enough private business to keep me interested. I will not travel. I've had enough of that. I won't even write a book."

General Otis is in excellent health, despite his sixty-four years of strenuous life.

Garfield Law Repealed.

COLUMBUS, O., March 26.—The Garfield law, which aimed to prevent corrupt practices at elections, has been wiped off the statutes by the senate passing the bill for its repeal. The legislature was practically unanimous for the repeal of the measure, the chief argument against it being that it was ineffective and that it placed a premium on perjury. The law sought to restrict the amount of money which could be spent by candidates to secure a nomination or election by compelling them to file sworn statements of their campaign expenses. The law was generally evaded, but there were few prosecutions under it.

School Principal In Trouble.

SOUTH NORWALK, Conn., March 26.—Action said to be the outcome of an anonymous letter scandal which has stirred the village of Rowayton for months was taken yesterday when John W. McClellan, principal of the South Five Mile River school was sued by a teacher of the school, Miss Elizabeth A. Ervin. Miss Ervin claims damages of $5,000. The body writ served on Mr. McClellan charges him with slander and libelous statements made at divers times regarding Miss Ervin. The principal accompanied the deputy sheriff who served the writ to New Haven to secure a bondsman.

Miss Roosevelt In German Cartoon.

BERLIN, March 26.—Simplicissimus, an illustrated journal noted for the brutality of its cartoons and which has often been confiscated by the police because of its irreverence toward high personages, appeared yesterday with a drawing representing Miss Alice Roosevelt at sea in an open boat, an immense fat hog in one end of the boat and Miss Roosevelt standing in the other holding a pig wrapped in the stars and stripes. This drawing is inscribed, "We received your prince; you must admit our hogs."

Cecil Rhodes Is Weaker.

CAPE TOWN, March 26.—Cecil Rhodes experienced a bad heart attack yesterday evening, from which he did not rally as he has done from previous attacks of this nature. At midnight he was weaker than at any time during his illness. Oxygen is administered to the patient daily, and he is frequently tapped for dropsy. His friends entertain little hope for his recovery.

Chinamen Deported.

STRUGGLE TO OPEN IN WEST VIRGINIA

Largest Labor Organization In the World In a Better Position Than Ever Before to Hold Out For Recognition.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 26.—The United Mine Workers of America, whose national offices are in Indianapolis, have for some time been making preparations for trouble in both the Pennsylvania anthracite region and the bituminous fields of West Virginia and Virginia, and it is said the organization is in a better position than ever before to make a fight for recognition.

The January convention of the miners in Indianapolis empowered the national executive board to levy a strike assessment of 10 cents a month a member. The board met immediately following the adjournment of the joint conference of the miners and operators, and no time was lost in ordering the special assessment. The first returns are now coming in at the national headquarters.

It is expected that this source alone will net the organization for strike purposes something like $25,000 or $30,000 a month, as it is understood that over 250,000 men are paying the assessment.

Last year the national organization expended $202,000 in carrying on strikes. In addition to this the locals in many districts subscribed to the strike fund without reporting to the national headquarters. In this way probably $50,000 was spent.

It has been evident for some time that the officials of the national organization have been laboring under an unusual strain. They feel that a critical period for their organization, the largest body of union men in the world, has arrived and that its future status depends largely on the outcome of the present negotiations in Pennsylvania and the Virginias.

If there is a strike in the anthracite region, all the members of the organization, which covers twenty-four states, may be called out, as the January convention in Indianapolis empowered the national officers to go to that extreme if necessary to bring about a settlement.

It is believed that the national organization is preparing to bring matters to an issue in West Virginia.

A New Vanderbilt Line.

CLEVELAND, O., March 26.—As a result of action taken at a meeting of the stockholders of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroad company held here a new line, extending from Youngstown to Ashtabula, a distance of about forty miles, will be constructed as soon as possible. The new road will cost, it is estimated, $1,250,000 and will be built jointly by the Lake Shore and the Mahoning Coal Railroad company, which is controlled by the Vanderbilts. When the new line is completed, the Lake Shore will have two routes between Ashtabula and Youngstown.

Jap Women Start a Bicycle Club.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—A dozen high class Japanese young ladies of Tokyo have organized a bicycle club, to the astonishment of the whole nation, according to United States Consul Davidson at Tamsui in a report to the state department made public yesterday. The general feeling among Japanese women as to cycling, says Mr. Davidson, is that it is an unladylike sport. However, he says that the innovation was favorably received by the men, and the Japanese press generally advocates the use of the wheel by both sexes.

New Jersey Follows New York.

TRENTON, N. J., March 26.—Assemblyman Williams' bill to prevent live bird shooting matches passed the house by a vote of 43 to 6. The entire morning session of the house was taken up with the discussion of the general school law introduced to take the place of the Stokes law. The measure was finally passed by a vote of 37 to 19. The senate was late in getting to work, but succeeded in passing a large number of bills, among them one increasing the salary of the governor's private secretary from $2,000 to $3,000.

Pneumatic Tubes Favored.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—The house committee on postoffices and postroads has ordered a favorable report on the bill of Representative Loud authorizing the postmaster general to make contracts for four years for the transmission of mail by pneumatic tubes. The aggregate expenditure is limited to $800,000 per year, and in no city shall the cost of this tube service exceed 4 per cent of the city's postal revenues nor shall it be above $17,000 per mile, covering power, labor, etc.

A Shot Putting Fatality.

CLINTON, Ia., March 26.—While practicing athletics here Jim Clark, captain of the High school football team last year, made a wild throw in putting the shot, and the twelve pound ball struck Hugh Callahan, an eight-year-old boy, in the head, death resulting a few minutes later. The skull was fractured, and the boy died without regaining consciousness.

Indian Territory Town Burned.

GUTHRIE, Okla., March 26.—The business portion of Francis, I. T., was destroyed by fire yesterday, the total loss being $40,000. The landlord of the hotel, D. F. Gaines, perished in the flames, having returned to the place to get some valuable papers. It is believed that a traveling salesman was also burned to death.

MOVING DAY FIXED.

American Rule In Cuba to End May 20.

SECRETARY ROOT'S ORDER TO WOOD

A Small Force of Artillerymen to Be Left to Man Coast Defenses For a Time—Other American Troops to Be Withdrawn.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Secretary Root has made public his order to General Wood directing him to turn over the control of the government of Cuba to its people on May 20 next. The order requires the Cuban government to assume all treaty obligations and directs General Wood to continue a small artillery force to avoid leaving the island entirely defenseless until the Cuban government shall organize its own force.

The text of the order is as follows:

"You are authorized to provide for the inauguration on the 20th of May next of the government elected by the people of Cuba and upon the establishment of said government to leave the government and control of the island of Cuba to its people, pursuant to the provisions of the act of congress entitled 'An act making appropriation for the army for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1902,' approved March 2, 1901.

"Upon the transfer of government and control to the president and congress so elected you will advise them that such transfer is upon the express understanding and condition that the new government does thereupon and by the acceptance thereof, pursuant to the provisions of the appendix to the constitution of Cuba, adopted by the constitutional convention on the 12th of June, 1901, assume and undertake all and several of the obligations assumed by the United States with respect to Cuba by the treaty between the United States of America and her majesty the queen regent of Spain, signed at Paris on the 10th day of December, 1898. It is the purpose of the United States government forthwith upon the inauguration of the new government of Cuba to terminate the occupancy of the island by the United States and to withdraw from that island the military forces now in occupancy thereof. But for the preservation and care of the coast defenses of the island and to avoid leaving the island entirely defenseless against external attack you may leave in the coast fortifications such small number of artillerymen as may be necessary for such reasonable time as may be required to enable the new government to organize and substitute therefor an adequate military force of its own, by which time it is anticipated that the naval stations referred to in the statute and in the appendix to the constitution above cited will have been agreed upon and the said artillerymen may be transferred thereto.

"You will convene the congress elected by the people of Cuba in joint session at such reasonable time before the 20th of May as shall be necessary therefor for the purpose of performing the duties of counting and rectifying the electoral vote for president and vice president under the fifty-eighth article of the Cuban constitution. At the same time you will publish and certify to the people of Cuba the instrument adopted as the constitution of Cuba by the constitutional convention on the 21st day of February, 1901, together with the appendix added thereto and forming a part thereof adopted by the said convention on the 12th day of June, 1901. It is the understanding of the government of the United States that the government of the island will pass to the new president and congress of Cuba as a going concern, all the laws promulgated by the government of occupation continuing in force and effect and all the judicial and subordinate executive and administrative officers continuing in the lawful discharge of their present functions until changed by the constitutional officers of the new government. At the same moment the responsibility of the United States for the collection and expenditure of revenues and for the proper performance of duty by the officers and employees of the insular government will end the responsibility of the new government of Cuba therefor will commence.

"In order to avoid any embarrassment to the new president which might arise from his assuming executive responsibility with subordinates whom he does not know or in whom he has not confidence and to avoid any occasion for sweeping changes in the civil service personnel immediately after the inauguration of the new government approval is given to the course which you have already proposed of consulting the president elect and substituting before the 20th of May, wherever he shall so desire, for the persons now holding official positions such persons as he may designate. This method will make it necessary that the new president and yourself should appoint representatives to count and certify the cash and cash balances and the securities for deposits transferred to the new government.

"I desire that you communicate the contents of this letter to Mr. Palma, the president elect, and ascertain whether the course above described accords with his views and wishes."

All of the troops except 800 men of the coast artillery are to be brought to the United States as rapidly as transportation facilities will permit between now and May 20. The retention of these artillerymen is for the purpose of caring for the three batteries of coast artillery. These troops will be in command of Colonel William L. Haskin of the artillery corps, now on duty at Fort Trumbull, Conn.

PRESIDENT PALMA'S PLANS.

President Elect Tomas Estrada Palma of Cuba, having finished his conferences with President Roosevelt, Secretary Root and other officials on matters connected with the transfer of the island from American to Cuban control, left the city at midnight for his New York home, where he will remain until the last of April, when he will leave New York for Santiago province, in which he will spend a few days, going thence to Havana to be inaugurated May 20. There was an air of contentment about General Palma as he discussed the disposition of the various questions which brought him here. He said he realized the magnitude of the work on which he was about to enter and its attendant responsibilities, but was confident that the future of Cuba was assured and that the island would have a successful career."

President Palma has a wife and a family of six children. Two of the eldest boys will remain in the school in the United States which they are now attending. Mrs. Palma and the other four children will join the general prior to the inauguration at Havana.

OLEO BILL DENOUNCED.

Dishonest and Unjust, Says Money. Rhea Unseated In the House.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—A sharp attack on the pending oleomargarine bill was made in the senate yesteday by Mr. Money (Miss.). He denounced the measure as "unconstitutional, immoral, dishonest and unjust." He said it was a proposition to tax out of existence one industry for the benefit of another and was "protection gone mad." On behalf of the working people of the country he appealed to the senate not to enact the bill into law and declared that if it could be voted on by secret ballot it would not receive a dozen votes in the senate.

The house by a majority of 10 unseated Mr. Rhea (Ky.), a Democrat, and seated in his place J. McKenzie Moss, who was formerly a Democrat, but who, according to his brief, is in accord with the Republican party on the dominant issues. The Republican majority in the house is 43. While only two Republicans, Hanbury and Vreeland (N. Y.), voted with the Democrats, enough Republicans remained away or declined to vote to reduce the majority to 10.

Governor's Plan In Guden Case.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 26.—Governor Odell has under consideration a proposition to expedite the final determination of the question of the legality of the removal of Sheriff Charles Guden of Kings county and the designation of Colonel Norman S. Dike as his successor. He is considering the advisability of convening a special term of the appellate division of the supreme court, second department, to determine the appeal of the attorney general from the decision of Justice Gaynor that Guden's removal was illegal. The governor, it is understood, favors taking this action in the matter.

Chinese Princesses Entertain.

PEKING, March 26.—Princess Yung Shou and eight other princesses entertained the ladies of the American legation and Mme. Uchida at a reception in a palace of the Forbidden City. This entertainment is reported to have been the most successful of the recent court functions. It is expected that this reception, which was in return for the tiffin given March 14 by Mrs. Conger, wife of the United States minister, to eleven princesses and ladies of the Chinese court, will end for the present the social intercourse between the Chinese ladies and the ladies of the foreign legations here.

A Rear End Collision.

PITTSBURG, March 26. Three men were seriously injured, one perhaps fatally, in a rear end collision that occurred at Hickman Run on the Pittsburg division of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad. The accident is supposed to have been caused by an open switch, through which the westbound passenger train due to arrive in Pittsburg at 1:40 p.m. ran into a freight engine.

Helped to Find California Gold.

SALT LAKE CITY, March 26.—James Brown, who was with Joseph W. Marshall when the first discovery of gold was made in California in January, 1848, is dead at his home here, aged seventy-three years. Mr. Brown was a member of the "Seventies" and a patriarch of the Mormon church. He left twenty-one children and twenty-six grandchildren.

Another White House Conference.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Another conference was held at the White House last night on the subject of Cuban reciprocity and was participated in by the president and the house leaders, including Chairman Payne and Messrs. Dalzell and Long of Kansas of the ways and means committee and Mr. Cannon, the chairman of the Republican caucus.

A COLORADO LYNCHING.

Negro Who Assaulted White Woman Given Swift Punishment.

LA JUNTA, Colo., March 26.—Mrs. Henrietta H. Miller, a gray haired woman sixty-seven years of age, going from Los Angeles, Cal., to Denver to visit relatives, was brutally assaulted in the Santa Fe railroad yards here by a negro porter on a Pullman car running between Denver and La Junta.

After leaving the Chicago limited train here Mrs. Miller asked a porter whom she met on the station platform where the Denver sleeper was. The man offered to conduct her to the car. After going with him a considerable distance Mrs. Miller became suspicious and started to return to the station. She was then knocked down by a blow on the head and after a struggle with her assailant was choked into insensibility.

When she regained consciousness about an hour later, she crawled back to the station and gave an account of the assault and a description of her assailant. Washington H. Wallace, a Pullman car porter who runs between Denver and this city, stopping here on each run from 9:45 at night until noon the following day, was arrested in the car of which he had charge. He was identified by Mrs. Miller. Bloodhounds were brought from Canyon City, and they trailed the man who accompanied Mrs. Miller through the yards to the car in which Wallace was found.

Eight assaults have occurred here in the past few months, and it is believed all were committed by one man. Mrs. Miller's condition is critical.

A mob at Fowler, sixteen miles west of La Junta, took Wallace from Sheriff Farr, who was taking him to Pueblo, and started back to La Junta with him, where he was lynched.

Convicted Postal Officials to Appeal.

WASHINGTON, March 26.—Official advices received by the postoffice department from the director general of posts of Havana indicate that Rathbone, Neely and Reeves, who were sentenced to ten years' imprisonment each and heavy fines as the result of the Cuban postoffice frauds, will appeal from their sentences to the supreme court of Cuba, the highest tribunal in the island. The basis for the appeal will be points of law and procedure. The findings of fact made by the court are not reviewable. The separate fines, according to the official report, aggregate $127,536, which is stated to be the sum of the shortages in the general account and in the surcharged stamp account. The decision of the court is understood to have been unanimous on the general charges of embezzlement and conspiracy as to all three defendants.

Chinese Rebels Dealt With.

PEKING, March 26.—As a result of the rebellion in the southern part of Honan province and the murder there of fourteen converts an edict has been issued ordering the magistrate of Piyang to be degraded and the magistrate of Tungpo to be punished. The rebels are ordered to be beheaded. One priest is reported to be missing. The governor of Honan province says that the collections for the indemnity caused the trouble.

CANAL SCHEME DEAD

Assembly Committee Will Not Report Davis Bill.

GOVERNOR ODELL NOT DISCOURAGED

He Thinks Improvement Legislation Will Not Be Abandoned—An Extra Session Is Not Likely to Be Called.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 26.—Governor Odell said last night in discussing the canal improvement situation:

"I have done all that I could to get the legislature to take action on the Davis bill, which provides for the expenditure of $31,800,000 for the improvement of the Erie and Champlain canals, but the cause seems hopeless. The advocates of canal improvement held two conferences with me today, the last late this afternoon, at which I told them that I had seen Speaker Nixon, chairman of the assembly rules committee, and that he had said that it was impossible to get the committee to report the Davis bill. The canal men went away feeling that nothing will be done this year in the way of legislation in the line of canal improvement. They gave me a final answer refusing to accept the alternative referendum proposed as a compromise. They asked me to call an extra session of the legislature to consider and dispose of the canal improvement problem, but that I refused to do, as I could not see what good it would do in view of the position which the assembly has taken.

"My position on canal legislation has not changed. I recommended in my annual message an improvement project, which was subsequently embodied in the Davis bill. That recommendation was made after conference with the leaders of the legislature, who at that time favored the proposition. As the session advanced opposition developed, culminating in the situation which at present exists."

Governor Odell was asked whether in view of the failure of two legislatures to pass improvement legislation it meant an abandonment on the part of the state of any improvement of the canals. He replied:

"I certainly do not. Great projects of this character sometimes take years to develop. You have an illustration of that in the years it has taken congress to dispose of the isthmian canal problem."

The action of the assembly in not passing the canal bill is held by the advocates of the improvement to be caused mainly by the position taken by the fourteen representatives of Albany, Rensselaer, Onondaga and Monroe counties in voting against the Weekes bill, which included the Oswego canal within the scope of the proposed improvement.

Mayor Low's bills have passed the assembly. The employer's liability bill and the Pennsylvania tunnel bill have passed the senate.

Blondin Arraigned.

BOSTON, March 26.—To a long indictment charging him with the murder of his wife nearly a year ago Joseph Wilfred Blondin, in the superior court at Cambridge, yesterday afternoon pleaded not guilty and was immediately committed to jail without bail. No date was set for the trial, as at present the state officers are in a quandary as to just where the murder occurred. The headless body of Mrs. Blondin was found in Chelmsford, a Middlesex county town, and the indictment read yesterday came from the grand jury of that county.

Oyster Bill Killed.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 26.—The Hannan oyster bill, which contemplated the leasing and stocking of 400,000 acres of nonproductive oyster bottoms in the Chesapeake bay, has been killed in the senate after a long and tedious fight which has lasted more than two months. The contest, which was a bitter one, was between the tidewater counties on the Eastern Shore, who opposed the bill, and the city of Baltimore and most of the counties in the western part of the state, who favored it.

Smallpox at a Party.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., March 26.—Frank Doran of Deadwood, S. D., was taken sick at a party given in honor of his return to Waddington, eighteen miles east of here. Later it was found that he had a well developed case of smallpox. Many persons were exposed to the disease. The village doctor procured a fumigation outfit from Albany for emergency purposes, and while operating it the lamp exploded, severely burning the operator. He may lose his eyesight.

Rumored War on Great Britain.

BERLIN, March 26.—Copious dispatches received from New York and Washington and published here describe France and Russia as meditating war upon Great Britain and Japan over China and as seeking assurances from Germany of that country's neutrality. The foreign office repudiates this story and avers that Russia and France have not made any such inquiries here.

FREE TROLLEY RIDES.

One of the very worthy schemes, which was instituted last season by the Organized Aid Association, was that which provided free trolley rides for women and children who needed the fresh air and were not well enough to walk nor wealthy enough to go driving. An appeal was made to the community for funds and the result was that much good was done in that direction.

Now that the warm weather is again approaching, the officers of the Organized Aid Association are preparing to renew their appeals for money to aid in that worthy movement. As the rides are not at all expensive, a small donation will do a great deal of good. Everyone who is posessed of good health and a fairly-filled purse can do a generous thing by contributing toward that object so that the agent of the Organized Aid Association will be able to distribute the trolley tickets as soon as the weather will permit.

Early in the present session of the State Legislature, Governor Murphy notified the Republican leaders that he would not look with favor upon any measures that were railroaded through the Legislature in the last hours of the session. It failed, however, to make any great impression on the legislators and they are following the example set in past years of rushing through a host of bills in the last few days without giving any of them a chance to be carefully examined or fully discussed. But Governor Murphy possesses a will of his own and there is no doubt that he will keep his word in regard to these measures.

In explaining the great increase in the business of a Chicago savings bank, according to Printers' Ink, says the Philadelphia Record, one of the officials said it was due to a new departure in bank advertising in the newspapers. Instead of limiting the announcements of the bank figures, the managers gave some pointed reason each day why people should save money. "Thousands of persons have opened accounts in the bank who had never saved up a cent before." Naturally the advertised bank reaped the chief benefit of its missionary work.

It is welcome news to the music loving people of Plainfield that Josef Hofmann, the great pianist, is to appear in Plainfield again. This is the second time that the famous artist has favored this city and Plainfielders should certainly feel indebted to Ward Stephens, through whose influence he has been brought here on both occasions, for arranging two such delightful and highly artistic musical evenings. There are few, indeed, of the smaller cities which can boast of two visits from Mr. Hofmann in one season.

The record speed between Philadelphia and Jersey City by rail has again been broken. This time it was the special train of President Cassatt, of the Pennsylvania Railroad, which lowered the record. It is not likely that the Reading will allow the record to stand very long without attempting to still further reduce it.

If the Greater Plainfield bills fail to pass the Legislature this session, the election in Somerset county this fall promises to furnish a variety of surprises that will keep the political gossips busy for the next twelve months.

Mrs. Metler, of West Second street, left last evening for a visit in Pittsburg.

SOME BRIEF PARAGRAPHS OF A PERSONAL NATURE.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

Julius Williams, of Plainfield avenue, has returned from an extended business trip.

Mrs. VanDuyne, of the borough, has returned from a visit with relatives at Somerville.

David King, of Craig place, has returned from a visit to Senator Whitford, at Trenton.

Robert Barnes, of Staten Island, has returned home after a visit with relatives in this city.

The Misses Milne, of New York, have been guests of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Cadmus, of Plainfield avenue.

City Clerk J. T. MacMurray, of Westervelt avenue, has returned from a business trip to Coatesville, Pa.

Edwin S. Hooley, of Washington Park, who is enjoying a sojourn in Florida, is expected home the first of next week.

Miss Clara Denton, of Washington, who has been visiting relatives in this city, has gone to New York, where she will visit for a time.

Garret Keating, of Essex street, who recently recovered from a severe illness, underwent a delicate operation yesterday. It was entirely successful and he is resting easily.

William I. Bamford, of Westerly, R. I., was a visitor at The Daily Press office yesterday. He operates a Simplex typesetting machine on The Sun of that city, and was much interested in the machine used by The Daily Press.

Secretary Charles Sulzer, of the Union county Democratic executive committee, spent yesterday afternoon in Plainfield conferring with the members of the committee residing here. Mr. Sulzer is a brother of Congressman Wm. Sulzer, of New York.

WANT TO BUILD.

The Swedish Evangelical Pilgrim Church is After Funds to Accomplish That End.

An appeal has been made by Rev. O G. Norseen, pastor of the Swedish Evangelical Pilgrim church, for funds to assist in defraying the expense of a much needed house of worship for his flock. It is desired to erect a church edifice at the corner of Plainfield avenue and West Fifth street during the summer months and for this $1,000 is necessary.

Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, who is thoroughly acquainted with the Swedish movement, has endorsed the letter which Rev. Mr. Norseen has issued.

The congregation had worshipped in the latter church edifice for some time past. There are said to be over 400 Scandinavians in this city, and it is necessary their spiritual welfare be looked after.

CHISEL STRUCK BOY.

Was Dropped by Carpenter and Cut Fred Foster's Head Open.

Fred Foster, the seven-year-old son of Ross Foster, of Maple avenue, was the victim of a peculiar accident yesterday. He was playing about a new house being built near his home when a carpenter accidentally dropped a chisel from the second story. It struck the boy on the head, cutting a deep gash. Dr. Buchanan was obliged to take five stitches in the wound.

Ensemble Club Meeting.

The Ensemble Club met yesterday afternoon at the residence of Miss Anna O. Marsh, of Madison avenue, to consider the lives and works of Schumann, Schubert and Chopin. Papers were read and selections from these composers were rendered.

To Become Trained Nurse.

Miss Carrie Egel, of Somerset street, has decided to take up the profession of a trained nurse. On Friday she will enter the Woman's and Children's Hospital at Roseville, Essex county, where she will take a course.

Lodges to Take Council Chambers.

Within a few days arrangements will be completed for the occupancy of the old Common Council rooms by the several lodges that will meet there after April 1.

Church Entertainment.

An entertainment of vocal and instrumental music will be given in the Fillmore Baptist church tomorrow evening.

STILL FURTHER REDUCTIONS!

Remarkable values are being offered throughout the entire store. Deep cuts in prices of many goods have been made in order to move stock quickly.

Dress Goods suffered least from fire, but most from price cutting. Stock is new and in good condition, but must be sold at once, notwithstanding. Wash Goods are being sacrificed. To those who have seen the beautiful array of Wash Fabrics displayed on our counters this will mean much, for the showing is remarkable for variety, quality and attractiveness. They escaped the fire but have not the general sacrifice. A miscellaneous counter full of Ladies' Suits, Separate Skirts, Jackets and Shirt Waists at your own price to close. A large lot of Hosiery, the boxes of which were damaged by water, will be sold cheap. Miscellaneous articles scattered here and there throughout the stock are going for a song.

In the Basement some rare bargains in house-furnishings are to be had. Goods damaged, only slightly injured by water, but whose usefulness is not impaired.

For the Men we have our new Spring Shirts, and a finer line was never offered.

New Easter Novelties in ladies' Neckwear, showing the latest conceits in this line. Inconceivably dainty and quite inexpensive.

Our New Shirt Waists are now here. A more attractively designed showing of waists could scarcely be thought of.

bardy, ancient Rome, the Byzantine empire and Colonial America are in the collection, which has been valued as high as $20,000.

The paintings in oil placed on the walls have received no additions recently but one will never tire of viewing the lot. Among the collection are some of Colonel Julian Scott's masterpieces. "The Death of General Sedgwick," "The Battle of Cedar Creek," the portraits of General W. Hancock and Former Mayor Male are among these.

The gallery will be open Tuesday and Friday afternoons from 2 until 5 o'clock.

Repairing Trolley Tracks.

The trolley company has been doing repair work on Watchung avenue, where traffic has made a number of holes alongside the tracks. It is understood that general repair work is to be done along the entire line.

To Review Company K.

Colonel Gilmore will inspect and review Company K this evening at Saengerbund Hall. The members of the company have been making great progress in their drills and hope to make a good showing.

To Give a Ball.

The Independent Shooting Club has arranged to hold a ball in Saengerbund Hall, Monday evening, May 5. A committee on arrangements is in charge of the affair.

Sprinkling Started.

Much to the satisfaction and comfort of people in general the work of sprinkling the main thoroughfares has been started.

For the Complexion.

The complexion always suffers from biliousness or constipation. Unless the bowels are kept open the impurities from the body appear in the form of unsightly eruptions. DeWitt's Little Early Risers keep the liver and bowels in healthy condition and remove the cause of such troubles. C. E. Hooper, Albany, Ga., says: "I took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness. They were just what I needed. I am feeling better now than in years." Never gripe or distress. Safe, thorough and gentle. The very best pills. L. W. Randolph.

DUNELLEN.

The Board of Education held a meeting, Saturday evening, in the Whittier School and organized. W. J. Hamilton was elected president and F. T. Dickerson was re-elected clerk. It was decided for the best interests of the school not to have the usual spring vacation this year. The following committee were appointed: Teachers, Hamilton, Todd, and Stites; text books and supplies, Dickerson, Day and Herlich; repairs, Snyder, Titsworth and Fredricks; truancy, Stites, Day, Snyder; rules, Titsworth, Dickerson, Fredericks.

A number of small boys, who tried to have some fun by bombarding the doors of the Lincoln School with mud, stones and sticks, have been caught and will be brought before the Board of Education for punishment at the next meeting.

Thomas Thomas, of Princeton University, and Louis Churchill, of Stevens Institute, will start Thursday for Ocean Grove where they will spend the spring vacation.

A number of music lovers from here attended the rendition of the "Stabat Mater" in the First Baptist church at Plainfield last evening. A number sang also.

The Literary Circle will spend a Japanese evening, Saturday evening, at the home of Mrs. Meserole. The members will be dressed in Japanese costumes.

Mrs. Williams and daughter, Myra, of Westfield, spent yesterday with Mrs. George W. Churchill.

Mrs. J. N. Apgar has been entertaining her father from Martinsville during the past week.

Regular weekly prayer meeting will be held in the Methodist church this evening.

The next regular meeting of the Board of Education will be held April 8.

The cornet band will meet for regular practice this evening in Apgar's Hall.

Wm. G. Holton Council met last evening and transacted routine business.

Miss Janie Churchill is spending this week with relatives in New York city.

William Moran, of Bound Brook, visited friends in town yesterday.

Prayer meeting will be held in the Presbyterian church this evening.

Services will be held in St. John's Catholic church Friday evening.

Paul Kretzel, Jr., made a business trip to Plainfield yesterday.

NEW MARKET.

The entertainment, to be given this evening by the Banjo, Mandolin and Guitar Club, promises to be well worth attending. An excellent programme will be given.

The Town Committee for the new year met and organized last Saturday. The old officers were re-elected and the only business done was the paying of bills.

The members of Lakeside Council are practicing hard for their entertainment next month.

Friendship dancing class held a pleasant practice in Friendship Hall, last evening.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The work of the committee on the home department, connected with the Baptist Sunday-school, has met with most encouraging success. A personal canvass has been made among the church membership and a number have been added to the membership of this valuable adjunct to the school.

Phillip Jahn, who has been detained at home for the past two weeks with a light attack of pneumonia, is recovering very nicely and will soon be able to return to work.

Fanwood Council, R. A., met and transacted routine business in its rooms last night. Several new members were initiated into the mysteries of the order.

It is rumored that Recreation Park, which was opened by the trolley company last summer, will reopen under pew management this coming summer.

The Young People's Literary Society will meet in the class rooms of the Methodist church tonight for an hour of reading and study.

A number from town attended the reception given last night in Red Men's Hall, Plainfield, by Prof. Bicknell's dancing class.

A business meeting of the Epworth League of the Methodist church was held at the home of Miss Josie Marsh, last night.

Mrs. Ann Cleaver, who has been seriously ill for several weeks past, continues to improve although slowly.

All the churches in town are busy preparing for special music and services Easter Sunday.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The regular weekly prayer-meeting was held in the church lecture room last night. After the meeting, the choir met for practice.

Mrs. McKee, of Rahway, is spending several days with Mrs. Renne B. Manning.

Albert Soper will move next week to the farm where he formerly resided.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Butter, the best there is, can be obtained in any quantity at W. W. Dunn's, corner of Duer street and Lincoln place. His store is the headquarters for pure creamery butter.

In ordering meat for your Easter dinner, don't forget that the finest cuts are to be obtained at Smalley Brothers' market on North avenue. 'Phone your order and it will be delivered with dispatch.

It is a superfluous question to ask "where did you get that hat?" when one wear the famous Hawes headgear. There's only one place to get such a nobby style and just the proper thing in Plainfield. J. R. Blair, Park avenue and Second street.

Callahan & Son, the Richmond street grocers, are quoting some excellent bargains this week. In the seafood and meat department Lenten prices prevail and the thoughful housewives are reaping the benefit. Orders 'phoned given careful attention.

To be in style one should have a new pair of shoes for Easter Sunday. If in need of footwear call on A. Willett & Son, around the corner, and inspect his stock of shoes for men and women. The best quality at reasonable prices go together at this store.

When the waiter dropped the tray of dishes, there was a mix-up of nations, including the downfall of China. There has also been a downfall in the price of china at J. W. Gavett's. Ask to see some of the pretty decorative sets or the cut glass ornaments.

Putnam & DeGraw, the dry goods merchants, have a fine assortment of spring and summer goods. The stock is complete in every department and an inspection will prove the benefit of trading at this store. This firm also carries a full line of men's furnishing goods in the latest styles.

If you would escape that tired feeling prevalent at this time of the year, you should take a good tonic such as L. W. Randolph, the West Front street druggist, sells. It is a great bracer. Mr. Randolph's store is being prepared for Easter and his display of goods is attractive.

The baker is always credited with giving a good dozen of anything he sells, but is the material always good? Sometimes, alas, it is not, but at Warnock's West Front street bakery everything is just as represented. A full line of fine, fresh confectionery always on hand.

There is nothing that makes a home more attractive than a handsome design in wallpaper or a fresh coat of durable paint. This is just the season for such improvements and the New York Painting and Decorating Company, corner of Park avenue and Second street, is prepared to do work for you at reasonable prices. There is a choice assortment of the latest wallpapers to select from.

Out Of Memory of Court Officer.

The contract case of Stratton against Pocock, which was to have taken place before Justice Hand, yesterday afternoon, was postponed out of respect to the memory of Constable W. R. Mattox, who was one of the court officers. It will now be held Tuesday afternoon before a jury.

Verdict for Plaintiff.

A verdict in favor of the plaintiff for $85.35 was rendered by Justice Mosher, yesterday, in the contract case of Sharkey against Bowe. Sharkey was represented by Counselor George Ball.

Lunch-Box Social.

A lunch-box sociable and entertainment will be given this evening at Bethel chapel by the young men of the Christian Endeavor Society.

—The topic for the meeting at the Crescent Avenue church this evening will be "The One Thing to Know."

Harry Manning spent yesterday in Newark.

Mrs. T. A. Linaberry and her son, John, have returned from New York.

Miss Emma Faulks has returned home after a visit in Newark.

Practically Starving.

"After using a few bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure my wife received perfect and permanent relief from a severe and chronic case of stomach trouble," says J. R. Holly, real estate, insurance and loan agent, of Macomb, Ill. "Before using Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she could not eat an ordinary meal without intense suffering. She is now entirely cured. Several physicians and many remedies had failed to give relief." You don't have to diet. Eat any good food you want, but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will always digest it for you. L. W. Randolph.

—Wm. Hoffman, of this city, has rented the flat in the Eggerding building, now occupied by Mr. and Mrs. H. P. Greenwood, and will take possession soon.

—William B. Emmons, former financial secretary of the Local Journeyman Barbers' Union, No. 315, has resigned his position with J. F. W. Bamberger in order to return to Long Branch.

—The regular meeting of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society of the First Baptist church, will be held Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. All the members are urged to be present as a special programme has been prepared.

—The two Presbyterian churches of the city will unite in a union Communion service at the First Presbyterian church tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to the members of both churches.

—Rev. and Mrs. Karner, of Albany, will soon give up their residence at the latter place and take up their residence in this city. Mr. Karner will associate himself in business with his father-in-law, A. L. Cadmus, of Plainfield avenue.

NEW FOUNTAIN.

Druggist Shaw Has Installed One of the Latest Appliances.

Druggist R. J. Shaw, of West Front street, has installed a handsome soda water fountain in his attractive store. It is entirely of onyx and is equipped with all the latest appliances. A large French plate mirror rests on top of the fountain and adds to its attractiveness.

Mr. Shaw will in the future, as in the past, continue to serve the best kind of soda. The syrups used are the purest and one is also sure of getting a first-class drink at this fountain. Since Mr. Shaw moved to his present place his business has increased, many people being attracted by his fine store.

Change in Meeting Day.

The regular meeting of the Woman's Board of Muhlenberg Hospital will be held April 4 instead of this week, owing to Friday being Good Friday.

POSTOFFICE WILL RETURN

POSTMASTER BIRD SAYS BABCOCK BUILDING IS MOST SUITABLE.

Fire Insurance Companies Will Settle Soon—Then Arrangements Will be Made for Return.

It is expected that the fire insurance companies carrying risks on the Babcock building will be able to adjust the loss within a few days. The various representatives will meet with the trustees of the estate soon, when an attempt will be made to settle.

It is generally believed that soon after the ajdustment Postmaster Bird will make arrangements to return the postoffice to its former place. There has been considerable demand to have the postoffice remain on the east side of Park avenue, but a majority of people think that the former location is more central, besides being better adapted for the needs of such an office.

Postmaster Bird says that there is not a building in the city as well adapted for the office as the Babcock building. In fact there is no place accessible. Last Sunday morning the crowd of people who called for mail was so great that it was almost impossible for the people to get in and out of the present office with any degree of comfort.

The present quarters are not well adapted for a postoffice and the carriers and clerks have been working at a disadvantage ever since the fire. There is every reason to believe that the office will go back to the old place.

OPENING UP PROPERTY.

C. E. Gulick Will Lay Out Streets and Build New Houses.

C. E. Gulick, the contractor, who recently exchanged his Lincoln place property for fifteen lots on lower Park avenue, near Randolph road, owned by Charles L. Moffett, will soon begin to improve the property. He proposes to build fifteen fine dwelling houses on the property, one of which he expects to occupy. The property is located on South End, Moffett and Marion avenues. At present Mr. Gulick is preparing plans and specifications for the erection of the dwellings and within a short time he will break ground. This improvement will develop an attractive section of the city.

Miss Curry Spoke.

Miss Sara Curry, the matron of the Union Fresh Air Camp at Westfield, was present at the Christian Endeavor Society meeting in Trinity Reformed church, Monday evening, and she spoke concerning her work both at the camp and the Day Nursery in New York. She also referred to the very able assistance of David M. Torey. Her remarks were such that she enlisted the continued support and sympathy of the Endeavorers in her work.

Missed Her Old Friend.

Through the death of a pet cat, Dr. Keeney, of West Fourth street, became seriously ill yesterday. The feline had been a member of the family for a long time and was possessed of unusual intelligence. Dr. Keeney brooded over its death to such an extent that it brought on nervousness which forced her to take to bed. Today she was much better.

No Oyster Supper.

Owing to the death and funeral of W. R. Mattox, who was a member of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., the oyster supper planned for last evening by the post has been postponed to Tuesday evening, April 8.

FAMOUS OLD PRISON.

Passing of The Tombs Obliterates Celebrated Landmark.

Within the Walls of New York's Old Jail Some of the World's Most Noted Criminals Have Held Brief Sway.

[Special New York Letter.]

THE one remaining wing of The Tombs, the old city prison of New York, will soon be razed to the ground to give place to the new structure, the greater part of which has already been erected on Center street. The passing of The Tombs, like the passing of Old Newgate prison in London, means the obliteration of one of the most famous landmarks in the world's chronicle of crime.

The Tombs has held within its gloomy walls some of the most notorious criminals of two hemispheres. Murderers, forgerers and politicians alike have tread the stone flags of its dark and damp corridors.

"Boss" Tweed, while in the height of his rule of Tammany Hall, was cast behind its iron bars. Richard Croker, who recently relinquished the leadership of the same organization and is one of the most remarkable characters in modern politics, was, there on charge of murder. Roland B. Molineux, awaiting his second trial for the murder of Mrs. Adams, and Albert T. Patrick, the lawyer from Texas, indicted on the charge of slaying aged William M. Rice to get his millions through an alleged forged will, walk arm in arm during the daily hour of exercise granted to them.

Not only is The Tombs an historic building, but it stands on historic ground. Over 200 years before the great stone walls, grand in their very somberness, were placed one on the other, the site where they stood was the scene of a murder and the ground was baptized in blood—a fitting prelude to the long days and dreary nights of misery and woe that have been dragged out by the unhappy men and women whose crimes placed them behind the strong, steel prison bars.

It was in 1626, soon after Peter Minuit, with his sturdy Dutch ideas of justice, arrived in New Amsterdam, that three of his men servants were set to work tilling the ground surrounding the site of the present city prison. Where the prison now stands was a clear lake 80 feet deep. It was called the Kolk, which was Dutch for whirlpool, but in later years was corrupted into Collect. An old Indian and his nephew, a boy of 12, passed, loaded down with beaver pelts. Minuit's servants murdered the old Indian and stole his beaver skins, but the boy escaped. He vowed vengeance, and, true to the characteristics of his race, returned in 16 years and murdered a white man. This act led up to a general Indian war.

In the old Kolk, or lake, John Fitch sailed the first steamboat in the presence of the inventor, Robert Fulton, and a great crowd of people. Before the war of 1812 the lake was filled up at the request of the authorities by dumping into it the refuse of the city and the ground from excavations for buildings. For some time the open space was used as a commons and through it ran the old post road to Boston, afterwards Chatham street and now Park row. Public executions took place there long before a prison on the site was thought of, so the price of blood had been paid there prior to the time of building of The Tombs.

The very surroundings seem to have marked the place as a proper site for a criminal institution. All roads of crime led to The Tombs. West of it is the Bowery, and then old Chatham street, with its memories of the vicious Whyo gangs and its vendettas. Then Cherry hill, with its unnatural mixture of races, its infamous alleys, its slatternly women, its ragged, hungry children, its fiery whisky, its brawling men and its utter degradation. So much for the old surroundings. But as the years went by tall buildings grew to the west and the north and the south and blotted out the sunbeams that once slanted through the bars. And then came the modern demand for a new building and the old gray walls made way for the towering new structure of white granite that stands, a monument of beauty, to the east of the last vestige of the old prison that soon, too, will pass away.

The Tombs was begun in 1833 and was completed in 1838. It was modeled after a famous tomb in Egypt—hence its name—and was the best modern specimen of Egyptian architecture in the world. The front of the building on Centre street was torn away over three years ago, but the new structure has not yet been completed and the prisoners are still kept in what is called the old prison. There are four tiers of cells there. On the first tier is "murderers' row," on the second tier the prisoners charged with homicide, forgery and burglary are confined. The third and fourth tiers are used for grand larceny prisoners. There are 137 cells in the old prison and 300 in the new building. On an average 400 prisoners are confined there. Out of this number at present less than 40 are women. About 100 are generally incarcerated for minor offenses. In addition to the cells there is a dormitory accommodating 70 women who are sentenced to the workhouse by the city magistrates, and instead of being sent to Blackwell's island are turned over to Warden Flynn to do the work about the prison.

Prior to the passage of the act requiring all executions in New York state to be performed by electricity the hangings in New York county took place at the jail. The first man hanged there was Edward Coleman, who murdered his wife, known as "The Pretty Hot Corn Girl." He was executed January 12, 1839. "Snuffy Joe" Bernard and Andrew Morrison were the first prisoners in The Tombs. The last man hanged in the prison was "Handsome Harry" Carlton, who was executed December 16, 1889, for killing a policeman. On August 23 preceding four men were hanged—all for murdering women.

Warden William Flynn says The Tombs is like a miniature world. Every type of human character is found there. There are social distinctions just the same as in the busy world outside. Refined prisoners seek the society of refined companions and the low and vicious meet their level.

The vagaries of humanity are brought out the strongest when the visitors are being searched. The men who go there to see friends are examined by a keeper and the women by a matron. Whisky is the most common contraband article that is found on the vistors. They know that a big bottle of liquor cannot possibly escape the sharp eyes and nimble fingers of the guards, yet many of the visitors try again and again to smuggle it in, and again and again is it confiscated.

The "shyster" lawyer is another queer specimen of humanity that haunts the vicinity of The Tombs. He is not allowed inside, but he awaits at the entrance and gives his card to the prisoner as he is taken inside. The "shyster" will take the last dime from a man whose case is hopeless.

The novice and the old timer who has worn stripes at Sing Sing are easily distinguishable. There is no need of the state prison garb to tell which is the convict. All phases of life are represented behind those cruel walls and within the narrow confines of stone and mortar and steel, the ambitions, the hopes, the fears and the despair of man grow bright, flicker and die away.

With the passing of The Tombs the old name passes with it. Would that God in his mercy might decree that the sins which made the old prison a necessity should pass away with the crumbling walls.

Genesis of Life Insurance.

The first assurance on a life of which there is positive legal record was made on the life of Sir Robert Howard for one year, from the 3d of September, 1697, and it is a singular fact—and one that boded ill for the future of life assurance—that the payment of the claim was contested. Sir Robert died on the exact anniversary of the date and issue of the policy; but Lord Holt, before whom the case was tried, ruled that the wording of the policy—"from the day of the date"—excluded that day itself, thus advancing the term of the policy one day beyond the date of the death of the assured, and gave judgment accordingly. The underwriter in this case appears to have been a merchant, and the policy was probably obtained for temporary or contingent security.

PULLED PATRON'S LEG.

Much to the Horror of the Talkative Shoe Salesman the Member Came Off.

John Diehl, of Guttenberg, N. J., has a wooden leg, but the artificial foot receives just as good treatment as its mate. As a matter of fact, states the New York Tribune, Diehl rather prefers the wooden leg to the other, for, as he says: "I picked out the wooden one myself and it's a peach."

Such an excellent member of society is Diehl's wooden leg that its owner is able to walk with scarcely a perceptible limp. Consequently, when he walked into a shoestore at

"GREAT G-G-G-GOODNESS!"

Union Hill, N. J., and asked for a pair of shoes, the clerk noticed nothing unusual about his appearance. It will be apparent from what follows that Diehl is possessed of a remarkably fine sense of humor. Said he to the obliging clerk:

"Gimme a pair o' button shoes."

While the clerk was getting down the goods Diehl unfastened his wooden leg and prepared himself for the merry jest that was to follow. The clerk had some difficulty in getting the worn-out shoe off the hickory limb and Diehl observed it, remarking:

"Aw, bend yer back, why don't yer?"

"Kinder sticks, don't it?" said the clerk, pleasantly. With this he bent his back so successfully that he carried away shoe, foot, leg and all and landed on his back into the bargain.

When the boot seller sat up and saw what he had done he was overwhelmed with horror.

"Great g-g-g-goodness!" he gasped. "I didn't m-m-mean to do it."

The genial Mr. Diehl was purple in the face, while a negro porter who had stood by started on the run for an ambulance. As soon as Diehl could spare time from the holding of his sides he remarked to the crestfallen clerk:

"That's all right, young feller, but y' want to be careful how you start to pull off my leg."

Diehl got his shoes at a rate that he himself admitted was "real reasonable."

GIRL KILLS A WOLF.

Armed with a Hatchet, She Approached the Snarling Beast and Despatched It.

Miss Ethel Hoover, a young lady living at Leola, S. D., had an exciting adventure with a large gray wolf and proved herself a heroine.

Gray wolves are numerous on the great cattle ranges west of the Missouri river, and they are noted for their fierceness. The gray wolf in question evidently had strayed from its accustomed haunts by crossing the Missouri river on the ice.

It appeared the other morning in the dooryard of the house where Miss Hoover resides and fiercely attacked a large shepherd dog. The animals engaged in a life and death struggle and their snarling and snapping were enough to affect the nerves of even a man. Finally the dog succeeded in getting somewhat the better of its antagonist.

At this juncture Miss Hoover, instead of fleeing to the attic or cellar for safety, appeared on the scene. She was armed with a hatchet and, approaching close to where the dog and wolf were battling for life, she raised the hatchet and dealt the wolf such a blow that it was killed instantly.

GIRLS HELP GOVERN.

Straws That Show Which Way the Wind Is Setting.

Are women to take part in government in the future? Yea, they are, if signs mean anything. The beginning of the present year marked in two quite different places a movement that recognizes fully woman's right and power to govern. In one instance the right to govern themselves was conceded to the girls in a girls' school; in the other the coequal right of woman with man to make and administer laws was fully recognized and put into operation.

At Vassar college has existed for years a students' association for the mutual benefit and pleasure of its members, but the organization had until recently little or no voice in the discipline or government of the institution. That was conducted old style—on the one hand, a faculty whose rule was despotic or otherwise, as happened, but in all cases one from which there was no appeal, while the students were automatons, whose only role was to obey.

Now this old timy regime has been changed. The faculty granted to the students' association a charter of its own, and that charter, like the constitution of the United States, conferred on the young women certain rights that not even the faculty can take away. The rights also involve duties, and among these are the maintenance of order in the college buildings and grounds, quiet during study hours and the establishing of all regulations for open air exercise. The powers that be still claim the right to "boss" the gymnasium, it seems. On the supposition that girls do not know what is good for them the right to enforce attendance on chapel service is reserved to the faculty. Perhaps they thought there could not be power enough in a students' governing board to make the girls go to chapel. The faculty and college trustees still hold a checkrein on the young ladies, but it is a longer, looser one than ever before it was, Vassar distinctly recognizing that even a girl is a responsible creature and that in the main she can behave herself without being watched. This is a very great gain for a girls' school.

In the second instance it is not women or young ladies who take part in government, but just public school girls, in a Pennsylvania high school at Williamsport. The principal, Professor W. W. Keichner, to his credit be it spoken, devised the educational republic wherein pupils themselves, and girls as well as boys, are members of the legislature. Despotism in school government, as elsewhere, seems to be passing.

The Williamsport scheme embraces a constitution and bylaws under which the co-sex legislature works. It consists of two bodies, of which the board of education may be called the senate; the other, including pupils and two members of the faculty, is the house of representatives. The preamble to the constitution says among other things:

"Realizing that we can repay the city and the state best by becoming good citizens and believing that self government in school affords the best training for a broader citizenship, we hereby institute a representative government under the following conditions," etc.

This preparation for broad citizenship includes girls as well as boys, mark you. Further, the admirable document governing the deliberations of this enlightened legislature, more enlightened than the congress of the United States, provides that the board of governors shall consist of two members of the faculty and "a boy and girl from each class." Following along the line of perfect sex equality a lady and gentleman from the faculty were chosen to represent that body on the governing board. A boy is president and a girl is secretary and treasurer. One notable feature of this system of government is that not even the board of education itself can pass regulations for the government of the pupils unless their own board concurs in the measure. They themselves help make the rules and help pass sentence on those who break them. Instead of being reported to a teacher, disorderly or improper conduct is reported to the board composed mostly of pupils themselves, and they pass sentence. This excellent arrangement will prevent schoolgirls from acquiring the name of spies and tattlers, which some of them occasionally get.

He took the hand, touched his lips to it, and suffered her to lead him in.

Above their heads, a woman, hearing every word, leaned out a moment. The upward glare of the swinging lamp lit up her face, savage in its vindictive joy. As Richard Somers entered the room the woman overhead closed the blinds gently. The floor she traversed gave no warning to those below.

CHAPTER XXI.

The woman who leaped from the upper window of the wing of the Brookin residence that June night in 1862 was the ever-cautious mother scanning the outward route chosen for her son, who at that moment was in his room concluding his arrangements for a perilous enterprise.

The time had arrived when Raymond Holbin was to risk his future upon one bold stroke. If he failed, he was no worse off than at the moment, unless, indeed, he should be captured. With the Brookin fortune dissipated by war, Richmond presented but few attractions for him. If he succeeded in all that his busy mind had planned, life held for him Frances, revenge and wealth. The cause for hesitancy lay in the possibility of detention and discovery; for although the papers which he so highly valued were, as he supposed, unintelligible to any mind other than his own, he was a confederate officer, and desertion meant death. He had secured three weeks' leave to go south upon urgent business, but this did not alter his liability. What passed through the mind of this man as he sat in his room that night may be imagined. It may be assumed that he thought of Louise, who with bogus dispatches in her saddle pockets and falsely informed had gone to her death upon that distant road. Holbin had actually ridden nearly to the point with her; had ridden until warned. He had waited when she left him until the fatal volley was fired, and then, terrified, fled home and took refuge in his room. His mother, cool and unflinching, had sought him there, a mute question upon her pale face, and he had roughly, fiercely ordered her away. For, let justice be done him, he had this time in his weakness executed the dictates of a stronger will than his own. He had not intended to be fair with Louise; he had intended to desert her again, and leave her to find her way out of Richmond as best she might, and he did not then intend to return; but the murder was not a part of his plan.

He was unnerved and unfit for the enterprise which now meant so much for him. Arrayed in the worn uniform of a federal prisoner, his papers and pass safe within his beast-pocket, his horse concealed in the garden, Raymond had been on the point of venturing forth when a sergeant reached the house with an official communication requiring an answer. The soldier stood at the front door, and with prompt decision the woman who left the rear window hurried to that point.

"Quick!" she said; "run around to the side gate and come to the wing-room. A Yankee spy is there. Kill him if he attempts to escape. A thousand dollars if you kill or capture him." The soldier ran, cocking his gun as he entered the side gate. The mother went at once to her son's room. She met William, who was bringing an answer to the soldier's letter.

"Yes'm, he's in es room," he said. The light in her son's room shone through the transom. There was no time to explain to Raymond. Knowing his violent and excitable nature, and remembering his disguise, which he might forget if there was an alarm below, she noiselessly turned the key in his door and glided on to her room. But Raymond had left his room immediately after handing William the note, and was already approaching Frances' room below. As he passed the hall entrance, the door leading from the apartment into the garden opened and husband and wife entered. With a cry of amazement he rushed into the room, drawing his sword as he entered.

"Who are you, sir?—why are you in this room?" he asked, angrily. Somers drew his sword instantly and confronted him. Holbin had paused and was staring wildly.

"Richard Somers!"

"Yes!" Somers gently put aside the slender form which instantly interposed between him and the man he had sought. His eyes scanned the familiar uniform of his old enemy in doubt.

"Speak out, sir!"

"Spare your voice. Raymond Holbin, I come with a message for you. Louise is dying in my camp; I was unable to resist her prayer. She implores you to go to her to right her wrongs, for her child's sake. Go, if you are a man, and can; let this marriage take place; do something for the miserable woman whom you have so deceived."

"She was not killed, then!"

"She is dying!" said Somers, shocked and sickened at the matter-of-fact question. "Did you suppose that she was dead?"

"Yes. She insisted upon trying to run the gantlet." A light dawned upon Somers. A cry of horror escaped him, and all the old enmity for the man came rushing over him again.

"You encouraged her! You knew she was going to her death! You sent her under a false promise—her statement! Frances, Frances, out of this room! God has sent me to avenge Louise. Madman, murderer, we settle many debts to-day." Blind, almost, with his rage, Somers rushed upon his enemy. Their swords clashed as, facing each other, the two men circled about the room. Then Holbin's sword went down. With incredible quickness he avoided the thrust which was almost a part of the disarming blow, rushed to the casement window, leaped into it, and burst open the blinds. His hand thrust in his bosom quickly reached backward; a pistol flashed. At this instant the sergeant rushed into the room, saw the blue uniform escaping through the window, and the extended pistol. He leveled his gun and fired. The man in the window reeled back and plunged headlong into the room.

"It couldn't be helped, captain," said the soldier, lowering his weapon. "Once outside he would have given us a long chase. Did he hit you?" Well might he ask the question. Capt. Somers was deathly pale as he looked upon the body of his foe.

"No," he said, utterly at a loss to understand the situation. Frances, in the moment of the tragedy, reeled against the wall, sick and faint, but the instinct of a woman whose loved one is in danger instantly rallied her to her senses. She was the first to realize the full significance of the soldier's action.

"You have saved our lives," she said, weakly; "any reward you may claim is yours. The man was evidently a spy." Her hospital experience and familiarity with tragedies had served her well. But the strain was fearful, and she covered her eyes again.

Brief as was the respite for Somers, it was sufficient. Passing his arm around her, he urged her out of the room.

"Three minutes — keep everybody out for three minutes, and I am safe," he whispered. White as a ghost, but brave, she took her stand at the foot of the stair and waited.

Somers returned and bent above the figure of his enemy, his mind at work. The reference by Louise to the dispatches, the blue uniform, the horse tied in the yard, the hour, and the character of the man aroused a multitude of suspicions. From the pocket he drew a sealed packet and a folded paper, the latter a pass through the lines. There was no time for an examination of the package; the soldier, leaning upon his gun, was waiting. Promotion for Somers was in sight; but he had entered the room with an avowal that he could not disregard.

No Time Wasted.

Probably since the world began there was never a period when men wasted their time as little as they do now. Whether they use it well or ill, they at least do not let it slip away empty. Never was the fascination of work so potent as at the present moment, and never before were the same keenness and concentration displayed in the pursuit of distraction. Energy is the dominant quality of the Anglo-Saxon race, the quality they love to exercise, the quality they cannot choose but admire. Work is no longer regarded as a necessary evil or even wholly as a means to an end; it is valued for its own sake. The richest men in America work as hard as the poorest—or at least pretend to do so—lest society in which they move should suppose them men of leisure, a supposition which would be, we understand, against an American, whatever his position in life.—London Spectator.

An Old Superstition.

Superstition connected with the seventh child of a seventh child is commemorated by a tombstone in a village churchyard near Bridgewater, Somerset. This inscription runs: "Sacred to the memory of Doctress Anne Pounsberry, who departed this life December 11, 1813, aged 73 years. Stand still and consider the wondrous works of God." "Doctress" was not merely an epithet, but a baptismal name, for she was a seventh daughter of a seventh daughter, and was, therefore, credited with powers of healing. She practiced in herbs and charms. For king's evil this was her prescription: "Take the legs of a toad. Bake and grind them to powder with pestle and mortar. Place the powder in a bag round the neck of the sufferer."—London Chronicle.

History of the Hat.

The hat is an article of dress that figures conspicuously in proverbs, aphorisms, slang, etc. The clerical gentleman in "Pickwick" was prepared to eat his hat and swallow the buckle whole, if he did not know more of life than another knew. To get into the hat, to have a brick in one's hat, to pass the hat, to talk through one's hat, all around my hat, where did you get that hat, shoot the hat, these are some of the most respectable forms of speech. "What a shocking bad hat" is said to have originated with a candidate for parliament, "who made the remark to his poorer constituents and promised them new head-gear." And "mad as a hatter." Why hatter?—Boston Journal.

HEPBURN & CO.
Dear Sirs—Two years ago I had very bad corns and callouses on my feet. I went to a chiropodist and paid him $5.75 for taking them off. In less than a month they were back again. I then tried your CORN CURE and used only three bottles, costing 45c, and am happy to say it has taken them off completely. They have not troubled me now for over a year. I consider your HEPBURN'S CORN CURE the best I have ever used.—Yours truly, R. O. RUNYON, 629 LaGrande Ave.

IN Chancery of New Jersey. To Edward Riordan. By virtue of an order of the Court of Chancery of New Jersey, made on the day of the date hereof, in a cause wherein Thomas Malay and wife are complainants, and you and others are defendants, you are required to appear, plead, answer or demur to the complainants' bill on or before the twenty-first day of April next or the said bill will be taken as confessed against you. The said bill is filed for partition of certain lands in the City of Plainfield, in the County of Union, of which Thomas Malay died seized, and you, Edward Riordan, are made defendant because as the husband of Joanna Riordan, deceased, who was one of the tenants in common therein, you may have some interest in said lands.

UGLY CAT IN COURT.

Two Dakota Families Battle for Tom Who Doesn't Care What Decision Will Be.

Evidently Sioux Falls, S. D., has missed some of the excitements and diversions that have passed with the decadence of its divorce courts. An indication is in the fact of a lawsuit, now in the circuit court, which involves the ownership of a plain, back fence tom cat whose hide would not bring 22½ cents in the local fur market.

According to the evidence, which has worked its way up through a justice court to the circuit court, and which promises finally to reach the ears of the state supreme court, this particular mouser did or did not belong to

HE AND MRS. LEWIS MIXED.

Ole C. Finstad and wife two months ago. The Finstads assert that it did, and that, as Mrs. William Lewis' house was overrun with rats, they were induced to loan the cat to her that it might clear the premises of the pests.

When the rats were gone the Finstads say that they went to Mrs. Lewis, asking that she return the cat. Not only did Mrs. Lewis refuse to give the animal up, but the Finstads say that she hid the creature in the house, defying them to take it.

Now, a man of the name of Finstad isn't likely to take a dare. Mr. Finstad didn't, and when he went to the Lewis residence again it was with the determination to do or die with his boots on. He and Mrs. Lewis mixed, without the formality of gloves and a roped ring, and by the time Mr. Finstad got home with the cat the town marshal served a warrant, charging him with assault and battery.

In a justice court next morning Mr. Finstad got the worst of a fight with a woman. She not only got in the last word but he was fined $10 and costs. This Mr. Finstad refused to pay, and to this end he has appealed the case to the circuit court. There are both feeling enough and money enough in the case to take it at least to the supreme court.

In the meantime the cat, on back fences, is serenading both families impartially every night.

WOLF WAS DIPLOMATIC.

He Scattered His Food Around the Yard, Feigned Sleep and Then Ate Up the Chickens.

The Susquehanna (Pa.) correspondent of the New York World says that Jim Morgan, of Great Bear township, walked into the county commissioner's office recently with a wolf's skull, claiming the usual bounty, and told this remarkable tale:

The wolf, captured when a cub, had been raised in his home and was as tame as a dog. But he had one evil habit of which it was found impossible to break him. He was fond of chickens and would devour the farmer's poultry.

When the wolf's food was brought to him he would scatter it about him and then lie down with his head on his forepaws, feigning sleep. Soon the hens would surround him to eat his food, and woe to the one that came within reach of his paw.

For this habit the wolf was condemned to die. Morgan fired a charge of shot at the wolf, but only wounded him, and the animal ran to the woods. The farmer and his two men followed two miles and shot him in a hind leg. He crawled into the thicket, and the hunters, thinking that he was dead, returned home.

The next morning the wolf came to the kitchen door of the farmhouse when the family were at breakfast and scratched for admission. The farmer's son was delighted, for he and the wolf were great friends. Morgan intended to spare the wolf for the boy's sake, but the very next morning he set his trap for the chickens and devoured two. Then he was filled with lead. He had grown nearly to the size of a Newfoundland.

CORA, THE COWGIRL.

A Unique and Daring Product of Western Civilization.

For Two Hours She "Shot Up" the Town of Santa Rosa, N. M.—Always Has Plenty of Money at Command.

"Cora, the cowgirl," as she is known to the Santa Rosa whites, or Cora Chiquita, or Senorita Chiquita, by the local Mexicans, has disappeared from Santa Rosa, N. M. She flitted between two days to avoid arrest for "shootin' up the town" during a sportive drunk, and whither her flight tended, or where it ended, is yet unknown. Not long, however, will her whereabouts be a mystery, for wherever Senorita tarryeth she is soon in active and abiding evidence.

La Chiquita is a quarter-blooded Cherokee Indian, and was a cowgirl on the Cherokee Indian cattle ranges from the time she was able to sit on a cow pony until seven years ago, when she transferred her range riding to the Texas Pan-Handle, and thence drifted, accompanied by Poker Paul, a well-known frontier card sharp, to the construction camps of the Rock Island-El Paso railroad.

Cora and Poker Paul opened a saloon and gambling house at the famous Rag Town grading Rock Island camp and remained there until she became jealous of a pretty Mexican girl, upon which La Chiquita promptly shot Paul and scratched the woman until she looked as if she had been in close and energetic communion with a first-class barbed wire fence. Cora then mounted her horse and rode to Santa Rosa.

Cora Chiquita is now about 23 years of age, is slight in form, and yet robust and agile, carries a handsome and haughty head crowned heavily with black hair. Her face is lighted with flashing black eyes and teeth of a dazzling white, and she presents a picture pretty in the extreme, done in deepest olive.

She dresses in nattiest frontier male attire, wears a beplumed and bespangled sombrero, carries a brace of revolvers at her trim waist, and a repeating carbine in her shapely and supple hand; she is a quick and dead shot; a fearless and finished rider; is unrivaled in the use of the lariat; and, as the mood takes her, a good natured, gentle hearted, and hand-helping woman, or a fierce and daring desperado, before whose ready gun the most reckless cowboy or habitual "bad man" is glad, indeed, to hurriedly "hide out."

It was while being swayed by one of her periodical desperado outbreaks that La Chiquita Senorita earned her present exile from Santa Rosa. She had been drinking heavily, says the Chicago Tribune, riding her horse into saloons, and "settin' them up" to all hands. She became so drunk and disorderly that she was arrested and fined. With her wild heart aflame with mingled whisky and wrath, Chiquita once more mounted her horse, rode madly to her tent on the outskirts of the town, and before startled Santa Rosa could fairly catch its breath, was back on the main street, riding like a whirlwind, and shooting with either hand at everything in or out of sight.

The town promptly hunted its hole, and for the two hours of daylight yet remaining, Cora Chiquita shot and rode as she listed. When the morning dawned the sulphurous taint of the smoke of La Senorita's revolvers still burdened Santa Rosa's otherwise balmy air, but the girl herself was missing.

While Cora Chiquita is no mystery, there has always been sufficient speculation as to where she procures the money with which she is always more than liberally supplied, a financial amount far beyond that of any source apparently at her command. This moneyed conundrum, together with the fact that the girl herself is from the Indian nation, once the breeding place and refuge of bandits of all classes, has led to a suspicion that Cora Chiquita may be the shrewd advance and investigating agent of a bandit organization proposing bank and train robbery this winter along the line of the new Rock Island-El Paso railroad.

Austrian Kangaroo Farms.

Kangaroo farming is an important industry in Australia. The hides are valuable, and the tendons extremely fine; indeed, they are the best thing known to surgeons for sewing up wounds, and especially for holding broken bones together, being much finer and tougher than catgut.

First Mention of Gold.

The earliest book which mentions gold is the Bible. It occurs in Genesis 2-11.

ON THE DIAMOND.

A meeting of the candidates for positions on the Y. M. C. A. baseball team, will be held in the association parlors, this evening. Matters of interest to all concerned will be discussed.

The first baseball game among the West End Junior teams, recorded this season, took place Monday on the John street grounds. The West End Terrors defeated the Cuban Giants, after a hot contest, by a score of 20 to 16. The batteries were Mullen and Summers for the Terrors, and Kline, Harding, Willis and Mitchell for the Cuban Giants.

The executive committee of the Plainfield Amateur Baseball League met last evening and prepared a set of resolutions and by-laws to be presented before the League at the next session. Part of the schedule was also made up and other matters pertaining to the government of the games were considered. The next meeting is to be held April 5.

GOLF.

There was an informal opening of the Westfield Golf Club course last Sunday, at which time a number of players made a round. The course is in good condition and if the weather remains favorable will permit early play.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The Jolly Bowlers will roll a scrub team on McLaughlin's alleys, this evening. Next week the team will go to Rahway and contest with a club at that place.

W. J. BUTFIELD SUES.

Started Action Against Collector Bidwell for Stopping Importation.

Wm. J. Buttfield, of Washington Park, a tea importer at 106 Wall street, New York, has brought suit in the United States Circuit Court against Collector Bidwell for $28,000 damages, which he says he sustained as a result of the action of the collector in reference to certain teas imported from China by Mr. Buttfield.

The complaint alleges that the collector refused to permit Mr. Buttfield to import 1,948 packages of China country teas under the plea that the teas were impure and unwholesome. Mr. Buttfield maintains that the teas were pure and he alleges that the collector's action put him to an expense of $2,800 and he asks the court to award him ten times that sum in damages.

In Destroying Mood.

In a drunken rage, last night, James Brunn started to demolish his mother's home in one of Deputy-Sheriff Carney's houses on Paradise alley. He was arrested by the police and this morning City Judge Runyon gave him his preference of $10 or twenty days. The fine had not been at noon.

Entertained With Music.

Rev. Charles E. Herring, of Watchung avenue, entertained a few friends at his home, last evening, the feature of which was an informal programme of music. There were selections on the violin by Mr. Herring and M. A. Korff, with piano accompaniment by Mrs. LeRoy Gates.

Wagons in Collision.

A buggy, owned by L. C. Johnson, of Netherwood, was wrecked this noon in front of Doane's jewelry store. An unknown man drove into the buggy with his rig, trying to pass another wagon.

Six New Members.

Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, met last evening and received six new members. They will be initiated next week.

Social Time.

The German Beneficial Society met in Saengerbund Hall last evening. There was a social time and refreshments were served.

SMALL-POX AT NEW MARKET

DISCOVERY MADE THAT MRS. SARAH KISHNER IS JUST RECOVERING.

Had Had Dread Disease and Didn't Know It—Had No Physician Until Yesterday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Market, March 26—The health authorities of this place made the discovery yesterday that Mrs. Sarah Kishner, who resides near the ice-house, has small-pox. She developed the disease a week ago. A short time previous to the time she was taken ill, she visited in Newark and it is believed that she got the disease in that city.

Soon after her return home she was taken ill, but she did not suspect the nature of the illness and did not call a physician. In the meantime the neighbors have been going in and out of the house and it is not known how many persons have run the danger of contagion. Dr. Nelson was called yesterday and pronounced the case small-pox. The worst stage of the disease is over.

Dr. Nelson had the house thoroughly fumigated and he vaccinated all persons known to have been in or near the house or near Mrs. Kishner.

DIED, AT HOSPITAL.

Mrs. Fred H. Firstbrook Passed Away This Morning at Muhlenberg.

An extremely sad death occurred at Muhlenberg hospital, at noon today, when life fled from Mrs. Fred H. Firstbrook, a widely known and estimable young woman. She was taken to the institution ten days ago to be operated upon for appendicitis and apparently passed through the ordeal without any ill effects. It was thought she was speedily recovering until yesterday when a change for the worse came and she sank rapidly.

Mrs. Firstbrook was formerly Miss Cora B. Scull and was but twenty-one years of age. She was married one year ago this month and lived since the wedding on West Fifth street. Her parents and one brother, Harry Scull, reside on Central avenue.

FUNERAL OF JOHN VOORHEES.

Services Held From Home of His Sister on Duer Street.

The funeral services of the late John Voorhees, who died last Saturday, in Newark, the result of an accident, took place yesterday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock from the residence of his sister, Mrs. W. E. Day, of Duer street. Rev. Mr. McWilliam, of Somerville, conducted the services. The interment was in the family plot at Millstone.

There was a large and beautiful collection of floral tributes, many being from friends and associates of the deceased who live in Newark. The remains were taken to Millstone, where they were interred in the family plot.

Afternoon of Euchre.

The Thursday Afternoon Euchre Club was entertained yesterday by Mrs. George H. Fairchild, of Grandview avenue. The home was prettily decorated, the prevailing color being red. Mrs. William N. Tier won the first prize and Mrs. Robert M. Clark the second prize. After the play a social time was enjoyed and refreshments were served. Mrs. Robert M. Clark will entertain the club next week Tuesday.

Hand Slipped.

Jonathan Clawson, of Brook avenue, sustained a painful accident to his right hand and wrist, yesterday. He was doing carpenter work at home, when he slipped on a board. In falling he struck his hand on an ax, cutting the hand and wrist. The lacerations were promptly attended to and the flow of blood stopped. It will be some time before Mr. Clawson will have the use of the hand.

Charged With Theft.

Edward Marcellus, a young colored boy who has been in the police court on several occasions, was arrested this noon charged by Asa Collier with removing lead pipe and destroying property in the Olympia building on Sycamore street. The act is alleged to have been committed a few nights ago. The boy will be arraigned before Justice Nash, probably, this afternoon.

Died at Daughter's Home.

Mrs. Rebecca B. Consaul, widow of David J. Consaul, of Atlantic City, died yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Murray Burtis, 60 Fairview avenue, aged seventy-seven years. She had been failing for some time past. The funeral services will be held from the above residence tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

CHOSE ENDEAVOR OFFICERS

AT ANNUAL MEETING OF SOCIETY AT FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH.

Reports Showed Endeavor Society to be in a Strong Financial Condition.

The annual meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church was held last evening in the chapel of the church. There were reports of the various committees showing that during the past year the society has accomplished a great deal of work.

Mr. Craig, a missionary in Mexico, and Mr. Pierson, a missionary in Japan, are being supported by the society by the two-cent-a-week plan. The treasurer reported the finances to be in good condition and there is a small balance in the treasury.

The election of officers and chairmen of the committees resulted as follows: President, T. Edward Burroughs; vice president, Miss Mabel Conover; treasurer, F. A. Cranston; recording secretary, Robert Pruden; corresponding secretary, Mrs. T. Edward Burroughs; superintendent junior department, Mrs. Charlotte Ross; assistant junior department, Miss Isabel Scarborough and Miss Beatrice Miner; prayer-meeting committee, Charles M. Hummer; lookout, Mrs. John S. Johnston; social, Martin A. Korff; missionary, Miss Jennie Abbott; flower and visiting, Mrs. A. R. Bond; good literature and temperance, Miss Lou Karner. The other members of the committees will be announced later.

Following the business meeting there was a social, during which refreshments were served.

TO BUILD BLEACHERS.

Y. M. A., of Hope Chapel, Making Final Preparations for the Opening of the Baseball Season.

Final preparation for the opening of the baseball season by the Hope team was accomplished at a special meeting of the Y. M. A., last evening. Manager Cose, of the nine, was authorized to secure all necessary paraphernalia for the players and also make arrangements for building bleachers on the Hope field, the seating capacity to be 300. The complement of the team will be completed within a week or more.

Other business transacted was the election of four candidates and the acceptance of ten propositions. The report of the treasurer showed the association to be in a sound financial condition.

FUNERAL OF MRS. CLARK.

Services Held From the Home on Sycamore Ave. Monday Afternoon.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Lewis E. Clark were held Monday afternoon from the home on Sycamore avenue. Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue church, conducted the services, assisted by Rev. Robert Clark, of Goshen, N. Y., a son-in-law of the deceased.

The opening prayer and Scripture reading was in charge of Mr. Clark, after which Dr. Richards spoke a few words concerning the victory of a Christian faith. During the services a quartette, composed of Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers, Miss Julia Ketcham, Elmer E. Runyon and Charles L. Lewis, sang "Jesus Lover of My Soul," and "Lead, Kindly Light." The floral tributes were many and very beautiful.

The interment took place in the family plot in the North Plainfield cemetery and the pall-bearers were Joseph B. Coward, Robert H. Cook, G. C. Underhill, of this city; W. H. Young, of Trenton, H. H. Coward, of this city, and A. W. Morley, of Trenton.

Will Not Consolidate.

Unity Lodge, No. 102, K. of P., met last evening in Trade Council Hall, when it was unanimously decided to purchase new paraphernalia. This means that Unity and Perseverance Lodges will not unite as reported recently. The members also leased that hall and hereafter will meet on the second and fourth Thursdays in each month. The next meeting will be held Thursday evening, April 10.

Bitten by Dog.

Willie Anson, an errand boy employed at L. W. Randolph's drug store on West Front street, was attacked and bitten by a large black dog while delivering goods on Kensington avenue this morning. The lad returned quickly to the drug store and Mr. Randolph at once cauterized the wound. No serious effects are feared.

Dancing Class Reception.

Professor Clare Bicknell's dancing class tenderd a reception to its friends in Red Men's Hall, last evening. There was a very good attendance both from this city and nearby places. Professor O'Reilly furnished the music.

To Settle Labor Troubles.

HOW GOOD FRIDAY WILL BE OBSERVED

Great Union Service at Trinity Reformed Church Tomorrow Night—Other Services.

THEY ARE ANNOUNCED.

TODAY IS MAUNDY THURSDAY AND IS BEING OBSERVED.

Services in Episcopal and Roman Catholic Churches Today—Unique is the Union Meeting Which is Annually Held Here.

The anniversary of the day on which the Saviour died will be commemorated throughout Christendom with solemn services tomorrow. For ages past the day has been called Good Friday and has received the recognition it deserves from Christian people.

This is Maundy-Thursday in the church calendar and services are being held in all the Episcopal and Roman Catholic churches,. In both the city and borough the congregations of these two churches are appropriately celebrating the day. It is the day on which the Lord gave commandment respecting the Holy Sacrament as a proof of obedience to His commandment respecting love.

In the Roman Catholic churches, including St. Mary's and St. Joseph's, services were held this morning, and in each case there was a procession. High mass was celebrated at St. Mary's at 8 o'clock and before the conclusion of the service the Blessed Sacrament was removed from the high altar to a temporary repository, where it will remain until Easter even. The priest carried the Sacrament and in the procession were the children of the parish. The same ceremony took place at St. Joseph's church. After the Gloria all the bells are removed and there is no sound from them or from the organ until Easter even.

In the Episcopal churches, including Grace, the Church of the Holy Cross, St. Stephen's and the Church of the Heavenly Rest, special services are being held. Services were held both this morning and this afternoon at all of these churches. This evening there will be a service at Grace church at 7:30 o'clock and at the Church of the Holy Cross at 7:45. The Gloria Patria is omitted on this day in the Episcopal churches. At the German Lutheran church there will be a special service at 7:30 o'clock.

The interior of the sacred edifices will present a sombre appearance tomorrow. In both the Episcopal and Roman Catholic churches everything is removed from the altar with the exception of the cross or crucifix as the case may be. These are veiled in black material, as is any crucifix about the body of the church. There will be no music of any kind at the services for everything is stilled. In neither church is there a celebration of the Holy Eucharist.

Probably the most unique service in this part of the country is the union meeting, which is held annually by the various denominations. There is always a great outpouring of church people of all faiths to attend this service, in which the various ministers officiate. Denominational ties are severed for the time being and the united devotions of Christian people is an inspiring incident of the year in this city. Last year the services was held in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church and that large edifice was crowded to the doors.

Tomorrow evening it will be held at Trinity Reformed church. The time is 7:30 o'clock. As is the established custom the service will include short addresses on Meditations on Words from the Cross.

The order for this occasion will be as follows:

First word, "Father, forgive them; for they know what they do," Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass; second word "Verily, I say unto thee; today shalt thou be with Me in Paradise," Rev. L. R. Howard; third word, "Behold thy Son; behold thy Mother," Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards; fourth word, "My God, my God, why hast Thou forsaken me," Rev. C. L. Goodrich; fifth word, "I thirst," Rev. E. M. Rodman; sixth word, "It is finished," Rev. J. McMurray; seventh word, "Father, into Thy hand I commend my Spirit," Rev. C. E. Herring.

The service will conclude with silent prayer, an offering for the Children's Home and the benediction.

The mass of the pre-sanctified will be said at St. Mary's R. C. church at

MRS. HARRIS SPOKE.

Told of Great Work of Modern Missions at Mid-Week Service.

At the mid-week prayer-meeting in the First Baptist church, last evening, Mrs. Robert Harris, of New York, who addressed the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society in the afternoon, spoke at the conclusion of the business meeting. She told briefly of the great work of modern missions and referred especially to the work being done by Miss Julia Shinn, at one time associated with the First Baptist church.

Mrs. Harris gave a short account of Dr. Clough's work among the Telugus. While there she saw four hundred persons baptized. All who heard Mrs. Harris were intensely interested in her story and all secured a much better idea of foreign mission work.

MASTER BUILDERS' ACTION

WILL SUPPORT PLUMBER ARMSTRONG IN STRIKE TROUBLE.

Passed Resolution Concerning A. A. Stryker's Course—Plumbers to Consider Case Next.

The Master Builders' Association met last evening and discussed several matters pertaining to the interests of the members. The recent trouble at the silk mill was referred to and the association unanimously gave its support to Michael Armstrong, the plumber, against whom the carpenters have been fighting.

In view of this trouble a resolution was adopted unanimously that in the future no contractor should take his men off a job, where there is a strike, and put them on another job until the trouble is adjusted, and no other contractor shall engage striking mechanics until their differences are settled. A. A. Stryker, the contracting carpenter on the silk mill, put his men to work elsewhere after they struck and it was this action that led to the adoption of the resolution.

After this meeting the Master Plumbers' Association met and at the request of the Journeymen Plumbers' Association, appointed a committee, consisting of George J. Tobin, C. W. Krausse and D. W. Littell, to meet with a committee of three from the Journeyman's Association, at which time Mr. Armstrong's case will be considered. This meeting will be held this afternoon.

GAVE A DRAMA.

Then Bethel Chapel Endeavorers Served Refreshments in Boxes.

A lunch box sociable was an enjoyable affair given under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of Bethel chapel, last evening. The exercises were in charge of the organization's president, Charles E. VanHorn.

A drama entitled "The Glass Man" was the feature. The cast consisted of Charles VanHorn, Edwin T. James, Simon P. Robinson, William A. Smith, Oliver Marcellus and John F. Cook. Several musical numbers and also an essay by Miss Ella Robinson were given.

At the close of the exercises lunches in neat boxes were served. The committee on refreshments consisted of Abram Brown and Miss Eubemia Dorsey.

WITNESSES LACKING.

So the Hearing of Boy Charged With Stealing Pipe Was Postponed.

In order to obtain a number of witnesses, the case against Edward Marcellus, Jr., charged with stealing lead pipe from the Olympia building, was continued by Justice Nash, this morning, until tomorrow morning at 9:30.

Asa Collier, who preferred the complaint, had no witnesses of his own but Chief Kiely declared he had the names of six boys who were about the place at the time the theft was committed.

Marcellus claimed his companions had taken billiard cues and other articles from the building and the pipe he had was lying on the street.

STARTS WORK IN MAY.

W. S. Butterfield in Town to Look After His New Theatre.

Walter S. Butterfield, the proprietor of the new theatre, which will be opened in the fall, spent yesterday afternoon in this city. He came here to attend to legal matters connected with his theatrical venture and spent some time making arrangements preparatory to the making of the necessary alterations. He proposes to start operations in May so that the theatre may be in readiness for the opening in the fall.

TENNIS SEASON WILL OPEN HERE SATURDAY

Park Club Courts Will Open for Play Saturday—Other Clubs are Getting Ready.

BUSY SEASON AHEAD.

TENNIS PROMISES TO BE MORE POPULAR THIS SUMMER THAN BEFORE.

Hillside Club Will Soon be Ready for Tennis Enthusiasts—Cedar Brook Club Will Continue Its Successful Career.

Even the wonderful renewal of interest in baseball among the Plainfield enthusiasts has not overshadowed the return to popularity of the game of lawn tennis. There is every prospect that the game will be more popular in Plainfield this summer than ever before, even in the days of the old Hillside Tennis Club, before golf had made its appearance. The early arrival of spring has added zeal in behalf of the fascinating game and the local clubs are hurrying their preparations so as to open their courts for play in the very near future.

During the winter, there was some talk of the Park Golf Club taking up the game of tennis as well as golf but it was decided to leave the former to the Park Club which already has several courts. As the membership of the two clubs includes many of the same people, it was not deemed advisible to attempt the same attractions at the two club.

The Park Club has been planning for a vigorous campaign in behalf of tennis and is now preparing to open its courts Saturday, weather permitting. The tennis committee of the club, which is composed of Wallace Guilford, chairman, Charles Dupee and Samuel Townsend, has just issued a circular to the members announcing plans for the season. Special attention is to be paid to the social element of the game.

According to the circular, the grounds will be opened for play Saturday. There will be a small charge to members for use of the courts during the season. A handicap tournament will start May 17. Entries for it will close May 15. Full details will be announced later. A series of interclub contests to decide the local championships is proposed. Members of the Park Club are requested to begin systematic practice at once in order to be in condition for them. Teas will be held every Saturday afternoon and on every holiday. Other attractive features will be announced later in the season.

Work has already started on the courts at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club which will, this year, carry out its name by supporting both games. These courts, it is expected, will be ready for use in the course of two weeks. The tennis committee, of that club, is already considering plans for the season.

The Cedar Brook Tennis Club will continue its career, so successfully begun last season. Its two courts, located on LaGrande avenue, will be ready for use before the middle of April and May will probably see the beginning of a series of club events. The club has an unusual number of strong players and will have a team ready to contest for the local championship.

Then there are a number of private courts which will be smaller centres of attraction as soon as they are opened.

IN A BRAWL.

Michael Kiely Claims That John Mooney Assaulted Him.

John Mooney, a bartender employed by M. F. Watson, is being tried on a charge of assault, before Justice Hand, this afternoon, on complaint of Michael Kiely. The complainant alleges that in a brawl, which took place on Grant avenue, recently, Mooney pummeled him to such an extent that he was forced to secure the services of a physician. Kiely was arrested at the time and will be tried before City Judge Runyon, Saturday morning.

Borough Schools Close Today.

The borough public schools close today for the Easter holidays. A special service was held in the High School yesterday and it consisted of Easter music, rendered under the direction of Professor C. L. Lewis. The Story of Calvary was sung.

—Alex Martin, of East Sixth street, has resigned his position with the local street railway company.

ANNEXATION BILL PASSED

The Assembly Accepted the Amended Measure by a Vote of Thirty-Four to Twenty.

NEWCORN LED FIGHT.

Assemblymen From Mercer and Somerset Spoke Against the Bill, But Without Avail—Motion to Lay on the Table Was Defeated by One Vote—Ready to Sign.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, March 27—A flat failure was the result of the misguided efforts to defeat annexation and consolidation. The annexation measure of the Greater Plainfield bills came up in amended form in the lower house yesterday and was passed after a fight to kill it. The bill, which had been sent back with a referendum attached by the Senate, was expected to come up Monday, but it was delayed by the rush of business. When it was brought before the chamber yesterday afternoon it went through in a jiffy.

Assemblyman Hoagland, of Somerset county, who has taken the opportunity to attempt to advance his political aspirations by opposing the measures on behalf of his constituents in the agricultural districts of Somerset county, led the fight against the annexation bill. He first attempted to block the introduction of the measure, when proposed by Assemblyman Newcorn, of Union county. He was repulsed, the vote on his motion to table Mr. Newcorn's motion to consider being lost seventeen to eighteen.

Quickly Mr. Newcorn took the floor and explained the intention of the amendment asking for its adoption. As soon as he had made clear to his collegues the purpose of the measure, the aspect for the success of the measure was brighter. Assemblyman Leavitt, of Mercer county, in opposing the bill, brought laughs by a weired allegation that it was a Democratic campaign document. The deluded legislator did not know that the Republican administration of North Plainfield is foremost in the advocacy of annexation. Assemblyman Hoagland relieved himself by recounting his favorite story of how the bills got into the Senate.

Not much stock was placed in the remarks of the opposition and the result of the vote was a pronounced victory. It was 34 to 20 in favor of the measure. The boasts and threats of the handful of boroughites and the citizens of the upper end of Somerset county went for naught.

The bills are now awaiting the signature of the Governor, which is assured.

SAFE WORKS PLANS.

Adopted Uniforms, Secured Grounds and Making Other Baseball Plans.

At a meeting of the officials of the proposed Safe Works baseball team, held Tuesday noon, it was decided to equip the players with gray uniforms, trimmed in black. The suits have been ordered and will be delivered next week.

Manager Muir has not yet settled upon the exact team but expects to at Saturday's practice game. It is a certainty, however, that James Montross, although an employe of the works, will not be retained as pitcher. He has decided to remain with the Hope team on which he has played for the past two seasons.

The grounds at the corner of South Second street and Clinton avenue have been obtained and will be the home diamond of the team.

Music Was the Feature.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Warneck, of Duer street, observed the eighth anniversary of their wedding Monday evening, at which time a number of friends called to offer congratulations. A programme of music, together with a bountiful repast helped to pass a pleasant evening.

Received Check.

Woodhull & Martin received from the British American Assurance Company, through the agency of Wm. H. Abbott, the first check in full settlement of their claim of loss which occurred March 6.

Easter Vacation Begun.

The Seminary closed today for the Easter vacation. It will be reopened a week from Monday, April 7.

MORE PEOPLE ATTENDED THAN EVER BEFORE

Great Showing Made by Sunday-School of First M. E. Church During Last Year.

WHAT HAS BEEN DONE.

THE FINANCIAL CONDITION OF THE SCHOOL IS VERY SATISFACTORY.

The Annual Meeting of the Sunday-School Board Was Held Last Evening—Old Officers Elected and Reports Were Received.

In a comparatively short space of time much important business was transacted at the annual meeting of the Sunday-school Board of the First Methodist Episcopal church, last evening. The session was held in Vincent chapel and there was a large and enthusiastic attendance of those interested in the work.

Superintendent James R. Joy, in reviewing the year's work, mentioned the fact that the attendance had now reached the highest point recorded since 1894. Within the past twelve months a flourishing kindergarten section had been added to the school. It contains thirty pupils and the organization of the school is now complete. A teacher's weekly meeting for the study of the lesson has been inaugurated and satisfactory progress has been made along all lines of work. The rapid growth of the school was strikingly illustrated by the secretary's chart. On this the attendance for the last two yeras was represented by lines which explain themselves, as is shown in the design reproduced on the fifth page.

The school enrollment is now 436, said the superintendent, and the average attendance is 185, a gain of ten per cent. since the last report made. Omitting the three summer months, when many of the pupils are absent, the average attendance is 196.

It was shown by the annual report of the treasurer that the receipts were $436.12 and the disbursements $371.62, which leaves a balance on hand amounting to $64.50. For missions the full amount pledged, namely $250, was met and a special sum of $25 was raised toward a fund for furnishing the "Plainfield Room" in the mission station at Garraway, West Africa.

According to the report the library is in good condition and is well patronized. The number of volumes added during the past year was fifty. It was decided to add a sum not exceeding $25 to the organization's contribution of $250 plus $25 towards the missionary fund if the officers of the missionary society and the superintendent of the school should deem it expedient.

A motion was passed to invite the members of the other M. E. Sunday-schools in the city and borough to participate in the annual excursion. This affair will take place Wednesday, August 6, in all probability. Samuel Bingaman is the chairman of the excursion committee.

The officers for the ensuing year are: Superintendent, James R. Joy; secretary, James A. Stafford; treasurer, Arthur E. Crone; librarian, T. H. Stafford. Officers of the missionary society: President, J. M. Derby; vice president, Samuel Bingaman; secretary and treasurer, A. E. Crone. Rev. Dr. Snodgrass presided over the meeting while the elections were being held.

Y. M. C. A. PLAYERS MET.

To Give Captain McLaughlin a Chance to Look Over Material.

A meeting of the candidates for positions in the Y. M. C. A. baseball team was held in the association parlors, last evening, mainly for the purpose of giving Captain McLaughlin an opportunity to know the advantageous points of the men. The formation of the team was the chief topic for discussion and assisted the officials greatly. Practice games will attest to what the applicants claimed.

It was decided to adopt a team uniform of blue-gray with black stockings.

Danced Hours Away.

Miss Eva Doeringer, of Vine street, entertained two score friends at her home last evening. Dancing was the feature of the affair. Refreshments were served after midnight.

Quarantine Removed.

The quarantine on the house of Julius Stephany, of Summit avenue, has been raised by Health Inspector Pangborn. A young son has recovered from scarlet fever.

ST. MARY'S LINEUP.

Men Selected Who Will Represent That Team on the Diamond.

Following is the complete St. Mary baseball team as definitely decided upon at a recent session of the management: Catcher, Joseph Barry; pitchers, Lawrence Doyle, Thomas Keefe and Richard Scott; first base, Fred Winn; second base, Richard Scott; third base and captain, George Keene; shortstop, Thomas Mack; right field, Harry Shannon; center field, Robert Angleman; left field, George Taylor.

This is the same as last year's team with the exception of Scott, who succeeds John Madden. The out of town games to be played between league contests are now being booked by Thomas Comerford and Manager Monahan.

CLERKS WERE ENTERTAINED

PLEASANT GATHERING AT THE HOME OF FLOYD T. WOODHULL.

Young Women Employed at Woodhull & Martin's Store Were the Guests.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd T. Woodhull, of West Front street, was the scene of an enjoyable gathering last evening, when the women employed at the store of Woodhull & Martin were entertained at dinner. All but two were present, and one of the absent ones was detained by illness and the other by company from out of town.

The dining room was beautifully decorated for the occasion with smilax and carnations. Dinner was served at 7 o'clock. After the dinner a social time followed, during which there were vocal solos by E. C. Martin and piano solos by Miss Florence Thompson. Games were also played.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Floyd T. Woodhull, Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Martin, the Misses Stella Apgar, Edith Lacey, Eva Lance, Sarah Carney, Annie Kelly, Florence Thompson, Ada Nash, Katy Bodine, Cora Young, Agnes Bailey, Ella Mullen, Bessie Ross, May Day, Edith Huff, Lizzie Wilcox, Miriam Wilcox, Bertha Wilcox, Agnes Morse, Minnie Wyman, Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. Gunigan, also Edson and LeRoy Woodhull.

CONSHEE NOT BURIED.

The Newly-Dug Grave Was Found Filled With Water.

The funeral of Frank Conshee was held from the residence of his daughter, Mrs. George Giddis, of Duer street, yesterday afternoon. The interment was to have been made in the family plot at St. Mary's cemetery. Owing to the fact that there was a quantity of water in the newly dug grave the remains were returned to the morgue of H. DeMott. The interment will be made at the convenience of the family.

ENJOYING INHERITANCE.

Emil Walters Has Gone Away on Sudden Wealth Left by an Uncle.

Emil Walters, a young German who has been employed for some time past at the Plainfield Hotel, has come into sudden wealth through the death of an uncle. He received word Sunday that by the terms of his relative's will he inherited $500. The young man left for New York to claim the amount and telephoned back that he was going to take a long vacation.

Why Postponed.

The postponement of the second of series of the Camera Club lectures of Dr. Julia M. Carman to Thursday evening, April 10, is on account of the union Communion service in the First Presbyterian church this evening. The lecture when delivered will take in lower Egypt and Palestine.

To Enter House of Good Shepherd.

Evelyn O'Neill was arrested yesterday. Following a conference today with Chief Kiely, City Judge Runyon and a local clergyman, she consented to enter the House of the Good Shepherd at Newark. She will be placed there for one year.

Mrs. Firstbrook's Funeral.

Funeral services over the remains of Mrs. Cora Scull Firstbook, who died in Muhlenberg hospital, yesterday, will be held from her late residence on West Fifth street, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Interment will be in Evergreen cemetery.

Back Again.

Wm. Perrine, a frequent visitor in the city court, was brought in this morning by Patrolman Lunger, who found him helplessly drunk on Watchung avenue, yesterday afternoon. He accepted twenty days at Elizabeth instead of paying $5.

TWENTY-NINE YEARS OF MISSION EFFORT

Annual Meeting of Women's Foreign Missionary Society of First Baptist Church.

A MISSION ADDRESS.

MRS. HARRIS TOLD OF WORK DONE IN CHINA AND INDIA.

Interesting and Satisfactory Reports Presented by the Various Officers—The Society is in Good Condition.

The twenty ninth annual meeting of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society, of the First Baptist church, was held yesterday afternoon, when reports of the past year's work were received and a talk was given by a returned missionary. There was a large attendance of members of this society and the Young Ladies' Missionary Society, as well as friends.

Mrs. Reuben Knox, as president of the society, was in charge of the meeting, which was opened with devotional exercises. These included a prayer by Mrs. Wyckoff, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, and a soprano solo by Mrs. Robert Giddis.

Mrs. B. J. Shreve, as secretary of the society, presented a most helpful report for the past year. She told of the literary conferences held as stated intervals, when the mission work in the various countries was considered. Papers were presented telling of the condition of the people and showing the progress made. Mrs. Shreve reported a membership of 118 and a life membership of 82. There was an average attendance of seventeen at the meeting.

Miss Ida Yerkes, treasurer, reported collections for the year to be $487.28. This sum together with the amount received at the meeting brings the total sum up to $500. There was distributed $485.

Miss Edith Cairns, as secretary for the Young Ladies' Missionary Society, presented her report. This was given recently at the society's meeting and published at the time. Miss Sue Woodland, for Miss Bertha Thorn, as treasurer, reported receipts for the year to be $231.76 and disbursements the same amount. The society was able to keep its pledge of $100 promised to the foreign missionary society.

Mrs. Harris, of New York, who recently returned from an extended missionary tour, was present and gave a deeply interesting talk of her trip. While away she visited the chief mission stations in the various countries abroad. She was in Japan when China was having trouble with the Boxers. She made her headquarters at Yokohoma at this time and made short trips to the various stations.

The speaker told of the work in Burmah, Rangoon and India. In each of these places she visited the principal stations, and when it was impossible to reach certain stations the missionaries would come to where she was stopping. Mrs. Harris told of her meeting of Miss Shinn and Miss Faye, both of whom are known in Plainfield and are now working in India. The work is carried on by the missionaries, and includes the work in the schools and mission chapels. Throughout her talk, Mrs. Harris held the closest attention of everyone and at the close many remained to talk to her personally.

After the talk, Mrs. Giddis sang another solo, and the meeting closed in the usual manner. Tea was then served and a social time had, during which many examined a number of pictures showing various mission stations.

At the tea Mrs. Frank Jones poured and those who served were Miss Pauline Denton, Miss Grace Yerkes, Miss Sue Woodland and Miss Edith Cairns, of the Young Ladies' Missionary Society.

Visited the Assembly.

Former Assemblyman J. W. Yates, of East Seventh street, went to Trenton, yesterday, and visited the lower house of the Legislature. His presence was the occasion for a cordial reception. The Speaker of the Assembly extended to Mr. Yates the use of the floor. As he accepted the courtesy the members greeted the former member with hearty applause. The honor bestowed was greatly appreciated by Mr. Yates.

City's Safes Removed.

All of the city's safes have been removed from the Coward building on Park avenue and taken to the Smalley building, where the new city offices are located.

—Mr. and Mrs. Hinman, of West Front street, will take up their residence in Brooklyn next week.

Could Not Breathe.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The editors of the Passaic papers, who have been appointed as a committee by the Board of Trade to give publicity to news that will promote the moral, intellectual and material welfare of the city, have appealed to the public to give them facts on which to work. If they had asked the city councilmen to pass the new ordinance regulating the sale of liquor, it would have been more to the point.—Newark News.

The "Unionist-Gazette," of Somerville, says that everyone in Somerset county is opposed to the annexation of North Plainfield with Plainfield except the people of North Plainfield. Well, is not that sufficient reason for the annexation? If the people of North Plainfield desire to unite their fortunes with those of Plainfield, why should they not be allowed to do so? Are they to be kept prisoners in Somerset county when they want to shake the dust of Somerset county from their feet? We suppose they must, because Somerset county would lose a few Republican voters.—Hunterdon County Democrat.

Up in Somerset county there is a strong conviction that the ultimate object and end of the annexation of North Plainfield to Plainfield is the formation of a new county with Plainfield as the county seat. This idea is not a new one, but has recently received new vitality. According to the latest phase of the matter, the new county is to consist of the greater city of Plainfield, the townships and boroughs of New Providence and Fanwood from Union county, a portion of Middlesex county, including Dunellen, and a part of Somerset county. This would make a small county, which would be dominated by the greater city of Plainfield. It would have to build a court house, jail, surrogate's office and county clerk's office, and these would cost considerable money. It is not at all likely that any such scheme is seriously considered at this time. It is rather an outgrowth of the Somerset imagination, caused by the proposition to annex North Plainfield to Union county.—Elizabeth Journal.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—Somerset Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet tomorrow evening, when matters of importance will be considered.

—Wetumpkah Tribe. No. 229, Improved Order Red Men, held its last meeting in the Stillman building last evening. The next meeting will be in the Coward building.

—A number of Plainfielders will go to Westfield next week to hear a lecture to be given by Mrs. Monfort, a native of Palestine. Mrs. Montfort appeared in this city several months ago.

—Stephen Krom and daughter, Miss Stephanie Krom, of Madison avenue, will give up their present place of residence soon and board at Mrs. Truell's, on Central avenue.

—The Woman's Auxiliary to the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital will hold its regular meeting Friday morning, April 4, on account of tomorrow being Good Friday.

—James Slorah has resigned his position at the Pond Tool Works and will leave next week for Cleveland, O. He will remain there a short time, after which he will proceed to St. Louis, where an excellent position is awaiting him at the Exposition grounds.

OLD GUIDE GONE.

A Familiar Figure at Lake Hopatcong Has Disappeared.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Lake Hopatcong, March 27—George Decker, one of the best known guides at this place, and who will be recalled by many Plainfielders, recently lost his life while fishing. He was one of the most interesting characters in this vicinity and possessed a wide knowledge of nature. As a fisherman and swimmer he achieved a reputation. For many years he has been the guide, philosopher and friend of H. P. Frothingham, the present head of the New Jersey fish and game commission.

McAll Auxiliary Meeting.

The deferred regular annual meeting of the McAll Auxiliary will be held at the Public Library Wednesday morning, April 2, at 11 o'clock. There will be an executive committee meeting afterward. It is requested that the women managers endeavor to be present.

Surgeon's Knife Not Needed.

GUILTY THE VERDICT

Jury Convicts Patrick of Murder of Millionaire Rice.

AFFECTING SCENES IN COURTROOM.

Great Trial Has Occupied Nine Weeks and Has Cost New York County $250,000—Appeal Certain to Be Made.

NEW YORK, March 27.—Albert T. Patrick stands convicted of the murder of the aged millionaire William Marsh Rice. After four hours of deliberation the jury, which listened to testimony for forty-four days, at a quarter after 6 o'clock last evening told him his doom.

Self possessed and calm as ever, the prisoner did not flinch as the foreman answered, "Guilty." Recorder Goff announced that he would postpone imposing sentence until a week from next Monday.

Though all women had been ordered from the courtroom when the jury came in, Patrick's sister Emma and Mrs. Francis, with whom he boarded, were in an anteroom adjoining the entrance. No sooner was the verdict announced than they broke out in hysterical sobs.

After the convicted man had been taken back to the Tombs to await sentence Mrs. Francis rushed out to the railing where Patrick had stood while hearing his fate. As though mad she flung herself down on the floor. Then Miss Patrick rushed in, weeping pitiably.

Messengers were sent to the coroner's office for a physician, but none was there, and smelling salts were brought. After some minutes the women were revived and were taken from the criminal court building.

No less keen was the anguish of the aged father, Captain Patrick. His eyes filled with tears, he attempted to follow his son through the corridor leading to the Tombs. Never allowing his eyes to wander from his son's figure, he tottered into the arms of court officers, who gently remonstrated with him and led him to a seat.

THE RECORDER'S CHARGE.

Over three hours were consumed by the court in charging the jury and considering requests of charge made by counsel.

The recorder in his charge reviewed the whole evidence in the case and expounded the law applicable to it. Among the points which he insisted upon were these:

Patrick's failure to go on the stand was not to be counted against him.

Personality of counsel was not to be regarded.

The jury must find to convict that chloroform was administered by Jones, that Rice died as a result and of no other cause and that Patrick conspired in the murder.

The fact of forgery if proved was not to be taken as proof of murder.

The autopsy showed that Rice had died of an irritant gas, and chloroform is an irritant.

Jones, though a confessed murderer and perjurer, is not an incompetent witness.

The trial has covered in all sixty-six days or forty-four court days. Eighty-six witnesses have been called by the prosecution and sixteen by the defense. Assistant District Attorney Osborne has put in evidence 204 exhibits, while Patrick's counsel have shown but thirty-four. About 5,000 pages of testimony have been taken, making the total number of words over 1,300,000. The nine weeks of the trial have cost the country over $250,000, while the expenses of the defense, exclusive of counsel fees, has been about $25,000.

Mr. Moore when seen after the verdict was announced said:

"I am greatly surprised and disappointed at the verdict. In my opinion it was against the weight of evidence, and I am confident the verdict will never stand. We will of course appeal. We have not formed definite plans as yet, but the time given us by the recorder will enable us to do so."

Mr. Osborne was congratulated by several lawyers on the great fight he had won.

Princeton Won Debate.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., March 27.—Princeton won the eighth annual debate against Harvard last night in Sander's theater on the question, "Resolved, That Mayor Low should strictly enforce the excise laws in New York city." The decision of the judges was unanimous, and they were out only two minutes. This is Princeton's first victory in eight years of debating with Harvard.

Death In a Prairie Fire.

ANADARKO, Okla., March 27.—A destructive prairie fire has been burning about twelve miles southeast of here. Mrs. Hattie Hand, with her two small children, started to a neighbor's house to be in a safer place. They were overtaken and burned to death. The house which Mrs. Hand and her children deserted had a fire guard plowed around it and was not touched.

Governor Hemming to Visit Wood.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., March 27.—John Kable, a retired farmer, aged eighty-eight, committed suicide by drowning in a mill flume near Redwood. No cause is assigned for the deed.

CECIL RHODES DEAD

Famous British Statesman Yields to Long Illness.

A PUBLIC FUNERAL AT CAPE TOWN

Son of a Clergyman. He Became Premier of South Africa, "Diamond King" and Many Times a Millionaire.

CAPE TOWN, March 27.—The death of Cecil Rhodes, which occurred at 5:57 last evening, removes the man on whom his enemies have laid the blame of the present South African war. He certainly was intensely hated by the Boers.

Mr. Rhodes had been ill for some time from angina pectoris and had consulted many eminent specialists. His heart was enlarged and was encroaching on the lung space. Oxygen was latterly administered to keep him alive.

His death had been momentarily expected. Whether it was due to his experiences during the long siege of Kimberley or the accumulated anxieties regarding the war in South Africa, with an accompanying change of public feeling in England toward him, there is no doubt he was almost completely broken down within the last two years. Even his appearance changed. His once finely chiseled face had become bloated, and his always huge frame filled out until the "Colossus" became so stout as to make walking a matter of difficulty.

The body will be taken to Grooteschuur, the residence of the deceased near Cape Town, on a special train today. There it will probably lie in state for a day or two, and the public will be admitted to view the remains.

The government has decided to give Cecil Rhodes a public funeral. His remains will be brought here from Grootteschuur for the burial service, which will be held in the cathedral. The body will then be taken back to Grootteschuur and will eventually be interred at Matoppo Hills.

By the death of Cecil Rhodes Great Britain loses one of the most interesting characters in her history. Statesman, politician and successful business man, he became at once admired and feared for his abilities.

The greater part of Rhodes' success was won in South Africa. Here he became known as "the diamond king" and reached the pinnacle of political fame, the premiership of the Cape government.

To Rhodes' genius was due the extension of the British empire in South Africa. It was his dream to see Britain control all of South Africa.

His experiences during the Boer war read like a page from a historical novel. He was in Kimberley during the long siege by the Boers. So hated was he by the native Transvaal and Cape authorities that a price of £5,000 was placed on his head.

Rhodes was born in 1853. He was the son of the late Rev. Francis W. Rhodes, rector of Bishop Stortford. He entered Oriel college, Oxford, in 1872, but his health gave out, and he went to South Africa. He went back to Oxford in 1876 and oscillated between Kimberley and Oxford until 1881, when he obtained his degree.

After graduating Rhodes returned to South Africa, where he was elected to the Cape legislative assembly. He became a fast friend of General Gordon, who, when he went to Khartum, asked Rhodes to accompany him. Rhodes refused, however, accepting the treasurer generalship.

Rhodes successively held the positions of treasurer general of Cape Colony, 1884; deputy commissioner of Bechuanaland, 1884-85; premier of Cape Colony, 1890-94; minister of native affairs, 1894-96, and in the latter year served in Matabeleland.

In 1889 he was elected director of the British South Africa company, whose charter was granted mainly through his efforts, and soon rose to the chairmanship of the board, which he held until 1896. He was also at one time director of the De Beers mines.

Rhodes' recreations consisted of reading, the collection of old furniture and curios generally.

It was Rhodes who engineered the Jameson raid against the Boers, which resulted so disastrously for Britain. For this the wrath of the British people and the execration of the civilized world were brought down upon his head.

Rhodes for many years had been a millionaire several times over. He was never married.

A WONDERFUL CAREER.

Estimate of Mr. Rhodes' Lifework by One Who Knew Him Well.

NEW YORK, March 27.—John Hays Hammond, who was for many years and up to the time of the death of Cecil Rhodes intimately associated with him in the development of South Africa as consulting engineer of the British South Africa Chartered company and the Consolidated Goldfields of South Africa, in which Mr. Rhodes held important interests, had this to say of Mr. Rhodes:

"Mr. Rhodes, whose sun went down when it was yet day, dies in the forty-ninth year of his age. He leaves no posterity, but leaves his name on the map of Africa (Rhodesia) sponsor for a commonwealth nearly as large as our western states. Had he lived he would have devoted the remaining years of his life and would have spent every dollar of his fortune in equipping that commonwealth. That is a fine ambition and a good life's work to reclaim a vast region occupied for centuries by predatory blacks and give to that country a social and political system, railways, telegraphs, towns and to run up there the flag of his nation.

"Unfortunately his character has been misunderstood in America. Judged by American standards, Mr. Rhodes was truly a great man. He was not only a great empire builder, but also a captain of industry, in which capacity he commands a higher regard among Americans than among other peoples. He is often represented as a shifty, unscrupulous financier, in league with capitalists to coax the Transvaal into a hopeless war in order to steal the mines of the country. He is also often represented as giving his entire life to the amassing of large wealth and ready to employ the most unscrupulous methods to that end. But by even the most bitter of his enemies conversant with the facts such allegations are repudiated.

"The truth is that Rhodes cared little for money beyond the power it gave him to assist in the development of South Africa. His personal wants were few. He had undoubtedly a great faculty for making money, but greater still for judiciously expending it. From a most intimate connection with him in his business enterprises I am able to state that his methods of finance were not only scrupulously honorable, but were characterized by unusual liberality. He was known to South Africans as a man of unbounded generosity and one on whom they could depend for the furtherance of any deserving local enterprise or worthy charity.

"Personally Mr. Rhodes was democratic in his tastes and a colonial in his political and social bias. He was fond of the simpler and better pleasures of life, devoted especially to out of door life on the veldt and had a contempt for and dislike of social conventionalities. He was a man of innate refinement and culture, a graduate of Oxford, having returned to England from South Africa to complete his education. Rhodes had an indomitable spirit and dogged perseverance. He was imaginative, but was not a mere visionary, since he had the rare power of materializing his visions.

"Rhodes had his defects and faults, but these will not obscure the glory of his name. Great men, it is said, are made of faults. Of one thing there can be no doubt, that Rhodes' ideals were pure and lofty, and I believe that history will deal rather with his ideals than with his achievements and methods and that he will therefore rank high among the great men of the nineteenth century."

Governor Taft Gaining.

CINCINNATI, March 27.—Hon. William H. Taft, governor of the Philippines, has now been two weeks in a hospital in Cincinnati recovering from a surgical operation supplementary to the one he underwent at Manila. His general condition is excellent, and, though he is naturally chafing somewhat at his enforced confinement, he has the assurance from the surgeon in charge that he will be able to leave the hospital in ten days or two weeks.

Called to Oberlin.

OBERLIN, O., March 27.—Dr. Julius Bewer, now assistant pastor of the Central Congregational church, Providence, R. I., has been chosen to fill the chair of Old Testament language and literature of Oberlin Theological seminary. Dr. Bewer was graduated from the Royal gymnasium, Dusseldorf, Germany, in 1885 and from Union seminary, New York city, in 1898.

Accidental Shooting.

SCHENECTADY, N. Y., March 27.—Charles Kelly, a fourteen-year-old boy, was last night accidentally shot in the abdomen by a bullet from a rifle which went off as it was dropped on the ground by Deforest Mable, a boy companion. Kelly is in a precarious condition.

A Chance For Inventors.

BERLIN, March 27.—The ministries of war and agriculture publish an offer for first, second and third prizes of 10,000 marks, 5,000 marks and 2,500 marks respectively, for the best alcohol motors for military usages. These motors must be made in Germany.

WOULD CHANGE CONSTITUTION.

Amendment Proposed Favoring Canal Legislation Next Year.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 27.—Senator Hill of Erie county has introduced a concurrent resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution that suggests an effort to be made for canal improvement next year.

It provides for extending the time for the payment of the canal debt from eighteen years to thirty-five years and eliminates from the constitution the clause which prohibits the submission to the people of a proposition for the improvement of the canals at the same time that a constitutional amendment is submitted.

The object in extending the time for the payment of the canal debt is to lessen the burden of annual payments. The object of the second amendment is to prevent the passage of a concurrent resolution by any legislature from shutting off the presentation of a canal referendum bill to the people the same year.

The bill was referred to the judiciary committee and will be reported favorably today. Governor Odell has expressed himself as favoring the resolution and it is expected that it will be passed.

The representatives of the commercial bodies in New York and Buffalo favoring the Davis canal bill worked all day in their efforts to have the committee on rules of the assembly place this bill on the assembly calendar for today. They had a formal demand made in writing by Senator Davis and a number of assemblymen upon that committee. The demand was ignored.

The senate before it adjourned last evening cleared the calendar of a great number of bills.

FUNSTON RESENTS.

Eastern Newspapers Denounced For Their Criticism of His Speech.

TOPEKA, Kan., March 27.—General Frederick Funston is in this city on his way to California. General Funston delivered himself of a scathing denunciation of the eastern newspapers which criticised his speech before the Lotus club in New York. He said:

"I have been nagged by that class of papers until I am tired. Editorially they willfully misinterpret my remarks, and I am glad to express my independence of their opinions and their talk and that of their kind about using dishonorable and unfair means in the capture of Aguinaldo; also that I violated the articles of war. They know a great deal more about the articles of golf than they do about the articles of war. Everything is permissible in a campaign except the use of poison or the violation of a flag of truce.

"As a matter of fact, only four of my men on the expedition were dressed in the insurgent uniform. The others were dressed as Filipino peasants.

"President Roosevelt approved heartily of my remarks before the Lotus club banquet and was very anxious to have me go to Boston on the invitation of Senator Lodge and make the same speech there, but my orders were such that it was impossible for me to go."

Reciprocity's Chances.

WASHINGTON, March 27. — The statement is made in a quarter having unusual facilities for knowing the facts that the Cuban reciprocity measure as agreed upon by the recent Republican conference will have enough Republican votes in the ways and means committee to assure its being reported without the assistance of any Democratic votes. This is directly contrary to the generally understood situation in the committee, but the source of the information is such as to warrant the belief that the bill will be reported by Republican votes.

A Wool Growers' Trust.

SALT LAKE CITY, March 27.—According to The Herald, a wool growers' trust is being organized throughout the west. Already, it is stated, seventy of the leading sheep men of Utah have gone into the organization, while many of the principal wool growers in Oregon, Nevada and Idaho have also joined forces with the new organization. Abolition of the middlemen's profit and the saving to the wool grower is stated to be the object of the new association.

An Alabama Race Riot.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 27.—A special to The Age-Herald from Jasper, Ala., says information has just been received there of a race riot twelve miles east of Jasper. One hundred and fifty shots are reported to have been exchanged, but the casualties cannot be ascertained at this hour. A farmer named Murray came in about 7 o'clock for ammunition and has returned. Sheriff Moore has asked Governor Jelks to call out the local militia company.

Wonderful Gold Nugget.

GUTHRIE, Okla., March 27.—Great excitement has been caused at Lawton by the unearthing by miners in the Wichita mountains of an eighty-five pound nugget 83 per cent pure gold. It was found in Devil's canyon, the location of one of the ancient Spanish mines, where many crucibles have been unearthed recently.

IMPORTANT CAPTURE

And Even He May Have Been Taken In Disguise by Lieutenant Bamford—More Cholera Cases at Manila.

MANILA, March 27.—Noriel, the only insurgent general, with the exception of Malvar, still in the field, has been captured by Lieutenant Frank E. Bamford of the Twenty-eighth infantry.

A major, a captain, a lieutenant and five men, who were acting as a bodyguard to Noriel, were captured with him. They have all been held as prisoners of war. There is some reason to believe that one member of this bodyguard is General Malvar in disguise. Lieutenant Bamford is certain that if this general is not one of the captured party then he is in the immediate neighborhood of the scene of Noriel's capture.

Noriel has been one of the recognized leaders of the insurrection since 1899. He was captured on his way to the coast while endeavoring to escape. He admits that the insurrection, as such, is over and says that the few remaining leaders are fleeing, as they do not command enough men to warrant surrenders commensurate with their rank.

The continuation of the trial by court martial of Major L. W. T. Waller of the marine corps, who is charged with the execution, without trial, of natives on Samar island, developed no new features.

At noon yesterday the health authorities reported a total of forty-nine cases of cholera and thirty-nine deaths.

Riis May Be First Governor.

WASHINGTON, March 27.—One of the first acts by the president consequent upon the expected ratification of the treaty for the acquisition of the Danish West Indies now pending before the senate will be the appointment of a governor for the islands. Several names have been suggested to the president for this office, one of whom is that of Jacob Riis, the well known newspaper writer of New York city. The president is said to be favorably disposed toward Mr. Riis, for whom he has a very high regard and with whom he is well acquainted because of their association in New York city while the president was identified with the administration of the police department.

A Big Iron Combination.

LONDON, March 27.—The Daily Mail in its issue of today declares that negotiations are on foot for the formation of a gigantic European iron combination for the purpose of keeping up prices. These negotiations were initiated by the British ironmasters. In view of the American demand for pig iron and steel, continues The Daily Mail, there are many difficulties in the way of the formation of such a combination, and the matter has not yet developed. According to a dispatch to The Daily Mail from Brussels, the principal Belgian and German firms are not inclined to join this combination, because the fall in prices enables them to compete in the American market.

Indians Object to Fumigation.

DES MOINES, Ia., March 27.—Representative Walters of Tama has appealed to Governor Cummins to send troops to the Tama Indian reservation to compel the Sac and Fox Indians to submit to fumigation and other regulations of the state board of health. Acting upon the advice of counsel, the Indians have locked their blankets, tepees and other effects in a building which they carefully guard. Mr. Walters says the Indians are in an ugly mood.

New British Army Rifle.

LONDON, March 27.—The war office has approved the new rifles, and they will probably soon be issued to the whole British army. The new arm is nineteen ounces lighter, and its barrel is five inches shorter, but it has the same range as the rifle now in use. It has the Mauser breech mechanism, but an improved bolt action. It is provided with a wind gauge and a foresight. It will hold ten rounds of ammunition in the magazine.

A Degree For President Schurman.

ITHACA, N. Y., March 27.—It is given out here that the University of Edinburgh has resolved to confer the honorary degree of doctor of laws upon President Schurman of Cornell university. The last American to receive this honor was Embassador Choate. President Schurman sails on the Campania Saturday next and will receive the degree at the Edinburgh commencement, April 11.

The Clevelands Start For Florida.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 27.—Ex-President and Mrs. Cleveland and Professor and Mrs. John H. Finley and Miss Bryant of New York have left here on an Easter trip to the south. They went in Colonel Daniel S. Lamont's private car, and their destination is Stuart, Fla. All except Mr. Cleveland will return in about a week.

Bank Teller Sentenced.

NEW ORLEANS, May 27.—Samuel Flower, paying teller of the Hibernia National bank, who was found guilty of stealing $36,000 from that institution, has been sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. Flower is a member of a distinguished Louisiana family.

TROLLEY FREIGHT BILL.

When the trolley freight bill went through the Senate, among the votes registered against it was that of Senator Cross, of Union county. It is probable that Senator Cross' action was the result of this county's previous experiences with the trolley companies. If the Trenton correspondent of the Newark News tells the truth in his report of the remarks on that bill, the Union county Senator said:

"From the service given on many of the lines it would seem as if there was a wide field for the trolley companies' enterprise in operating their passenger cars more frequently and expeditiously before they tackled the freight business and filled our street up with carloads of garbage, manure, coal, hay, etc. Don't let us have it. We've got enough unpleasant things in our city streets now."

There is a great deal of truth in what Mr. Cross said as far as this section is concerned. The passenger service ought to be improved a great deal before the trolley companies should be allowed to go into the freight business. According, however, to the provisions of the bill, the local municipality has the right to regulate the terms under which the freight traffic may be conducted.

If ever the bill becomes a law and its terms permit the local company to apply to the Common Council for permission to extend the freight traffic here, the councilmen must not forget to see that the city's interests are duly protected. Futhermore the fact must not be lost sight of that the present arrangement between the company and city is defective as far as it concerns the street sprinkling.

Instead of having a definite time set during which the street must be sprinkled, a different arrangement should be made whereby they are to be properly wet when circumstances demand it, irrespective of the season of the year.

Because much publicity was not given to the fact, a general impression has prevailed that the investigation of the reports current, concerning the members of the fire and police departments at the Babcock building fire, had been discontinued. As a matter of fact, such is far from being the case. The members of the Common Council are in favor of sifting the matter down to the very end and discovering just what is the truth of it. The investigation has, however, been conducted very quietly but it promises to be just as thorough as if it had been blazoned forth with much ceremony. The findings of the Councilmanic committee will be awaited with interest.

According to the Philadelphia Record an advertising agent has taken the trouble to compile a list of men who achieved a world-wide publicity by advertising, but whose names and enterprises are no longer remembered because they are no longer advertised. The conclusion enforced by the list is that "to succeed in business one must advertise; when he ceases to advertise people forget him, and his business dwindles and dies."

An awkward arrangement, which has heretofore existed at the combined station for the Jersey Cental and South Branch Railroad at Somerville, has been eliminated. A new terminal has been built for the South Branch Railroad and will be put into regular use today for the first time. Besides doing away with an element of danger, the changes will give the patrons of the company more satisfactory service.

It is to be hoped that the successor of Vice President Warren, of the Jersey Central, will, when he comes to select a new place of residence, decide in favor of Plainfield. If he does locate here, he will have a chance to see for himself the need of repainting the fence, which separates the tracks at the North Avenue station, a color that will be easily distinguishable at night.

When the municipalities of Union county unite to build a trunk sewer, as did their neighbors in Essex county, then will Plainfield and North Plainfield be able to reach tidewater. The Borough Sewage Commission found the only feasible way to dispose of sewage, at present, was to build a disposal plant.

Although March is not yet over everything points toward the arrival of spring. The enthusiasts in all the outdoor sports are preparing to actively open the season in a very short while.

8 o'clock tomorrow morning. In the evening at 8 o'clock there will be the usual Adoration of the Cross, with a sermon by Rev. Father Farley, the curate. A service will be held at St. Joseph's church at 8:30 o'clock in the morning. In the evening a sermon on the Passion will be delivered after the Adoration of the Cross.

The services at Grace Episcopal church include morning prayer and sermon at 10 o'clock, and three hours service of prayer and meditation from 12 o'clock noon until 3 o'clock in the afternoon. At the Church of the Holy Cross morning prayer and sermon is set for 10:30 o'clock. A service will be held at the Church of the Heavenly Rest at 7:30 o'clock in the evening.

There will be five services at St. Stephen's church, Netherwood. The morning services are set for 7:30 and 10 o'clock. A Passion service will be held, as is the custom, between the hours of 12 o'clock noon and 3 o'clock in the afternoon. At 4 o'clock in the afternoon a special children's service has been arranged. Evensong will take place at 8 o'clock. A service will be held at the German Lutheran church at 10:30 o'clock in the morning.

MAKING MORE ROOM.

Transfer of Jersey Central Interests Crowds Things at the Terminal.

If the purchasing department of the New Jersey Central is removed to Philadelphia, as already reported, combining it with the similar department of the Reading Railroad, more room will be required. This will necessitate a change at the Terminal in Philadelphia.

The transportation department, adjoining the above department, is also crowded for room, and to afford relief for these departments it is proposed to remove the passenger department, also located on the fifth floor, to the vacant rooms on the fourth floor, directly under those now occupied by it, and give the rooms thus vacated to the purchasing and transportation department. The change will be made as soon as the rooms can be prepared.

Last Meeting in Old Quarters.

STILL FURTHER REDUCTIONS!

Remarkable values are being offered throughout the entire store. Deep cuts in prices of many goods have been made in order to move stock quickly.

Dress Goods suffered least from fire, but most from price cutting. Stock is new and in good condition, but must be sold at once, notwithstanding. Wash Goods are being sacrificed. To those who have seen the beautiful array of Wash Fabrics displayed on our counters this will mean much, for the showing is remarkable for variety, quality and attractiveness. They escaped the fire but have not the general sacrifice. A miscellaneous counter full of Ladies' Suits, Separate Skirts, Jackets and Shirt Waists at your own price to close. A large lot of Hosiery, the boxes of which were damaged by water, will be sold cheap. Miscellaneous articles scattered here and there throughout the stock are going for a song.

In the Basement some rare bargains in house-furnishings are to be had. Goods damaged, only slightly injured by water, but whose usefulness is not impaired.

For the Men we have our new Spring Shirts, and a finer line was never offered.

New Easter Novelties in ladies' Neckwear, showing the latest conceits in this line. Inconceivably dainty and quite inexpensive.

Our New Shirt Waists are now here. A more attractively designed showing of waists could scarcely be thought of.

DUNELLEN.

More changes in residence have been made in town this spring than in some years past. Among the latest changes are the following: A. A. Lake from Front street to Dunellen avenue; Theo. Day from corner of Front street and Jackson avenue, to another house on Front street; E. Schenck from Metuchen to Front street; Lewis Mattox from Front street to North avenue; George Craig from Front street to another house on Front street.

The cornet band gave an out door concert at practice last evening. The erformance was given in front of Apgar Hall and was enjoyed by a large number. The selections were pretty and the playing excellent.

The many friends in the borough of Harry L. Terry will be glad to learn that he is recovering from his recent severe illness.

The public schools will be closed much earlier than usual this year on account of the spring vacation being eliminated.

Mrs. J. N. Apgar has been entertaining her sister, Miss Annie Campbell, of Martinsville.

Mr. and Mrs. George Schenck spent the early part of the week with out of town friends.

Mrs. R. J. Swackhamer entertained Mrs. Clarence Oakley, of New Brunswick, Tuesday.

Walter Runyon made a business trip to Hopewell Tuesday.

Firman Gise visited in Westfield Monday.

NEW MARKET.

The entertainment, given in Friendship Hall, last evening, by the pupils of the New Market school was not very well attended. The programme was good, however. The banjo club selections were good and a song by a quartette, composed of the Misses Gaskill, Dealaman, Boice and Craig, was enjoyed. A solo by Miss Bertha Nelson and a sash drill by the school children helped to make the programme enjoyable.

It is said that J. Y. Ruppel is to become a member of the firm of Kelly & Company, coal and wood dealers, of this place.

The brass band will meet for practice in Recreation Hall, this evening.

F. Percy Vail, of New York, spent the early part of the week in town.

TOLD OF HER MISSION WORK

ADDRESSED MEETING AT GRACE M. E. CHURCH LAST EVENING.

Mrs. J. Schaeffer, of Newark Deaconess' Home, Talked to Women's Home Missionary Society.

A stirring and sympathetic address of the subject of missions formed the major feature of the Grace M. E. church Woman's Home Missionary Society's annual meeting, held last evening. Mrs. J. Schaeffer, of the Deaconness' Home, in Newark, was the speaker. She dwelt on the work she had accomplished among the Italians and more particularly on her kindergarten labours, in which she had succeeded in the face of many obstacles.

Reports of the various officers were received. Miss Emma Smalley, the secretary, reported that eighteen meetings had been held during the year, and Miss Belle Lunger, the treasurer, stated that there is a balance of $23 on hand. Goods and money approximating $142 have been sent to missionaries in the west, according to the report of Mrs. J. C. Pierson, the corresponding secretary.

A letter was read from Rev. F. M. Stowell, of Salina, Kansas, acknowledging receipt of donations from the organization. An address was also made by Mrs. A. A. Taft, the president, at the opening of the meeting. Mrs. G. W. Gardner sang a solo.

Mrs. W. J. Davis is confined to the house by illness.

Miss Irene Day visited in Plainfield yesterday.

Practically Starving.

"After using a few bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure my wife received perfect and permanent relief from a severe and chronic case of stomach trouble," says J. R. Holly, real estate, insurance and loan agent, of Macomb, Ill. "Before using Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she could not eat an ordinary meal without intense suffering. She is now entirely cured. Several physicians and many remedies had failed to give relief." You don't have to diet. Eat any good food you want, but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will always digest it for you. L. W. Randolph.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

There is a time for everything and that is the correct time. If your watch doesn't keep correct time, take it to Moraller & Son, of Park avenue, and it will be satisfactorily cured.

A good strong pair of walking shoes are needed these spring days when walking is so pleasant. There's one place to get them at a cheap price and that is at Flynn Brothers, on West Front street.

Pictures of friends are always a pleasure to look at and especially when they are prettily framed. The Plainfield Art store in the Y. M. C. A. building is making special rates for framing photogaphs.

George Kirch, the progressive Liberty street grocer, is having big sales in the Red Shield brand of canned goods, which he handles. The line is an excellent one and the prices are not the least among the features.

To properly observe Eastertide floral decorations are the thing. If you are going to have a reception, wedding or any kind of a festivity, you need flowers and there is no better place to get them than at Mrs. Denton's conservatory on West Front street.

Tomorrow is hot cross bun morning. There is nothing in the year the children like better than buns on Good Friday, but they want the right kind. John Wirth, the West Front street baker, is prepared to take orders for the kind that are sure to please.

In filling your larder you want to consider quality and price of goods. S. Scheuer & Son can give you valuable pointers along this line. They will supply your household with everything in the grocery and meat line at a nominal price, and the quality of goods is first-class.

Too much care cannot be exercised in the selection of pure drugs. The right kind at the right time may mean restoration to health but if they are not up to the standard it may mean otherwise. At Shaw's West Front street pharmacy nothing but the purest of goods are in stock.

A musical education is considered a necessity these days and if one is lacking in this respect half the pleasure of life is wasted. G. H. Kenyon, of West Front street, can help you to get that education by selling you one of his many celebrated makes of pianos for which he is agent. He invites inspection.

USE NEW TRACKS.

New Switch Will be Utilized by the South Branch Railroad Now.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, March 27—The New Jersey Central Railroad has a gang of men here at work constantly on the improvements mapped out a few months ago. Already the tracks for the more direct route of the South Brank road to this place have been laid. Today they will be connected with the switching tower, after which trains will run over them. This is a great improvement, as it entirely does away with the backing of trains over the Bridge street crossing.

A station will now be erected, opposite the main depot, for the South Branch and other passengers. A fence will divide the tracks and there will be an underground passage for the public.

Plainfielders There.

The annual spring meeting of the Woman's Classical Union for Foreign and Domestic Missions is being held today in the Trinity Reformed church at Newark. Those present from Trinity Reformed church, of this city, include Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr., Mrs. W. A. Woodruff, Mrs. A. L. Force, Miss Lillian A. Force, Mrs. G. L. VanEmburgh and Mrs. Cornelius Schenck.

Cake Sale.

A cake sale will be held at the home of Mrs. J. A. Haynes, on North avenue, Friday, April 4, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church.

FOUGHT THROUGH WAR.

Thos. L. Stryker, a Well-Known Groceryman, Died at Somerville.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, March 27—Thomas L. Stryker, aged sixty-five, who died here Monday night, was always interested in the grocery business and had of late years been traveling salesman for an Elizabeth wholesale firm. He was well-known and popular wherever he went. A widow and three children, Mrs. John N. Davis, W. Reid and Miss Clara Stryker, all of this place, survive him. The deceased went all through the Civil War and saw Lee's surrender to Gen. Grant. Mr. Stryker was a member of the First Reformed church and of Gen. Wadsworth Post, G. A. R. The funeral was held today.

No Constable From Second Ward.

On account of the death of Constable W. R. Mattox, the Second ward is now without a constable. It will be necessary for the Common Council to appoint some one to the position. This will probably be done at the next regular meeting.

—Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., will meet soon to make arrangements for the holding of regular communications.

AT HIGH SCHOOL.

Good Friday Will be Observed With Special Exercises Tomorrow.

Good Friday will be observed in the Plainfield High School tomorrow. There will be the regular session until 11 o'clock, at which time a special Easter programme will be rendered.

The public is invited to attend the exercises. In part the programme is as follows: Anthem, "Awake, Thou That Sleepest," Maker; anthem, "God Hath Appointed a Day," Tours; anthem, "See Now the Altar," Faure; Lenten cantata, "The Story of Calvary," Schnecker.

Last Dance Postponed.

The young people, who have been conducting a series of dances during the past season in the Camera Club rooms, have postponed the last dance indefinitely. It was scheduled for early in April, but there is no place now available for a dance. It is likely that the young folks will wait until the summer hotels open and select one of those places to give the final dance.

—H. C. Squires, formerly of this city but now of New York, has rented the house of John Stewart on West Seventh street and with his family will take possesion next month.

ATTENDANCE CHART FIRST M. E. SUNDAY-SCHOOL.

The chart shows the comparative attendance for two years. The record from March 1900 to April 1901 is indicated by the thin zig-zag line. The heavier line shows the attendance for the corresponding Sundays o the year 1901-1902.

ABBIE RULES TEPEE.

Proves by Brave Act That She Is Head of the House.

How Dry Limb, Disobedient Husband, Was Saved from the Horns of an Angry Bilemma by His Piegan Better Half.

The narrow escape from death of Dry Limb at the Old Agency last ration day is the latest topic of conversation among the Piegans in Montana.

Dry Limb is a one-armed Piegan who makes "heap big talk," but, like many of his white brothers, he subsides perceptibly in the presence of his wife.

Dry Limb's wife, who bears the name of Abbie Skunkcap, is a buxom person of unusual height and great physical strength, while Dry Limb himself is small and weakened. Ever since the day Bear Chief threw the buffalo robe over their heads and pronounced them man and wife Abbie has been boss of the tepee.

Friday and Saturday are ration days at the Old Agency, but the Indians who live long distances away arrive on Thursday evening and set up their tepees along the banks of the Two Medicine. The agency is situated on the beautiful valley of the Two Medicine. The valley takes its name from the broad, crystal stream which ripples down the steep eastern slope of the Rockies on its way to join the Father of Waters.

On last Thursday evening a family jar took place in the tepee of Dry Limb, when he announced his intention of asserting himself and taking active part in the butchering of the 12 head of cattle which the government was to kill the next day for the weekly issue of rations. This pleasure has heretofore been denied him by his wife, who fears for his safety, owing to his lost arm.

"You will be killed," said Abbie in angry Piegan.

"I can take care of myself. I am not one to be afraid. I know not fear," declared Dry Limb, boastfully.

"The animals will trample upon you as if you were a chip. You have not the courage of a coyote," retorted Abbie.

"I shall enter the slaughter pen tomorrow. I will listen to your voice no longer. Who am I that I should give heed to a woman? I am Dry Limb, the son of Four Horses, who fears naught!" And Dry Limb, roused to fury by her taunt of "coward," went at once to the Boss Farmer to obtain permission to assist with the butchering. The Boss Farmer was also fearful for his safety. But to pacify the angry Indian, he agreed that Dry Limb should help in the killing of the last steer.

The sun was getting low when the Boss Farmer beckoned to Dry Limb as a signal that the time had come for him to show his valor. Dry Limb, looking fearfully in his wife's direction, slipped into the pen and was given the spear to thrust into the steer's neck. The men who skinned the beef stood on a platform with knives ready. The steer came through the gate from the corral with a rush. Dry Limb made a lunge at him. The sharp point of the spear pierced the fleshy part of his neck, driving him mad with rage, but doing him little injury. The Boss Farmer and the Indians cried out in alarm as the steer made a dash for Dry Limb. The Indian tried to climb on the platform, but the steer was too quick for him. It came at him with lowered head. Dry Limb's copper-colored skin grew green with terror.

The steer's broad horns passed on either side of the little Indian and pinned him to the wall. Only his slightness and the unusual spread of the steer's horns saved him from a quick journey to the Happy Hunting Grounds.

The women, peeking through the cracks, shrieked. Abbie Skunkcap left the head she was skinning to rush to see the excitement. One glance showed her Dry Limb's terrified face above the head and horns of the mad steer. The men were kicking and jabbing the steer viciously, but he stuck to his victim.

Abbie climbed the corral fence, dashed in the slaughter-house. She leaped upon the platform. Stooping, she grabbed the collar of Dry Limb's flannel shirt. With her great strength she ripped him through the long horns that pinned him and landed him upon the platform. He lay huddled at her feet, his teeth chattering, his hands shivering. He was a grand study for a Remington sketch of "The Noble Red Man."

"Ugh!" grunted the squaw. She stooped and boxed his ears vigorously. "What did I tell you!" she cried, shrilly. For a squaw is a woman.

HONOR FOR CHICAGOAN.

Robert S. McCormick, Envoy to Austria-Hungary, Soon to Be Made an Ambassador.

With the elevation of the legation of Austria-Hungary to an embassy Robert S. McCormick, the present minister of the United States to Austria-Hungary, will be raised to the rank of ambassador, will assume privileges never before granted to an American minister to that country and will have his salary raised from $12,000 to $17,000 a year.

Mr. McCormick is a Chicago man and before he was given his appointment as minister at Vienna he lived in that city many years. He has a large circle of friends in Chicago, and a number of wealthy and distinguished relatives.

ROBERT S. M'CORMICK.
(Minister of the United States at Vienna, Austria.)

The staff of an ambassador is much the same as that of a legation, but there are more privileges and greater distinctions. An ambassador is called upon to do a great deal more entertaining than a minister, and is required to make a greater show of splendor and magnificence. The rank is much higher and the recognition is more courtly and official.

The elevation of the Austria-Hungarian legation to the United States to an embassy is an important diplomatic move on the part of Austria-Hungary and marks an important epoch in the relations of the two countries. The fact that there has never been an embassy is generally supposed to have been due to a coolness on the part of Austria-Hungary to the United States on account of a disturbance in this country in which a mob of Hungarians was roughly handled. The action of the Austria-Hungarian government in appointing its minister, Ladislaus Hengelmuller von Hengelvar, to the rank of an ambassador, is taken in this country as an indication that the government wishes all former breaches to be healed and a spirit of cordiality established.

Mr. McCormick is very popular in Vienna, and it is rumored that he has had more than a little to do with the recent action of the Austria-Hungarian government in elevating its legation to an embassy. The initiative in the matter was taken by Austria-Hungary's foreign minister, Count Goluchowski, and as it is the custom in diplomatic relations to always respond to such an elevation by a similar one in this country, Mr. McCormick will be made ambassador as soon as Mr. Hengelmuller is officially recognized as such in this country.

VASE FOR PRINCESS.

Rare Work of Art Presented to Prince Henry's Wife by the German Ladies of Chicago.

A handsome silver vase, two feet high, with a gold lining, was the present which the wives of the members of the Germania club of Chicago made to Princess Irene, wife of Prince Henry, through the courtesies of the prince while in that city. After it has been admired for a few days at the Germania club it will be packed up and sent to Berlin in time to reach there when the prince arrives, so that it can be given by him at once to the princess. The presentation was made during the reception at the Germania club immediately following the luncheon which the men of the club had given the prince. The vase has on one side a figure of Aurora in relief. She stands, or rather floats, in the rays of the rising sun, with ribbons streaming from her hands. Morning glories are the flowers which complete the decoration on that side of the vase. A rooster is the decoration on the opposite side. The present was not offered until after permission had been received from Prince Henry, and the cost was contributed by the women of the reception committee and others.

VASE FOR PRINCESS IRENE.
(Presented to Prince Henry's Wife by Chicago Ladies.)

Should a Girl Pursue a Man?

"WHY don't you write a book?" said the young man.

"About what?" said I.

"Oh, giving good advice to girls on how they ought to treat men."

"They wouldn't heed it if I did. But on what special point do you think girls need advice as to their behavior to men?"

"Oh, you know—I mean—that is," he stammered, "about girls chasing after fellows."

"What do you mean in plain English? Instance facts as illustrative. General observations are no good."

"Well, it's like this: I know—that is, there is a fellow I know, that a girl knows, and she thinks she likes him."

The fine flush that overspread the youth's face told me the fellow was himself, only he would not say so. He continued:

"The girl meets the man at social parties, at dances and takes a fancy to him. She asks him to call, insists that he shall call. Now, if I were a girl I would wait till a young man asked me if he might call. Men have tongues in their heads, and they are not generally bashful; but, even so, let us say the girl has a right to ask him to call if she wants him to. He calls; he sees she lays herself out to please him. It's plain, too plain. She giggles at every remark he makes; she keeps winking and blinking her eyes at him to make him notice them and see how bright they are; she bites her lips constantly to make them look red. Girls think fellows don't notice these things, but they do.

"The girl asks him to go with her to a lecture at her church. After it is over he asks her to ice cream and oysters on the way home. That's the least he can do, of course. After that the girl begins to act as if he belonged to her. She plans to meet him out places and asks him to meet her. He likes her well enough, but he's not a bit in love with her. It's too early to fall in love with anybody. He really has not money enough to be any girl's young man, for, you see, girls cost like fury. He can't afford it.

"So the fellow tries to draw out and slip away from being with the girl so much. She notices that he's offish; then she ups and writes him a letter asking him what she has done to offend him. She is very, very sorry if she has offended him; she did not mean to, but he certainly must be angry, else he would not stay away from her so. The man says things to himself, but politeness requires he shall write her a note assuring her she has done nothing to offend him; that being angry with her is the least of his thought. His thought really is how to break away from her and, without being rude, to get out of this entanglement into which he is being drawn; but, of course, he can't tell her that. He begs her pardon if he has caused her any unpleasant feeling. Then she writes to him again, a long letter. Now, what is a fellow going to do?"

"Did he answer that last letter?" said I.

"No, he didn't," answers the young man emphatically; then he blushed, for he perceived that I perceived he himself was the young man. It was out at last, modest though he was. He did not tell me how the affair came out, but continued:

"I wish you'd tell girls they ought to be more independent about men—not let them see so plainly that the girls like them."

"I thought men didn't like independent girls," I said.

"Oh, I don't mean in that way: I mean about girls chasing after men. Men don't like it, and they don't like the girls that do it. They think men should be the chasers if there are any. They like that better. A girl ought to be dignified and let a man come after her. Men will do that fast enough if a girl doesn't run after them. As I say, men are not bashful."

"Sergeant," he said, "take this to the war department; it will bring you promotion, I think. The honor is yours."

"But, captain, it was you who really did the work. Were you after him?"

"Yes," said Somers, slowly, "I was looking for the man and had reason to suppose that he was on these premises. I came in to find him. He evidently entered this room in—desperation! Go at once, sergeant, and send an ambulance. What family lives here?" He asked the question in support of his character as a stranger.

"Capt. Holbin's, sir! He is upstairs."

Full of the importance of his secret, the soldier hurried away. Somers passed through the hall and out through the other door into the garden, lifting his hand towards Frances. Steps were approaching the stairway; she passed quickly to the outside and found him waiting.

"They will find him in the uniform of his country's enemy," he said, "and the papers from his pockets will prove him a spy. I am unknown. The soldier will say that a confederate officer pursued the guilty man until he took refuge here and disappeared." The girl stood mute and silent before him.

"Farewell, Frances," he said.

"Farewell, sir." He looked at her a moment in doubt, and in silence left her. When he glanced back over his shoulder he saw her white form still motionless under the tree. A horse near him whickered inquiringly; he untied him and rode out. As he approached the gate a shriek reached him from the wing-room and turning he spurred back again. Frances was re-entering the room.

"Wait!" he cried in agony—"Wait!" He threw himself from his horse and was instantly at her side. "Frances, Frances, is it thus we part? Think what it means! Will you not give me one word?" She turned slowly and wearily upon the step.

"There is nothing to say but 'farewell.' If I were a mother, and my son came to me as an enemy of Virginia, I should say the same to him."

"You do not love me, then," he said, bitterly; "love forgets, forgives everything!" She lifted her face, white with an unspeakable suffering.

"Father in Heaven, Thou knowest my heart! Thou knowest how I have atoned to my own people for him; how for him I have ministered to my enemies—Thou knowest, Thou knowest! And now," she said, sobbingly, "my heart breaks—I am weak! Will you not go? A mother is in this room with her dead!"

"To-morrow begins a bloody struggle; and I would wish to carry with me into eternity, if I perish, one kiss from the woman I love—my wife! Will you refuse me that?" She covered her face with her hands; then suddenly she threw her arms about him, her lips to his. He held her a moment, white and silent. Pushing him from her, she turned to enter the house, but sank upon her knees, leaning her head against the door. Bending over, he laid his lips in one long kiss upon her curls, and in silence left her.

CHAPTER XVII.

Richard Somers did not need his pass that morning, nor have to explain why he, if a paroled prisoner, was wearing the uniform of a confederate officer. That uniform was his salvation in his wild ride upon the crowded road, for aides and couriers were rushing to and fro and no one questioned him. Day was breaking as he neared the front, and the tumult of a great battle surrounded him. He passed cavalry, moving infantry and artillery, and was soon swallowed up in the confusion. He had no knowledge of the topography of the country; there was no chance to use a pass in that mass of confused men—he could only move forward with the host. An officer, reining up violently by his side, gave him an order to carry to a struggling line that, half enveloped in its own smoke, reeled back in front of a wooded slope on which some guns were being handled desperately, and on that slight eminence as he approached in a mad gallop he saw at intervals the familiar stars and stripes. He passed the confederate line, at that moment badly broken, its officers riding as madly as he up and down it in an endeavor to rally it, and seeing here his only chance of escape, took it. Burying his heels in the flanks of the terrified animal he bestrode, he headed straight for the battery. He swung back in the saddle as though endeavoring to stop a runaway horse. A little thicket screened him for one instant, and emerging beyond that, he lifted his handkerchief in the air, waved it and with the speed of the wind swept on into the lines of blue. Strong hands seized the bridle; and then a cheer went up from the battery. Col. Somers was with his own again.

Somewhere in the records of the government is told how one battery, the focus of artillery and infantry, held back for hours the tide of battle that day; somewhere are preserved the names of those who fell; and of the few who, at last, with despairing strength dragged back the guns that had not been dismounted, and saved them from capture; but no official record preserves the picture of a wrecked and half demolished cottage by the roadside, the body of a frail child dead in the arms of a dead woman visible through the shattered timbers. The picture lives to-day only in the memory of a soldier, who, standing before it a moment under the bursting shells of that June morning, covered his eyes and murmured a prayer.

To this same place in the after years came one day in June a man and woman who tenderly laid flowers upon a grave beneath the one cedar which had escaped the battle's wrath. A slender shaft of marble stood above the grave, and upon it was carved the name of the dead woman who slept beneath. By the grave a rose-vine was growing. Its upward branches clung to the tree and let fall long streamers of white blossoms, peace banners, in the breeze.

"I planted it here when I gave the place to the boy who brought you through the lines to me that night, Dick. It is a Lamarque, too. I wanted her to share the white rose with me—to sleep peacefully under it always. For somehow, Dick, I have always felt that once you loved her, and that you loved me at first because she had taught you how to love." She lifted her blue-gray eyes and rested them upon the manly face of her companion; a tender light was gleaming in their misty depths. "And, I am glad, my husband, that her brief life was blessed even for a little while with the worship of a brave gentleman's heart." He drew her towards him, and her face grew radiant against his breast.

"God bless them both, mother and child!" he said, gently; "and God bless you, Frances, my wife!"

THE END.

Of One Mind.

Tess—Yes, Charlie and I agree perfectly. He thinks I am just too sweet for anything, and—

Jess—That proves it.

"How do you mean?"

"I mean that, of course, you agree with him."—Philadelphia Press.

SPEAK OUT.

The Searchlight of Publicity is Pleasing Plainfield People.

Publicity is what the people want. Let the public speak on the subject.

There has been too much claim—too little proof.

There is only one kind of proof for Plainfield citizens.

The experience of people we know. When friends and neighbors endorse.

No question about such evidence.

This kind of proof backs every box of Doan's Kidney Pills.

Here is a case of it:

Mrs. W. W. Mills, of No. 86 Summit avenue, says: "I suffered at times with a severe pain across the small of my back and in my hips. If I did any lifting or stooping my back became lame and sore, and though I used plasters they only helped me for the time being. I was feeling very badly when I had my attention called to Doan's Kidney Pills. They were so highly recommended for troubles like mine that I got a box at L. W. Randolph's drug store. I felt their good effects in a few days. When I had finished the treatment my back was better and stronger and I had much more energy to attend household duties."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50c. a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

HIS FRIEND, THE ENEMY.

By WILLIAM WALLACE COOK.

Is an exciting story of a county seat fight in Dakota. It is interesting and it is plausible.

Full of exciting situations, and some ludicrous ones; likewise has a pretty love story running through it, which ends in a manner that will prove satisfactory to the reader.

HEPBURN & CO.
Dear Sirs—Two years ago I had very bad corns and callouses on my feet, I went to a chiropodist and paid him $5.75 for taking them off. In less than a month they were back again. I then tried your CORN CURE and used only three bottles, costing 45c, and am happy to say it has taken them off completely. They have not troubled me now for over a year. I consider your HEPBURN'S CORN CURE the best I have ever used.—Yours truly, R. O. RUNYON, 629 LaGrande Ave.

Hand Tennis, Baseball and the Turf

Subjects of Timely Interest to the Sports and Athletes Discussed.

DO YOU want to know what sport is the hardest work? Not many in search of a recreation or pastime would deliberately single out a form of play that involved the greatest amount of physical exertion. Of all the indoor games played by athletes, good critics are of the opinion, hand tennis is the most exacting.

The big athletic clubs of the country have laid out their gymnasiums for "horse" tennis and indoor tennis, racquets, etc., but few members ever suggest hand tennis. As its name implies, it is a modification of the lawn tennis sport. The hand is used instead of a racquet for returning the ball. The floor is marked out in courts similar to the courts of the lawn tennis game and the ball differs slightly because of the wide variance between a gutted racquet and the human hand.

Dr. Bartlett, one of the former doubles champions, recently won a challenge match in the New York Athletic club, playing with R. F. Lakeman and defeating Brigg and Fling, two great players, and was almost exhausted at the end of the play. Think of how hard it is for you to use the tennis racquet properly in volleying and smashing—yes, even in serving, and in mild returning, and then ponder over the difficulty of placing the ball in your opponent's courts with nothing but the hand to guide the sphere. Ability to "kill" the ball after volleying plays captures point after point in this game, and every muscle in the body is brought into use by the rapid work. Sometimes the experts will volley so accurately that you can count 75 while waiting for one to miss, so that a point may be counted.

"Talk about handball and pelota requiring nerve and muscle to get you through a hard match," remarked one big club hand tennis player, "they are as mild as ping pong compared to this game."

ALMOST every day the telegraph tells of some American jockey going abroad to ride for the stable of Count This and That, Lord So-and-So, etc., and followers of turf gossip might infer that the ranks of capable riders in the United States were being so rapidly depleted that there would not be enough good boys to go round. There is a slight stringency in the jockey market, but the fact is known that at least 15 riders are left who rate first-class. And no one knows how many youngsters will develop this season. Of the boys in this list of "first-class" riders, not one will receive less than $10,000 for his season's work, while the possibilities for some who are in great demand are up in the $30,000 division. "Tommy" Burns, who will pilot animals sporting the silk of the multi-millionaire, W. C. Whitney, will have a single retainer of $12,000 from Mr. Whitney. Last year Burns thought he had such a hold on his good position that he put up some indifferent rides, and received what the turfmen said was a "call down." This year Burns is likely to have the very best of horses, and he will ride his share of winners.

Winnie O'Connor, the star jockey of the Pacific coast winter meeting, again will sport the colors of Arthur Featherstone, the rich manufacturer. Bullman has begun hard work with the string of August Belmont. Known as a "front rider" a boy who will get away in front with a two year old like "Tiny" Williams used to, Bullman can pilot other winners than American Derby victors, and Mr. Belmont will pay him a retainer of $10,000 this year. "Old Man" Jackson, the 80-pound lad, who "came out" at the San Francisco meeting, will do Green B. Morris' riding for $10,000. Redfern, engaged to pilot horses for Col. J. E. Pepper; J. Woods, the Schorr rider; Shaw, Odom, Wonderly, Mounce, Jones, O'Neil, Rausch and Birkenrauth, are among the well-known knights of the pigskin left here.

FOR THE first time in the history of the great national game of baseball in this country the executive of a league has been put upon the same salary plane as a valuable player. When the American league at its annual schedule session voluntarily raised the salary of President Ban Johnson from $5,000 to $7,500 a year as a tribute to the former baseball writer for his conscientious application to the work of "expanding" the league to its present proportions, it went on record in favor of paying an executive as much as a star of star players would get. The National league went along for many years with an executive's salary of about $2,500. Minor leagues paid their presidents much less. Players there have been who earned—or should I say received?—$10,000 a year, but they have been few. There are several player-managers whose incomes from baseball amount to about the salary of President Johnson. But the majority of the high-priced stars are glad to get $5,000, while $3,500 is a liberal estimate of the actual remuneration of the crack-a-jack players.

Aside from the salary feature of the regime of Johnson, the interesting point to followers of the sport is his rapid development in the estimation of baseball financial and business men. It was pointed out when he was the "Young Napoleon" of the Western league that he would lead his forces to a Waterloo. But he had a wide circle of friends, was cautious, forceful and upright in his dealings with men. Conservative men feared he would be too strenuous when he succeeded in getting the money men to back the American league. But every move he has made has been one of advancement for his league. Want to know the secret of his success with his league-building operations?

"I study conditions," said Mr. Johnson; "advise my colleagues on a plan, experiment with the plan, and then get the necessary backing. We have never made a move in the dark. Every time we stirred we had the cash to pay our way. There never has been a minute when the financial condition of our league was based on anything but gold. Publicity and the golden rule have made the American league the premier power in baseball in this country."

Sickness of Circus Ring.

Unfortunate passengers aboard a steamer are not the only ones to endure the agonies of nausea. Any circus man will tell you that it is a most difficult thing to overcome the miserable sensation caused by constantly circling round a small ring. Clowns, even, and ringmasters suffer from it, merely from seeing the horses go around and around, and one well-known ringmaster, even after years of experience, still finds that if a horse balks a little, or gets behind time, compelling him to follow close upon it, he will probably undergo a painful fit of sickness after leaving the ring.

Hedgehog and Viper.

A resident at Versailles, M. Guignet, sends to Nature a vivid account of a duel he saw between a hedgehog and a viper. The two enemies knew very well at first sight who was who, and eyed each other as if they knew a moment's inattention would be fatal. The viper was the first to get tired of gazing, and it began to glide away. Just then the hedgehog rushed for the viper's tail, and having nailed it fast with its teeth, it rolled itself up. The hedgehog was very careful, however, not to cut the tail off. The viper curled back, and delivered furious assaults on its aggressor, wrestling and rolling with the curled-up hedgehog all over the place. At length the snake, wounded in a hundred places, died. The hedgehog began its repast on the tail of its victim, and was careful not to eat the head.—London Daily News.

ON THE DIAMOND.

The North Plainfield High School second team will play the St. Mary's Cadet nine Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The game will take place on the old cricket field.

The Watchung Baseball Club desires to arrange games with teams averaging from fourteen to sixteen years. All letters should be addressed to William F. Doane, 423 LaGrande avenue.

The old tennis court in the rear of the Y. M. C. A. building has been fitted up as a practice ground for the intended baseball team members. A high net wire fence has been erected in the rear and the building windows have been properly covered. Practice is held as often as possible.

The North Plainfield Juniors expect to place an exceptionally strong team in the field this season. Practice games are being held daily for the purpose of selecting the nine from the sixteen candidates seeking positions. Manager Hoffman is getting the season's schedule in shape and expects to commence regular games within a very short time. He would like to arrange a game with the St. Mary's Cadets for Saturday morning.

The Pingry School team, of Elizabeth, is getting in good shape for the coming season, and the nine will no doubt make a very creditable showing. There is quite a squad on the diamond at every practice, and the team will be selected this week. They open their season on Wednesday of next week, when they meet Trinity on the Pingry oval. Eight games are scheduled for next month, all at home, with an open date. The games are April 2, Trinity School; 5, Peddie Institute; 9, Plainfield High School; 12, North Plainfield High School; 16, open; 19, Rutgers Preparatory School; 23, Pratt Institute; 26, Montclair Military Academy; 30, Lawrenceville Academy.

GOLF.

Edward Coverly, of this city, has been re-engaged by the Westfield Golf Club for this season. He will take charge of the clubhouse.

Although there has been no official announcement of the fact there may be play on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course Saturday. The recent fine weather has benefitted the course very much and it is believed that it would be perfectly safe to use it.

In awarding the golf handicaps of the New Jersey State Golf Association, the committee for that purpose has put only five members at scratch in the fifteen clubs which form the organization. F. O. Reinhart, of Netherwood, with five others, receives a handicap of one strike.

AT THE TRAPS.

"April Fool Shoots" are scheduled to be held at Campbell's clubhouse Tuesday, April 1, to commence at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. The first match will be between Huffy, of Plainfield, and Pony Lambert, of Westfield, twenty birds per man and $25 a side. The second match will be between Van Goodman, of Goodman's Crossing, and Pony Lambert, of Westfield, twenty birds per man and $25 a side. There will be plenty of birds for sweepstake shooting.

BASKET BALL.

A return basket ball game will be played at the local Y. M. C. A. Monday evening, with the Rahway association team. The latter was defeated in last Monday's game after a close and exciting contest. In all probability the second game will be as good.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

C. J. Piker, of Stapleton, S. I., is spending a few days with West End relatives.

Mrs. H. N. Penfield, of Park avenue, is recovering from her recent severe illness.

Mrs. Addie E. Hulbert, of West Fourth street, is entertaining her grandson for a few days.

Miss Mabel Woodruff, of East Second street, returned today from Philadelphia, where she has been spending two weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Springer, of Perth Amboy, are visiting the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Rockfellow, of East Front street.

FIRST DEFEAT.

Scrubs Outrolled the Jolly Bowlers Club Last Evening.

For the first time since its organization some months ago, the Jolly Bowlers Club met defeat last evening. It lost two out of three games rolled on McLaughlin's alleys with the "Scrubs," a temporary team.

The contests were the most exciting rolled on the alley this season, and were witnessed by a large crowd.

No exceptionally high scores were made, but the other way, several of the Jolly Bowlers fell far below their averages. The best scores were made in the second game, for which both sides fought hard to win.

The complement of the teams and individual scores were as follows:

"Scrubs."

Cotton	151	136	123

SHRINERS TO MEET.

Several Plainfielders Are Among Candidates to be Initiated.

Mecca Temple, No. 1, Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, will meet Monday in Madison Square Garden, New York. It is expected that eighty poor sons of the desert will cross the burning sands to the protecting dome of Mecca Temple on that occasion. Several of the candidates are residents of this city.

The temple has over 4,000 members, one-third of whom live in New Jersey. Monthly meetings are attended by from 1,000 to 2,000 nobles. There are eighty temples in the country.

The Lost Was Found.

While Percy McVoy, of East Front street, was calling at an East Ninth street home, last evening, someone stole his wheel, which had been left standing at the curb. He reported the theft to the police and at 10 o'clock the wheel was returned. It had been found by Wm. Hurley lying in the gutter on Watchung avenue, near Carlton.

No Complaint Against Mr. Martine.

City Judge William N. Runyon refused to entertain a charge which Mrs. Henrietta Green, a colored domestic, was anxious to prefer against J. E. Martine in court today. She claimed that the "Farmer Orator" has pushed her and struck her several times, but her story was disproved.

Sunday's Meeting.

The special music at the Y. M. C. A., Sunday afternoon, will consist of vocal solos by Miss Clara J. Mears and violin solos by Dr. Frederic Nice, the popular violinist. Dr. Nice, who was formerly a surgeon in the German Cavalry, will speak. All men are invited.

SUCH WAS STATE OF AFFAIRS SHOWN AT CHURCH MEETING.

Annual Meeting of Park Avenue Baptist Church Was Held Last Evening.

The annual meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church was held last evening, when all the reports of the church and various societies were presented and officers elected. It was one of the most gratifying meetings of the church held in a long time, as every department showed an advancement. Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor, presided over the session.

The reports showed that from all sources, including Sunday-school, home and foreign mission societies, Christian Endeavor Society, etc., there was raised for benevolent purposes $1,202.82. Another encouraging report was that concerning the membership which is now 309. There is a net increase of nineteen over all losses by erasure, death and removal. It is expected that there will be several baptisms soon.

In the election of officers, Theodore I. Runyon and D. M. Runyon were elected deacons and Thomas A. Cuming clerk. E. Frank Vail was elected treasurer of the benevolent fund. The appointment of the various committees was laid over until the next meeting.

The regular meeting of the church society will be held in April at which time there will be the reports of the board of trustees and other departments not included in last evening's reports.

FATAL FALL.

Fireman Wm. Wardel Died at Hospital From Injuries Received in Fall From Locomotive.

William Wardel, of Philadelphia, a fireman on the B. & O. train which arrives in this city at 7:41 o'colck in the morning, fell from his engine near Bound Brook, this morning and as a result of his injuries died at 11:15 o'clock in Muhlenberg Hospital without recovering consciousness. Wardel sustained a fracture at the base of the skull and numerous scalp wounds.

The injured man was brought to Plainfield on a local passenger train following the express. The latter train was late in reaching this city and the conductor recieved orders to take the fourth track at this place. It is not known whether Wardell was married or has any relatives. He was a comparatively young man.

NEEDED THE MONEY.

So, It is Alleged, Geo. Gardner Help Himself to the Furniture.

George Gardner, an eighteen-year-old boy, was held by Justice Nash, this morning, in $100 bonds to await the action of the Grand Jury on a charge of larceny preferred by his sister, Mrs. George Gardner.

She testified that during her absence, he had entered her home through a window and stolen the greater part of her household furniture, which he sold. The boy admitted taking the goods but said he thought his sister didn't want them and he needed the money to pay some debts. He was unable to furnish a bondsman.

Arrested at Newark.

On complaint of Miss Margaret Kiely, of this city, William C. Runyon, of Newark, was arrested by the police at that place last night. He was brought to this city today and will be arraigned before City Judge William N. Runyon.

Secured Judgment.

George W. Bird, as plaintiff, secured judgment for $1,063 against C. D. Overbaugh in the Supreme Court. The defendant is the inventor of the Overbaugh non-refilling bottle, and the suit was on a promissory note.

—Mrs. R. P. Lincoln, who has been stopping temporarily at 533 West Eighth street, took possession today of her handsome new home at 622 West Eighth street.

For the Complexion.

The complexion always suffers from biliousness or constipation. Unless the bowels are kept open the impurities from the body appear in the form of unsightly eruptions. DeWitt's Little Early Risers keep the liver and bowels in healthy condition and remove the cause of such troubles. C. E. Hooper, Albany, Ga., says: "I took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness. They were just what I needed. I am feeling better now than in years." Never gripe or distress. LEGISLATURE ENDS SESSION

It Was 3 o'Clock This Morning Before Winter's Work Was Finally Ended.

Bills Are Still in Hands of Governor Murphy Who Refused to Sign Bills in a Hurry—Will Consider Them After the Session—Some of the Bills It Passed.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Trenton, March 28—It was fully 3 o'clock this morning when the Legislature adjourned sine die, after grinding out a lot of laws, which necessarily had to be rushed through at the last hour. The hands of the clock were fixed at 11 o'clock, and as the hours passed along the hands of the timepiece did not move.

The great majority of the bills passed are still in the hands of the Governor unsigned by him. Mr. Murphy has resorted to Governor Griggs' method of taking his time to consider the measures after the lawmakers adjourned. The most important bill signed by him is that which substitutes county commissioners for boards of freeholders. Prompt action was also taken by him to make the Passaic river pollution bill effective by his signature.

Only a handful of votes were cast in opposition to the much talked of bill in the interest of the United States Steel Corporation when the measure came up in the Senate.

Among the batch of bills which were shoved through the Legislature, and are now in the Governor's hands, are the following:

Increasing the appropriation for the Trenton Armory to $250,000; enlarging the powers of the State Board of Children's Guardians; permitting the use of voting machines; the Orange garbage contract bill; supplement to the supplemental appropriation bill appropriating $50,000 for a State home for consumptives; fixing the salary of the Attorney-General at $7,000 in lieu of all fees; providing that the Excise Boards of Camden and Trenton shall be composed of five members and that each party can nominate five candidates; amending the Voorhees franchise tax act so as to overcome the Supreme Court opinion that the law as it now stands exempts companies with special charters.

The proceedings in the House were interrupted yesterday afternoon to permit the presentation of a handsome clock to the Speaker and other presents to the important officers of the Assembly. The presentation speeches were made by minority members and the Speaker was particularly complimented upon the fairness of his rulings during the session.

BOUGHT TRENTON MILL.

Albert H. Ryan, of Somerville, Was the Highest Bidder.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, March 28—Albert H. Ryan, superintendent of the Somerville Woollen Mills, was the highest bidder for the S. K. Wilson Woolen Mills at Trenton, but he will not be able to begin operating them until the sale is confirmed by the Orphan's Court of Mercer county. His bid was $30,300, which was in addition to the incumbrances on the property, which will make the total cost to Mr. Ryan about $41,000. He expects the court decision in the matter April 4. Orders have already been secured sufficient to run one of the mills three months.

Damascus Will Confer Degree.

Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., will meet in the asylum of Damascus Commandery, in Newark, Monday evening, April 7, when the red cross degree will be conferred on several candidates. The Knights will arrange to meet in the Stillman building some time during the latter part of April. It is believed that the necessary paraphernalia can be secured by that time.

Roberts Business Sold.

The livery business conducted by Dan S. Roberts, on West Front street, was sold at auction Tuesday afternoon. Mr. Roberts had been in the business for twenty years.

Special Good Friday Service.

A special Good Friday service will be held in connection with the monthly missionary meeting in Warren chapel, this evening. There will be good speaking and singing.

BOROUGH WAS PLEASED AT MEASURE'S PASSAGE

First Will Come the Annexation Question to be Voted on by the Borough.

CONSOLIDATION LATER.

NEWS OF SUCCESS OF MEASURE WAS WELL RECEIVED IN THE BOROUGH.

Greater Plainfield Project is Gaining New Friends All the Time—No Doubt About Governor's Signature.

Already the special elections provided for by the Greater Plainfield bills, have engaged the attention of the boroughites. Many are anxious that these elections be held at an early date so that annexation and consolidation may become an assured fact as soon as possible.

When the news reached the borough that the lower house of the Legislature had passed the annexation bill in its amended form, there was great rejoicing on the part of the greater mass of the citizens. Some believed that political machinations of ill disposed persons would defeat the measure, but this evil foreboding was dispelled when the vote was taken. As a rule the prominent supporters of the Greater Plainfield bills did not for a moment entertain the slightest doubt as to the ultimate result of the bills so far at least as the Legislature was concerned.

It is expected that Governor Murphy will give his executive sanction to the bills in the course of a few days and then will come the proclamation for an election. The first measure to be acted upon by the people is the annexation question, to which the Senate attached a referendum before it was finally disposed of by the House. In this only the people of the borough are primarily interested and hence only they will have the right to vote when the election takes place. The next meeting of the Borough Council will be held a week from tonight, Friday evening, April 4. At this session the subject will be given full consideration, and a time will no doubt be appointed for such election.

The only question to come before the voters is simply the proposition of the annexation of that part of Somerset county, which now forms the borough of North Plainfield, to Union county. It has nothing to do with the question of consolidation of the borough and the city, which is an entirely separate matter to be taken up and voted upon at some future date.

It is the contention of those advocating annexation that the interests of North Plainfield are more identified with Union county than with agricultural Somerset. They declare that by the change North Plainfield has everything to gain and nothing to lose, especially as the taxes in Union county are much lower. The army of annexationists is gaining recruits every day and many who were formerly opposed to the project now candidly admit that their objection came from a misapprehension.

Other Meetings.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, March 27. The Methodist conferance will be held at St. James M. E. church, this city, beginning April 2. On that day the annual meeting of the Woman Home Missionary Society will be held at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon and at the same hour on the following day the annual meeting of the Womans Foreign Missionary Society will be held.

Additions to His Home.

Building Inspector T. O. Doane has granted a permit to John V. Beekman for the construction of some extensive additions to his residence at 216 West Eighth street. William H. Pangborn will do the mason work and C. M. Wilson the carpenter work. The estimated cost of the improvement is $3,000.

Another Case.

A four-year-old daughter of William Perrine, of 36 Harmony street, has been taken ill with diphtheria and another child is threatened. A few days ago a young boy died in this family with the same disease.

Sunday-Schools Reports.

At the Easter services in the First Baptist church Sunday afternoon there will be reports of the Sunday-schools for the past year.

Annual Church Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will be held Sunday, April 6, and not Saturday, April 5, as reported.

DUMONT WILL HEAD HILLSIDE CLUB TEAM

Chosen Captain of Golf Team for Hillside Tennis and Golf Club This Season.

GAMES ARE SCHEDULED

TEAM WILL LOSE SOME OF THE CLUB'S BEST PLAYERS.

How Places on Team Will be Held—Golf and Tennis Committees Held a Meeting Wednesday Night.

Looking toward the formal opening of the season at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, the golf and tennis committees met, Wednesday evening, at the home of Thomas R. VanBoskerck, chairman of the golf committee, to discuss plans for the same. There was a talk about the various golf cups to be played for and dates for tennis events.

As for the tennis there are four new courts for play and there is now one club cup, which is held at present by T. M. Day, Jr. It is proposed to hold an open tennis tournament and invite the crack players of the country to take part. Then there will be special holiday play.

It is proposed to make the coming season one of the best in golf. If possible an effort will be made to have a strong team to represent the club. Morris J. Dumont was appointed captain for the team and the selection of a team will begin as soon as possible.

Mr. Dumont's plan is to select a dozen players and from that number chose seven men for "regulars." Then they will be expected to accept challenges for play. In this way they will have an opportunity to show their right to be on the team. This plan will prove an incentive to those on the team to remain there, while others will have an incentive to work earnestly to get on the team. Mr. Dumont believes that in this way a first-class team can be formed.

The club will probably suffer the loss this season of Frank O. Reinhart and J. Whitney Baker, who will play on the Princeton team; W. L. Glenney, who will be with the Columbia team; and Willard Wadsworth, who will play with the Harvard team. This is regretted, but cannot be helped.

Thus far, eight team matches have been arranged with Englewood, Montclair, Harbor Hill and Hackensack, and it is likely that games will be arranged with Essex County, Baltusrol, Richmond County and Knollwood. As soon as the last named clubs arrange their schedules they will be fixed to include Hillside.

As previously stated the Hillside course is in fine condition. Within a few days surveyors will go over the entire course and rearrange the distances for the new score cards. It is now proposed to formally open the course Saturday, April 19. This will be done unless the weather is such as to make it impossible. In a short time the golf committee will make its announcements for the season.

MANY RENTALS.

WOMEN FOR GUESTS.

Court Watchung, I. O. F., Will be "At Home" to Its Friends Thursday, April 10.

Court Watchung, No. 3,871, Independent Order of Foresters, met last evening in G. A. R. Hall. There was a large attendance and much business was transacted.

The court decided to entertain the friends of the order on the next meeting night, Thursday, April 10. A fine programme will be presented. It is the desire of the members that the women have an opportunity of trying the new parlor bowling alley, which they won at a recent contest among Foresters. A prize worthy to be contested for will be offered to the woman who makes the best score.

Later in the month the court promises to give an entertainment in the way of refined ministrelsy. Some of the best soloists in the city will take part.

LOYAL ADDITION TO MEET

THE GRAND COUNCIL CONVENES AT NEWARK, APRIL 15.

Was Started as a Branch of Royal Arcanum, But Has Since Become Independent.

The Grand Council of New Jersey, Loyal Additional Benefit Association, will hold its annual meeting in Newark April 15. Last year the council voted to meet in Paterson this year, but on account of the recent fire in that city, the executive committee has decided to hold the session in Newark. Grand Councillor H. A. Folger will preside at the meeting, which will be attended by all the lodges.

When the association started it was a branch of the Royal Arcanum. As its name indicates, it offered additional insurance to the members of that order who cared to join. It was successful from the start, and grew to such an extent that councils were organized in New York and other States. Two years ago it was determined to form the association into a separate order from the Arcanum.

Since that time the growth has been even greater than before. One of the matters to come up before the delegates at the coming Grand Council session will be the proposition to change the name by dropping the word "additional," for the reason that the word has lost its distinctive meaning.

Paulus Hook Council, of Jersey City, is the largest in New Jersey, having 143 members. Arlington Council, of Arlington, is second, and Essex Council, of East Orange, is third. The two latter are strong rivals for second place. Hamilton Council, of Paterson, and Capital City Council, of Trenton, are both large councils, and the other branches in New Jersey are in a flourishing condition.

UNION COMMUNION SERVICE.

Two Local Presbyterian Churches United in Service Last Night.

An event that was thoroughly in keeping with the time was the union communion service of the Crescent Avenue and First Presbyterian church, held in the latter church last evening. This is the first time that a similar kind of a service has been held. There was a very large attendance of the members of both churches.

Rev. Charles E. Herring and Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards were in charge of the service and each made remarks appropriate to Holy Week, after which the Lord's Supper was celebrated. There was a deep and profound interest manifested and all seemed deeply impressed with the solemnity of the occasion.

CHURCH ELECTION.

Congregation of Grace M. E. Church Will Soon Choose Its Officers.

A meeting of the congregation of Grace M. E. church will be held Wednesday evening, April 2. The purpose is to elect four trustees, three for the full term of three years and one for an unexpired term.

Dr. H. K. Carroll, John Valiant and E. E. Winckler are the three whose terms terminate. John Steiner has tendered his resignation and his place will be filled. In all probability Messrs. Valiant, Carroll and Winckler will be re-elected. The polls will be open from 7:45 until 9:15 o'clock.

Talk to Library Staff.

Miss Arnold, of the Seminary, gave a very interesting talk to the members of the Public Library staff last evening, the subject being "The Great Hall of William Rufus." The talk was illustrated by photographs and was much enjoyed by the hearers.

DEATH OF A LAWYER.

Charles VanWinkle, Former Plainfielder, Died at Mt. Horeb.

Charles VanWinkle, aged thirty-eight, a former well known resident of this city, died at the home of his mother, Mrs. Israel Acams, of Mount Horeb, yesterday morning. He was in excellent health until Wednesday night, when he complained of feeling ill. Death was caused by heart trouble.

Van Winkle was lawyer and studied with Craig A. Marsh, J. W. Jackson and Walter L. Hetfield, Sr. He was at one time in partnership with the latter. He left this city about four years go and was preparing to resume his practice at Bernardsville.

The funeral services will be held from the Mount Horeb church, Sunday afternoon.

Application Night.

The members of Company K have arranged for a smoker to be held Wednesday evening, April 16. This will be known as "application night," it being the desire of Captain Browning to secure enough members to guarantee a full company to go to Sea Girt this summer. Admission to the smoker will be by card.

Changed Business Position.

Wm. E. Cadmus, formerly of this city but now of Brooklyn, recently changed his position. He is now associated with P. A. Meehan, dealer in lubricating oils, etc., at 18 Burling Slip, New York. Mr. Cadmus has for a portion of his territory all of New Jersey. Mr. Cadmus spent yesterday with friends in this city.

W. C. T. U. Work in Somerset.

Mrs. E. Norine Law, of Detroit, a noted member and worker in the W. T. T. U., has been engaged to make a tour of Somerset county in behalf of the Union. She will endeavor to awaken interest in the organization.

—Included in Neuman Brothers' line of vegetables tomorrow will be fresh asparagus, green beans, tomatoes, Boston head lettuce, cucumbers, egg plant and celery.

THE ANNUAL SESSION OF CHAPEL WORKERS

Ladies' Aid Society of Warren Chapel Held Its Annual Meeting Yesterday.

THE OFFICERS CHOSEN.

SEVERAL ADDRESSES MADE ON WORK AT THE MISSION FIELDS.

Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman Was Re-elected President of the Society—The Other Officers—Reports Were Encouraging.

As is usual at all the meetings, there was a large attendance at the regular annual session of the Ladies' Aid Society, the chief missionary organization of Warren chapel, held yesterday afternoon. The reports were such as would enthuse the most dispirited mission worker.

Mrs. Henry R. Halloway, the secretary of literature in the missionary society of the Crescent Avenue church, was present and made an address on the subject of the aim and needs of literature in advancing missionary work. She displayed copies of mission periodicals and tracts and showed how beneficial they could be in enlisting interest in the undertaking.

Miss Mary Ketcham, who is also connected with the missionary society of the Crescent Avenue church, related the amount of work done by that society during the past year, which was decidingly encouraging.

The annual report of the secretary showed that the meetings during the past year were well attended and much good had been done. Four huge boxes had been sent to missionaries in the west and the total value of these was $300. The report made by the treasurer showed that the finances of the society are in good condition and the prospects for the coming year especially bright.

Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman, to whom much credit is due for the presen excellent condition of the organization, was re-elected president. The other officers chosen were: First vice president, Mrs. Charles Wheeler; second vice president, Mrs. Gibson Smith; secretary, Mrs. Joseph Gavett; treasurer, Mrs. Louis Ely.

At the conclusion of the business meeting dainty refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed by the members.

RUTGERS CLAIM.

s Being Carefully Investigated by Commission and Will Be Reported Next Winter.

The commission appointed by Governor Murphy to investigate the Rutgers College claim of $131,000 for the State free scholarships, did not make a report to the present Legislature. The commission has its own time, and is going into the matter very thoroughly, particularly as to the question of continuing the free scholarships. This means that the Rutgers claim against the State Treasury must slumber for another year at least.

The commissioners are: Amzi Dodd, of Newark; William H. Corbin, of Elizabeth, and Charles J. Baxter, State Superintendent of Schools, of this city.

FRIENDS HELPED HIM.

Chas. Hartfelder Celebrated His Twenty-Fourth Birthday.

In honor of the anniversary of his twenty-fourth birthday, Charles Hartfelder, of Whitewood avenue, entertained a dozen friends, last evening. Features of the evening were phonograph selections under the supervision of Sylvanus Hoffman, banjo-mandolin selections by Joseph Loughead and piano and vocal selections by Augustus Feiring. An elaborate supper was served at midnight. The center of the table was adorned with a large birthday cake surmounted by the needed number of candles to represent Mr. Hartfelder's years.

OPENED WITH HOP.

Mt. Bethel Hotel Was Opened Wednesday for the Season.

The Mount Bethel Hotel was opened Wednesday evening, for the season. The occasion was marked by a successful hop which was attended by a large number of young people from this city. This will be a feature of the hotel social life, this season, a dance having been arranged for each Saturday night beginning with April 6. Professor O'Reilly will furnish the music.

HOLDING UP BOROUGH WORK

Somerset County Freeholders Trying to "Get Square" With the Annexation Advocates.

STOPPED BRIDGE WORK.

Old Bridge Over Stony Brook Removed Yesterday and Committee From Freeholders Has Stopped Work on New One Pending Annexation Question.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, March 28 — Because North Plainfield successfully advocated the Greater Plainfield bills before the Legislature, a committee of the Somerset county Board of Freeholders has retaliated by holding up county work in the borough of North Plainfield. The committee, which has in charge the building of a new bridge to replace the old one over Stony brook at the terminus of the Somerset street trolley, held a meeting yesterday afternoon and ordered the contractor to cease work until the decision of the annexation question is learned.

Much feeling and adverse criticism has been caused by the act and it is said that instead of helping the scheme of the opponents of the measure it will advance the cause of annexation.

A new bridge at Giraud avenue, as desired by the boroughites as well as by the freeholders of Union county, was made impossible by the attitude of the Somerset county freeholders some time ago and now this new move has served to increase the feeling against Somerset county's board.

The iron work for the new bridge had been ordered from W. T. Kirk, and yesterday the contractor removed the old structure which, it is said, was sold to Dr. Cooley. Everything was in readiness for placing the new bridge in position when the committee on the bridge ordered that work be suspended. The reason given was that the committee intended to delay the improvement until the question of annexation is decided by the people in North Plainfield. In the meantime, the borough will have to get along the best it can.

William J. Logan, who made a speech against the measure before the Senatorial judiciary committee, is a member of this committee. The other members are John B. Bunn, Joel Coddintgon, Gus Mobus, Cornelius VanCleef and Andrew Lutkins. Freeholder Lutkins was absent on account of illness.

QUIETLY WEDDED.

Miss Annie LaTourette Became Wife of James Henry Symonds.

Miss Annie LaTourette, and James Henry Symonds, both of East Fifth street, were married at the home of Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, on West Front street, at noon Wednesday. The marriage was a quiet one only the relatives and a few immediate friends being present.

Miss Mabel Kenney, a step-sister of the bride, acted as bridemaid and Wiliam I. Banford, of Westerly, R. I., an intimate friend of the groom, was best man. After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Symonds left for a short wedding trip. The bride is a daughter of Peter H. LaTourette. Mr. Symonds is a machinist.

DIDN'T HOLD MOONEY.

Justice Hand Passed on Complaint of Michael Kiely for Fighting.

After hearing considerable testimony in the case of Michael Kiely against John Mooney, on a charge of assault, Justice Hand, yesterday afternoon, dismissed the complaint He held that the evidence was insufficient to warrant holding the defendant. Mooney is the bartender in a saloon in which he and Kiely figured in a fight. Kiely will appear before City Judge Runyon tomorrow morning.

At Reform Club.

An entertaining programme was given by the Reform Club at its meeting last evening. Richard Foote enacted "The Old Guard" and Miss Susanne Kranz sang several selections. Some piano solos were rendered by Miss Hoffman.

—B. W. Hand, newsdealer, has opened an office at 310 West Front street. Orders received and promptly attended to.

EVERY DAY HAPPENINGS ON HUNTERDON ROADS

The Democrat-Advertiser, of Flemington, Tells Some Results of Lack of Good Roads.

AWFUL CONDITION NOW.

ACCIDENTS ARE DUE TO HUNTERDON COUNTY'S PRESENT POLICY.

Awful Condition of Roads in County Whose Officials Have Refused to Take Advantage of State Aid in Building Permanent Roads.

Perhaps no better illustration of the results of Hunterdon county's foolish policy of refusing to build good roads can be found than an article which appeared in last week's issue of the Democrat-Advertiser, published at Flemington, the county seat of Hunterdon county. Under the title of "The Horrors of Our Driveways," it enumerates some of the troubles which have resulted directly from the failure of the Hunterdon authorities to take advantage of the State road aid law and build decent thoroughfares.

The Democrat-Advertiser says:

"They were never worse nor more treacherous than now, those roads of good old Hunterdon. The middle are washed into the gutters, leaving great ruts and holes full of danger. It is going to cost several dollars to put them into even as good condition as before—and that was nothing to brag of.

"On Saturday two young fellows were driving on an easy jog along the road leading to Sand Brook. They had a light spring wagon and it had on about twenty-five bundles of cornstalks. A mile west of Flemington they came to a stop so suddenly that the thud disturbed the cream on a pan of milk in George Vansinderin's dairy hard by. The wagon had got into a 'chuck hole.' The young men flourished the whip and laid it upon the horses, but it was no use. Try as they would the willing team could not pull out. Finally the stalks were thrown off the wagon—to 'lighten ship,' as they say at sea—but still the wagon stuck there, like the mortgage upon our house. As a last resort the horses were hitched to the end of the pole, and this bringing the horses upon more solid footing they dragged the wagon out of the cellar, so to speak.

"An hour later, on the same road, near Asa H. Fisher's farm, a couple of men were hauling a load of twenty-five or thirty live pigs in a double-deck wagon, driving toward Pennsylvania, having four big strong horses hitched. The wagon ran into one of the road gulches. In pulling to get out, a trace broke, a horse or two got down, and to add to the sorry plight, the big wagon upset, chucking the pigs into a fighting heap, taking the beautiful curl out of their tails, and attuning their voices to song such as had not been heard since the march of the last bagpipe band through that country. It was really enough to sour a barrel of swill, and bring from its depths the rind of the watermelon cast therein last summer. The wagon could not be righted with the weight of the floundering shotes inside and they had to be liberated. As soon as they were free they started off in wild run like thoroughbred razorbacks, and only a part of them could be recaptured. The balance are running yet for all that we know. The mussy accident caused a delay of several hours.

"One of Baker Charles Raube's men was delivering bread and cake on the Sand Brook route last Thursday afternoon. The wagon stuck fast and the horse had to be unhitched and ridden home, leaving the wagon there in the road, as firm as Bartholdi's statue in New York Harbor until next morning, when two horses and some men pulled and pried it out.

"Wilson & Holcombe, the Ringoes undertakers, were returning from the funeral of Miss Rebecca Dilts, aged ninety years, at Montgomery, last Thursday, the burial being at Clover Hill. Near the farm of J. Rutsen Schenck their hearse stuck in the mud. The horses had no footing, and in their noble effort to pull out broke both whiffletrees. In the desperate struggle one of the horses cut its fore leg. Help arrived and the hearse was gotten out.

"But all roads are alike. Reports of horses falling down come from all sections. In driving up from Reaville Monday morning both of Martin Bellis' horses fell in the bottomless road. The great danger holes could not be seen and avoided on account of the covering of mud and water. On another road, near this town, Isaac Glass was driving his old junk wagon. His horse stumbled into a hole and went down quick, like the price of eggs. A lot of men pulled him out with ropes.

"The roads are absolutely unfit for the uses to which they were dedicated away back in the centuries of time. Doctor Conover, of our town, whose business calls him far and wide, says that the driveways are so soft and yielding that every time a horse puts his foot down upon them a post hole is made. That being true it seems a good time to fence them in, so that they may be preserved as relics of the progressiveness of the times in which we live."

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

The overwhelming public sentiment in favor of the Williams Anti-Pigeon Slaughtering bill has finally forced the release of the measure by its opponents in the House, and it has been triumphantly passed by the Assembly, only seven votes being recorded against it. There should be no delay in having it presented to the Senate. The belief is prevalent at Trenton that the bill will fail in the upper house, not because the Senators are opposed to it, but for the reason that the trap-shooters boast that they will prevent it from reaching a vote. No further trickery should be tolerated in this matter. Any Senator who permits himself to be made the tool of the pigeon slaughterers may rest assured that his record will not be forgotten. —Newark News.

While the political features in the question would certainly make a partisan legislature hesitate to annex North Plainfield to Plainfield, and thus make Somerset county very close, if not altogether, a safe Democratic county, and the Fourth Congressional District even closer one than it now is, and thus help the Democrats; yet as a matter of right there is every reason why the bill should be passed. North Plainfield, is in reality a part of Plainfield, nothing but an imaginary line dividing the two places. They should be under the same government. For the real welfare of the people of North Plainfield, as well as those of Plainfield, this is admitted by all. That it would affect the Republican vote is true, and therefore it may be assured that the bill will never become a law.—Hunterdon County Democrat.

The loss of North Plainfield would reduce Somerset from a third to a fourth-class county, and would diminish, by at least one-quarter, the fees of all the county officers. These, however, have little weight with the mass of the people. Their objections are based on the grounds that Somerset cannot afford to lose more than $2,500,000 of taxable property just at a time when it will probably be needed. For a number of years the county taxes raised in North Plainfield have been more than returned in expenditures there for stone roads and expensive bridges, but now the necessity for new county buildings in the near future would give the borough an opportunity to reciprocate. Added to this is the sting, to budding Republican statesmen, of knowing that with the loss of North Plainfield would vanish the last hope of being able to again carry the county.—Somerset Messenger.

A STRIKE POSTPONED

Conference Before Civic Federation In New York.

MINE WORKERS AND OWNERS MEET

Chairman Hanna of the Conciliation Committee Will Call Another Meeting and Considers an Agreement Probable.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Mine workers and mine owners of the anthracite fields debated their differences for four hours yesterday in a conference arranged by the conciliation committee of the National Civic federation, but the meeting was without result save that the workers agreed not to strike on April 1, as decreed at the Shamokin convention. There is to be further friendly discussion between the two interests, and Senator Hanna as chairman of the industrial department of the federation was empowered to call another conference at any favorable time within the next thirty days.

The workers asked for an increase in pay, a shortening of the working day to eight hours and the adoption of a scale for the entire district. The operators declined to grant the demands as to time and pay and refused to permit the complete unionization of their properties. The operators offered to meet employees with grievances at any time, but insisted that there be no distinction between union and nonunion men. They also asserted that present market conditions did not warrant any increase in wages or a decrease in working time.

Senator Hanna, Oscar Straus and Frank Duncan, a subcommittee named by the conciliators, arranged for the conference, which was held at the

MARCUS A. HANNA.

Church Mission House. The operators present were W. H. Truesdale, president of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western railroad; E. B. Thomas, chairman of the board of the Erie railroad; George S. Baer of the Reading railroad and Robert Olyphant, president of the Delaware and Hudson company, while the spokesmen for the miners were John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers' association, and three district presidents of that organizations—Thomas Nicholls, John Fahy and Thomas Duffy.

Mr. Mitchell is to withdraw the order temporarily to give opportunity for the second conference, which Senator Hanna is to call. When Senator Hanna came from the conference room he said:

"The miners' representatives have pledged themselves to withdraw the threat of a partial strike on April 1. Both sides are to take time to consider the representations made today, and in thirty days or at call the committee is to meet and hear the results of this deliberation. An agreement seems likely."

Dowieites Quarantined.

CHICAGO, March 28.—Discovery of smallpox in the building on Michigan avenue occupied by John Alexander Dowie as a college, chapel, hotel and publication office of Leaves of Healing has resulted in 173 Dowieites being quarantined there. Even if no new cases of the disease shall develop these followers of Dowie and nearly a score of servants employed in the place will not be allowed to leave it for twenty days. Three policemen guard the entrances and exits of the building, formerly the Hotel Norwood, and doors and windows on the ground floor have been barred and locked to prevent any one leaving the building.

A Gift to the Catholic University.

BOSTON, March 28.—The will of Mrs. Sarah Ferris Devlin, filed for probate here, gives $50,000 to the Catholic University of Washington "for the erection of a library building or such other building as the university is most in need of, in the opinion of its executive officer." Bequests of $5,000 each are given to four Catholic charities in Boston.

Berlin's Population.

BERLIN, March 28.—A census of this city gives the population at 1,901,567. The increase in population during the last year is only 12,857 as against an increase of 42,493 for the preceding year. This falling off in the yearly increase is attributed to the movement of the inhabitants to the suburbs as a result of electric traction.

A Transport From Manila.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 28.—The transport Egbert has arrived from Manila with a battalion of the Twenty-eighth infantry and 325 discharged men from the Philippines.

An Immense Log Drive.

UTICA, N. Y., March 28.—The Pullman Lumber company has started their drive of 1,500,000 feet of logs out on the land of W. S. Decamp in the Adirondacks.

TALK WITH GUEVARRA.

Insurgent Leader and Band to Surrender April 15.

MANILA, March 28.—General Smith, who is in command of the American forces on the island of Samar, had a three hour interview Wednesday with the insurgent general Guevarra and several officers of his command. Guevarra succeeded General Lukban as insurgent leader in Samar and has signified his intention of surrendering to the American authorities. It was arranged between General Smith and Guevarra that the latter, with the entire force under his command and all their rifles, would surrender April 15. The serviceable rifles to be turned over number 250. Of these 125 are Krag-Jorgensens.

General Smith, referring to his interview, said he was surprised at Guevarra's bearing and that the insurgent leader impressed him as being a man of resource and devoted to a high purpose.

At the continuation of the trial by court martial of Major L. W. T. Waller of the marine corps for the execution without trial of natives on Samar island a native scout by the name of Smoke was on the stand.

Smoke testified to the existence of a plot among the native bearers of the Waller expedition to murder Major Waller and Lieutenant Williams. He said that when the marines had rations they shared them with the natives. The scout also said that he personally had suffered severely from hunger.

It is believed that the cholera here has abated. The cases recorded are of a milder form, and Americans here have ceased to be alarmed concerning the outbreak. The disease has been entirely confined to natives and Chinamen.

According to the statement of the medical authorities, there have been since the beginning of the outbreak sixty-seven cases of cholera and forty-eight deaths from the disease.

Miss Stone En Route.

VIENNA, March 28.—Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary, passed through Vienna last night on her way to London. Miss Stone appeared to have recovered from the effects of her captivity better than was expected by those who saw her at the time of her release. She said to a press representative: "I have daily become better since I was liberated. This I owe mainly to the fact that for many years I have been accustomed to the air and food of the locality where I was a prisoner. The brigands treated me and Mme. Tsilka as well as they could. They told us it was to their interest to keep us in as good health as possible as nobody would pay ransom for us if we were dead. Indeed they did the best they could. My companion, Mme. Tsilka, bore all the hardships bravely. I can only say the best about her as well as about her husband, whose reported arrest for complicity in our abduction is quite absurd. The Rev. Mr. Tsilka is an honest and intelligent man. He is quite incapable of a dishonest act."

Floods In North Dakota.

BISMARCK, N. D., March 28.—The tie-up of the Northern Pacific road at McKenzie is complete, and there are no indications of relief. Water covers the track to a depth of several feet for a distance of two miles. It rose seven inches during the night and, with a high wind, is washing the roadbed badly. Attempts to transfer passengers from east to west bound trains have been abandoned, the mud being so deep that teams could make no progress. Settlers on the lowlands have been forced to abandon their houses. All the country roads are almost impassable, and many bridges over creeks and streams are gone. The high water all through this section is unprecedented. The ice in the Missouri river is expected to break up at any time.

Two Sheriffs In Brooklyn.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Counsel for Norman S. Dike has filed an amended appeal from the order of Justice Gaynor in which the latter ordered Colonel Dike to turn over to Charles Guden the books and papers of the sheriff's office of Kings county under penalty of being locked up in the Raymond street jail. Both sheriffs are doing business in the courthouse. Sheriff Guden has opened up an entirely new set of books and, though he is a little cramped for room, declares that he is happy. He has a sign up, but has no jail in which to put prisoners if any come to him.

Big Strike Ordered.

LOWELL, Mass., March 28.—The textile council has voted to order a strike in the cotton mills of this city on March 31 because of the refusal of the mill agents to grant a 10 per cent increase in wages in conformity to the wage increase at Fall River. The council consists of representatives of the several unions of mill trades, including the spinners', which claims to have in its membership every cotton spinner both ring and mule, in the city. The strike will directly affect about 20,000 operatives.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

NEW JERSEY LEGISLATURE.

Final Adjournment Taken After a Long and Busy Day.

TRENTON, N. J., March 28.—It was nearly midnight, actual time, when the legislature carried out its programme of adjouring sine die. The resolution providing for final adjournment fixed the hour for 3 p. m. A few minutes before that hour both houses were still confronted with a lot of work, and the clocks in the two chambers were stopped at ten minutes of 3, and the work of passing bills continued until 6 o'clock, when a recess was taken until 8 o'clock. At 8 o'clock the houses again convened, with the clocks still pointing to ten minutes of 3, and continued their work for fully three hours more.

Among the bills that passed either the senate or house yesterday and thereby completed the passage through the two houses were these: Increasing the appropriation for the Trenton armory to $250,000, enlarging the powers of the state board of children's guardians, permitting the use of voting machines, the Orange garbage contract bill, supplement to the supplemental appropriation bill appropriating $50,000 for a state home for consumptives, fixing the salary of the attorney general at $7,000 in lieu of all fees, providing that the excise boards of Camden and Trenton shall be composed of five members and that each party can nominate five candidates and amending the Voorhees franchise tax act so as to overcome the supreme court opinion that the law as it now stands exempts companies with special charters.

The proceedings in the house were interrupted to permit the presentation of a handsome clock to the speaker and other presents to the important officers of the assembly. The presentation speeches were made by minority members, and the speaker was particularly complimented upon the fairness of his rulings during the session.

The usual complimentary resolutions were adopted in the senate.

Rhodes' Last Resting Place.

LONDON, March 28.—In a dispatch from Cape Town the correspondent there of The Daily Mail says that Cecil Rhodes selected the spot where he desired to be interred and gave instructions to an architect concerning the memorial to be erected when he last visited the Matoppo hills. The place of interment is beneath a natural cairn of giant bowlders on a kopje adjoining that on which Major Wilson's little force made its last stand. The memorial to be erected will be a prominent feature of the striking landscape. The date of the interment of the body of Mr. Rhodes is doubtful, says the correspondent of The Daily Mail, owing to the necessity of the construction of a special carriage road from Bulawayo. At present there is nothing more than a bridle path. Work on this road has already commenced, but its completion will require one month.

Will Hold Manchuria.

LONDON, March 28.—In a dispatch from Moscow the correspondent of The Daily Graphic gives an interview with a Russian staff officer who has returned from Amur, Siberia. The correspondent quotes this officer as saying that the Anglo-Japanese alliance has sealed the political destiny of Manchuria, which, says the officer, will never pass out of Russia's possession. The brigandage rampant there will be used as justification for the retention of a powerful Russian army. After the brigands have been suppressed the Russians will remain in Manchuria to protect their railway and secure peace in northern China.

Sons Robbed Mother.

BEATRICE, Neb., March 28.—William and Frank Skrable have been arrested and brought to this city, charged with robbing their mother, Mrs. Josephine Skrable, of $2,700. Frank has confessed that he and his brother took the money, but says his brother persuaded him to participate in the theft. Mrs. Skrable, a widow, was robbed Feb. 1 of $2,700, part of which had been hidden in a chicken coop. She engaged a detective, and the arrests are the result. Part of the money was found at William Skrable's place.

Troops Ready to Come Home.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Quartermaster General Ludington has instructed the depot quartermaster at New York city to make prompt arrangements for the transportation of all the troops in Cuba ordered to various points in the United States. The department has been advised by General Wood that all the troops are ready to move from Cuba at any time, except eight troops of cavalry at Havana and two troops of cavalry at Santiago, which will remain on the island until May 20.

Venezuela Revolutionists Defeated.

WILLEMSTAD, Curacao, March 28.—It is learned here that the Venezuelan government has received a report to the effect that General Varela has defeated the revolutionists under Montilla in the state of Coro, who have been trying to effect a junction with General Riera and his forces. General Riera is also said to have suffered heavy losses at the hands of the government forces.

A Miraculous Escape.

MOUNT VERNON, N. Y., March 28.—Frank Patterson of Portchester fell from a flagpole 130 feet high and escaped with a slight bruise of an arm. The flagpole on top of a new hotel broke as Patterson was working on it. "No more flagpoles for me," were Patterson's first words on recovering from the shock of the fall.

Armor Plate Tested.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—A six inch plate, representing group 2 of the side armor for the battleship Ohio passed a successful test at the Indian Head proving ground.

BRIBERY IS CHARGED

Democratic Leader Richardson Causes a Sensation.

THE DANISH ISLANDS SALE SCANDAL

Committee Appointed to Investigate Alleged Use of a Five Hundred Thousand Dollar Corruption Fund by Captain Christmas.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—A genuine sensation was caused in the house yesterday by the presentation by Mr. Richardson (Tenn.), the Democratic leader, of charges alleging the corrupt use of a fund of $500,000 in connection with the sale of the Danish West Indies. The charges were contained in an alleged secret report of Captain Walter Christmas to the Danish government, which declared that he had employed corrupt means to bring the negotiations for the sale of the islands to a consummation. The report, extracts from which Mr. Richardson read, mentioned the names of Abner McKinley and his partner, Colonel Brown; C. W. Knox, who was described as "an intimate friend of Senator Hanna;" Richard P. Evans, who was said to represent "Mr. Gardner and his friends in the house," and two press associations, the names of which were not given, as having been interested in the matter. The charges against members of congress were not specified.

Upon the basis of this report Mr. Richardson asked the adoption of a resolution for the appointment of an investigating committee of seven. The speaker ruled that the matter was privileged after Mr. Richardson had amended his resolution so as to specifically include members of the house. Great excitement attended the whole proceeding. Mr. Cannon (Ill.) insisted that Mr. Richardson's presentation was fragmentary and that the whole matter should go over until today in order that members might read the documents presented, which included newspaper extracts, affidavits, etc., in the record. Christmas, he declared, on his own statement was a briber and worse. But the house voted down the motion to postpone, and the resolution, after being amended in minor particulars, was adopted. The speaker immediately appointed the following committee to make the investigation: Messrs. Dalzell (Rep., Pa.), Hitt (Rep., Ill.), Cousins (Rep., Ia.), McCall (Rep., Mass.), Richardson (Dem., Tenn.), Dinsmore (Dem., Ark.) and Cowherd (Dem., Mo.).

The army appropriation bill was subsequently passed without material amendment, and a rule was adopted to make the bill to retire officers of the revenue cutter service a continuing order until disposed of, the order not to interfere with appropriation or revenue bills or conference reports.

In the senate Mr. Harris (Kan.) and Mr. Quarles (Wis.) spoke at length on the oleomargarine bill. Mr. Harris supported the measure, but urged that an amendment which he proposed placing a tax of 10 cents a pound on adulterated butter and regulating the manufacture and sale of renovated butter ought to be adopted.

Mr. Quarles vigorously denounced the oleomargarine industry as at present conducted as a fraud and insisted that in the interest not only of the five million of dairymen, but also in the interest of the whole American people, the pending bill ought to be enacted into law.

WHAT RECORDS WILL SHOW.

The State Department Dealt With Danish Government Direct.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—It is said that the answer of the state department to the Richardson resolution directing an investigation into the charges made in connection with the Danish West Indian treaty will disclose the fact that, according to the record, the United States government has refused to have to do with any persons as a party to the treaty who were not directly connected with the Danish government. The department also placed on record its determination to pay no commission to any person on account of the cession of the islands. It will be pointed out that our government had no right to dictate to the Danish government as to what it should do in the matter of paying commissions.

As it has been assumed in some quarters that the failure of congress to appropriate the $5,000,000 which was to be paid for the islands would in itself cause a failure of the transfer of the territory, it may be said that the construction of the treaty at the state department is that directly upon the exchange of ratifications the islands become the property of the United States without waiting for the payment of the money, and the failure of congress to make the appropriation would simply leave outstanding a debt of honor against us.

He Is Bound to Preach.

ARDMORE, I. T., March 28.—Rev. E. Lamar, the Holiness preacher who shot and killed Colvin Van Winkle in front of his church at Cumberland Sunday night, has been bound over without bail and placed in jail here to await the action of the grand jury. He refuses to make a statement and spends his time preaching to his fellow prisoners.

Texas Postmaster Shot to Kill.

WASHINGTON, March 28.—Postmaster General Payne has received the following telegram from Postmaster John R. Guyer of Clayton, N. M.: "I was attacked in the postoffice and in defense of myself and my office shot and killed a man. Particulars by mail."

Kaiser's Yacht Returns.

BERLIN, March 28.—The imperial yacht Hohenzollern has arrived at Brunsbuttel. She will proceed to Kiel.

OPEN FOR DISCUSSION.

The three bills, which are destined to bring about the long desired Greater Plainfield, have been passed by both houses of the State Legislature and now await the signature of Governor Murphy. That he will sign them is a foregone conclusion. While the bills were not passed exactly as they were introduced, there has been no change in the spirit of these measures. The amendment made was simply to add a referendum provision to the bill which changes the county line.

It is with much satisfaction that we realize that the day is not far distant when Green brook will no longer serve to divide this community against itself. The Daily Press has always been a staunch advocate of the Greater Plainfield project and today takes the same stand that it did years ago when the subject was first discussed. We believe the two municipalities should be consolidated and their union as a part of Union county seems, today, the only feasible way in which that end may be accomplished. Even without consolidation, there can be no doubt that North Plainfield belongs to Union county instead of to Somerset.

The first question which the people of North Plainfield will have to pass upon will be that of changing the county line so that the borough will become a part of Union county. It is probable that a special election, as provided by the bill, will be called for no distant day, to vote upon the question.

This is a subject which should be thoroughly and fairly discussed. There are two sides to every question but it certainly looks as if every material interest of North Plainfield would be benefitted by its annexation to Union county. The columns of The Daily Press will now be open for any fair communications of the subject and we will gladly publish such open letters as the press of news permits. It is an important question and the ideas of all will be heard with interest. It is particularly requested that, if possible, all communications be signed with the writer's name for publication. No attention will be paid to any which do not bear the name of the contributor for our information if not for publication.

FAREWELL TO THE PASTOR

RECEPTION GIVEN TO REV. G. W. GARDNER BY GRACE M. E. CHURCH.

After Informal Programme, Addresses Were Made—Happy Climax to Friendly Relations.

One of the most cordial affairs, which has taken place in the history of Grace M. E. church, was the farewell reception given last night to the retiring pastor and his wife, Rev. and Mrs. G. W. Gardner. True sociability was the feature and the congregation and its friends completely outdid itself in an effort to make the reception a happy climax to the close relations existing between the pastor and his people.

An impromptu programme served to increase the enjoyment of the occasion. Several duets by Miss Alice Carroll, pianist, and Dyckman Winckler, violinist, were among the appreciated numbers. Miss Alice Carrroll favored the assemblage with a couple of solos rendered in pleasing voice while Miss Edna Sebring received applause for a piano selection.

John Valiant, superintendent of the Sunday-school, and a member of the official board, made an informal address in which he feelingly referred to the loss the church would suffer by the departure of the pastor and his wife. After wishing the clergyman all success in his future field of labor, the speaker called on him to make a few remarks. Rev. Mr. Gardner betrayed signs of deep emotion and it was impossible for him to reply.

The direction of the affair was directly under the supervision of the Ladies' Aid Society, although all the church organizations co-operated in the affair.

EXPERT HORSEMAN DEAD.

Charles Nichols, a Horse Trainer, Died in New Brunswick Hospital.

Charles Nichols, an expert horse man, who has lived in this vicinity for many years, died Wednesday night in a hospital at New Brunswick. When taken ill he was working for Peter C. Osborne, of New Market. For years he lived at Campbell's club-house, where he was a familiar figure.

Mr. Nichols had Indian blood in his veins and was considered to be one of the best judges of a horse in this vicinity. He leaves a mother, who lives in Rhode Island, also a brother who works for the Pullman Car Company, another brother in New York and a sister in the west.

HORSE NOT DELIVERED.

So Robert Catlin Has Been Arrested on Charge of Stealing E. S. Hooley's Horse.

Without looking up the man's previous record, James Frazer, coachman for E. S. Hooley, of Rockview avenue, turned over, Tuesday, to Robert Catlin, known as "English Bob," to be delivered in New York, a horse, harness and saddle in all valued at $400.

Yesterday word came that Catlin or the horse had not appeared and a complaint was preferred against the man, before Justice Mattison. Chief Kiely was also informed and, this morning, learned that the outfit had been sold in Vailsburg for $10. On the chief's description, Catlin was arrested and Sergeant Frederickson was sent after him this morning.

Catlin has worked about this city for five yeras and the police say he served a term for horse stealing some time ago.

DUNELLEN.

The marriage of Arthur Giddes and Miss Ida Wright, of West New Brighton, L. I., was celebrated at the home of the bride, 36 Bodine street, Wednesday evening. Mr. Giddes is very well known here as he is the son of Joel Giddes and lived here the greater part of his life. A large number of his relatives from this place attended. Miss Elizabeth Herlich, of this place, was maid-of-honor, and Albert Giddes, a brother of the groom, acted as best man. The officiating clergyman was Rev. A. C. McCrea.

The Dunellen Athletic Club will open the baseball season by a game April 9, with the North Plainfield High School team. It is possible that the local team may enter into a league composed of Scotch Plains, Bound Brook and the Clinton Avenue teams.

Barney Siriski has finished moving his barber shop into the Todd building. A large number of new fixtures have been added and the shop is now modern in every respect.

Miss Cornelia Herring, of Brooklyn, returns home tomorrow after a pleasant visit at the home of her cousin, Mrs. Beekman Conover, on Front street.

The Dunellen Juniors will play a game with a team from Plainfield on the latter's grounds tomorrow morning.

Mrs. E. Cottrelly has moved her dressmaking business from Plainfield to her house on Front street.

F. R. Wynkoop has taken possession of his house at the corner of Jackson avenue and Front street.

Arthur Giles, the local plumber, expects to move his business to Plainfield in the near future.

Manager McGovern, of the Lyceum A. C., is busy making out a schedule for the coming season.

Court Dunellen, I. O. F., will hold its regular bi-weekly session Monday evening.

NEW MARKET.

Mrs. William Dunham entertained Friendship Social Club at her home, Wednesday afternoon, in a pleasant manner. The afternoon was spent in the usual way and concluded with the serving of refreshments.

The report that C. E. Kelley & Company had disposed of their coal business to J. Y. Ruppel proves to be well founded. Mr. Kelley will still conduct the lumber and feed business.

The Piscataway Board of Education will hold a meeting in the school building this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

An excellent programme of special music will be rendered in the Seventh-Day Baptist church tomorrow.

The brass band held its regular weekly practice in Recreation Hall last evening.

Prayer meeting will be held in the First Baptist church this evening.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The drawing for a $50 diamond pin for the benefit of the baseball club will be held tomorrow night. One thousand tickets were out and nearly all are sold. The proceeds of the drawing will swell the club's treasury materially.

The Township Commtitee will meet in the town room tonight. Routine matters and approving the bonds of the newly-elected township officials will be the business transacted.

The baseball club has started rolling the diamond and clearing up the outfield so as to have the ground in first class shape for team practice which will begin now shortly.

Mr. Paul and family, of New York city, have rented the Marsh property on Union avenue, near the valley, for the summer and will take possession May 1.

Miss Mary Westcott and Miss May Shott, who are taking a course of study at Peddie Institute, Hightstown, are home for their Easter vacation.

John Patterson, who has been spending a few days with relatives and friends in town, has returned to his home at Morris Plains.

Friday evening prayer meeting will be held in the parlors of the Baptist church at 8 o'clock tonight.

John Wade, who has been ill for the past two weeks, is able to resume his position at the store again.

Twilight Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., met and transacted routine business in its rooms last night.

Horace Hand, of Plainfield, was the guest of friends in town last night.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

David Blackford received a consignment of Belgian hares by way of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, yesterday.

B. F. Frazee, a farmer hired by Geo. Ryno, has been entertaining relatives from Plainfield.

If the weather is good, there promises to be a good gathering on the local diamond tomorrow.

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

Don't spoil your Easter clothes by wearing an old pair of shoes. Go to Willett & Son and be fitted to a pair of patent leather shoes.

Easter kid gloves, true fit and style, are to be found at Peck's. The best make and the proper shade in a wide variety of sizes are constantly in stock.

VanArsdale is prepared for a good spring business. His men's department is filled with an assortment of shoes that alway sell, because they're the right sort. Read his ad.

The Rogers Sea Food Company will have another special sale tomorrow. A feature will be fine, fresh shad, direct from the nets. The display of all kinds of sea food is the largest in the city.

Collier, the Park avenue jeweller, is showing some decided novelties in silver suitable for birthday gifts. A fine line of watches and rings always on hand. Eyes examined free and glasses fitted.

It is not a mistake to "put your foot in it" when it comes to the Waldorf shoe. The shape of the footwear is not the least among its attractions. Call at the North avenue store and examine them.

If you have not yet selected your Easter suit of clothes don't fail to stop in Sebring's store in Park avenue and secure one of his stylish suitings. He is also displaying men's furnishings appropriate to the season.

It is surprising how quickly Woodhull & Martin recovered from the recent fire in the Babcock building. Their store is now filled with a choice line of spring and summer goods and as before the firm will continue in the future to sell the best goods at reasonable prices.

You'll not be able to knock holes in armor plate or in the annexation proposition, but your muscles will be considerably strengthened by taking E. S. F. Randolph's preparation of beef, iron, wine and pepsin. It is just the thing to build up a run down constitution.

Nothing is nicer for the table at this time of the year than fresh vegetables. At Walsh's North avenue fruit and vegetable market there is one of the finest displays to be found in the city. It includes fancy strawberries, radishes, cauliflower, cucumber, spinach and new potatoes.

The interior of Woodhull & Martin's store gives little evidence of the disastrous effects of the late fire. All the soiled goods have been disposed of, the store thoroughly cleaned and an immense stock of new fresh goods added. They are now in a position to care for the wants of their friends as before.

In another column will be found the catchy ad of Frederick H. Firstbrook, the enterprising Liberty street grocer. Everything mentioned is a bargain which carries with it as a special inducement, double green label trading stamps when the order is given Saturdays. Glance at the ad and then visit the store.

PERSONAL.

Miss Edith Hamilton, of Baltimore, is visiting at the home of her uncle, Mr. Jennings, of Rockview avenue.

Irving Clark, of Princeton University, has returned to his former home on Crescent avenue for the Easter vacation.

Practically Starving.

"After using a few bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure my wife received perfect and permanent relief from a severe and chronic case of stomach trouble," says J. R. Holly, real estate, insurance and loan agent, of Macomb, Ill. "Before using Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she could not eat an ordinary meal without intense suffering. She is now entirely cured. Several physicians and many remedies had failed to give relief." You don't have to diet. Eat any good food you want, but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will always digest it for you. L. W. Randolph.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Topic For Week Beginning March 30—Comment by Rev. S. H. Doyle.

Topic.—The risen life; Christ's, ours.—Luke xxiv, 1-12; Col. iii, 1-10. (An Easter service.)

The most inspiring anthem throughout the Christian world today is that one which declares, "The Lord is risen!" The Christian world rejoices today in the crowning fact of its history—the resurrection of Jesus Christ. For if Christ be not risen from the dead, then is our faith in Him in vain and our hopes in Him will perish. "But now is Christ risen from the dead and hath become the first fruits of them that slept." Hallelujah!

Death could not keep his prey;
Angels rolled the stone away.

And Christ came forth to live a risen life.

1. Christ's risen life is a historical fact. The record of Luke xxiv, 1-12, is a historical record. It is not the recitation of a myth or of a deception. The enemies of Christ in their supreme cautiousness made any trickery impossible and thus added to the proofs of this historic certainty. The friends of Christ in their dense ignorance of the true meaning of His prophecies combined their testimony with that of his enemies in that they did not expect his resurrection and were surprised beyond measure when it actually came to pass. Thus friend and foe contribute their part to the establishment of the certainty of the most stupendous and important fact in the world's history.

2. Christ's risen life is a testimony to the genuineness of the Christian religion. Christianity stands or falls with the resurrection of Christ. This historic fact being established beyond all doubt, Christianity stands firm and established with it.

3. Christ's risen life is a guarantee that we shall rise again. "But now is Christ risen from the dead and hath become the first fruits of them that slept." Christ rose as the first fruits, which are always a guarantee of the fruition of that which is still in the ungrown state. The first ripened sheaf is proof positive that the rest of the grain will ripen. So the resurrection of Christ is an actual demonstration of the doctrine of the resurrection of all men.

4. Christ's risen life is the comfort, hope and inspiration of His people in all ages and under all climes.

But in Christ we also arose; in Him we died, were buried and rose again. What should our risen life be? It should be Christ centered and heaven centered instead of being self centered and world centered. "If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God. Set your affections on things above and not on things on the earth, for ye are dead and your life is hid with Christ in God. When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with Him in glory. Mortify, therefore, your members which are upon the earth." Risen in Christ, let us live the risen life that He lived.

BIBLE READINGS.

Job xix, 25, 26; Ps. xvii, 15; Dan. xii, 1-3; Matt. xxii, 31, 32; Luke xiv, 1-14; John v, 28, 29; Acts xxvi, 8-23; Rom. vi, 1-11; I Cor. xv, 12-20; I Pet. i, 1-9; I John iii, 1-3.

To Honor Work.

To honor work is the first lesson that should be breathed by our young people. It should be the atmosphere of our schoolhouses. Some one said of one of our universities: "The campus is a great workshop. It backs the mediæval and the classical. Every one seems to be about to swing an ax or hold a plow. I feel here that labor is the chief end of man. I look at my hands and say: 'These are links with the divine. My Father worketh hitherto, and I work.' To do, to make, to create, to use tools, this is manhood." Neither laziness nor idleness is natural to the majority of the people. On the contrary, activity is thoroughly human. But we have not educated the hand heretofore except for the amenities and the culture of life. We have gloved them where we should have uncovered them for honest toil and for the glory of tool using. The honor of humanity, the key of progress, has been along the line of invention."—Christian Register.

Healing, Not Wounding.

The stinging tongue, the cut into the old wound, the unlovely criticism, the acid in the life, have no place in one who is "rooted and grounded in love." It is argued that we must fight the evil and oppose the wrong and check the dangerous tendencies. So we must, but no man burns his house down to get rid of the hornets' nest within it, and there is no necessity to cut off an arm because there is a wound on a finger. The Christian's business is to heal, not to amputate; to smother out the tendencies in others to sting, not set them on fire. Truth does not get exalted by flinging it at people; it gets exalted whenever it gets really expressed in a man's life and shines out through him. Christ conquers His enemies by loving them. It is a good method to try.—American Friend.

Covetousness.

Covetousness is always looking over neighboring fences and wishing both fence and neighbor were gone. Covetousness is selfishness full grown into greediness. It is the swinish trait in fallen human nature. Its peculiar peril is the premium put upon the power of accumulation both by the world and by the church.—Christian Intelligencer.

Not Sufficient to be a Good Man.

If you are to be of any real account in this world, you must belong to the kind with a name. It won't do to be simply a so called good man. You must have a name, and that name must be "Christian."—Episcopal Recorder.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

Topic For the Week Beginning March 30, "The Risen Life; Christ's, Ours—Text, Luke xxiv, 1-12; Col. iii, 1-10.

EASTER.

The day of resurrection!
Earth, tell it out abroad!
The passover of gladness,
The passover of God!
From death to life eternal,
From earth unto the sky,
Our Christ hath brought us over
With hymns of victory.

So sang John of Damascus in the eighth century in the Greek tongue, and so has the church of Christ been singing through all the centuries since in all tongues in which the gospel is proclaimed.

No other religion the world has ever known has any such festival as this. All have their praises and prayers to the powers divine; all have their cries of woe and wails of death anguish. This Christianity only has an Easter anthem, a resurrection hymn, because it alone has a risen Lord of life and a hope of immortality. Of all days in the calendar this should be the brightest and gladdest. It is well that our churches should be made beautiful with flowers and resound with joyous music. Evergreens for Christmas, but lilies for Easter. The perfume of blossoms in God's house is the best of incense to symbolize the gratitude and supplications of His people.

How varied are the ceremonies which express the worshipful spirit on this occasion, from the gorgeous ritual in the Church of the Holy Sepulcher at Jerusalem and in St. Peter's, Rome, to the simple forms of the mission hut in Africa or the sod house on the western prairie! The important thing is the heart adoration. Even the name Easter is not really Christian, but was adopted from a heathen goddess of the Anglo-Saxon whose festival came near the time of the Christian commemoration of the resurrection and the Jewish passover. The Jewish feast has passed with the destruction of the temple, but all its meaning is carried forward in the covenant through Christ. The Anglo-Saxon goddess has no worshipers, but a better hope than she could inspire has come to mankind, so that, while we say Easter, we no longer have her and her worship in mind, but we all think of the Christ hope and good cheer in prospect of eternal life.

Our hearts be pure from evil
That we may see aright
The Lord in rays eternal
Of resurrection light,
And, listening to His accents,
May hear so calm and plain
His own "All hail!" and, hearing,
May raise the victor strain.

Now let the heavens be joyful!
Let earth her song begin!
Let the round world keep triumph
And all that is therein!
Invisible and visible,
Their notes let all things blend,
For Christ the Lord hath risen,
Our joy that hath no end.

Self Betterments.

One motive for making gifts to Christ is obligation, another is gratitude, and still another is self betterment. All who loyally give themselves to Christ experimentally realize that "it is more blessed to give than to receive." Consecrating to His service body, soul and spirit, being no longer conformed to this world, but transformed by the renewing of our minds, we daily "prove what is that good and acceptable and perfect will of God." Loyalty to Him necessitates utter denial of self and persistent cross bearing, but it is rewarded even here by "manifold more and in the world to come life everlasting." Loyalty to Him necessitates the steadfast practice of His precepts. His law is treasured in the heart, and His will is wrought out faithfully. But "the law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul; the statutes of the Lord are right, rejoicing the heart. More to be desired are they than gold—yea, than much fine gold—and in keeping of them there is great reward."—Evangelist.

Immortal Love.

"Can I tell you, can you tell me, why the sky is gray and the winds are chilly when only the other day the one had sunshine and the other warmth because those little arms were round my neck and those deep gray eyes looking love into mine or because that serious young voice asked me serious questions which I answered with my hand in blessing on a curly head?" No; it is all a mystery—labor, sorrow, love, life, all we have and are and suffer and enjoy, unless we regard them in the light of the cross of Him who was the Man of Sorrows and who is immortal love.—Churchman.

A Steadfast Faith.

A steadfast faith is necessary to steadfast conduct. According to the faith is the life. If that is uncertain and unsettled, fixed at no point, the result will be an unsteadiness in religious life. A lack of purpose in the man at the helm will make the course of the ship at sea very erratic and perhaps result in its ultimate destruction. The only sofety for the soul, the only safety for the church, is to be found in accepting the true doctrine of salvation and continuing steadfastly in it, as did the New Testament Christians, doing the work of the Lord.—Independent.

Duty Is Ours.

It is needful that we form definite plans and that we concentrate endeavor on specific ends. It is not always needful that we get what we seek, and if we are faithful to the light we have and work with a consecrated spirit we may know that we cannot fail. If we miss what we seek, we miss only to attain something higher and better. Duty is ours; results are God's. It is for us to plant and water. Let God not only give, but elect what shall be the increase.—Christian Leader.

paint is usable. To be worth putting on it must be durable, and to be durable it must be top quality. The general war of wind, sun and rain upon houses knows no cessation or truce. Paint is the main defense. Put your faith in something that will not fail you. A reliable article at a top price is cheaper than something else sold way down.

IN FASHION'S REALM.

This Is the Year of Lace Instead of Grace.

So much lace is seen this season that one may call it the year of lace instead of grace. Scarcely anything is made now without it somewhere, even the most unpromising materials, such as hopsacking and burlap. When actual lace is not added, the fine and ornate castle braids come in, and they have almost as much lightness as lace itself. Lace is put on waists, on sleeves, on skirts and flounces, and whole dresses are made of it, and these are trimmed with still more—that is to say, the dress is made of all over net, and the trimming is added in so many ways that it would be a difficult task to mention one-hundredth of the number. But most often black is added to white and white is set on black. A case in point is shown in the illustration, where the dress is made of black chiffon, which should come under the head of lace, and there are rows of white insertion in even lines above the hem. This skirt is cut quite straight and gathered at the waist. The two rows of white lace around the bottom are but part of the general scheme, for the belt is the same, and the deep flounce to the sleeves is also trimmed with it. These insertion laces are so planned that they can be set on edges by gathering the upper edge and sewing it as though it were a border. Filet lace is quite a new one for this kind of trimming, and it has proved very effective. The Irish and other real laces are quite as popular as they have been, but the very heavy varieties are in less demand, as most of the gowns and other garments are of lighter material, and to look its best the thick lace requires cloth, velvet and other rich material.

An innovation in sleeves is to have the sleeve proper end at or just below the elbow in a puff and a deep flounce left open on the forearm or cut so that the back portion is at least three times longer than the front. Of course this relates only to the regular dress sleeves and not to the separate waists or shirt waists.

The shirt waist, as a whole, is too great a subject for complete discussion, but a few words may be said regarding a few of the newest ideas. The waists differ very little from those of last summer. Whatever difference there is consists more in the arrangement of the plaits and the front fold than anything. The very newest is to have the fold laid at the shoulder just above the arm size, and this goes diagonally to the center of the front at the bottom. This leaves the whole front looking somewhat like a shield bosomed shirt. In many instances these fronts are then left perfectly smooth, but in others there are many fine tucks along the front fold. All waists are pouched quite as much as they ever have been, but the pouching is all brought quite close to the middle in front. This leaves the back and sides trim and neat, with no bagginess. There are no yokes to the shirt waists of whatever kind for this season, and the most of them have no plaits or tucks at the back. The back is finished with a couple of plaits taken in at the bottom only.

Perhaps I should not say that no waists are tucked at the back, for many are, but the tucks reach to the shoulder and do not finish with a yoke. Some of the shield shaped fronts are ridiculous, but others are pretty—for slender persons, but let the stout ones beware of them. It would appear that the object of them is to produce the appearance of width over the shoulders. Some of these shield shapes have bretelles down the back to the belt.

I see but few waists buttoning in the back, while many of those fastening in front have such pretty arrangements of the buttons that they are really ornamental, besides being useful. The taffeta waists are laid in tucks, some both back and front. The tucks are in clusters of small ones, with one large one between. Sometimes this wide one is overlaid with lace or fine fancy braid and ribbon, silk or velvet, run in between the holes.

Black velvet ribbon is still largely used to trim such waists and also fine embroidery. In short, one can have anything almost in the way of a shirt waist, and it will be all right.

THE THIRD METEOR.

Sail Plan of Emperor William's Famous New Yacht.

It Gives Her Great Driving Power, So That She Should Make a Fine Cruiser as Well as a Champion Racer.

The sail plan of the German emperor's new schooner yacht, Meteor III., shows that A. Cary Smith, the designer, while not giving the boat an excessive spread of canvas, has given her sufficient driving power, which, with the fineness of her model, should develop good speed in the yacht, so much so that she should not only make a fine cruiser, but should be able to show her heels to any schooner. The yacht will spread, as nearly as can be figured from the sail plan, 11,612 square feet of canvas, under the measurement rule of the New York Yacht club. The mainmast, which is of Georgia pine, and a beautiful piece of wood, is 21 inches in diameter. It is stepped 68 feet aft of the forward end of the water line, and from deck to cap measures 59 feet. The maintopmast is 60 feet over all, of which 17 feet are in the doublings, so that from deck to truck the mainmast is 132 feet. The main boom, which is 82 feet over all, is five feet above the deck at the gooseneck, so that there is plenty of room on the quarter deck for any one to move above without any danger of being struck by the boom while the vessel is being sailed.

To measure the spread of canvas the length from the upper side of the main boom to the sheave of the topsail halliard block is taken, and this on the Meteor III. will be 119 feet. The foremast, which is 20 inches in diameter, is stepped 29 feet aft of the forward end of the water line. From deck to cap it measures 84 feet. The foretopmast measures 55 feet over all, of which 16 feet are in the doublings, so that from deck to truck the foremast measures 123 feet. The foreboom is 36 feet in length. At the gooseneck it is four feet above the deck, and from the boom to the foretopsail halliard block measures 114 feet.

SAIL PLAN OF METEOR III.
(Why Kaiser William's Yacht Should Be a Prize Winner.)

From the end of the bowsprit to the end of the main boom is 195 feet six inches, and the base line for measurement is taken from the end of the main boom to a point midway between the jibstay and the jib topsail stay. This is 192 feet. The bowsprit extends 24 feet outward, and from the foremast to the end of the bowsprit is 71 feet. The main gaff is 48 feet long and the fore gaff 36 feet long. The excess of the main gaff over 80 per cent. of the main topmast measured from the hounds to the topsail halliard block is four feet, and this is added to the base line for measurement. The club topsail spars are 52 and 41 feet long, respectively, the yard being 52 feet. These spars will carry the largest club topsail intended for use, and when set the head of the sail will be 146 feet above the deck and 150 feet above the water. The hoist of the mainsail and foresail will be 56 feet each. The mainsail will be 98 feet long on the leach, and the foresail 80 feet long on the leach.

The general dimensions of the Meteor III. are 161 feet over all, 120 feet on the water line, 27 feet beam, 18 feet six inches depth and 15 feet draft. The least free board is six feet. The beak of the eagle on the figurehead is 11 feet, above the water, and the taffrail eight feet above the water. The forward overhang is 18 feet, and the after overhang 23 feet long. She is a Keel boat, with an S section quite full below. The yacht is built of steel throughout, in and out plated, and built for strength. On deck aft there is a low steel house, sheathed with teak. The windows in the house are high enough to permit a view of the horizon just clear of the rail. Stairs lead from this house to the steerage, or three-quarters of the width of the yacht. A. Cary Smith, the designer of the yacht, is the son of a New York clergyman, and was originally a marine artist by profession.

City Debts Are Increasing.

There are several states without debt, but no American city, with the single exception of Washington, the local debt of which is an obligation of congress. State debts are decreasing steadily; city debts are increasing.

Dear Sirs—Two years ago I had very bad corns and callouses on my feet. I went to a chiropodist and paid him $5.75 for taking them off. In less than a month they were back again. I then tried your CORN CURE and used only three bottles, costing 45c, and am happy to say it has taken them off completely. They have not troubled me now for over a year. I consider your HEPBURN'S CORN CURE the best I have ever used.—

SOUTHERN FLOODS.

Torrential Rains In Louisiana and Mississippi.

NEW ORLEANS, March 28.—One of the heaviest rains ever known in this section has fallen for a day and a night at Port Gibson and vicinity. A train on the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley which left this city late at night is ditched near Lerman, Miss. The engine and mailcoach were overturned, but the passenger coaches remained on the track. About six miles of track on this road is washed away in front of the station of Russum, Miss., seven miles south of Port Gibson.

A train over the line from Vicksburg is tied up at Port Gibson. South of that town the telegraph wires and poles are washed completely away.

The Queen and Crescent road in that locality is blockaded. No loss of life has been reported. Bayou Pierre is out of its banks, and the water is up to the edge of the main street of Port Gibson. More than six inches of rain has fallen since the storm set in.

A dispatch from Vicksburg says all trains on the Yazoo and Mississippi Valley road south of there and all those east on the Queen and Crescent have been stopped on account of the floods from a heavy rainstorm which prevailed for twelve hours.

Washouts are reported all along the Valley railroad south, but the north end is open.

The Yazoo and Mississippi Valley shops were flooded with two feet of water and have been shut down. O'Neill's bottom, a low district of the city, was flooded, and people had to be carried out of their homes to higher grounds.

Heresy Trial Secret.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., March 28.—The trial of Rev. Granville Lowther, a Methodist minister, on a charge of heresy, has begun here in secret before eleven Kansas ministers appointed by the southwest Kansas Methodist conference. Bishop Mallalieu stated that as the newspapers had printed reports concerning the case and were still after the sensational features he would suggest that the trial be held behind closed doors. No members of the conference not having official business in the trial would be permitted to be present, and he warned those concerned that not one word should be said outside for the press. The work of the trial was taken up immediately.

Sealing Fleet In Ill Luck.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., March 28. The sealing steamer Leopard has just arrived here and reports terrible weather along the coast. The sealer Hatlaw is due here. The sealer Newfoundland has reached Placentia, where she landed her crew. The Newfoundland had no seals on board. Vessels which have arrived here from Europe with cargoes of salt report vast ice floes off the Virgin rocks and the Grand Banks and directly in the track of Atlantic shipping. The presence of ice in that locality is regarded as confirmation of the belief that the missing Allan line steamer Huronian was lost there.

Coal Mine on Fire.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., March 28.—A big fire is burning fiercely at the Whitsett mine of the Pittsburg Coal company, sixteen miles west of here. Firemen and hose have been sent from here to assist in extinguishing the flames. The fire started from a hot bearing at the fan that supplies the mine with pure air. In a short time the mine was a raging furnace. Fortunately no miners were in the part where the fire started. If the fire is not conquered at once, it may be necessary to turn the water of the river into the mine, which would result in enormous loss.

VERY SHORT SESSION

Estimate of New York Legislature's Work.

A LOW TAX RATIO IS FIXED.

Number of New Laws Passed at Term Just Closed Less Than Usual—Total Appropriations $21,000,000 Lower Than In 1901.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 28.—Governor Odell in discussing the result of the legislative session, which came to a close shortly after noon yesterday, said:

"The number of laws this year will be much less than last. I believe that there will be not more than 400 in all. The number signed to date is 259, and I am busily engaged working on them. The appropriation bills will not be considered until next week, as I want to dispose of the general bills first.

"This is the shortest session of the legislature in many years, and the appropriations compare very favorably with those of last year. In 1901 the total was $22,807,608.75, and this year it is $21,807,371.44. It would have been much smaller if it had not been for the fact that our extraordinary appropriations are largely increased. For instance, there is $332,000 for the schools of the state, $100,000 for the McKinley monument, $100,000 for the St. Louis exposition and $85,000 for the Seventy-first regiment armory.

"This is offset by the settlement of the state printing claim, which carried with it $256,000 and which was finally allowed at $190,000."

The governor was asked if he had closely examined the Krum corporation tax bill, and his attention was called to the report that under it a number of New York corporations, including the Brooklyn Rapid Transit company, would secure a reduction of their taxes. He said:

"I hardly think that is so. The bill was drafted in the comptroller's office, and they have examined it thoroughly. However, I am going to figure it out for myself, and if the bill is not a good one I will not sign it.

"I don't expect the important New York city bills back before next week. They will be disposed of as quickly as possible."

Before adjournment the tax rate was fixed at thirteen one-hundredths of a mill, and the money raised by it will be applied under the constitutional provision to paying the interest on the canal debt.

The customary presents were given to the leaders and attaches of both branches and eulogistic speeches delivered.

Revolutionary Ship Captured.

PANAMA, Colombia, March 28.—Great excitement was aroused here last evening by the arrival of the government gunboat Chucuito towing a schooner filled with men wearing red bands on their hats, the insignia of the revolutionists. The Chucuito met and captured the schooner off Capira. She is laden with salt and ammunition for the revolutionary general Lugo, who is operating in the vicinity of Capira. Among the prisoners on board the schooner were two officers who were captured at Agua Dulce. Both officers were wounded. The correspondence captured with the schooner is said to be of considerable value to the government.

The Brewers and Gompers.

CINCINNATI, March 28.—After his conference with the brewery proprietors here President Gompers was in conference during yesterday afternoon with representatives of the engineers, firemen and united brewery workers and again with the proprietors, but no agreement has been reached yet. President Gompers, although authorized by the contending unions to act, will announce no decision here. He will report on the questions of autonomy and other differences to the executive board of the American Federation of Labor.

A Small Strike.

PASSAIC, N. J., March 28.—There is a strike at the Gera Woolen mills here, 135 women and seven men quitting work. It seems the firm had a lot of material water soaked during the flood a few weeks ago. The hands were set to work on it, and claimed they could make no money on the stuff owing to the difficulties in weaving. They asked for better rates on this special lot of goods, and the firm not granting it they quit work.

Low Vetoes Boy Club Bill.

NEW YORK, March 28.—Mayor Low has sent to Governor Odell his veto of the bill authorizing municipal clubhouses for boys, declaring that it would compel the city to spend $50,000 in trying an experiment that might or might not succeed. He also gave as a further reason that he deemed it injudicious for the city to make an expenditure when more school buildings were so badly needed.

A Domestic Tragedy.

EMPORIA, Kan., March 28.—Stephen G. Conkling of the grocery firm of Emery & Conkling shot his former wife and then shot himself. He is dead, and she is not expected to live. Domestic troubles caused the tragedy. Last February Mrs. Conkling obtained a divorce, and since that time he has been trying to induce her to return to him.

Mrs. Dewey Is Better.

MACON, Ga., March 28.—A letter received from Admiral Dewey, at Palm Beach, Fla., says that Mrs. Dewey is much better and on the way to complete recovery.

Weather Probabilities.

Rain; fresh to brisk south winds, becoming variable.

ON THE DIAMOND.

Practice baseball games will be held by all the League team players or candidates tomorrow afternoon. A full attendance will be required of the Hope and Safe Works applicants as final selections will be made from the showing.

The Safe Works team is practically decided upon but there are several positions for which only playing can effect settlement. On the Hopes there are many important positions yet in doubt owing to the large number of applicants. Among those on the diamond tomorrow will be Thorne, the Hope's new pitcher. He is expected to make a great showing and his twists and delivery will be watched with much interest.

GOLF.

It is not believed that the courts at the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club will be ready for tennis before May 30. It is announced that no one will be allowed to play golf on the course until April 19, when the club expects to formally open the course.

Destroyed on Eve of Delivery.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, March 28—The Santos, a costly steam lighter just completed by the Townsend & Downey Shipbuilding Company, caught fire at its moorings at the Shooter Island yards, last night, and was destroyed. It was to have been delivered to the Arbuckle's today.

"Lucy Shoestring" Turned Over to the County Probationary Officer.

City Judge Runyon's patience became exhausted when Oliver Vitello, a diminutive Italian, known as "Lucy Shoestrings," was arraigned before him this morning on a charge of throwing a stone into the bar room of the Hotel Kensington, and breaking a number of glasses. The boy has been before on an average of every two months for a year and the Judge decided to put an end to his waywardness. He instructed the police to send him to Elizabeth and have him placed in the care of Mrs. Williamson, the county probationary officer.

New Kind of Brick.

A company was organized yesterday in the law office of Robert M. Clark to manufacture a fire-proof brick from a substance know as pulverite. The company is capitalized at $1,000,000, of which sum $10,000 is paid in. The company organized as follows: President, T. O. Doane; vice president, Thomas Quinn; secretary, F. H. Smith; treasurer, Charles Goodfellow. Robert M. Clark is the counsel. The invention is that of Mr. Goodfellow, of Ellenville, N. Y.

Farewell to Miss Egel.

A farewell reception was given by Miss Carrie Egel, of Somerset street, last evening. In all twenty young people were present. Miss Egel departs Monday for Newark, where she will enter the training school connected with a hospital there for the purpose of pursuing a course in nursing.

Not Enough Evidence.

Lee Johnson, colored, was a prisoner in the city court, this morning, charged by his wife with disorderly conduct at her home on West Front street, last night. The complaint was dismissed for lack of evidence. The couple have not been living tgoether for some time.

For the Complexion.

The complexion always suffers from biliousness or constipation. Unless the bowels are kept open the impurities from the body appear in the form of unsightly eruptions. DeWitt's Little Early Risers keep the liver and bowels in healthy condition and remove the cause of such troubles. C. E. Hooper, Albany, Ga., says: "I took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness. They were just what I needed. I am feeling better now than in years." Never gripe or distress. Safe, thorough and gentle. The very best pills. L. W. Randolph.

Many Folk of Greater Plainfield Are Entertaining or Being Entertained.

Miss Ella Laughlin, of Park avenue, is convalescent from an attack of typhoid fever.

Miss Cochran, of Fairfield, Va., is visiting her sister, Mrs. M. F. Elderton, of East Front street.

Miss Genevra M. Miner, of Freeport, L. I., is spending the Easter holiday as a guest at the home of her uncle, Joseph E. Morse, of Franklin place.

James Joseph Loughlin, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Loughlin, of 1103 Putnam avenue, is slightly improved from a severe attack of convulsions. The danger point has not yet been passed.

Miss Maud L. Honeyman, of Grove street, returned this morning from Wellesley College for her Easter vacation. She was accompanied by her roommate, Miss Olive Smith, of Martins Ferry, O., who will spend the the vacation with her.

FUNERAL OF MRS. CONSAUL.

Services Were Held From Home of Daughter in the Borough.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Rebecca B. Consaul, widow of David J. Consaul, of Atlantic City, were held yesterday afternoon from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Murray Burtis, 60 Fairview avenue. There was a large attendance of friends and neighbors. The services were conducted by Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor of All Souls' church, who referred in his remarks to the beautiful character of the departed. There were a number of beautiful floral tributes. The interment was in Hillside cemetery.

CONTEST OVER FREEHOLDER.

Democrat Not Suited With Result in Bernards Township.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, March 28—John A. Whitenack, Democrat, has decided to contest the election of John V. Bunn, Republican, who was declared the winner in the recent election for freeholder in Bernards township. Bunn won by the close margin of one vote. Three votes cast for the defeated candidate were thrown out because his name was written in ink on the ballot, which was claimed to be contrary to the election laws.

Death of Joseph VanArsdale.

Joseph VanArsdale, a veteran of the Civil War, and a well-known resident of the West End, died last evening in the Soldier's Home at Kearney. He formerly lived in Lee place and his body will be taken to the home of his daughter, Mrs. Terwilliger at 21 Lee place. Mr. VanArsdale was a regular attendant at Hope chapel.

Held on Charge of Larceny.

Enough evidence was produced before Justice Nash, this morning, to warrant the holding of Edward Marcellus, Jr., in $100 bail on a charge of larceny. Six boys testified that they had witnessed him taking lead pipe from the Olympia building.

A Big Contract.

The difficulty in settling the loss on the Babcock building is met in securing accurate bids for replacing the building in as good condition as before. There are not many local contractors accustomed to bidding on $150,000 jobs.

Trust Company Meeting.

There will be another meeting of the Plainfield Trust Company within a few days, when officers will be elected and plans for beginning business will be completed.

Replacing Old Ties.

A large number of new railroad ties are being scattered along the New Jersey Central. The work of replacing the old ties will be commenced within a short time.

Improvements to Coward Building.

J. B. Coward is planning to make some extensive improvements in his building, on Park avenue. The rooms will be newly papered and otherwise improved.

Soprano Soloist.

Miss Justina Smith will be the soprano soloist at St. Joseph's church, Sunday, when special music will be rendered.

—A fad nowadays is Indian baskets. You can get a very fine Indian basket and a beautiful Easter novelty in one at Campbells. They have a splendid variety of filling toys, chicks, eggs, ducks cnd other articles.

EASTER MUSIC AT CHURCHES

Many Elaborate Musical Programmes Have Been Prepared for Local Churches.

WHAT THEY WILL BE.

Some of the Special Easter Services That Will be Held in Houses of Worship in City and Borough—Beautiful Music and Flowers Mark the Passing of the Day.

Elaborate plans are being made in nearly every local church for the celebration of Easter Day, tomorrow. As usual, special music will be the chief feature while all the sanctuaries will be the scenes of beautiful floral displays. The special Easter services promise to be particularly fine and, if the promise of the weather bureau officials is kept, the day will be one which will bring out large congregations and all the gala raiment which usually marks Easter Sunday.

Among the churches which have arranged a particularly fine musical programme is the First Presbyterian church, where the organist, Clifford M. Braider, has been working hard for several weeks. The regular male quartette, Elmer D. Cutting, E. Maxwell Honeyman, Sydney R. Titsworth and R. Wilson Derby, will be assisted by Miss Charlotte E. Conger, pianist.

The musical programme will be as follows:

Morning service—Trio, "Coratine," Raff, organ, violin and piano.

Anthem, "He is Risen," Caleb Simper.

Solo, "Hosanna," Granier, Mr. Derby.

Anthem, "Lift up Your Heads," A. J. Holden.

Solo, "Easter Dawn," Mr. Honeyman.

Evening service—Trio, organ, violin and piano, "Meditation," Rosseau.

Anthem, "Raise High Your Heads," J. H. Tenny.

Anthem, "Tomb, Thou Shalt Not Hold Him Longer," M. Vogrich.

Solo, "Angels Roll the Rock Away," Mr. Cutting.

Anthem, "Awake Thou That Sleepest," T. C. Maker.

Easter will be observed at Hope chapel on Sunday by special music at both the morning and evening services. In the afternoon, at 3 o'clock, the Sunday-school will have the following Easter services.

Chorus, "Easter Bells," by the Jolly Workers.

Recitation, "The Story Told," by seven juniors, Morris Hunter, Wm. Steenson, Hedwig Grotman, Ruth Kenny, Maud Lewis, Elijah Slorah, Lizzie Corless.

Chorus, "Shiny Brown Seed," by twelve primary children.

Recitation, "Three Wonderful Things," by Esther Brandt, Edith Nelson, Albert Gerhardt.

Song and chorus, "Beautiful Lilies," by three children and choir of Jolly Workers.

Recitation, "Joy, For the Saviour is Risen," by Helen Taylor.

"Nature's Easter Story," chorus of Primary children.

Recitation, "What Easter Means," by Harry Stuart, Joseph Walls, Walter Droll, Katie Beerman, Agnes Leighs, Hannah Brandt, Violet Crosier, Harry Little.

Chorus, "He is Risen," primary department.

Recitation, "Easter Day," by Christine Thompson.

Address by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards.

The services at Grace church will be as follows: First celebration, 7 o'clock; second celebration, 8 o'clock; third celebration, 10:30 o'clock; morning prayer and sermon, 10:30 o'clock.

The children's Easter festival will be held in the church at 7:30 o'clock in the evening.

As usual the 10:30 o'clock service in the morning will be very elaborate. The order of service is as follows: Organ voluntary, Whitney; processional, hymn, "Angels Roll the Rock Away," Roper; versicles and responses, Hutchings; anthem, "Christ Our Passover," Chappel; TeDeum, Martin in C; jubilate, Ashford in D; versicles and responses to creed, Hutchings.; litany hymn, "Saviour When in Dust to Thee," Hervey; introit, "Why Seek Ye the Living Among the Dead?" Brown; kyrie eleison and gloria tibia, Conant in A flat; hymn,

EASTER AT SCHOOLS.

Exercises Appropriate to Easter Time Were Held in Schools.

Exercises appropriate to Easter were held in the public schools of the city and borough. In North Plainfield the schools were closed yesterday and in this city a short session was held in the High School, although the regular hours were observed in the other schools.

The programme printed in The Daily Press was rendered in the Plainfield High School. Easter carols were sung in the Lincoln and the Bryant schools. The exercises in the Irving School took place yesterday afternoon. In the Washington school among the numbers rendered was a solo by William Westphal.

THE CLOSING CASINO DANCE

WILL MARK RESUMPTION OF SOCIAL GAIETY AFTER LENT.

Dance Will be Held at Casino Easter Monday Evening—The Special Features.

The last Casino dance will take place Monday evening. During the Lenten season there has been more or less of a suspension of social festivities and this affair will be the first gathering of Plainfield's fashionable folk for some time past.

One of the promised features of the dance will be two orchestras. As heretofore Pound's orchestra will be seated on the stage and will furnish music for the two steps. A temporary platform will be erected at the opposite end of the long room for the purpose of accommodating an Italian orchestra. The Italians will render the waltz music.

The list of patronesses include Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, Mrs. Harry M. Stockton, Mrs. George P. Mellick, Mrs. Walter M. McGee and Miss Elizabeth R. Cock. The regular committee is in charge of the affair. It consists of Lewis G. Timpson, Lewis E. Waring, Frederick W. Yates and E. T. Barrows.

GOOD FRIDAY SERVICES.

Held in The Episcopal and Roman Catholic Churches Yesterday.

Good Friday services were held in the Roman Catholic and Episcopal churches yesterday. Easter Even services will be held in these churches today. At St. Mary's church this morning at 7:30 o'clock the priests blessed the fountain and Pascal light. The ceremony of blessing the Paschal candle and holy water took place at St. Joseph's church at 7 o'clock this morning. Baptism will be held at the Church of the Holy Cross this afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

USING EASTON BRIDGE.

Jersey Central Trains Are Able to Run Over It Once More.

Trains on the New Jersey Central are now being run over the bridge at Easton where it spans the Lehigh river. The work on this bridge was delayed owing to a strike among the machinists doing the job. Last week the work was taken from the American Bridge Company and given to the Pennsylvania Railroad Company. With the new bridge it is believed that the former schedule will be restored on the Central.

On for a Visit.

Henry Ackerman, carpenter and property man, and Peter Winn, electrician, who have been visiting their families here the past week, are members of William A. Brady's Company, playing "Lover's Lane," which is resting during Holy and Easter weeks. They reopen with their company Monday, April 7, at Schenectady, N. Y., and continue with the same to the end of the season, which will probably be about the middle of May.

A Good Programme.

The Montauk Ladies' Quartette and Walter W. Waters, the original "Seltzer-Waters," will appear at Greenbrook Council, Royal Arcanum, entertainment, in Y. M. C. A. Hall, Monday evening. Tickets, 35 cents, reserved seats, 50 cents. Drop in at Hodge's pharmacy tonight and secure reserved seats.

Body Taken Home.

The body of William Wardel, the B. and O. fireman who died in Muhlenberg hospital, Thursday, from injuries received at Bound Brook, was shipped yesterday afternoon to Philadelphia. The young man was unmarried but leaves a wealthy brother and sister in the Quaker City.

—Old songs, American, Irish and Scotch, by the Montauk Ladies' Quartette, Monday evening, will prove a rare treat. Tickets 35 cents.

NEW HOSPITAL PLANS WILL BE CONSIDERED

Detail Drawings Will be Presented at Meeting of Hospital Governors Monday.

TO START WORK THEN.

GENERAL PLANS HAVE ALREADY BEEN APPROVED BY BUILDING COMMITTEE.

Evarts Tracy is Making the Plans—If They Are Approved Ground Will be Broken for the New Hospital June 1.

At last the hopes of the friends of Muhlenberg Hosptial are apparently to be fulfilled and the handsome commodious new hospital, so long a matter of doubt, is to be built. At least that seems to be the prospect at present.

That Plainfield absolutely needs a new hospital, no one will deny. The present hospital is far too small to meet the demands made upon it. For several years past those in charge have been seriously handicapped in the treatment of people. The accommodations have been limited and the accessories not of the best. Another thing that has tended to a change from the present location is the nearness of the hospital to the railroad, where there is more or less noise to disturb patients.

Evarts Tracy, the architect, who won the first prize for the plans for the new hospital, has been working for a number of weeks on the general plans, according to suggestions made by the building committee. These plans in the abstract have met with the approval of the committee, but all the members of the Board of Governors want to consider them. It is on the details that Mr. Tracy has been working of late. They will be ready for presentation to the board at the regular meeting, Monday evening.

If the plans in detail are approved everything will be readiness to secure bids for the work, thus making it possible to break ground for the new building as intended, June 1. If the work can be started at that time there seems to be no reason why it should not be nearly completed and ready for occupancy before cold weather comes again.

Now that the people of Plainfield have every reason to believe that the new hospital will be built, no doubt they will be inclined more than ever to lend their support and be more generous iin their contributions to such a worthy institution. The new building will be fully in keeping with modern ideas and will be up-to-date in every particular.

ACTED PROMPTLY.

A. Hacquer Prevented a Disastrous Accident by Stopping Runaway.

The prompt action of Archibald Hacquer, of Central avenue, prevented a possible disastrous accident at the corner of Front and Somerset streets yesterday morning. A runabout owned by a resident of this city was being driven down Somerset street when it crashed into a truck belonging to Hand & Son. The shaft of the lighter vehicle snapped and then the frightneed horse dashed towards East Front street. Hacquer grasped the harness and succeded in stopping the flight of the animal before any serious damage was done.

Recovered Property.

Robert Catlin, known as "English Bob," who is alleged to have stolen a horse and harness, valued at $400, from E. S. Hooley, was brought to this city from Vailsburg, last evening. He will be arraigned before Justice Mattison today. The local police recovered the stolen property and assert that Catlin recently completed a year in State Prison for the same offense.

To Appoint Guardian.

Judge Vail has set Wednesday as the time he will appoint a guardian for John Marsh, Jr., who was recently declared to be of unsound mind. The appointment is made upon the application of Robert M. Clark, counsel for the Marsh estate.

Saw Bridge, Then Dined.

The Somerset County Board of Freeholders met Tuesday at Hub Hollow to inspect a bridge. After the business the members were entertained at dinner by Freeholder Bunn, it being the forty-first anniversary of his marriage.

Remarkable Sale.

John Wirth, the West Front street baker sold 30,415 hot cross buns, yesterday. His supply was sold out by 10 o'clock in the morning.

THE TRUST COMPANY.

Plainfield's New Banking Institution Selected Its Officers and is Looking for Quarters.

The Plainfield Trust Company held a meeting Thursday afternoon and elected officers as follows: President, O. T. Waring; first vice president, A. V. Heely; second vice president, Henry A. McGee; secretary and treasurer, J. Herbert Case; executive committee, C. W. McCutchen, A. V. Heely, H. A. McGee, George P. Mellick and O. T. Waring. A committee, consisting of Charles J. Fisk, H. G. Runkle and E. R. Ackerman, was appointed to secure a place in this city for the company's offices.

As as been previously stated the company is purely a local affair and it intends to do all kinds of banking business throughout the State. It will be just as much a local concern as any of the city banks and no official announcement has been made that it is a branch of any other similar concern in New York or elsewhere. There will be received local deposits, but loans and investments will be received generally from any part of the State. This right is given by the State.

BOARDER ARRESTED.

Mrs. Katrina Wider, of Westfield, Died Suddenly Under Peculiar Circumstances Yesterday.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, March 29—Mrs. Katrina Wider, aged seventy years, died suddenly yesterday morning at her home at Oakland, a settlement near this place. So far as know she had not been ill but a short time. Dr. Sinclair was called, but the woman died before he arrived. County Physician Westcott was notified. He was unable to find any marks of violence, but he caused the arrest of John Keytles, a boarder, and he was held for a hearing this morning.

Keytles lived with the widow woman and when she was found dead he was found in such a state of intoxication that he could not talk.

At the hearing this morning, Dr. Westcott dismissed the case, there not being sufficient evidence to hold Keytles. The cause of death was pronounced apoplexy.

GATHERED IN TWO.

Police Captured Two Men Who Are Wanted, One on Charge of Highway Robbery, Other Larceny.

While searching about the West End, early last evening, Patrolmen McCarthy and Higgins made two important captures of fugitives from justice. They first gathered in from description, Arthur Sands, colored, who is wanted by the Newark police on a charge of highway robbery. He was found on the street and was taken by surprise.

While on the way to town, Arthur Whitehead, also colored, wanted for stealing a pair of trousers from in front of a local clothing store, chanced to pass the trio. He was recognized by the policemen and was also arrested. Sands will be sent to Newark and Whitehead will be arraigned before Justice Huff this afternoon.

Changed His Plea.

In the city court, this morning, Michael Kiely, charged with fighting, changed his plea of not guilty to non vult. City Judge Runyon fined him $3 and instructed him to pay the complainant, John Mooney, his expenses in the matter, which amounted to an additional $2. Both amounts were paid.

Sweeper Sent on Trial.

A street sweeper, manufactured by Charles Hoass, of New York, to be drawn by a team of horses, has been sent to the street committee on trial, and will be demonstrated by the builder some time next week. The sweeper has been in successful use in Elizabeth, Newark, Orange and other cities.

Death of Infant Daughter.

Helen B., the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Ralph, of East Third street, died this morning, after a brief illness. The funeral services will be held from the parents' residence tomorrow afternoon at 5 o'clock. Interment will be at Mount Pleasant, Hunterdon county.

Engagement Announced.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Shotwell, of Central Park West and One Hundred and Third street, New York city, announce the engagement of their daughter, Stella Andronna, to Dr. Rolland Davis Tomlinson, of 212 La Grande avenue, this city.

Easter Services.

Special musical features and artistic floral decoration characterized the Easter service in the Seventh-Day Baptist church, this morning. An appropriate Easter discourse was given by Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church.

CHURCHES UNITED IN GOOD FRIDAY SERVICE

Impressive Service Was Held in Trinity Reformed Church Last Evening.

MANY SHORT ADDRESSES

DIFFERENT PASTORS SPOKE THE WORDS OF THE SAVIOUR AT THE CROSS.

Meeting Was Conducted by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D.,—Short But Earnest Talks on Christ's Last Utterances.

Thoroughly in keeping with the solemnity of the occasion was the gathering at the Good Friday union service in Trinity Reformed church, last evening. The congregation was made up of members from churches in every part of the city and all evidenced a deep interest in the impressive service. To the promoters of the service the attendance was very gratifying as it practically filled the edifice.

It had been arranged not to devote the evening to one long discourse but instead have short five minute talks on the words expressed by Christ while suffering agonies on the cross. His most beautiful thoughts put in words through anguish were taken and dwelt upon by those assisting in the service last evening. Those who spoke were Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, of the First M. E. church; Rev. L. R. Howard, of Hope Memorial chapel; Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, of the Crescent Avenue church; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church; Rev. E. M. Rodman, of Grace P. E. church; Rev. John McMurray, of the Monroe Avenue church, and Rev. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church. The meeting was conducted by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D.

Following an opening prayer and responsive reading by Rev. C. Schenck, Ph. D., Rev. G. W. Gardner, of Grace M. E. church, read the Scripture lesson, Luke xxiii, 27-46. Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass then dwelt on the first word, or expression: "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do." This the speaker said showed the goodness of Christ and the readiness with which he forgave his enemies. The exhibition of meekness He gave could not fail to impress the scoffers.

The second word related to Christ's promise to the repentant thief, "Verily I say unto you, today thou shalt be with me in paradise," and was spoken on by Rev. L. R. Howard. It showed more plainly than ever, he said, the sincerity, purity and beauty of Christ, always ready to lend a helping hand.

Rev. W. R. Richards spoke on the third word, "Behold thy son; behold thy mother." Thus was His beauty of character again evidenced, the thought being not for Himself but for His mother.

At last the physical anguish overcame the spiritual perception and the dying Saviour called out, "My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me?" They were new words from Christ, Rev. C. L. Goodrich said, but they revealed the fact that He was enduring human suffering.

His fifth word, "I thrist," was not to be wondered at, Dr. Rodman said, but it did not mean literally He desired to drink. It was His way of saying He thristed for the salvation of those about Him and for that of future generations.

"It is finished," He said, in the sixth word, and Rev. John McMurray declared it was the closing about Him of the shadow of the cross which had always followed Him from the day He first perceived it in the carpenter shop.

The last word, "Father, into Thy hands I commend my spirit," Rev. Charles E. Herring said, again manifested his nobleness character from the fact that He entered His Father's kingdom confident that He was to enter His heavenly home.

Following the short talks, there was a brief season of silent prayer after which Rev. Dr. Rodman invoked the Divine blessing on the gathering. While the offertory was being taken, Miss Edith Derby, the soprano soloist of Trinity Reformed church, sang very sweetly, "There is a Green Hill, Far Away." The benediction was pronounced by Rev. C. L. Goodrich.

FRAME OF SHELLS.

Large Oil Painting With Remarkable Frame in Crosby & Hill's.

In one of Crosby & Hill's large show windows there is displayed a large oil painting which is attracting a great deal of attention. It is not the picture itself which commands attention, although it is a work of art, but the frame which surrounds it. This is constructed mainly of shells which were gathered by the maker from distant parts of the globe. The largest ones were secured on a southern coast depicted in the picture. In all it makes a beautiful ornament and one that is valued highly by the owner. It is worth several hundred dollars, at least, that amount having been offered for it.

MARRIED WHILE IN COLLEGE

IT WAS A SECRET MARRIAGE WHICH HAS JUST BEEN ANNOUNCED.

Wm. J. Roome, Jr., and Miss Florence L. Weed, of Noroton, Conn., Were Wedded Last November.

Announcement is made of the marriage of William J. Roome, Jr., formerly of North Plainfield, but now of New York, to Miss Florence L. Weed, of Noroton, Conn., which took place November 4.

At the time of the marriage Mr. Roome was junior in Yale. He then gave up his studies and since then has been working with Jenkins & Co., Brooklyn bankers. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Roome, and the family usually spend the summer in Washington Park. The bride is the daughter of Frank Weed, senior member of the firm of Weed & Brother, commission merchants in New York.

Up to a week ago the groom had been living with her parents and his wife lived at her home. They have since taken up their residence at Norton, where the couple will live for the present. This marriage was a secret one and was not revealed to the family until some time afterward.

Funeral of Jos. VanArsdale.

CAUGHT GANG OF BAD BOYS

Railroad Detective Captured Crowd That Have Made Much Trouble on Railroad.

THEY WERE ALL FINED.

Used to Ride on Coal Cars And Bombard Stations, Passenger Cars and Railroad Employes — They Pleaded Guilty When Arraigned in Dunellen Last Evening.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, March 29—Five youthful prisoners, ranging from thirteen to eighteen years of age, were brought before Borough Recorder Merrel, last evening. They were charged by D. M. Laveratt, a detective of the Central Railroad, with stealing rides on coal trains and endangering life and property by throwing large pieces of coal at railroad employes along the tracks, at shanties and passenger cars.

The boys gave their names as Earl Pierce, of 65 North Twentieth street; John Barry, of West Sixteenth street; Thomas Douglass, of Twenty-first street; Thomas McDonald, of 19 East Fourteenth street; and Thomas Martin, of 27 East Fifteenth street; all of Bayonne.

The prisoners, with two others, went through here on an westbound local train at about 4 o'clock and, it is alleged, bombarded several shanties and broke windows in some passenger cars. A detective was sent for and he went at once to the Green brook "tanks" where he found the boys hiding in a cellar. With the help of several men he captured five of the boys after a hard chase. It required four shots from the detective's revolver to stop Martin.

Peter Bermard and Peter Mohan testified that they had seen the stones thrown and that Bernard was nearly hit last Sunday by a stone thrown by one of the same gang. The prisoners admitted throwing the stones and were fined by the Recorder. Pierce was fined $5, Barry $25, Douglass $10, McDonald $5, and Martin $25. Their parents will be given two days in which to pay the fines and then if not paid the culprits will be committed to New Brunswick for varying terms.

It is thought this will break up the gangs which have been terrorizing railroad people for some time and railroad men regard it as an important capture.

All the prisoners confessed to having served terms for the same offense before.

THEATRICAL.

The return of "San Toy" to Daly's Theatre on Monday evening, April 7, will mark the re-appearance on the New York stage of Minnie Ashley, the beautiful young lyrical artiste who made such a great hit in this muscial comedy in the part of Dudley during its two long runs at this theatre last season. Miss Ashley was afflicted with a disease of the eyes which threatened to make her permanently blind and she was obliged to retire from the cast. She has now completely recovered and makes her first re-appearance in New York in this production. The title role is played by Marie Celeste, another beautiful young woman who is a great New York favorite. In the musical comedy, San Toy is the daughter of a Chinese mandarin who, fearing that she will be summoned to court at Pekin, disguises her as a boy and claims to have no daughter. This is the foundation of the plot. A young English officer learns the truth and falls deeply in love with the beautiful Chinese maid. The story, while told mainly in a humorous vein, is very interesting, and the music and lyrics are among the most attractive heard in a musical comedy in New York in years.

There's No Place So Homelike.

Lakewood the fashionable—Lakewood the glorious, is the one resort to which the resorter now turns for a period of enjoyment, and such enjoyment includes every known sport. Lakewood's drives, than which there are none better, attract a gay throng and traps of every kind are in constant use. The hunt attracts many, likewise cycling and polo, but when one finds such delightful, yes wonderful links as Lakewood possesses, one little wonders that golf is the popular game. Another feature of prominence is its hotels, hostelries commodious, grand or rather palatial, where one's welfare is the first and foremost consideration. These qualifications, including a most marvelous atmosphere, have made Lakewood famous the world over. This resort is reached only via the New Jersey Central, and its passenger department in New York has issued a booklet on Lakewood which is replete with information, and is yours for the asking.

FREE DELIVERY TO ALDENE

EXTENSION OF THE SERVICE FROM THE ELIZABETH POSTOFFICE.

A Sub-Station to be Located at Roselle Park—Free Delivery Starts Next Week.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Elizabeth, March 29—The extension of the free delivery service to Aldene will, it is said, begin next week. This extension to the mail service includes in addition to the free delivery the establishment of a sub-station at Roselle Park centre. It will be known as sub-station No. 4, and the person in care will be designated as clerk-in-charge. The office will be open for the sale of postal supplies and the reception of mail, but not for its dispatch.

The station in Lorraine will remain as it now is. The extension to the mail servcie will necessitate an increase in Postmaster Charlock's force of carriers. It will require at least two more, and these will be appointed from the list of eligibles, which means the promotion of a couple of subs. This change has been made upon a petition of the patrons of the new district and is an endorsement of the service being given in this city by Postmaster Charlock and his efficient force.

The establishment of a sub-station in Roselle Park makes four sub-stations and one station under Postmaster Charlock. This addition increases the revenue, demands a larger appropriation, gives the Elizabeth office a more important position, and is consequetnly an other step in favor of a government building.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

From all appearances the adjective "strictly" when placed in writing is not familiar to the average groceryman. In a journey about town, yesterday, a reporter for The Press counted three stores where the term "strictly fresh eggs" was displayed on a sign and in each case the initial word was spelled out "strickly." It may have been done as a ruse to catch the public eye and, if so, it certainly succeeded in its purpose.

Miss Emily C. Wheeler, as secretary of the National Armenian Relief Committee, has issued an appeal for funds with which to advance the work undertaken by the society. She draws attention to the fact that some years ago the American people rescued from death a large number of orphans in India. The needs at the present day for the little ones are: Something to eat, a cheery home and work. The people of that land are indolent and it is on this account that it is necessary to instill in the youth a love for work. It only costs six cents to defray the living expenses of a child for one day, and only $20 for a year. Contributions will be acknowledged and appreciated, says Miss Wheeler, if sent to her address, No. 40 King street, Worcester, Mass.

In the spring when everybody's fancy lightly turns to thoughts of gardening, it is interesting to note the care given to lawns and priyate property. Some of our wealthy citizens are expending much thought and money in making their places attractive, calling in the skill of the landscape gardener to beautify the grounds surrounding their already beautiful homes. Less prosperous householders are following out an instinct of nature and the spring in putting their lawns in good condition for the sunshine and spring showers to work upon them transformation scenes. Even the surroundings of the poor man' cottage may be made attractive by the use of rake, hoe and judicious use of seeds. The Town Improvement Association appreciated the value of this kind of work when they offered a premium for the best kept yard. Sometimes a single member of a family can accomplish much in this work of picking up and removing what is unsightly, like the little New York girl who wrote to Col. Waring: "Dear Mr. Waring—I saw a man throw a banana pealing on the sidewalk. I asked him would he kindly pick it up. He said he wouldn't, so I kindly picked it up myself."

In Case of Accident.

Accidents will happen. Mother strains her back lifting a sofa. Father is hurt in the shop. Children are forever falling and bruising themselves. There is but one Painkiller, Perry Davis'.

COEDUCATION WANES

Pronounced Reaction Against System Has Set In.

PRESIDENT ELECT JAMES SO HOLDS.

Head of Northwestern University Says New and Strong Objections Have Arisen as a Result of Trial In Many Institutions.

CHICAGO, March 29.—Dr. Edmund J. James, president elect of the Northwestern university, has presented his first communication to the board of trustees. On the subject of coeducation he said in part:

"There are many signs of a marked reaction in the public mind on the subject of coeducation. Friends of the movement may well view it with some concern. The tide seems in certain ways to have ebbed. A pronounced reaction has set in. Not only has the system ceased to make new converts, but there are indications that it is losing ground in the very territory which it had so completely won. A new period of questioning is upon us. A sort of vague prejudice has arisen in the country at large which indicates a new attitude of the public mind toward the whole problem. The system is attacked on new grounds and from new points of view.

"We are, moreover, not left to merely theoretical criticism and vague suggestion as to what the public sentiment is on the subject. This is evidenced in certain quarters by some very interesting external signs.

"All these things and many others of like kind point to a serious crisis in the history of this movement, and it behooves those who believe in coeducation to study the system with all seriousness. The grounds of discussion have changed entirely in the last generation. The old objections have lost their force, and entirely new ones are now to the front. The notion that women are incapable of doing college work, so commonly urged a generation ago, has completely disappeared. The objection that young men and women cannot be trusted to observe proper relations in their social intercourse has lost its force in view of the plain fact that the moral tone of coeducational institutions is distinctly higher than that of the community at large and is certainly not inferior to that of schools for one sex alone.

"But, on the other hand, one hears oftener the claim that the increasing number of women tends to feminine the institutions where they are, in some cases to such an extent as to discourage the attendance of men. It is urged with increasing persistence that the social distractions and dissipations, with their widening invasion of the serious purpose that should go with school life, form a very serious problem, while others emphasize the fact that the broad difference in the future careers of the two sexes should find a more adequate recognition in the college curricula."

Taylor Pays Fine.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 29.—Henry A. Taylor, the young eastern capitalist, convicted of conspiracy to bribe in connection with a proposition to saddle upon this city a four million dollar water supply contract, appeared in the superior court to receive his sentence. Judge Newnham imposed a fine of $2,000, the maximum allowed by law, without imprisonment. Taylor paid the fine and was discharged from custody. This disposes of three of the indictments in the water deal. Ex-City Attorney Lant K. Salsbury and Stilson V. McLeod are now serving terms in the house of correction for violating the United States banking laws.

Murphy Gets $18,500.

NEW YORK, March 29.—P. Murphy of New Rochelle, who lost his left leg below the knee in the New York Central tunnel accident, has settled with the railroad company for $18,500. Murphy was regarded as a hero because he refused to have the beams removed that were crushing him until the women near him had been taken out. He is able to be wheeled through the streets in a chair on pleasant days.

Mill Operatives Get an Advance.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., March 29.—The mill operatives in this city have been granted an advance of 10 per cent in wages, the advance to take effect Monday, April 7. This was the result of the conference between the managers' association and ten members of the New Bedford textile council, which had made a demand for the advance. The conference was entirely harmonious, and every mill in the city was represented.

Medals For Brave Men.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The secretary of the treasury has awarded a gold life saving medal to Elmer Mayo for his heroic services in rescuing Seth L. Ellis at the recent Monomy (Mass.) disaster, in which the entire life saving crew of the Monomy station, with one exception, were lost. The secretary also awarded a gold medal to Seth Ellis, the survivor of the crew.

Woman Burned to Death.

NEW ORLEANS, March 29.—Mrs. Dora C. Hailey, formerly of Camden, Ark., was burned to death and her daughter was painfully injured in a fire which destroyed their home on Audubon street. An explosion of gasoline following the breaking out of the fire was responsible for the fatality.

A Fatal Mine Cavein.

SEATTLE, Wash., March 29.—A special from Dawson says a mine caved in on Hunker creek, burying eleven men. All were rescued more or less injured, except Leon Boermer of Maple, Mich., who is dead.

LITERARY.

"Farming Out Convicts," an article giving a graphic account of the workings of the convict labor system in Georgia, forms the first feature of the April number of Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

A sketch by John Uri Lloyd, called "Northern Kentucky in War Time," a vivid recollection of a past period described with great literary charm; a striking character sketch of Mayor Jones, the Golden Rule mayor of Toledo, a man about whom opinions so widely differ at present, and a study of the career and attainments of the celebrated actress, Mrs. Leslie Carter, add to the all-round character of this number.

The first chapters of a new serial, "A Daughter of Raasay," by W. M. Raine, appear this month, together with a number of short stories of rather unusually good quality.

The April Forum opens with an article in which Sydney Brooks pertinently applies to our own problems in the Philippines the lessons to be drawn from "The Example of the Malay States" under British rule. Among other papers on questions affecting foreign affairs are "The Anglo-Japanese Alliance," by A. Maurice Low, and "Prince Henry's Visit," by Prof. Paul. S. Reinsch. There figure also, in this month's contents, discussions of various subjects of domestic politics now attracting the attention of Congress; such as "The Amendment of the Inter-State Commerce Act, and Railroad Pooling," by W. A. Robertson; "Promotion in the Army," by Major John H. Parker; "Shall the United States Lease its Grazing Lands?" by John P. Irish; and "Proposed Amendments to the Constitution," by Henry Litchfield West. A timely sketch of the characteristic tactics of "The Boer in Battle" is contributed by Edward B. Rose, a former resident in the Transvaal. In an article entitled "Is England being Americanized?" Herbert W. Horwill replies to a paper on that subject in a former issue of the same magazine.

"The most important archaeological find of thirty years in point of human, historical, and religious interest," is the way a member of the National Geographic Society speaks of the discovery in 1898 at Paprahwah, India, of the tomb of Buddha with the family relics contained in it. Though small in quantity, the articles found are said to be of much greater importance even than the Schliemann discoveries. At the death of the Buddha his ashes were separated into eight portions, and one of these was given to the Sakya clan of which he was the chief, and the tomb that has been found is the one erected by his family over the spot where his body was cremated. The supreme importance of the discovery lies in the fact that it brings to light one of the oldest inscriptions in India and relics of Buddha—in gold and jewels—of undoubted authenticity. An account of the discovery of the tomb, as well as of the birthplace of the Buddha (also recently identified), will appear in the April Century from the pen of T. W. Rhys Davids, whom the London Times recently pronounced "the greatest living European Buddhist scholar." The article has a number of drawings, the column marking the birthplace, the tomb and its site, vessels found in it, etc.

While Easter has come and gone fashion still holds sway over the hearts of women, and the April issue of The American Queen will tell all of them what the new materials and the new trimmings are, and how to have them made up. Spring millinery also receives attention, and some of the most simple and artistic designs in everything that goes to make up woman's outfit are shown. The $500 Gibson picture, which decorates the cover of The American Queen for April, is as effective and artistic as any work Charles Dana Gibson has ever accomplished. This picture is owned and copyrighted by The American Queen, and proofs of it, printed on heavy paper, 20x28 inches, ready for framing, will be sent postpaid for 50 cents, by addressing The American Queen, Union Square, N. Y. "Clement Carrington's Love,' "'A Strange Meeting" and "Monna Liza" are the titles of complete stories in this issue, and each is copiously and beautifully illustrated. Several articles ("Legal Status of Women in America," "The Girl's Own Room," "Table Etiquette," "Hostess and Guest" and "Children's Parties") deserve special attention, as do also the Domestic Science, Beauty and Toilet and Embroidery Pages. The American Queen is published on the first of each month, price 50 cents per year. Office of Publication, Union Square, New York.

COMMISSIONER EVANS RESIGNS.

Head of Pension Bureau Slated For Diplomatic Service.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Commissioner of Pensions Evans has placed his resignation in the hands of the president. It will not take effect until some important position in the diplomatic service is found for him.

The pension committee appointed at the last annual encampment of the G. A. R. to investigate the affairs of the pension bureau has made its report to the president. It has not yet been decided as to when the report will be made public, if at all.

It is stated that the policy of Commissioner Evans will be continued by his successor.

The following letter from Hon. H. Clay Evans resigning the commissionership of pensions, together with an appended statement, was made public at the White House last night:

"For some time I have been considering the question of resigning. It will soon be five years since I assumed the duties of this office, and I now have the honor of tendering you my resignation as commissioner of pensions and will thank you to accept the same at as early a date as may suit your convenience."

The statement appended to the letter is as follows:

"Mr. Evans some months ago verbally expressed his desire to resign and finally put it in writing on March 15. The president, however, has told him that he will have to remain as commissioner in the first place until his successor has been determined upon and in the second place until there is some position to tender him which the president will regard as a promotion and as a fitting reward for his excellent services in the department."

THE ISLAND SALE SCANDAL.

Denmark Refused to Recognize Christmas and Gron.

COPENHAGEN, March 29.—The Christmas scandal is not discussed here nor are the facts in the case published in Copenhagen, although a full account of Congressman Richardson's statements in congress was telegraphed to the semiofficial news agency in this city.

Denmark has heard from both Captain Walter Christmas and Niels Gron, who also has claimed to have acted as a Danish agent in negotiating the sale of the Danish West Indies. Each claimed a commission, but the government has refused to recognize either of them, declaring that neither was ever connected with the negotiations in the slightest degree.

A newspaper referred to the controversy during the latter part of February, but it did not take Gron or Christmas seriously. Gron started for America soon afterward.

Gilbert Won the Trophy.

KANSAS CITY, March 29.—Fred Gilbert of Spirit Lake, Ia., won the fifty bird shooting match for The Sportsmen's Review trophy and thus takes absolute possession of that cup. The contestants were Gilbert, J. A. R. Elliott of Kansas City and W. R. Crosby of O'Fallon, Ill. Gilbert and Elliott tied on forty-seven out of fifty. Crosby losing four birds. In the shoot off at ten birds Elliott lost his first, second and sixth birds, Gilbert killing ten straight.

Brisk Cloth Market.

FALL RIVER, Mass., March 29.—The sales in the cloth market during the week amounted to between 100,000 and 150,000 pieces. Buyers were in the market in force and are accepting every piece of goods they can obtain from the manufacturers. There are no spot goods to be had in this center. Generally speaking, the condition of the gray goods market was never better, and everything is in favor of sellers.

Had Counterfeit Dollars.

LIMA, O., March 29.—A stranger giving his name as H. B. Smith tried to sell two silver dollars of the famous 1804 issue for a small pittance here. They are worth $2,000 each, and his generous offer aroused suspicion. The dollars are pronounced counterfeits. Smith was arrested and turned over to the federal authorities.

Report on Miles Ready.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Secretary Root has completed his answer to the house resolution calling for the correspondence between the department and Lieutenant General Miles respecting the latter's proposition to visit the Philippines. The answer would have gone to the house yesterday except for a misunderstanding.

President Will Give Out Diplomas.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—It is announced that President Roosevelt will deliver the diplomas at the graduating exercises of the Naval academy at Annapolis on May 2, the advance date set in order to relieve a dearth in commissioned officers.

FARMS AND RAILWAYS UNDER WATE

Heavy Damage In Mississippi—The City of Meridian Cut Off From the Outside World — Families Driven From Their Homes.

MERIDIAN, Miss., March 29.—Eleven inches of rain have fallen here during the past forty-eight hours. Many farms are under water, bridges have been washed away and railway traffic in this vicinity is at a standstill. An Alabama Great Southern freight train went into a washout Thursday night near York. There is no travel on the Alabama Great Southern or the Southern railway between Meridian and Selma. Two trains are lost on the Alabama and Vicksburg, two on the Mobile and Ohio and one on the New Orleans and Northwestern twenty miles south of Meridian. No trains have entered or departed from Meridian since Thursday afternoon. Several serious washouts are reported. Telegraph wires are down, and some points are entirely cut off.

Meridian is entirely cut off from the outside world, except that two Western Union wires are still in operation, and not a train is moving within fifty miles of the city. A fast freight on the Northeastern railroad is six feet under water, and the crew is in danger of being swept away. Efforts to reach the train by boats have been futile, owing to the swift current. Two relief parties started to swim and wade streams, but nothing has been heard from them since Thursday night. The water at Enterprise, twelve miles south, is rising at the rate of eighteen inches an hour. There is no prospect for the resumption of traffic for two or three days. The southern section of this city has been under three feet of water for twenty-four hours, and many families have been forced to leave their homes in the lowlands and escape to higher ground.

At New Albany the rainfall and wind for the last twenty-four hours have been extraordinary. The water in Tallahatchie river has risen rapidly, washing away the long bridge at the end of the town. Water has risen to the lofts of a dozen houses, and the inhabitants are on their roofs awaiting boats which are being secured for their rescue. Trains have been abandoned. Thousands of dollars' worth of damage has been done in the county, and the waters are still rising.

A terrific rain, wind and electrical storm passed through Tupelo and the neighboring country. It approached rapidly from the west and did considerable damage in the town. The wind was terrific, and a blinding sheet of rain accompanied it. The telephone exchange suffered considerable loss. Seventy-five negro cabins and a negro church which had just been completed were blown down.

Refused to Sign Miners' Scale.

ALTOONA, Pa., March 29.—The refusal of L. W. Robinson of the Rochester and Pittsburg Coal and Iron company to sign the miners' scale agreed upon here by the miners and the rest of the operators of district No. 2 may cause a strike of Robinson's several thousand men on April 1. Robinson's men allege that he departed from last year's scale in compelling the men to push to the headings heavily loaded cars instead of employing mules, and he insisted on the same conditions for the next year. It was his contention that held up the convention and delayed the signing of the scale by the other operators and miners.

A Possible Lynching.

CLAYTON, N. M., March 29.—An attack on the jail here for the purpose of lynching Postmaster J. W. Guyer, who killed William E. Searles, a jeweler, on Wednesday last, is threatened by citizens, who have held several meetings to discuss the case. Guyer shot Searles in self defense, the latter having fired the first shot. Searles attempted to shoot the postmaster because, it is charged, he had circulated a pamphlet reflecting upon the character of Searles and his wife.

Triple Alliance Not Discussed.

VIENNA, March 29.—The authorities here assert that the triple alliance was not discussed at the conference held in Venice between Count von Bulow, the German imperial chancellor, and Signor Prinetti, the Italian minister of finance, but that the subjects of these conferences were the economical questions involved in the triple alliance, together with the good results ensuing from a continuance of that agreement.

Hanna Not a Candidate.

TOMAH, Wis., March 29.—Senator Marcus A. Hanna has written a letter to C. W. Croty of this city stating that he is in no sense a candidate for the presidency in 1904 and requesting his friends to discourage any movement to that end. Mr. Croty wrote to the senator some days ago and yesterday received an autograph reply.

New Commissioner of Immigration.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—It is announced that the name of William Williams of New York is being considered by the president for the office of commissioner of immigration at New York, now held by Thomas Fitchie. Mr. Williams lunched with the president.

A Strange Fatality.

GORRIE, Ont., March 29.—Henry Sanderson, a contractor, was fishing when his pole came in contact with an electric light wire, and he was instantly killed by the shock.

COEDUCATION WANES

Pronounced Reaction Against System Has Set In.

PRESIDENT ELECT JAMES SO HOLDS.

CHICAGO, March 29.—Dr. Edmund J. James, president elect of the Northwestern university, has presented his first communication to the board of trustees. On the subject of coeducation he said in part:

"There are many signs of a marked reaction in the public mind on the subject of coeducation. Friends of the movement may well view it with some concern. The tide seems in certain ways to have ebbed. A pronounced reaction has set in. Not only has the system ceased to make new converts, but there are indications that it is losing ground in the very territory which it had so completely won. A new period of questioning is upon us. A sort of vague prejudice has arisen in the country at large which indicates a new attitude of the public mind toward the whole problem. The system is attacked on new grounds and from new points of view.

"We are, moreover, not left to merely theoretical criticism and vague suggestion as to what the public sentiment is on the subject. This is evidenced in certain quarters by some very interesting external signs.

"All these things and many others of like kind point to a serious crisis in the history of this movement, and it behooves those who believe in coeducation to study the system with all seriousness. The grounds of discussion have changed entirely in the last generation. The old objections have lost their force, and entirely new ones are now to the front. The notion that women are incapable of doing college work, so commonly urged a generation ago, has completely disappeared. The objection that young men and women cannot be trusted to observe proper relations in their social intercourse has lost its force in view of the plain fact that the moral tone of coeducational institutions is distinctly higher than that of the community at large and is certainly not inferior to that of schools for one sex alone.

"But, on the other hand, one hears oftener the claim that the increasing number of women tends to feminine the institutions where they are, in some cases to such an extent as to discourage the attendance of men. It is urged with increasing persistence that the social distractions and dissipations, with their widening invasion of the serious purpose that should go with school life, form a very serious problem, while others emphasize the fact that the broad difference in the future careers of the two sexes should find a more adequate recognition in the college curricula."

Taylor Pays Fine.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., March 29.—Henry A. Taylor, the young eastern capitalist, convicted of conspiracy to bribe in connection with a proposition to saddle upon this city a four million dollar water supply contract, appeared in the superior court to receive his sentence. Judge Newnham imposed a fine of $2,000, the maximum allowed by law, without imprisonment. Taylor paid the fine and was discharged from custody. This disposes of three of the indictments in the water deal. Ex-City Attorney Lant K. Salsbury and Stilson V. McLeod are now serving terms in the house of correction for violating the United States banking laws.

Murphy Gets $18,500.

NEW YORK, March 29.—P. Murphy of New Rochelle, who lost his left leg below the knee in the New York Central tunnel accident, has settled with the railroad company for $18,500. Murphy was regarded as a hero because he refused to have the beams removed that were crushing him until the women near him had been taken out. He is able to be wheeled through the streets in a chair on pleasant days.

Mill Operatives Get an Advance.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., March 29.—The mill operatives in this city have been granted an advance of 10 per cent in wages, the advance to take effect Monday, April 7. This was the result of the conference between the managers' association and ten members of the New Bedford textile council, which had made a demand for the advance. The conference was entirely harmonious, and every mill in the city was represented.

Medals For Brave Men.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—The secretary of the treasury has awarded a gold life saving medal to Elmer Mayo for his heroic services in rescuing Seth L. Ellis at the recent Monomy (Mass.) disaster, in which the entire life saving crew of the Monomy station, with one exception, were lost. The secretary also awarded a gold medal to Seth Ellis, the survivor of the crew.

Woman Burned to Death.

NEW ORLEANS, March 29.—Mrs. Dora C. Halley, formerly of Camden, Ark., was burned to death and her daughter was painfully injured in a fire which destroyed their home on Audubon street. An explosion of gasoline following the breaking out of the fire was responsible for the fatality.

A Fatal Mine Cavein.

SEATTLE, Wash., March 29.—A special from Dawson says a mine caved in on Hunker creek, burying eleven men. All were rescued more or less injured, except Leon Boermer of Maple, Mich., who is dead.

LITERARY.

"Farming Out Convicts," an article giving a graphic account of the workings of the convict labor system in Georgia, forms the first feature of the April number of Frank Leslie's Popular Monthly.

A sketch by John Uri Lloyd, called "Northern Kentucky in War Time," a vivid recollection of a past period described with great literary charm; a striking character sketch of Mayor Jones, the Golden Rule mayor of Toledo, a man about whom opinions so widely differ at present, and a study of the career and attainments of the celebrated actress, Mrs. Leslie Carter, add to the all-round character of this number.

The first chapters of a new serial, "A Daughter of Raasay," by W. M. Raine, appear this month, together with a number of short stories of rather unusually good quality.

The April Forum opens with an article in which Sydney Brooks pertinently applies to our own problems in the Philippines the lessons to be drawn from "The Example of the Malay States" under British rule. Among other papers on questions affecting foreign affairs are "The Anglo-Japanese Alliance," by A. Maurice Low, and "Prince Henry's Visit," by Prof. Paul. S. Reinsch. There figure also, in this month's contents, discussions of various subjects of domestic politics now attracting the attention of Congress; such as "The Amendment of the Inter-State Commerce Act, and Railroad Pooling," by W. A. Robertson; "Promotion in the Army," by Major John H. Parker; "Shall the United States Lease its Grazing Lands?" by John P. Irish; and "Proposed Amendments to the Constitution," by Henry Litchfield West. A timely sketch of the characteristic tactics of "The Boer in Battle" is contributed by Edward B. Rose, a former resident in the Transvaal. In an article entitled "Is England being Americanized?" Herbert W. Horwill replies to a paper on that subject in a former issue of the same magazine.

"The most important archaeological find of thirty years in point of human, historical, and religious interest," is the way a member of the National Geographic Society speaks of the discovery in 1898 at Paprahwah, India, of the tomb of Buddha with the family relics contained in it. Though small in quantity, the articles found are said to be of much greater importance even than the Schliemann discoveries. At the death of the Buddha his ashes were separated into eight portions, and one of these was given to the Sakya clan of which he was the chief, and the tomb that has been found is the one erected by his family over the spot where his body was cremated. The supreme importance of the discovery lies in the fact that it brings to light one of the oldest inscriptions in India and relics of Buddha—in gold and jewels—of undoubted authenticity. An account of the discovery of the tomb, as well as of the birthplace of the Buddha (also recently identified), will appear in the April Century from the pen of T. W. Rhys Davids, whom the London Times recently pronounced "the greatest living European Buddhist scholar." The article has a number of drawings, the column marking the birthplace, the tomb and its site, vessels found in it, etc.

While Easter has come and gone fashion still holds sway over the hearts of women, and the April issue of The American Queen will tell all of them what the new materials and the new trimmings are, and how to have them made up. Spring millinery also receives attention, and some of the most simple and artistic designs in everything that goes to make up woman's outfit are shown. The $500 Gibson picture, which decorates the cover of The American Queen for April, is as effective and artistic as any work Charles Dana Gibson has ever accomplished. This picture is owned and copyrighted by The American Queen, and proofs of it, printed on heavy paper, 20x28 inches, ready for framing, will be sent postpaid for 50 cents, by addressing The American Queen, Union Square, N. Y. "Clement Carrington's Love," "A Strange Meeting" and "Monna Liza" are the titles of complete stories in this issue, and each is copiously and beautifully illustrated. Several articles ("Legal Status of Women in America," "The Girl's Own Room," "Table Etiquette," "Hostess and Guest" and "Children's Parties") deserve special attention, as do also the Domestic Science, Beauty and Toilet and Embroidery Pages. The American Queen is published on the first of each month, price 50 cents per year. Office of Publication, Union Square, New York.

COMMISSIONER EVANS RESIGNS.

Head of Pension Bureau Slated For Diplomatic Service.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Commissioner of Pensions Evans has placed his resignation in the hands of the president. It will not take effect until some important position in the diplomatic service is found for him.

The pension committee appointed at the last annual encampment of the G. A. R. to investigate the affairs of the pension bureau has made its report to the president. It has not yet been decided as to when the report will be made public, if at all.

It is stated that the policy of Commissioner Evans will be continued by his successor.

The following letter from Hon. H. Clay Evans resigning the commissionership of pensions, together with an appended statement, was made public at the White House last night:

"For some time I have been considering the question of resigning. It will soon be five years since I assumed the duties of this office, and I now have the honor of tendering you my resignation as commissioner of pensions and will thank you to accept the same at as early a date as may suit your convenience."

The statement appended to the letter is as follows:

"Mr. Evans some months ago verbally expressed his desire to resign and finally put it in writing on March 15. The president, however, has told him that he will have to remain as commissioner in the first place until his successor has been determined upon and in the second place until there is some position to tender him which the president will regard as a promotion and as a fitting reward for his excellent services in the department."

THE ISLAND SALE SCANDAL.

Denmark Refused to Recognize Christmas and Gron.

COPENHAGEN, March 29.—The Christmas scandal is not discussed here nor are the facts in the case published in Copenhagen, although a full account of Congressman Richardson's statements in congress was telegraphed to the semiofficial news agency in this city.

Denmark has heard from both Captain Walter Christmas and Niels Gron, who also has claimed to have acted as a Danish agent in negotiating the sale of the Danish West Indies. Each claimed a commission, but the government has refused to recognize either of them, declaring that neither was ever connected with the negotiations in the slightest degree.

A newspaper referred to the controversy during the latter part of February, but it did not take Gron or Christmas seriously. Gron started for America soon afterward.

Gilbert Won the Trophy.

KANSAS CITY, March 29.—Fred Gilbert of Spirit Lake, Ia., won the fifty bird shooting match for The Sportsmen's Review trophy and thus takes absolute possession of that cup. The contestants were Gilbert, J. A. R. Elliott of Kansas City and W. R. Crosby of O'Fallon, Ill. Gilbert and Elliott tied on forty-seven out of fifty. Crosby losing four birds. In the shoot off at ten birds Elliott lost his first, second and sixth birds, Gilbert killing ten straight.

Brisk Cloth Market.

FALL RIVER, Mass., March 29.—The sales in the cloth market during the week amounted to between 100,000 and 150,000 pieces. Buyers were in the market in force and are accepting every piece of goods they can obtain from the manufacturers. There are no spot goods to be had in this center. Generally speaking, the condition of the gray goods market was never better, and everything is in favor of sellers.

Had Counterfeit Dollars.

LIMA, O., March 29.—A stranger giving his name as H. B. Smith tried to sell two silver dollars of the famous 1804 issue for a small pittance here. They are worth $2,000 each, and his generous offer aroused suspicion. The dollars are pronounced counterfeits. Smith was arrested and turned over to the federal authorities.

Report on Miles Ready.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Secretary Root has completed his answer to the house resolution calling for the correspondence between the department and Lieutenant General Miles respecting the latter's proposition to visit the Philippines. The answer would have gone to the house yesterday except for a misunderstanding.

President Will Give Out Diplomas.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—It is announced that President Roosevelt will deliver the diplomas at the graduating exercises of the Naval academy at Annapolis on May 2, the advance date set in order to relieve a dearth in commissioned officers.

FLOODS IN THE SOUTH

Nearly a Foot of Rain Has Fallen In Two Days.

FARMS AND RAILWAYS UNDER WATER

Heavy Damage In Mississippi—The City of Meridian Cut Off From the Outside World — Families Driven From Their Homes.

MERIDIAN, Miss., March 29.—Eleven inches of rain have fallen here during the past forty-eight hours. Many farms are under water, bridges have been washed away and railway traffic in this vicinity is at a standstill. An Alabama Great Southern freight train went into a washout Thursday night near York. There is no travel on the Alabama Great Southern or the Southern railway between Meridian and Selma. Two trains are lost on the Alabama and Vicksburg, two on the Mobile and Ohio and one on the New Orleans and Northwestern twenty miles south of Meridian. No trains have entered or departed from Meridian since Thursday afternoon. Several serious washouts are reported. Telegraph wires are down, and some points are entirely cut off.

Meridian is entirely cut off from the outside world, except that two Western Union wires are still in operation, and not a train is moving within fifty miles of the city. A fast freight on the Northeastern railroad is six feet under water, and the crew is in danger of being swept away. Efforts to reach the train by boats have been futile, owing to the swift current. Two relief parties started to swim and wade streams, but nothing has been heard from them since Thursday night. The water at Enterprise, twelve miles south, is rising at the rate of eighteen inches an hour. There is no prospect for the resumption of traffic for two or three days. The southern section of this city has been under three feet of water for twenty-four hours, and many families have been forced to leave their homes in the lowlands and escape to higher ground.

At New Albany the rainfall and wind for the last twenty-four hours have been extraordinary. The water in Tallahatchie river has risen rapidly, washing away the long bridge at the end of the town. Water has risen to the lofts of a dozen houses, and the inhabitants are on their roofs awaiting boats which are being secured for their rescue. Trains have been abandoned. Thousands of dollars' worth of damage has been done in the county, and the waters are still rising.

A terrific rain, wind and electrical storm passed through Tupelo and the neighboring country. It approached rapidly from the west and did considerable damage in the town. The wind was terrific, and a blinding sheet of rain accompanied it. The telephone exchange suffered considerable loss. Seventy-five negro cabins and a negro church which had just been completed were blown down.

Refused to Sign Miners' Scale.

ALTOONA, Pa., March 29.—The refusal of L. W. Robinson of the Rochester and Pittsburg Coal and Iron company to sign the miners' scale agreed upon here by the miners and the rest of the operators of district No. 2 may cause a strike of Robinson's several thousand men on April 1. Robinson's men allege that he departed from last year's scale in compelling the men to push to the headings heavily loaded cars instead of employing mules, and he insisted on the same conditions for the next year. It was his contention that held up the convention and delayed the signing of the scale by the other operators and miners.

A Possible Lynching.

CLAYTON, N. M., March 29.—An attack on the jail here for the purpose of lynching Postmaster J. W. Guyer, who killed William E. Searles, a jeweler, on Wednesday last, is threatened by citizens, who have held several meetings to discuss the case. Guyer shot Searles in self defense, the latter having fired the first shot. Searles attempted to shoot the postmaster because, it is charged, he had circulated a pamphlet reflecting upon the character of Searles and his wife.

Triple Alliance Not Discussed.

VIENNA, March 29.—The authorities here assert that the triple alliance was not discussed at the conference held in Venice between Count von Bulow, the German imperial chancellor, and Signor Prinetti, the Italian minister of finance, but that the subjects of these conferences were the economical questions involved in the triple alliance, together with the good results ensuing from a continuance of that agreement.

Hanna Not a Candidate.

TOMAH, Wis., March 29.—Senator Marcus A. Hanna has written a letter to C. W. Croty of this city stating that he is in no sense a candidate for the presidency in 1904 and requesting his friends to discourage any movement to that end. Mr. Croty wrote to the senator some days ago and yesterday received an autograph reply.

New Commissioner of Immigration.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—It is announced that the name of William Williams of New York is being considered by the president for the office of commissioner of immigration at New York, now held by Thomas Fitchie. Mr. Williams lunched with the president.

A Strange Fatality.

GORRIE, Ont., March 29.—Henry Sanderson, a contractor, was fishing when his pole came in contact with an electric light wire, and he was instantly killed by the shock.

BASEBALL NEWS.

There is every prospect that baseball will be more than usually popular this summer. With a local amateur league of four clubs and a number of other strong nines on the diamond, the national game is sure to boom. It long ago proved itself a sport that found favor on all sides and one that caused a healthy rivalry. There is no reason why the season, which is soon to begin, will not be the greatest for baseball that Plainfield has ever seen.

It has always been the policy of The Daily Press to give its support for the promotion and continuation of all legitimate kinds of sport. It has kept its readers fully informed with the local happenings concerning both in and out door games. This season will be no exception. The Daily Press will publish all the news of the amateur league and give its readers accurate and detailed accounts of the games that are played in it. In these columns will be found all the latest gossip concerning the nines and the men who form them.

There are, however, a number of minor baseball organizations in this city, the happenings in the careers of which are of more or less interest. If the promoters and officers of these teams will keep The Daily Press in touch with their movements, we will be glad to publish accounts of games, lineups of teams and challenges.

There need be no fear of contagion from the cases of small-pox in Piscataway township. While they are outside the limits of the city, yet the Plainfield Board of Health has kept a careful eye upon them and will continue to do so as they are a trifle too close for comfort. The Piscataway township authorities seem to have acted properly in the matter but any delay or negligence will be provided against by the Plainfield board which rightly feels that, although the cases are outside of its direct jurisdiction, yet it has a right to protect the good health of this community. So far, the health authorities have been working in utmost harmony.

This is the time when the wise merchant is carefully and fully setting forth his wares through the aid of the advertising columns of The Daily Press. There are many would-be purchasers in and near the city who daily peruse these columns. The merchant who tells what he has to sell and keeps the fact before the public is the one who is going to do the business this spring. The times are prosperous and there are many purchases to be made. The only question is which establishment will capture the trade and the liberal advertiser has a wonderful advantage.

Many of the local churches and their allied organizations end their fiscal years April 1, and the result has been that a number of annual meetings of these organizations have been held recently. In nearly every case a sound financial condition has been reported showing that the prosperity, which has spread over the land, has been felt by the churches as well.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May be of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Under the bill passed by the Legislature yesterday and now awaiting the Governor's signature, North Plainfield, the home of Senator Reed, will become a part of Union county. Just by a simple twist of the wrist the tall Senator is shifted into the more strenuous political activities of Union county. Senator Reed has a long head, and lies awake nights plotting things, so there is no telling what he may be at as soon as he is well established in Union. — New Brunswick Home News.

MISSIONARY SERVICES.

Of Unusual Importance Will be Held at New Brunswick, April 9.

It is being arranged to hold important missionary services on Wednesday, April 9, in the First Reformed church, at New Brunswick, at which time Dr. and Mrs. Horace G. Underwood, of Seoul, Korea, will be the chief speakers. They went out from this country in 1884, and were among the first foreigners to enter the Hermit Kingdom. They have seen the opening of the country to western civilization and have themselves had a large part in spreading the Gospel throughout the peninsula.

Dr. Underwood is a man of remarkable physical vigor and in his work as a pioneer he has overcome seemingly insurmountable obstacles. He has a marvelous story to tell and is a speaker of rare ability. In the afternoon there will be a meeting for women at 3 o'clock and one for the general public in the evening at 8 o'clock. Everyone interested is cordially invited to be present.

Lunch-Box Social.

Howell Division, Sons of Temperance, will hold a lunch-box social in its rooms in the Washington Hall building, Monday evening. The entertainment committee of the organization has prepared an excellent musical and literary programme for the occasion. The public is invited to attend, and any who feel disposed to bring boxes for auction will be doubly welcomed.

To Drain Temporary Roof.

A large drain pipe has been extended from the top of the Babcock building to the ground, so that in case of rain the water may be carried off. There are three branches leading to the main pipe, thus providing for the entire upper part. Where the pipe runs across the front sidewalk it has been covered with boards to prevent damage.

Prominent Workers Expected.

Among the prominent W. C. T. U. women who will attend the annual State conference of the Loyal Temperance Legion, to be held in the First Baptist church Wednesday, April 2, will be Mrs. Bourne, the State president; Mrs. Demarest, State secretary, and the county president of Salem county.

Spinsters Convention.

A committee from Mizpah Lodge, No. 1. U. O. of I. O. L., is making arrangements for a "Spinsters' Convention" to be held in Sons of Temperance Hall, April 14. Some unique features are promised and the affair will in all probability be the most successful the lodge has conducted in some time.

Nearly Ready for New Switchboard.

Manager Runyon, of the telephone exchange, believes that within another week he will be able to make the change in connection from the present switchboard to the new multiple board recently installed. The work of making a change is necessarily very slow on account of so much detail.

—Members of the Royal Arcanum, who require tickets for Greenbrook Council entertainment for themselves or friends, can procure them from Wm. F. Oliver, 230 East Fifth street.

SUBURBAN NEWS

DUNELLEN.

The members of the Literary Club will spend a Japanese evening at the home of Mrs. Lester Meserole, this evening. They will be costumed in Japanese costumes and will follow out Japanese actions.

Miss May Apgar, of this place, and Miss Ellen Terry, of Westfield, return today from a visit of several days with Mrs. Sherman Cooley, of Flemington.

Lewis Churchill and Thomas Thomas, of this place, left Thursday for Ocean Grove where they will spend their Easter vacation.

The Checker Club held a regular meeting in its clubrooms, last evening. Several interesting games were played.

The Dunellen dancing class will end the present season next Friday evening with a large reception.

Mrs. Adam Herlick, of Front street, is critically ill at her home. Dr. Brakeley is in attendance.

John Case has nearly finished the erection of a new frame barn on his place on Grove street.

A number of New York business men had yesterday and today for an Easter holiday.

The trees in the railroad park have been trimmed and the shrubbery pruned.

In the future the morning mail, eastbound, will close at 7:15 o'clock.

Mrs. Everett Gordon is entertaining relatives from Westfield.

Services were held in St. John's R. C. church last evening.

W. H. Terry is spending today with relatives in Westfield.

Henry Garretson was in Lincoln on business yesterday.

NEW MARKET.

The Piscataway Board of Education held a meeting in the school house, yesterday afternoon, and re-organized for the coming year. In view of the small-pox scare it was decided to close the schools next week and have them thoroughly cleaned and fumigated.

The small-pox situation remains about the same. Mrs. Sarah Kishner had practically recovered when the disease was discovered and the cases at Kerwin's Hotel are no worse.

Shepard Fitz Randolph has returned from his studies at Cornell University to spend the Easter vacation with his parents.

Assemblyman M. J. Whitford attended the last meeting of the Legislature Thursday.

Prayer meeting was held in the First Baptist church last evening.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Manager Johnston, of the local baseball team, will soon announce the schedule of games as arranged for the early part of the season at least. The enthusiasts will have the pleasure of seeing the same old familiar faces on the diamond this season that made last season such a successful one. Harvey will occupy the pitcher's box and Krausse, who made such a good showing at second base in several games played near the close of last season, has been engaged to cover that bag.

The members and teachers of the Baptist Sunday-school will observe Easter at their Sunday-school session Sunday morning. A special programme of carols, etc., has been arranged and the friends of the school are extended a very cordial invitation to attend the exercises.

Rev. Mr. Beacom will lead the Saturday evening prayer meeting in the Methodist church tonight. Mr. Beacom's pastorate will end during April when the conference is held. As yet no successor has been announced to fill the vacancy.

Special services were held in All Saints Episcopal church yesterday, it being Good Friday. Tomorrow, Easter Sunday, special music will be rendered by the choir under the direction of Miss Florence Nichol, the organist.

Regular services will be held at the Baptist church tomorrow: Morning preaching at 10:45; Baptist Young People's Union meeting, topic, "He is Risen as He Said," 7; evening preaching at 7:45.

The Township Committee met in the town rooms, last night. Approving the bonds of the newly-elected township official and other routine work was the business transacted.

Mr. and Mrs. Block and family, of Westfield avenue, will remove April 1 to the Baptist church property over Mr. Block's butcher store.

Wm. Hollingsworth, who is attending Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, is spending his Easter vacation at his home.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

Appropriate Easter services will be held at the Baptist church, tomorrow, both in the morning and in the evening.

The farmers here and in this vicinity are making preparations for their summer work.

Rev. Mr. Jones will preach at the morning service tomorrow.

The unpleasant weather today killed baseball for the day.

The church choir will meet for practice tonight.

Relief's Members Will Go.

Relief Hose Company, No. 3, of the borough, which disbanded shortly after the last firemen's parade, has received an invitation from Raritan Hose Company, No. 3, to attend a dance to be given by it Easter-Monday night. The members have decided to accept and will go in a body.

Gave Bonds for Hearing.

William C. Runyon, the young man arrested in Newark on complaint of Miss Margaret Kiely, of this city, gave bonds in the sum of $500 to an Essex county justice and was released for a hearing here next week. The young man formerly resided in this city, where most of his relatives live.

—Come to Greenbrook Council entertainment in Y. M. C. A. Hall, Monday evening, and hear and see the Montauk Ladies' Quartette in "Water Lily Gavotte" in Japanese costume.

Old Man's Advantages.

A man past 50 can do with less sleep than younger men. He can endure greater steady and prolonged strain. He can bear his burden, day after day, with less need of recreation. The young man can "sprint," but he cannot "stay" like the man with brain grown iron and nerves steel by many years of training. Elderly men are less temptable. They are of fixed moral habit. Appetite and passion are under control. For better or for worse they are a calculable quantity, with slight variations to be taken into the account. Elderly men are more loyal as friends, if they are friends. Their attachment to a cause or a commercial house is less changeable. They have, moreover, given bonds for good behavior in the persons of grown families, whose respect is to them dearer than life. They know the difficulty of repairing mistakes. Elderly men actually have experience. The older man best reads character. He is the wisest to select agents.—Washington Times.

Monkey Beat the Cobra.

A monkey and a cobra fight was witnessed by some persons a couple of days ago, about a mile or two up the Obsoor road at Bangalore. A large monkey disturbed a large cobra, which was basking in the sun about 100 yards from the road. The infuriated reptile gave the monkey chase, but he took the matter easy till he got to a rock. While perched there the snake, who had been in close chase, reared up almost to full length, and with open hood darted at the monkey. But the latter dodged and ducked on the defensive and allowed the reptile to strike forcibly each time against the stone. This went on for a considerable time, till the snake lay out at full length, bleeding and exhausted. Then the monkey seized the snake and rubbed its head clean off the trunk, and afterward climbed a tree, when the persons who had witnessed the interesting encounter treated the victor to Indian corn and sugar cane.—Lahore Tribune.

COLUMN FOR THE SHOPPERS

SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

The talk of the town is Bonn's Easter display of millinery. It excells any previous effort at this store. The styles are so popular, the hats so attractive and the price so reasonable that one can do no better by going to New York.

The weather predictions for Easter Sunday are such that seasonable goods can be worn. If you have not yet made your selection of Easter clothes go to the Paris Cloak Company store. They have a most attractive line of suitings and silk waists for women.

Good groceries, both foreign and domestic, low cash prices and courteous treatment are the features of R. H. Keenan's East Fifth street grocery store. Everything sold by him is of a strictly high class and there is never any overcharging. Call and have prices quoted.

"Its never too late to mend" is a truthful axiom, but it doesn't apply to watches and clocks. Don't let your timepieces become useless for the want of a little attention. Brown, the English expert, of 128 Watchung avenue, will repair them thoroughsly for a moderate recompense.

Have you evre realized the importance of drinking nothing but good coffee? It means much to your general health to drink a beverage made from an inferior grade of bean. If it is Neuman Brothers' Mocha and Java or Old Government Java, you need have no fear as to its excellence.

There is nothing that figures so much in the painting and papering of a house as expense and, when one can have this work done at a reasonable price, such improvements are likely to be made. The New York Decorating and Painting Company, of Park avenue, will do work in a first-class and reasonable manner.

Frucht will commene his sale of bicycle sundries Tuesday and continue every evening until further notice.

Gypsies Are Here.

The advance guard of gypsies, which visit this section every summer, has arrived and is encamped on South avenue in the vicinity of Terrill road. The band is in charge of Lige Cooper, who is well-known in this part of the State.

Township Committee Organized.

The organization of the North Plainfield Township Committee has been perfected by the selection of the following officers: Chairman, Charles P. Sebring; township clerk, Henry L. Kliner; treasurer, Thomas H. Taylor.

Appointed Township Counsel.

William A. Coddington, of the law firm of Reed & Coddington, received official notification this morning that he has been appointed counsel for Piscataway township for the ensuing year.

—"Woman's Rights," by Miss H. Taylor, of Montauk Ladies' Quartette, Monday evening.

Practically Starving.

"After using a few bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure my wife received perfect and permanent relief from a severe and chronic case of stomach trouble," says J. R. Holly, real estate, insurance and loan agent, of Macomb, Ill. "Before using Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she could not eat an ordinary meal without intense suffering. She is now entirely cured. Several physicians and many remedies had failed to give relief." You don't have to diet. Eat any good food you want, but don't overload the stomach. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure will always digest it for you. L. W. Randolph.

NEVER MET DEFEAT.

Famous Dukes and Generals of the Old World Who Won Every Battle They Went Into.

Te duke of Alva, one of the most eminent soldiers of the sixteenth century, never throughout his long and eventful career lost a battle. The archbishop of Cologne was struck by his effort to avoid a conflict, having on one occasion urged him to engage the Dutch, says the New York Herald.

"The object of a general," replied Alva, "is not to fight, but to conquer; he fights enough who obtains the victory."

Oliver Cromwell throughout his military career never lost a battle, though he very nearly sustained a reverse at Dunbar.

The duke of Marlborough fought several battles against the most experienced generals in Europe and was never once defeated.

The famous Russian general Suwaroff was another commander destined never to suffer defeat. He gained several victories against the Turks and against he Poles, and in Italy he was opposed by Moreau, and, being completely outnumbered, he effected a brilliant retreat over the mountains of Switzerland, through Germany into Russia.

The duke of Wellington throughout his brilliant campaigns, both in India and in the peninsula, preserved to himself a remarkable record of uninterrupted successes from the first battle in which he was vested with supreme command throughout the peninsular war, in which he defeated the ablest of Napoleon's marshals, until the eventful day of Waterloo.

Tender Mercy of Asceticism.

Many letters come to the monastery announcing the death of relatives of the monks; these are seen by the abbot only, and at chapter he may simply announce: "The mother of one of our members is dead; let us pray for her soul." Never to his dying day does the bereaved Trappist learn that he was praying for his own mother.—Lippincott's Magazine.

ANOTHER NEW MEMBER.

D. W. Sofield Will be Mustered Into Antietam Command, U. V. U.

Daniel W. Sofield, of Piscataway, will be mustered in as a member of Antietam Command, Union Veterans' Union, at the regular meeting, Wednesday evening. There are also five candidates for honorary membership. These are veterans of the Spanish-American War. Mr. Sofield saw a year's service in the Rebellion and an examination made at the war department on behalf of the U. V. U. shows that he took part in a number of battles and was honorably discharged.

Lots of Them.

According to the last report there are now 1,400 inmates in the New Jersey State Hospital at Morris Plains.

A Little Loss

of flesh and strength, little barking, obstinate cough and a little pain in the chest may not mean galloping consumption, but they are signs that prudence will not neglect. A few doses of Allen's Lung Balsam cause a free discharge of mucus and so loosens the cough. It heals the inflamed air passages and all its beneficent work is accomplished without a grain of opium.

THE DAINTY LICHEE.

It Is the Most Delicious Fruit That Grows in China.

Chinese Oranges and Pears, However, Are Inferior to Our Own—The Missionary Who Bought Sheeps' Tails.

(Special Haugha (China) Letter.

OF COURSE we have oranges in South China, plenty and cheap. Not Florida varieties, but little loose-jacket ones that can be eaten without staining your kid gloves, if you do not want to remove them, and without the use of knife or spoon. There are other varieties, not so good and much more trouble to eat. They ripen in mid-winter, and are the popular fruit during the great national holidays at the Chinese New Year, which corresponds to about February.

It is necessary to offer oranges to each guest who calls on any day from the first to the fifth of the first month at least, and many extend the courtesy to the fifteenth day. The guest must refuse and the host insist, until finally they compromise by the guest taking two—never less and seldom more.

Of the temperate zone fruits, apples have not yet been successfully cultivated except in the mountains of North Fuhkien. Peaches are abundant and of fair quality; plums are plentiful and like good seedlings in America. Grapes are very ordinary.

The most disappointing is the pear. It is yellow and delicious looking. The newly-arrived unitiated American sees the luscious fruit on the street, and thinks of the fine old Bartlett trees in his grandfather's (or some other boy's grandfather's) orchard, and fixes his mouth for a treat like that of his boyhood days. He pays the dealer several prices for half a dozen, and bites into the largest and ripest. Alas! they are apples of Sodom. It would not be so bad if he had not been expecting so much and recollecting so much. It is wet saw-dust. One bite is sufficient.

These home fruits have been successfully introduced into North China by the late Dr. Nevious, of the Shantung province, and have widely spread. The Shantung pears are shipped to other provinces, and are much prized by the Chinese. The experiment is now being tried in Hinghua with fair prospects of success.

But South China has fruits of its own that are well worthy of attention, especially now that American territory in this latitude has so greatly expanded of late.

They begin with the bi-bo (pronounced bebaw), known in western lands as the Loquat, which ripens the last of March and runs on into May. It is about the size and shape of an egg-plum, or smaller, bright yellow in color, with smooth dark brown seeds, and a skin that peels off like that of a scalded tomato. It is tart and very juicy. Foreigners almost invariably like it, and coming so early in the season is greatly in its favor as a popular fruit. It sells in the native market at from two to four dollars (silver) per bushel. When you consider that unskilled labor can be had in the same market for ten cents a day, it is plain that only well-to-do or rich people can afford to eat it in quantities. It makes a very excellent jam, and cans well. It grows from the seed and does not need to be grafted. By choosing the seed of the largest and finest variety and planting it in Florida or the West Indies or in southern California, I see no reason why this fine fruit should not flourish in the western hemisphere, and become very popular in the market and profitable to the grower.

The Arbutus comes next in the season. The best are as large as a large-sized cherry, and it looks much like a large blackberry. It has one seed like a plum. It grows on a tree. It is one of the cheapest of Chinese fruits. Yet foreigners generally are fond of it.

There is an ancient chestnut that is passed on from generation to generation in the Foochow foreign community, of a missionary in the early days, who was struggling with the mysteries and difficulties of this barbarous language of tones, who instructed his cook to buy a pound of arbutus fruit for dinner. The cook did not return before noon and the missionary got a cold lunch for himself; his feelings toward the absent servant were warm enough, though, to boil coffee. Toward nightfall the delinquent appeared with a dejected countenance, and a small basket with several fresh sheep's tails in it. He said he had been to every butcher shop in the city and these were all the sheep's tails he could buy. He had cornered the market and his master at the same time. It was only a mistake of the tone in giving the order.

But when we think of Chinese fruits there is one that stands out supreme. Every foreigner pronounces it delicious. It is the lichee.

It grows upon a tree resembling the apple-tree. In size and shape and color when ripe it is like the largest-sized strawberry. The skin is rough and brittle. It has one seed, which when grafted is very small. The meat is white, and tastes—well you will have to taste it for yourself. It is unlike anything in America that I know of.

Henry Ward Beecher is quoted as saying: "God might have made a better fruit than the strawberry, but he never did."

Mr. Beecher never ate fresh lichees.

They are dried and shipped all over China, and are used on all the steamers of the east, and are found even in New York. But the dried article gives no idea whatever of the deliciousness of the fresh fruit.

An enterprising storekeeper of Canton has been canning it recently, and in this shape it is much more like the fresh fruit.

It is not propagated from the seed. A ball of mud is tied around a joint of a limb, and the bark is cut below the mud. In six months the limb is cut off and planted; roots have been formed in the earth ball. Grafting is done with great care and skill; so also the pruning, which must be done annually. No pains are spared in cultivation.

If this fruit were introduced into America it would certainly become very popular and profitable. The skilled horticulturists of southern Florida would soon learn its peculiarities and the manner of treatment.

But the Chinese will tell you that the lingengs are their best fruit. They grow upon trees closely resembling the lichee, but are round, russet in color, sweetish in taste and a smooth skin. With foreigners the taste must be generally cultivated.

But the fruit is a very fine one. It is dried in immense quantities, and brings a high price for use at feasts all over China. Both these varieties are a great source of wealth. A tree with fruit valued at ten dollars (silver) is a very ordinary sight. I have seen as high as $40 worth of fruit upon one tree. This is of course unusual, but when you consider that you can hire a man to work for a whole year for that sum the relative value of these fruits is seen to be enormous.

The trees are planted by the canals, along the roads, between fields, in corners, wherever space can be found. They are valued tree by tree as well as orchard by orchard. A man in need of money will often dispose of a single tree.

It is to be hoped that in time in American markets these fine fruits of the semi-tropics will become as common as bananas or oranges are to-day.

Some Peculiar Languages.

The aborgines of the Malabar islands employ a perfect whistling language, by means of which they can communicate with each other over long distances. A stranger wandering over the islands is frequently surprised to hear from a hilltop the sound of loud whistling, which is quickly repeated on the next hill, and so is carried from summit to summit, until it dies away in the distance. But perhaps the most curious means of communication in the world is the drum language of the Congo tribe. These queer people can talk to each other with large drums made of bamboo hoops, over which the skin of some animal is stretched. The drum, however, is used only on important occasions.

SPRING TAILOR MADES.

The Continued Popularity of the Short Bolero.

However much women long for novelty, no one wants to dispense with the bolero effects, which have been so deservedly popular. Great efforts have been made to bring in tails, and there is a decided leaning toward the new short basque. The latter is almost universally smart and becoming. The bolero is a very chic model for summer wear because it allows more variety in the way of changes of fronts, belts, lace collars, etc. The economical woman will find it much to her advantage to have several changes to one costume. A little taste and originality and very often even the dexterous turn of a bow will make a great difference to a costume, especially one of general utility.

TAILOR MADE OF BLUE CHEVIOT.

Nothing is more simple and yet smart than a tailor suit of black cheviot of a good quality made with a bolero coat and trimmed with touches of black and white braid. The skirt can be as plain as one pleases provided it frou frous at the feet. At this time of the year the tailor made is the most important costume in a woman's wardrobe, and she should be careful in choosing it.

Brown is still in favor, but it is being used this spring more in the lighter shades. A great deal of deep blue and gray is seen made up in pretty tailor mades. Cheviot is the favorite material, trimmed with bands of silk braid or light applications of velvet.

The illustration shows a smart model in blue cheviot trimmed with velvet. Worn with it there is a tailor made hat of yellow straw. JUDIC CHOLLET.

SMART NOVELTIES.

A New Coiffure—The Latest In Trimmings.

A very pretty coiffure in the low style of hairdressing shows the hair lightly waved and drawn down to the back, where it is arranged in a twisted knot just resting on the neck. The front hair is turned back over two side frizettes and turned in beneath the pads, and in the center a small puff curl is rolled on a pad and arranged to form a high center. A few light curls of hair rest in front, and the whole effect is a decided improvement on previous examples of this style.

BLACK CHIFFON WAIST.

Underwear grows more condensed every season, but surely the height of absurdity is reached when petticoats or skirt drawers are suspended from the knee and the figure is clothed simply in tights or combinations. This fashion should be solely for the stage, and this is probably its destination.

Quite the newest trimmings are embroideries in pompadour and Dresden fashion, the little groups and sprays of flowers in natural colorings, tied with dainty knots of ribbon in delicate pinks and blues. Tinsel is also introduced, and a true lovers' knot of self color bordered with tinsel is a favorite design for a Louis XV. vest, with tiny sprays of flowers over the satin.

The waist of black chiffon in the illustration will be found very useful for theater and informal dinner wear.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

RHODES' GREAT PLAN.

LONDON, March 29.—The Daily News says it is in a position to assert that the late Cecil Rhodes left the bulk of his fortune, outside of some personal and family bequests, to the promotion of his vast imperial plan of education. This project embraces every land where the union jack flies. Its purpose is the intellectual betterment of the British race throughout the world and the fostering of the imperial sentiment.

The Daily Mail adds that this idea of better fitting "younger Britain" to cope successfully with rival nationalities was long a dominant scheme with Cecil Rhodes, but that even his closest friends little imagined the absorbing hold it obtained upon him until this was disclosed by the terms of his will.

The details of this plan of education will be made public in a few days.

Cecil Rhodes left the Dalham Hall estate at Newmarket to his brother, Colonel Francis W. Rhodes. The Dalham Hall estate was purchased by Cecil Rhodes last December.

AN EXTRADITION FIGHT.

A Resident of Cincinnati Wanted In Bavaria For Forgery.

CINCINNATI, March 29.—Judge A. C. Thompson in the United States court has refused to release Henrich Herrie on a writ of habeas corpus. Requisition from the Bavarian government had been made for Herrie on affidavits charging forgery. After a hearing before United States Commissioner Adler that has been in progress here for weeks extradition papers were granted, and the United States marshal was about to take Herrie to New York to turn him over to the German consul in that city when the habeas corpus proceedings were instituted.

The case will now be carried to the United States supreme court before the extradition can be executed.

The affidavits filed against him were mostly from Bavarian creditors and others associated with him in the large business that he formerly conducted in Bavaria.

Alfonso's Coronation.

MADRID, March 29.—The fetes to be held upon the occasion of the crowning of Alfonso XIII. as king of Spain will commence May 12 with a grand review of 15,000 troops at Camp Carabanchel. There will be a gala operatic performance and a concert May 16. The actual ceremony of administering the oath to Alfonso will occur in the chamber of deputies May 18. Upon this occasion Alfonso will for the first time wear the uniform of a captain general in the Spanish army. After the ceremony in the chamber the king and the court will proceed in state to hear a "Te-Deum" in the Church of San Francisco el Grande. A banquet to the foreign envoys will be given in the palace that evening. There will be popular and municipal festivities, bullfights, horse races, balls and receptions during the six days from May 12 to May 18.

Must Not Aid Crowley.

CHICAGO, March 29.—In an official letter sent to every Catholic priest in Chicago Archbishop Feehan has issued a sweeping order in the controversy of the Rev. Jeremiah J. Crowley and his friends with the diocesan authorities. The letter reads: "We hereby notify you that the Rev. Jeremiah J. Crowley, whose public acts and utterances have given grave scandal to the detriment of religion, is in open rebellion to legitimate ecclesiastical authority. Therefore any priest of the diocese of Chicago who assists him by moral or financial aid or offers him encouragement of any kind whatsoever is ipso facto suspended." The letter is signed by the archbishop and by Chancellor F. K. Barry.

A Flag Bill.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Representative Shafroth of Colorado has introduced a bill prescribing the size of the field of the United States flag and the arrangement of stars. The field shall be square and one-third the total length of the flag. The stars of the thirteen original states are to be in a circle surrounding the stars of the thirty admitted states in the form of a star, with the stars of the last two admitted states (Wyoming and Utah) temporarily one on each side of the interior star.

New York Bank Robbed.

NEW YORK, March 29.—President Henry C. Copeland of the Riverside bank, at Eighth avenue and Fifty-seventh street, has announced that a deficiency of $12,000 has been discovered in the bank's accounts and that H. G. Bell, the receiving teller, a young man of twenty-three years, left in anger when he found the cashier on Monday examining his books. The whereabouts of Bell is unknown.

Miss Toppan Insane.

BOSTON, March 29.—The insanity experts who have twice examined Jane Toppan, the alleged poisoner of the Davis family at Cataumet, have notified the government that they are unanimous in their opinion that the woman is insane. She will be committed to an asylum next week.

Turks Attack Bulgarians.

SOFIA, Bulgaria, March 29.—One hundred and fifty Turkish troops attacked a Bulgarian post near Saratach Thursday. One Bulgarian was killed, and several were wounded. The Bulgarian garrison is being re-enforced by two companies of soldiers.

Floods In North Dakota.

GRAFTON, N. D., March 29.—Park river is out of its banks and is rising rapidly. The entire northern and eastern part of the city is flooded. Many bridges have gone out and much suffering will result if the river shall rise much more.

Dear Sirs—Two years ago I had very bad corns and callouses on my feet, I went to a chiropodist and paid him $5.75 for taking them off. In less than a month they were back again. I then tried your CORN CURE and used only three bottles, costing 45c, and am happy to say it has taken them off completely. They have not troubled me now for over a year. I consider your HEPBURN'S CORN CURE the best I have ever used.—

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Enormous Metal Production—Cotton and Cereals Weaker.

NEW YORK, March 29.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

Favorable weather greatly facilitated Easter retail trade, the volume of transactions in all lines of wearing apparel being of exceptional magnitude. Activity was by no means restricted to these special lines, however, the general distribution of merchandise exceeding that of previous seasons, with prices well maintained.

Demand for an eight hour day after May 1 by the blast furnace men was the most disturbing feature in the iron and steel industry, and this is not causing much alarm, as an agreement will probably be reached during the intervening month. Production is now beyond all previous records, and the movement of coke is ample, although the early opening of lake navigation may withdraw some of the transporting facilities which cannot well be spared.

A severe reaction occurred in cotton, due entirely to the excessive speculative purchases, which made the market top heavy.

Weakness appeared in the cereals early in the week, when there was a certain unanimity about encouraging weather reports and increased acreage. Subsequently there was a partial recovery owing to less cheerful news from Kansas and Oklahoma, but the net result for the week was a decidedly lower range of prices.

According to an analysis of the official returns by a Liverpool authority, there will be only 13,000,000 bushels of wheat in this country at the close of the crop year.

Failures for the week numbered 205 in the United States against 206 last year and 22 in Canada against 29 last year.

DEMOCRATS PLAN ORGANIZATION

House Members Hold a Conference and Name Committee.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Representative James M. Griggs (Ga.) was unanimously chosen chairman of the Democratic congressional committee at a meeting held last night in the minority caucus room at the capitol. A committee consisting of the chairman, Mr Griggs; Representative Williams (Miss.), Representative Ruppert (N. Y.), Representative Richardson (Tenn.), Representative Williams (Ill.), Representative Jackson (Kan.) and Senator Culberson (Tex.) was appointed to perfect a plan of organization for the ensuing congressional campaign and select the remaining officers of the committee, subject to the ratification of a meeting of the full committee to be held April 11.

The house spent the day passing private pension bills. In all 215 were passed. With one exception this is the record for the number of such bills passed at a single session. The president's policy with regard to the veto of bills to remove the charge of desertion from the records of soldiers came in for considerable discussion during the day. Early in the session a number of minor bills were passed. The sundry civil appropriation bill was reported, and Mr. Cannon gave notice that he would call it up on Monday.

Grimm Not Yet Tried.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 29.—Colonel Grimm, the Russian officer who is charged with revealing Russian military secrets to Germany, has been brought here and placed in close confinement. The statements emanating from Vienna and cabled to the United States that Colonel Grimm had already been tried and sentenced to death on these charges by a court martial at Warsaw are incorrect. He will soon be tried on the charges here. In any case Colonel Grimm cannot be executed, since in Russia the betrayal of military secrets is not a capital offense.

Insurance Case Decided.

BOSTON, March 29.—In a decision handed down in the United States circuit court by Judge L. B. Colt it is held that the New York Mutual Life Insurance company may maintain a bill for the surrender and cancellation of an insurance policy for $240,000 granted to James C. Pearson, who died before the first premium had been received at the home office of the insurance company, although it had been paid to an agent of the company.

Fire at Dawson.

SEATTLE, Wash., March 29.—A special from Dawson says a disastrous fire started at midnight in a steamboat slough opposite that city. The slough is used by Yukon river boats for winter quarters. Of the steamers and several barges present when the fire started the Glenora and Mona, the property of J. E. Genelle of Vancouver, B. C., have been completely consumed. The loss so far is $37,000, and the fire is still raging.

Boers Managed to Escape.

PRETORIA, March 29.—About 1,500 Boers under Delarey, Liebenburg Kemp and Wolmarans were within the area of Lord Kitchener's latest movement; but, though surprised by the rapidity displayed by the British troops, gaps in the latter's lines enabled most of the burghers to escape. The Boer prisoners totaled 179 men, including Commandant H. Kruger and ex-Landrost Neethling of Klerksdorp.

Three Railroad Hands Killed.

JARVIS, Ont., March 29.—A fatal collision between freight trains occurred on the Wabash railroad, resulting in the death of two engineers and one brakeman and great loss to the company. The cause of the accident was the failure of the engineer of the eastbound train to follow orders to stop here. The dead men are Charlton and McGill, engineers, and McDonald, brakeman, all of St. Thomas.

A GERMAN PROJECT.

Students From Tuskegee Are Bound For West Africa.

THEY WILL TEACH COTTON RAISING.

The Kaiser's Subjects In Togo to Have American Instructors—Report on Mr. Calloway's Experiments.

NEW YORK, March 29.—J. N. Calloway, one of the teachers of the Tuskegee Normal and Industrial Institute in Alabama, is in New York with a party of five students from Tuskegee en route to Togo, West Africa. Mr. Calloway went to Togo eighteen months ago with a party of three Tuskegee graduates under the auspices of the German government to introduce the raising of cotton in the German colony of Togo, and the authorities have been so much pleased with the experiment that a month ago they asked Mr. Calloway to return for additional Tuskegee students. It was largely in connection with this enterprise that Prince Henry, when in New York, asked to have Booker T. Washington presented to him.

The German Colonial Economic society of Berlin has issued an elaborate report of the work of the experimental cotton plantation in Togo, West Africa, managed by J. N. Calloway and three young negroes from Booker Washington's school at Tuskegee, Ala. The following is an abstract from Superintendent Calloway's statement to the society, which is included in the report:

"I believe that by planting the seed in late summer and thus avoiding the heavy rains good results can be obtained with American cotton. It is probable, too, that better results can be obtained by using cottonseed or artificial fertilizers. I am of the opinion that by crossing native with American cotton a variety adapted to the colony can be secured.

"One hundred acres of land in all were cultivated. Up to the end of December twenty-three bales of cotton were in readiness to ship. Thirteen of these were from native seed, nine from American seed and one from Egyptian seed. The natives grow cotton as a secondary product with yams. There is sufficient good cotton land. In native cotton the proportion between lint and seed was 1,800 pounds of seed cotton to a bale of 500 pounds. The crop from American seed showed the same proportion as in America—i. e., 1,500 pounds of seed cotton to a bale.

"The natives must be taught to cultivate more cotton on the same ground with the same labor. If possible they must be furnished with draft animals. Portable engines should be introduced to furnish power for ginning and baling, and a railway should be built from the coast inland. Our experience has given us every reason to believe that in a few years it will be possible to export many thousand bales of cotton from the colony of Togo. This will not have any effect on the markets of the world, but it will be of advantage to Germany and especially to the 2,500,000 natives in the colony.

"Under present conditions the cost of a 500 pound bale of cotton delivered at Bremen, including ginning, pressing and moving to the coast by native labor, shipping expenses, sundries, insurance, etc., is about $63."

Cotton Mill Situation.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., March 29.—The cotton mill situation in Rhode Island is a matter which is causing a great deal of concern on the part of the manufacturers as well as the mill operatives. The Rhode Island Mule Spinners' association is the only organization of cotton operatives which has requested the manufacturers to advance wages, and no definite reply has been given. Prices of standard goods made in New Bedford, Lowell and other Massachusetts manufacturing communities govern the prices of Rhode Island made goods to a great extent so far as the wages paid are concerned.

Woman's Skeleton Found.

BUENA VISTA, O., March 29.—While tearing down an old house a few miles north of here John Downing, a laborer, found the skeleton of a woman beneath the floor. The lower jawbone was broken, indicating that the woman had met a violent death. There is no clew to the mystery. The house was formerly a rendezvous for river pirates. About ten years ago a young schoolteacher from the east mysteriously disappeared, and nothing was ever heard of her. It is now believed she may have been assaulted and killed and her body secreted under the floor of the old house.

Suits Against Traction Company.

CHICAGO, March 29.—Two hundred suits against the Chicago Union Traction company have been started by the city of Chicago for refusal to transfer passengers from one line to another without extra fare. The order to begin suit was issued by Corporation Counsel Walker and is the outcome of a number of recent disturbances in which bloodshed seemed imminent.

Burned by a Firebug.

SCRANTON, Pa., March 29.—Forty buildings have been destroyed by fire at Peckville. Thirty of them were business houses, but at least fifty families were made homeless. The losses reached $180,000, insured for half that amount. The fire is supposed to have been of incendiary origin.

Republican Editors to Meet.

NEW YORK, March 29.—The ninth annual convention of the Republican Editorial association of the state of New York will be held at the Fifth Avenue hotel in this city at 11 a. m. on Thursday, April 3.

WHIST.

The match for the Metropolitan challenge trophy between the Cosmopolitan Whist Club, holders, and the Knickerbocker Whist Club, challengers, played on Saturday last, resulted in a victory for the Knickerbockers by 13 tricks to 6.

The match on Saturday for the American Whist League challenge trophy between the American Whist Club, of Boston, holders, and the Newton Whist Club, challengers, resulted in a victory for the American team by nine tricks. The original match was a tie and an additional eight deal was necessary to decide the result. In the first half of the match, played in the afternoon, the American team gained eight tricks, and it looked like an easy victory for them. After dinner, however the Newtons started in on a game uphill fight, and at the end of the forty-fourth deal they were two tricks ahead. The Americans managed to gain two tricks on the next four deals and tied the match, and on the play-off won rather easily.

ON THE DIAMOND.

William Symons, of East Third street, has resumed his old position at the safe works and is now eligible to membership on the factory baseball team. It is asserted positively that he will play first base.

Rain prevented the scheduled game being played between the North Plainfield High School team and the St. Mary's Cadet nine, yesterday afternoon. In all probability the match will take place Tuesday afternoon.

The North Plainfield Crackajacks forfeited a game to the Excelsior nine, yesterday morning, after being in the lead for eight innings. The score at that time was fourteen to seven. It was an exciting game and took place on the Cricket field.

Owing to the inclement weather yesterday afternoon the practice of the Plainfield High School "scrub" was omitted. Captain Hervey K. Doane proposes to have the "scrub" on the diamond as often as possible in order to improve the team work.

—"Katrina's Visit to New York," by Miss E. Beach, of Montauk Quartette, Monday evening.

—Frank Stewart, formerly of Camden, will lead the Gospel service at the East Third Street chapel tomorrow evening.

"Jesus Christ is Risen Today," from Lyra Davidica; offertory anthem, "The Strife is O'er," Reed; sursum corda, Gower; sanctus, Gounod; benedictus, agnus Dei and gloria excelsis, Conant in A flat; psalm 117, Messiter; recessional hymn, "Christ the Lord is Risen Today," Lissant; postlude, allegro, Mozart.

In the evening the order of the children's service is as follows: Processional, "The Lord is Great;" the Lord's Prayer and versicles; psalms 4 and 16; hymn, "Carol Forth Your Praises;" lesson; carol, "All Hail to the Prince of Life;" creed, versicles and collects; carol, "Spring is Coming;" offertory carol, "The Lord of Life is Risen;" offerings, "Hark the Easter Bells;" address; benediction; recessional, "The Day of Resurrection."

Services to the number of three will be held at the Church of the Holy Cross. They are: Holy Communion, 7:30 o'clock; morning prayer, sermon and Holy Communion, 11 o'clock; Sunday-school festival, 4:30 o'clock.

Choirmaster William E. MacClymont has arranged for the following music in the order of service at the principal service, at 11 o'clock. Processional, "The Strife is O'er;" anthem, "Christ Our Passover," Elvey; TeDeum, in E flat, Buck; jubilate, Hiles; introit anthem, "He is Risen," Schilling; hymn, "Jesus Christ is Risen Today," Carey; offertory anthem, "Awake Up, My Glory," Barnby; kyrie, gloria ibi and sanctus, from Cruikschanck's service in E flat; communion hymn, No. 231, Miller; Gloria in Excelsis, old chant; recessional, "The Day of Resurrection."

As in other Episcopal churches, including Grace, St. Stephen's and the Church of the Heavenly Rest, the vested choir will render the music. At Holy Cross church there will be the full vested choir of thirty-five voices, with Miss Daisy M. Zerbe, as organist.

Naturally the ceremonies at St. Mary's church will be very imposing. The hours for the masses will be the same as usual. Low masses will be said at 7:30 and 8:30 o'clock and a children's mass will take place at the customary time, 9:30 o'clock. Solemn high mass will be celebrated at 10:30 o'clock. Rev. Fathers Egan and Farley will officiate. Benediction will be said at the end of the mass and there will be no further service during the day.

The order of service at the solemn high mass is as follows: Processional; vidi aquam, Pecher; kyrie and gloria in excelsis, Merecandante; credo; offertory, Haec Dies Alleluia, Lambilotte; sanctus, benedictus and agnus Dei, Merecandante; recessional, March Solemnelle. The soloists will be Miss A. Daley, Mrs. M. Owens, Robert Clark, Matthew Cashin and E. Harding. Miss Daley takes the place of Mrs. Francis Brady, the regular soprano, who will not be able to attend the mass. Arthur Mosher's orchestra and the chancel choir will augment the regular musicians. Miss May Smith, the regular organist, will have charge.

At St. Joseph's church there will be two masses. Low mass will be said at 8:30 o'clock and it will be followed by solemn high mass at 10:30 o'clock. The music will be a feature of the high mass. Our Lady of Good Counsel mass has been selected by the choir and it will be rendered. Victor Hammerel is the composer. Martin C. Korff's orchestra will assist in the musical parts. The soloists will be Miss Smith, soprano; Mrs. Riley, alto; Alfred LaPorte, tenor; and James Bailey, bass. Giorza's Regina Coeli will also be rendered.

The music at the 10:30 o'clock service at the Church of the Heavenly Rest promises to be especially good. The processional will be "Unfold Ye Portals," from The Redemption. Farmer's Te Deum in D will be sung. For the offertory Lansing's "Christ is Risen from the Dead" has been selected.

According to the announcement made there will be five services at St. Stephen's church. These are: Early celebration, 7 o'clock; second celebration, 8 o'clock; morning prayer, 10:30 o'clock; late celebration, 11 o'clock; children's service, 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

Mrs. Buckley, the organist, has prepared some elaborate music. The processional will be "Jesus Christ is Risen Today" and the recessional will be "The Strife is O'er."

A service in German will be the chief feature of the celebration at the German Lutheran church. Morning service will be held at 10 o'clock, and the Lord's Supper will be commemorated. A service in English will be held at 7:30 o'clock in the evening.

Organist Arthur L. Titsworth has prepared a fine musical programme for tomorrow's services at Trinity Reformed church. The choir is composed of Miss Derby, soprano; Miss Williams, alto; H. J. Martin, tenor; J. C. Martin, bass. The programme will be as follows:

Morning—Organ prelude, Allegro Pomposa, Harriss; Old Hundred, Guillaume Franc; Te Deum in E flat, Lloyd; Response, Gounod; Gloria, Schilling; soprano solo, "Angels Roll the Rock Away," Hawley; anthem, "Christ our Passover," Millard; organ postlude, "Hallelujah Chorus," Handel. Evening—Organ prelude, Offertoire, Thayer; anthem, "Christ the Lord is Risen," Lloyd; Easter carols, "Victory," George C. Hugg; organ postlude, Festal March, Clark.

Easter will be observed at the Park Avenue Baptist Sunday-school by a special programme. A number of Easter carols will be rendered by a large chorus choir, assisted by an orchestra of several pieces. Miss Aimee Emmons will recite an Easter selection. Other pleasing features have been arranged.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—The members of the East Third Street chapel Sunday-school will meet with the home school at First Baptist church tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Have You Seen Our Window?

Precocity of Hub Youngsters.

Nothing "phazes" the twentieth century child. A handsome little chap of seven years of age was awakened in the night by the sudden illness of his mother, and the next day, as soon as he was dressed, he went and asked her for a dollar. It was given without demur or inquiry as to its purpose. Then the boy hied himself forth to the nearest telegraph office, and this was the message he wired to his papa in California: "Dear Daddy, mother is sick, come home at once after the funeral." The operator suggested "funeral" might alarm the father, but she was told, with an emphatic laugh, that of course it was 'cause of his mother's funeral, but his uncle! "Then you should say so," was the smiling suggestion. "All right," replied the boy, "write 'uncle's,' you see this is the first telegram I ever sent." The following morning a telegram reached the young sender worded: "Dear Dwight, you're all right. Take care of mother. Daddy." And that was the first "mother" knew what care her seven-year-old son had taken of her.—Boston Herald.

For the Complexion.

The complexion always suffers from biliousness or constipation. Unless the bowels are kept open the impurities from the body appear in the form of unsightly eruptions. DeWitt's Little Early Risers keep the liver and bowels in healthy condition and remove the cause of such troubles. C. E. Hooper, Albany, Ga., says: "I took DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness. They were just what I needed. I am feeling better now than in years." Never gripe or distress. EASTER SUNDAY IN PLAINFIELD

Many Elaborate Musical Programmes Rendered at the Local Houses of Worship.

THE CHIEF FEATURES.

The Bright Morning Attracted Large Congregations to the Sanctuaries Made Specially Beautiful by a Profusion of Floral Decorations—About the Services.

Bright and beautiful was Easter morning in Plainfield and, in consequence, the services at the local churches, yesterday morning, were largely attended. Special music and elaborate floral decorations marked the observation of the day. The shower of the early evening but slightly affected the attendance at the evening services.

The important features of the various services, briefly told, follow:

WARREN CHAPEL.

Some special Easter music was rendered by the choir at the morning service at Warren chapel. In the afternoon addresses were made to the Sunday-school by Rev. Dr. William R. Richards, pastor of Crescent Avenue church, and Rev. William S. Hubbell. Augmenting the musical features were a flute, played by Elmore Wheeler and a violin, Chauncey Wheeler. There were the usual Easter decorations.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH.

A special service was held at the First Baptist church yesterdy morning. The church was elaborately decorated with choice flowers from C. W. McCutchen's greenhouse. Howard Case, organist, was in charge of the music, and the choir rendered several anthems in the morning, with solos by Miss Harris, Mrs. Ward, Geo. Smith and William Holmes. Rev. Rush Rhees, president of Rochester University, preached an Easter sermon. There was also a 'cello solo by Felix Boucher, of New York, accompanied by Mr. Case on the organ.

In the afternoon all the Sunday-schools united in a service under the direction of Superintendent G. H. Batchelor. There were selections by a trio, Howard Case, organ; Mrs. B. T. Barnes, piano, and Felix Boucher, 'cello. Mr. Boucher rendered an offertory solo. There were Easter carols by the Sunday-schools, recitations by Jed. Smalley, Lawrence and Elmer French, and an interesting address by Rev. Rush Rhees. The collection was given to the Children's Aid Society, of New York.

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

The services, morning, afternoon and evening, at the First Presbyterian church attracted many. The edifice was decorated with palms, lilies and potted plants. The male quartette, consisting of E. Maxwell Honeyman, Elmer E. Cutting, Sydney R. Titsworth and J. Wilson Derby, under the direction of Clifford Braider, organist, rendered the musical programme published Saturday. Miss Conger presided at the piano. At both the morning and evening services Rev. Mr. Herring, pastor, preached appropriate sermons. The morning offering will be used to defray last year's expenses of the church.

ST. MARY'S R. C. CHURCH.

Solemn high mass at 10:30 o'clock was the principal service at St. Mary's church, although there were three other masses during the morning. The edifice was beautifully decorated. Over the high altar were the illuminated words "He Is Risen, Hallelujah." The Sisters of Charity had lavishly adorned the sanctuary with cut flowers, chiefly Easter lilies.

The mass began with processional from the sacristy to the sanctuary. John Carty was the cross bearer. Following the altar boys were the two acolytes, Masters Owens and Valentine. Father Farley, the curate, sang the mass, being assisted by Father Egan, the pastor, as deacon, and Father Edward, of Paterson, the provincil of the Franciscan order in this country, as sub-deacon. Arthur Mosher's orchestra accompanied the regular choir, which was assisted by the chancel choir. The soloists were Miss A. Daley, Mrs. M. Owens, Robert M. Clark, Matthew Cashin and E. Harding. Miss Mary Smith, the regular organist, directed the music and also acted as organist.

ST. JOSEPH'S R.C. CHURCH.

An extremely difficult composition was the Our Lady of Good Counsel mass rendered at St. Joseph's church yesterday morning. This was used at the solemn high mass. The church was crowded to the doors and the soloists were in excellent voice. Martin Korff's orchestra was a special feature. Father Miller, the pastor, celebrated the mass, unassisted. Giorza's Regina Coeli was sung and as a recessional Mendelssohn's wedding march was played.

James Bailey directed the music and also was the bass soloist. The other soloists, who likewise contributed largely to the success of the beautiful mass, were Mrs. Riley, alto, Miss Tina Smith, soprano, and Alfred LaPorte, tenor. Mrs. LaPorte was the organist. In the sanctuary was a handsome Paschal candle and stick. The candlestick is of heavy soild oak of an ornate design and was given by E. P Gavin, a parishioner. It stands five feet high. The candle itself is handpainted and is seven feet high. Serafino Trojano, another parishioner, was the donor.

The Paschal candle will remain in the sanctuary for forty days and will be lighted during the masses.

HEAVENLY REST.

Rev. Harris C. Rush, the rector, officiated at yesterday's services at the Church of the Heavenly Rest. A striking feature was the elaborate decorations, which surpassed any of previous years. The church was crowded at the 10 o'clock service and the music was especially well rendered by the vested choir.

HOLY CROSS CHURCH.

Beautiful Easter lilies and other flowers, principally memorials given by parishioners, adorned the chancel and altar at the Church of the Holy Cross. Rev. W. Montgomery Downey, the rector, officiated at both celebrations in the morning. The musical programme was spendidly rendered. Miss May Mulford, soprano; Frank Moffett, bass; Willard M. Miner, tenor; and Master Walter Vail, alto, were the soloists. In the afternoon the Sunday-school festival was held. An address was made by Rev. J. H. Wilson, curate of Grace church.

GRACE M. E. CHURCH.

Grace M. E. church was tastefully decorated with potted plants. During the morning service there were solos by Mrs. G. W. Gardner and Miss Alice Carroll. Dyckman Winckler was violinist and Miss Alice Carroll organist. At the Sunday-school exercises in the afternoon, there were recitations by the Misses Myra Lippencott, Helen Adams, Ida Saums and Eva Lippencott. Four little girls also gave a recitation and five boys gave an exercise entitled "The Cross Bearer." A solo was rendered by Miss Margaret Darby and there was also a song by Mrs. Stevens' class. An appropriate address was given by the pastor, Rev. G. W. Gardner.

GRACE P. E. CHURCH.

The main celebration at Grace Episcopal church attracted a very large congregation. The chancel and atlar were adorned with a profusion of Easter lilies, daffodills, hyacinths, narcissus and southern smilax. Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, the rector, officiated and he was assisted by Rev. J. H. Wilson, the curate. The order of service was published in Saturday's Daily Press and it was rendered magnificiently, under the direction of Mrs. W. A. Freeman, the accomplished organist. The soloists, who were assisted by the chorus of the vested choir, were Miss Cornelia Miller, soprano; Miss Ada Clark, contralto; Arthur F. Freeman, bass, and Fred J. Pope, baritone.

The Sunday-school festival was held in the evening, the carols were sung and an address was made by Rev. J. H. Wilson, the curate. Solo parts in the service were taken by Miss Ethel Forbes, soprano, and Arthur F. Freeman, bass. Mrs. D. T. VanBuren gave as an Easter present a litany book, which was placed on the litany desk for the first time yesterday.

MONROE AVENUE M. E.

The members of the junior department of the Sunday-school took the most important parts in the Easter observance at Monroe Avenue M. E. church. There were no special features at the morning or evening services.

Those who took part in the singing and reciting in the afternoon were Harry Lude, Agnes Brown, Sidney Gilbert, Sadie Brown, Ethel Brown, Daisy Gilbert, Florence Brown, Grace Squires, Marion Praed, Herbert Rittenhouse, John Gray, John Runyon, Fred Jacobs, Helen Davenport, Herbert Hillman, Beatrice Applegate, Louisa Praed, Edith Schultz, Chrissie Lude, Violet Lindabury, Mabel Pearson, Anna Love, Elsie Argan, Marian Harris and Florrie Gilbert.

ST. STEPHEN'S CHURCH.

All the services at St. Stephen's were well attended. In fact the edifice, which has been renovated and decorated during the Lenten season, was crowded at the 11 o'clock celebration in the morning and the children's festival in the afternoon. Easter and calla lilies, potted plants and palms enhanced the appearance of the chancel and high altar. The offering, which is the largest at any single service, amounted to $543.95. At the 8 o'clock celebration Rev. W. Bryce Morrow officiated, while at the principal service the rector, Rev. W. Vincent Dawson, was the celebrant. The communion service was intoned by the rector. Again at 4:30 o'clock the church was filled, the occasion being the children's festival.

CONGREGATIONAL.

The Easter decorations at the Congregational church consisted chiefly of Easter lilies, white azaleas, white and lavender primroses, and palms. They were massed about the desk and Communion table, and completely encircled the platform.

An elaborate programme of Easter music was presented by a choir composed of Miss Cora Gild, of New York, and Miss Maude Lord, of this city, sopranos; Mrs. Charlotte Messersmith Ross and Miss Julia M. Belknap, contraltos; Laurens H. Van Buren, A. Willis West, of this city, and Alfred E. Holmes, of New York, tenors; and Dr. Frank Hallock and Raymond A. McGee, basses. Solos were sung by Miss Gild and Mr. Mc Gee.

Rev. Charles Lyman Goodrich, pastor of the church, preached a helpful Easter sermon.

A special service was held by the Sunday-school in the afternoon. An Easter lesson was studied and carols were sung by the school. A contralto solo was rendered by Mrs. Charlotte Messersmith Ross. and two violin solos by John A. Trossbach, of Jersey City, accompanied by Walter Raynolds.

HOPE CHAPEL.

At none of the services at Hope chapel, yesterday, was there any especial observance of Eastertide, with the exception of the Sunday-school session. Carols were sung and recitations were given by the following members of the junior department: Morris Hunter, William Stevenson, Hedwid Grotman, Ruth Kenney, Maude Lewis, Elijah Slorah, Lizzie Corless, Esther Brandt, Edith Nelson, Albert Gerhandt, Helen Taylor, Harry Stuart, Joseph Walls, Walter Droll, Katie Beerman, Agnes Leighs, Violet Proscher, Harry Little and Christine Thompson.

CRESCENT AVENUE.

At the morning and evening services in the Crescent Avenue church, the music was of an exceptional high order of merit. Ward Stephens presided at the organ and the regular choir was in attendance. Mr. Stephen's numbers were greatly enjoyed while the anthems sung were impressive.

In the evening, three anthems and solos by Mrs. McBride and Mrs. Dutton formed the musical programme. At both services appropriate sermons were delivered by Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards.

As in former years, the floral decorations were elaborate, palms, plants and cut flowers being banked about the pulpit in profusion.

GERMAN LUTHERAN.

At the morning service in the German Lutheran church, the communion of the Lord's Supper was celebrated. There was also carol singing and preaching in German by Rev. Theodore Duensing. The evening service was in English.

PARK AVE. BAPTIST.

The Easter exercises at the Park Avenue Baptist church were musically excellent, an orchestra of six pieces acting as accompaniment for the carol singing. There were also interesting exercises by the primary department in charge of Miss Elmira C. Runyon.

Others who took part in the observance were Mrs. Alice Runyon, Miss Cora Brokaw, Miss Aimee Emmons and a large chorus choir. Rev. Dr. J. W. Richardson delivered an address on "The Resurrection."

The Sunday-school room was prettily decorated with Easter lilies, primroses, begonias, rubber plants and large palms. Superintendent George E. Hall, who is at present in the south, sent a number of beautiful palms from Palm Beach, Fla.

HOPE CHAPEL CLEARS OFF REMAINING DEBT

Easter Sunday Was Devoted to Raising $1,000 for the Chapel Building Fund.

HOW IT WAS DONE.

ANONYMOUS FRIEND GAVE $200 OF THE NECESSARY $1,000.

Most of the Remaining $800 Was Was Given by the Various Organizations Connected With the Chapel and by Larger Classes.

The members of Hope Memorial chapel spent the greater part of all of yesterday's services in securing subscriptions to liquidate the debt of $1,000, which has remained on the building since last Easter. Virtually but $800 needed to be secured as an anonymous friend had declared his willingness to add the remainder when that amount was subscribed.

At the close of last evening's service it was with a thankful heart that Pastor Howard announced that the needed sum was in the treasurer's hands, together with a surplus of $6. This leaves the pretty edifice, erected three years ago at a cost of $5,000, entirely free from debt.

Of the $806 subscribed, the greater part of it was pledged by associations and societies connected with the chapel and the larger of the Sunday-school classes. The church members have also been very active and devoted much time in securing donations from friends. In all the liquidation represents a great amount of self-sacrifice on the part of every one connected with Hope chapel.

YEAR IN SUNDAY - SCHOOL

REVIEWED AT TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH LAST NIGHT.

Superintendent F. E. Smith Presented the Annual Report of the School.

In place of the regular address at Trinity Reformed church, last evening, Superintendent F. E. Smith gave a report of the Sunday-school for the past year, after which Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor, made a few remarks appropriate to the occasion.

The reports presented showed forty-three classes, nine primary, twenty-one intermediate, thirteen Bible classes, eleven officers and assistants and forty-two teachers. There are 149 in the primary department, 154 in main school and 168 in the Bible classes, sixty-five in the home department and forty-nine on the cradle roll, making a total of 638 in all. During the past year thirty from the school united with the church.

The financial report showed a balnace of $83.98 on January 1, 1901. The receipts were as follows: From classes, $304; church offerings, $42.67; home department, $52.67; other sources, $84.69, making a total of $564.05. The disbursements were $366.17 leaving a balance of $197.88, Jan. 1, 1902. There was $120 received for foreign and home missions, collected on the first Sunday in each month for that purpose. The averaged atendance for the year was 298.

VICTIM OF FEVER.

Peter H. Velthuysen, Seventh-Day Baptist Missionary, Died in Africa After Six Months' Stay.

Word has been received in this city of the death of Peter H. Velthuysen, a missionary of the Seventh-Day Baptist denomination, which occurred in Africa on February 20. He was a native of Alfred, N. Y., from which place he left for the Gold Coast a few months before his death. He was very well known in this vicinity.

Velthuysen was but twenty-eight years old and came to this country from Holland, where his father is pastor of a Seventh-Day Baptist church. The young man attended the Alfred University and was ambitious to perform labor among the Africans for some time. He was on the field but six months when he was stricken by the dread fever to which so many Caucasian missionaries have succumbed.

Birthday Social.

A birthday social will be given under the auspices of Golden Rule Circle, King's Daughters of Grace M. E. church, Tuesday evening, April 8.

YOUNG WIFE LAID AT REST

FUNERAL OF MRS. FRED H. FIRSTBROOK WAS HELD SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

Impressive Services Were Conducted at the Late Home on West Fifth Street.

Impressive funeral services were conducted, Saturday afternoon, over the remains of Mrs. Fred H. Firstbrook, at her late home on West Fifth street. They were in charge of Rev. G. K. Newell, of Brooklyn, former pastor of Hope Memorial chapel, and Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass, pastor of the First Methodist church.

Both pastors spoke with much feeling on the sudden termination of the young life, so full of promise and hope. At the close of their remarks prayer was offered by Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope Memorial chapel. A quartette, composed of Mrs. Charlotte Ross, Miss Etta Raybert, Elmer E. Runyon, and William N. Runyon, sang "Asleep in Jesus" and "Some One Will Enter the Pearly Gates."

There was a profusion of floral emblems, among them being a large pillow from Wetumpkah Tribe, No. 229, I. O. R. M., of which Mr. Firstbrook is a chief, and a box of American beauty roses from Maltby & Co., of New York.

At the close of the obsequies the remains were laid to rest in Hillside cemetery. The casket was borne to the grave by James Slorah, Randolph Marsh, George Cose, Alexander Muir, Edward Edell and Lewis Bird.

WEDDED AT NOON.

Mrs. Mary Reilly Married to Augustus Heckman, of Freehold, at St. Joseph's Rectory.

A quiet wedding was celebrated today noon, when Mrs. Mary Reilly, of Grandview avenue, was united in marriage to Augustus Heckman, of Freehold. The event took place at the rectory of St. Joseph's church and Rev. Father Miller, rector of the church, officiated. There were only a few relatives and near friends present at the ceremony.

A reception followed at the home of the bride on Grandview avenue, where a large number of people gathered. Later in the afternoon the bride and groom left for New York, from which place they will go to Saratoga Springs for a time. The couple will reside at Freehold, where the groom conducts a large confectionery.

The bride received a large collection of handsome and useful presents. She is well-known in the borough and for eight years was organist at St. Joseph's church.

SERVICE AT DAWN.

Sixty-Four People Turned Out for Early Morning Endeavor Service at Trinity Reformed Yesterday.

The early morning Easter service held at Trinity Reformed church under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society at 6:30 o'clock yesterday morning, was largely attended, there being sixty-four persons present. L. W. Randolph led the service. The music was a feature. Miss May Randolph presided at the piano, while Mrs. Goorge W. Saums played the violin and Elmer Wheeler the flute.

Everyone who attended the service felt that it should be made an annual one, and it is quite likely that in the future this service will be held every Easter morning at the early hour.

SABBATH-SCHOOL ELECTION.

Annual Meeting fo Sabbath-School of Seventh-Day Baptist Church.

The annual meeting of the Sabbath-school of the Seventh-Day Baptist church was held last evening, at which time officers for the ensuing year were chosen as follows: Superintendent, David E. Titsworth; assistants, Henry M. Maxson, Asa F. Randolph; secretary, Miss Louella Clawson; treasurer, Miss Ernestine Smith; librarian, George L. Babcock; pianist, Miss H. Elizabeth.

After the election there were the presentation of the annual reports, all of which showed improvement in the various departments. The treasurer's report was also encouraging.

Gave Bonds.

Wm. C. Runyon, who was arrested on complaint of Miss Margaret Kiely, of this city, last Thursday by the police of that place, gave bonds at Newark for his appearance when wanted. He was not brought to this city.

Freedom Castle's New Home.

Freedom Castle, K. G. E., has made arrangements to hold its meetings in the old Council chamber in the Coward building on Park avenue.

YEAR'S WORK AT MAIN SCHOOL AND BRANCHES

Reports Were Presented at Sunday-School of First Baptist Church Yesterday.

APPOINTMENTS MADE.

ANNUAL STATEMENTS FROM THE SUNDAY-SCHOOLS AT THE CHAPELS.

Given at Easter Service of the Main School—All Were of a Satisfactory Nature, Showing a Steady Growth in all Departments.

At the Easter service in the First Baptist church yesterday afternoon the annual reports of the various Sunday-schools were presented and the appointment of officers of the home school made as follows: First assistant superintendent, George F. Brown; second assistant, L. H. Biglow, Jr.; superintendent primary department, Mrs. J. A. Powlison; superintendent home department, Miss Laura J. Runyon; temperance secretary, Mrs. L. M. Case; chairman missionary committee, Chas. W. McCutchen; benevolent committee, Miss Ida Yerkes; finance committee, George A. Chapman; library committee, B. J. Shreve.

The report of the home school was given by C. B. Rittenhouse, secretary. This showed a total membership of 580. There are 100 in the home department and there are forty-four officers. The average attendance was 262. The collections for the year amounted to $470.26. The primary department contributed $18 for foreign and home mission work. Russell Miller was absent four Sundays during the year. Miss Elizabeth Winn was present every Sunday for six months and Miss Edna White missed one Sunday in that time.

Superintendent M. C. Dobbins, of the Mt. Olive Baptist church Sunday-school, presented his report. Last year there were 140 scholars and eleven teachers. This year there were 204 scholars and ten teachers. There were two deaths during the year. The balance on hand at last report was $17.37 and the receipts for the year were $74.81. The disbursements were $67.44, leaving a balance of $24.77. There were added to the church membership 116, ninety adults and twenty-six from the Sunday-school.

Superintendent L. W. Randolph, for the East Third Street chapel, gave a report showing an enrollment of 160 scholars, fourteen teachers and six officers. The average attendance was ninety. The largest attendance for the year, 125, was on Janaary 12, and the smallest, forty-two, on November 24. Every department was reported as progressing.

DOYLE CHANGES.

Will Pitch for the Safe Works Team Instead of St. Mary's Team This Season.

Baseball enthusiasts in this city received a great surprise, Saturday, when it was officially announced that Lawrence Doyle, the crack twirler of last season's St. Mary's team, had signed for this season with the Safe Works team. It was not generally known that he contemplated any such step as only a short time ago, the St. Mary management announced him as being a part of the team's personnel.

According to the agreement of the Safe Works team with the local league, all its player must be employed at the safe factory. This will in no way interfere with signing Doyle as he becomes one of the office force the first of June. His leaving the St. Mary nine will not handicap it in any way as Manager Comerford has two other excellent twirlers on his staff of pitchers.

Pending Good Behavior.

On complaint of his stepson, George Whitlock was arrested last evening for causing a disturbance at his wife's home on West Front street. This morning City Judge Runyon placed a fine of $50 over his head which is to be imposed only when he visits the house again and causes any further trouble.

Car Jumped Track.
(Special to The Daily Press.)

Bound Brook, March 31—A freight train stopped traffic here by a car jumping the track at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, and two hours elapsed before the difficulty was remedied.

—Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., will meet tomorrow evening in the Trades' Council rooms. All members are requested to be present.

BATTLED IN "SPEAK EASY"

Customer Thrown Out of Wilson's Yesterday and Patrolman Higgins Went In.

HE MADE TWO ARRESTS.

Said That Customer Was Thought by Proprietor to be Working for Police, So He Was Thrown Out—Said to be the Worst Place—Hearing Adjourned.

The first clash, which has occurred between officers of the law and the keepers of alleged "speak easies" since the system of watching the suspected places was inaugurated, came yesterday morning.

Patrolman Morris Higgins represented the police and after one of his characteristic sharp fights came out victorious with Wilhemina Vetromile, alias "Sheeny Mary," and Raffael Narzi as prisoners. The woman's husband, Leonard Vetromile, known as "John Wilson," escaped for the time being but was arrested this morning. All three were arraigned before Judge Runyon, this morning, but at the request of their counsel, W. R. Codington, the cases were laid over until next Monday.

The trouble originated through the visit of a colored man, George Washington, to Wilson's place of business on Liberty street, alleged to be the place to be one of the most flagrant of the illegal liquor dispensaries. He went in to buy shoe blacking but, just previous, some one had informed Wilson that Washington had been given ten cents by Higgins with which to buy whiskey.

The moment Washington entered the door, it is said, he was pounced upon by Wilson, his wife and Narzi and given a thorough drubbing. He was then thrown out of doors just as Higgins reached the scene. His arrival was followed by another melee within doors but the resistance of the Italians was useless and the law triumphed. The plucty patrolman soon had "Sheeny Mary" and Narzi hors de combat while Wilson was engaged in increasing the distance between himself and his "joint."

Washington also felt that his feelings and dignity had been hurt to such an extent that he would be justified in preferring a complaint of assault against Wilson on his own account. This will be heard in conjunction with Patrolman Higgins' charge.

PRESBYTERIAN WOMEN MET.

Annual Meeting of Women's Presbyterial Society for Home Missions.

The eighteenth annual meeting of the Women's Presbyterian Society for Home Missions was held in Westfield last Friday. There was a large delegation of women present from all parts of the district, including Plainfield. The report of the treasurer, Mrs. J. E. Keron, of Elizabeth, showed that nearly $6,000 was raised during the past year for home missions.

In the election of officers, Mrs. I. C. Pierson, of the Crescent Avenue church, was chosen first vice president. The principal address of the day was delivered by Rev. Dr. John A. Dixon, of New York.

NOAH TERRY DEAD.

A Well-Known Resident Passed Away at Homestead Last Night.

Following a severe and painful illness of six months' duration, Noah Terry, aged fifty-seven years, a well-known resident, died last evening at his home in Cushing road. Death was due to cancer on the neck. He was a great sufferer.

Mr. Terry lived in this city nearly all his life. He was a well-known and prosperous farmer and he was a man of good reputation. He leaves a wife, three sons and a married daughter, Mrs. Guest, who lived with her parents.

The funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment at Samptown.

Hope's Annual Meeting.

The annual meeting of the Hope chapel congregation will be held Thursday evening. The reports for the year will be made at this time.

Yellow Card Taken Away.

Quarantine has been removed from the house of William B. Smith, of Washington avenue. A child has recovered from a case of diphtheria.

NOTES CONCERNING PLAINFIELDERS AND THEIR MANY GUESTS.

Some of Those That Go to Make Up the Day's Budget of Arrivals and Departures.

Frank Beardsley, of New Brunswick, spent Sunday in Plainfield with friends.

Herbert Martin, of Jersey City, spent yesterday in Plainfield with his parents.

Miss Madge Martin, of New York, has been visiting Miss Gertrude Tier, of Bank place.

Miss Laura J. Runyon, of Madison avenue, is spending Easter with friends in Philadelphia.

Mr. and Mrs. John Skellenger, of Elmwood place, have been entertaining their sisters from Brooklyn.

Miss Florence Dodge, formerly of this city but now of Wesifield, is much improved from a recent severe illness.

Eric Moraller, of West Fourth street, is home for the Easter holidays from the Y. M. C. A. Training School, at Hartford, Conn.

James Slorah, of McDowell street, will leave today for Cleveland, O., where he will remain for a short time previous to going to St. Louis to accept a position.

Miss Frances Phillips, of Washington Park, who has been very ill with pneumonia, has recovered from that disease, but is now suffering with a severe attack of rheumatism.

Rev. Rush Rhees, president of Rochester University, who preached at the First Baptist church yesterday morning, was the guest while in Plainfield of his uncle, Charles W. McCutchen, of Rockview avenue.

Could Not Breathe.

Coughs, colds, croup, bronchitis, other throat and lung troubles are quickly cured by One Minute Cough Cure. One Minute Cough Cure is not a mere expectorant, which gives only temporarily relief. It softens and liquifies the mucus, draws out the inflammation and removes the cause of the disease. Absolutely safe. Acts at once. It has been a benefit to all my family.' I W. Randolph.

LITERARY.

Scribner's Magazine for April begins a new novel by Richard Harding Davis—an event of the first importance to all lovers of good fiction. "Captain Macklin," which begins in this number, is the longest novel written by Mr. Davis and is his first since "Soldiers of Fortune." It is his most mature work, and narrates the adventures of a young West Pointer who was dismissed from the Academy and went to Honduras to make a name for himself as a soldier with a body of revolutionists. This instalment and all others will be illustrated by Walter Appleton Clark. The story will run through six numbers.

This issue contains the first of three articles which stirringly represent the life of the fishermen of today—off our own coast, on the North Sea and on the Baltic. James B. Connolly, the man chosen to write these articles, came into immediate favor as a writer of sea stories with his "A Chase Over Night" and several others in Scribner's last year.

Among the stories in the number is an amusing tale of life in old Virginia by Thomas Nelson Page, entitled "The Sheriff's Bluff," with illustrations by Ransom; another story by the new writer, Mary R. S. Andrews, this one told by a boy of thirteen describing with rare humor the predicament of an elder brother (it is a tale of the woods illustrated by A. B. Frost); "A Reversion to Type" by Miss Daskam, the love story of a woman professor in a college, illustrated by Christy; "The Evolution of a Girl's Ideal," a tale of sentiment by Clara E. Laughlin.

Hopkinson Smith's "Oliver Horn" continues to be very entertaining, with the love story of Oliver and Margaret much advanced by a summer's sketching together in the White Mountains.

Color printing is beautifully represented by the reproductions of drawings by Howard Pyle and F. C. Yohn; by two pictures drawn by Everett Shinn showing "How Easter Comes in the City;" and by the colored cover from a deisgn by Foringer. Each of these specimens shows a great improvement in the methods of reproduction in color.

Surgeon's Knife Not Needed.

Surgery is no longer necessary to cure piles. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve cures such cases at once, removing the necessity for dangerous, painful and expensive operations. For scalds, cuts, burns, wounds, bruises, sores and skin diseases it is unequalled. Beware of counterfeits. L. W. Randolph.

THE CHARLESTON TRIP.

President Will Visit Exposition Nex' Week.

CHARLESTON, S. C., March 31.—President Roosevelt has decided upon the date of his visit to the exposition He will leave Washington on Monday afternoon, April 7, reaching Charleston Tuesday morning, April 8, spending the day in visiting the site of the navy yard, the forts in the harbor and the jetties.

Tuesday night he will be entertained at dinner by the city of Charleston. While the dinner is in progress Mrs. Roosevelt will give a reception to the ladies of the woman's department of the exposition and their invited guests. Wednesday, April 9, the president will be escorted to the exposition grounds by a great military procession, in which the soldiers of Charleston and the visiting soldiers from North Carolina and the other southern states will take part.

Thursday morning, April 10, the president and his party will be taken to the tea farm and afterward to the beautiful magnolia gardens on the Ashley.

In the afternoon he and his party will be entertained at luncheon by Captain Wagener at the Pine Forest inn and Thursday evening he will leave Summerville for Washington.

A PRESENT TO THE TRUST.

New Jersey Will Lose $12,500 Annually Through Legislative Error.

TRENTON, N. J., March 31.—The discovery has been made that the state of New Jersey will lose an annual revenue of $12,500 by reason of the passage by the legislature last week of the bill permitting the United States Steel corporation to convert its preferred stock into bonds.

Corporations chartered under the laws of New Jersey pay an annual tax on their issued capital stock. This tax is graded and amounts to $50 per million dollars on the $250,000,000 of preferred stock which the steel corporation purposes converting into bonds. The corporation will not be obliged to pay any tax on the bond issue, and the state therefore will lose this money.

This point was probably overlooked at the time the bill was before the legislature, as no suggestion of the state's revenue being involved was made by any of the members who opposed the measure.

Range War Reopened.

EVANSTON, Wy., March 31.—Added to the fencing of government lands, the range war has broken out afresh from renewed invasions of the sheepmen in cattlemen's territory. Reports just received from the big piny district, Uintah county, tell of a battle fought there between sheep herders and cowboys in which two men, the Hall brothers, were either fatally wounded or killed outright. Two cattlemen were wounded. It is also reported that 1,300 sheep were clubbed to death. Details are meager because of the distance from telegraph points to the region where the conflict occurred. It appears that the sheepmen have advanced beyond the line, and some of them have raised fences.

Senator Jones Defeated.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 31.—Indications reflected by additional returns from a majority of the counties point to a victory for ex-Governor James P. Clarke for United States senator over Senator James K. Jones, though his majority on joint ballot will probably not exceed twelve. Complete returns are not yet in, and in several of the large counties the vote is so close that the official count is awaited. Senator Jones will not concede Clarke's success.

Ship Returns on Fire.

NEW YORK, March 31.—The Quebec line steamer Pretoria, which sailed from this port Saturday with a full cargo and a number of passengers for Hamilton, Bermuda, returned to the harbor last night on fire. She was preceded in by the American line steamer Noordland, which sailed from Philadelphia for Queenstown and Liverpool, which has on board the passengers of the Pretoria. They had been transferred to that vessel.

A Decrease of Idleness.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 31.—The quarterly bulletin of the state department of labor shows that for the quarter ending Jan. 1, 1902, the decreased idleness in building, clothing and baking trades was noticeable. The favorable conditions of employment indicated by the reduced amount of idleness in the building trades union are also revealed in the statistics of buildings authorized by the municipal building bureaus in the large cities.

Treaty With Spain Ready.

MADRID, March 31.—The treaty of friendship between the United States and Spain will be signed as soon as Bellamy Storer, the United States minister here, returns to Madrid. Mr Storer is at present in the United States.

Lake Champlain Open.

PLATTSBURG, N. Y., March 31.—The ice has gone out of Lake Champlain fully two weeks earlier than last year, and the steamers will begin trips between Plattsburg and Burlington on Monday, April 7.

CONDENSED DISPATCHES.

Miss Stone, the American missionary, arrived in London from Salonika.

Reports from all the counties in the Kansas wheat belt report the prospect of a large crop.

Four men were killed in a Kentucky feud fight. Two of the victims were of the notorious Hatfield family.

More than 60,000 cotton workers in southern New England will get a 10 per cent increase in their wages April 7.

AN EASTER CYCLONE

Churches Wrecked and Worshipers Crushed In Ruins.

FIFTY PERSONS HURT, SOME FATALLY

Scores of Houses Unroofed, Factory Chimneys Blown Down and Telegraph and Telephone Lines Disabled by Terrific Storm.

PITTSBURG, March 31.—One of the fiercest windstorms ever known in this section struck the city yesterday just before noon and did almost incalculable damage to property and injured many people, some of whom may die from the effects of their wounds. Scores of houses were unroofed, many trees were blown down, mill stacks toppled over, and telegraph and telephone wires were generally disabled.

The most serious accident reported was the unroofing of the Knoxville Presbyterian church in Knoxville. The church at the time was filled with an Easter congregation numbering about 300 persons. While the minister was in the midst of his sermon a strong gust of wind blew over the large chimney and lifted a portion of the roof of the building. The bricks from the chimney crashed through the roof and carried a huge piece of the hardwood ceiling measuring about 40 by 20 feet down upon the worshipers in the pews. An indescribable panic ensued, and a frantic rush was made for the doors and windows. The excitement was soon quieted, and the work of rescue began. At least forty persons were caught by the wreckage and more or less hurt. Of this number five may not recover.

In none of the other accidents reported throughout the city were there any serious injuries to persons, though many narrow escapes are recorded. The towboat Belle McGowan was blown over in the Ohio river opposite Sawmill run and completely wrecked. Her crew narrowly escaped drowning, but all were finally rescued by harbor boats.

The corrugated iron roof of the Union bridge at the point was lifted from its fastenings by the wind and part of it carried a distance of a mile. The Whittier schoolhouse on Mount Washington was unroofed and its walls badly twisted.

Jones & Laughlin had fourteen of their furnace stacks blown down, necessitating the shutdown of a portion of their plant for weeks.

As Rev. J. W. English, pastor of the Robinson Run U. P. church, near McDonald, was raising his arms to pronounce the benediction lightning struck the church spire, and it toppled upon the roof, crushing it and injuring a number of worshipers, two of whom will die.

The Noblestown Presbyterian church was also unroofed, but the congregation escaped injury.

The Forest Oil company had between 200 and 300 derricks blown down in its McDonald region, and considerable damage was sustained by its pipe system.

The offices of the Monongahela connecting railroad, on Second avenue, this city, were destroyed by fire during the afternoon because no alarm could be turned in either by phone or telegraph.

The Armstrong Cork company plant on Liberty avenue, between Twenty-fifth and Twenty-sixth streets, was unroofed and much damage done to machinery and stock.

More than 2,500 lights of glass in the Phipps conservatory in Schenley park were broken and much of the gorgeous Easter flower display ruined.

The Montana apartment house at Penn avenue and Fairmont street, east end, and the Idaho building, which adjoins it, were partially destroyed.

The roof of the big forge plant at Rankin was lifted off and carried many yards away.

The damage in the Monongahela and Turtle creek valleys will reach thousands of dollars, but no specially big individual loss is reported.

Almost the entire east end district of this city was in darkness last night, the electric lighting system having been put out of commission by the storm.

Pastor Fatally Injured.

GREENVILLE, Pa., March 31.—The Easter services being held in the United Presbyterian church at Jamestown, this county, six miles north of here, came to an abrupt ending at 12 o'clock. The sky became overcast, and a funnel shaped cloud was seen approaching from the northwest. The tail dipped to the ground just before the church was reached. The congregation became uneasy, but the pastor, Rev. J. M. Jamison, continued the services. All of a sudden there was a terrific crash, and a part of the south end of the church caved in, burying the minister beneath bricks and timbers. The men of the congregation rushed to the pulpit, and when the stricken minister was removed from the debris it was found he had received fatal injuries. His jaw was broken, and the temporal bone was crushed. The storm was the worst that has occurred in this section for years.

Bad Gale on Lake Erie.

TOLEDO, O., March 31.—A heavy southwest gale which blew all day yesterday raised a big sea on Lake Erie and lowered the water in the Toledo harbor nearly four feet. The tug Lamb was engaged in fishing near Put-in-Bay and was nearly swamped. Captain Walker says it was the worst storm he has experienced in several years, but after a hard tussle he made port.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair; colder; fresh to brisk west winds.

NEW PARTY FORMING

A Six In One Combination to Fight Plutocracy.

NATIONAL CONVENTION THIS WEEK.

Noted Populist, Socialist and Labor Leaders to Be Among the Seven Hundred Delegates Expected In Louisville, Ky.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 31.—The Allied party, whose purpose is "to unite reform forces against plutocracy," will meet in national convention here April 2. The allied parties to be represented are the Socialist, Union Labor and Union Reformers of Ohio, the Public Ownership party of St. Louis, the Liberal party, recently formed in Ohio, and the Union Christian party.

The convention is the outgrowth of the preliminary conference of "all reform elements" held in Kansas City last September. The name "Allied party" was selected to designate the movement only until the meeting of the coming convention, which is to choose a name and effect a permanent organization. The convention will have power to make a platform for the party, which is open to "all citizens who favor political action independent of the old parties."

National Chairman J. A. Parker says that 700 delegates will attend the convention. Among those who are expected are J. S. Felter and J. S. Ferrie of Illinois, former United State Senator William B. Allen of Nebraska, H. Gayford Urlshire of Colorado, Jahn Breedenthal, who was the Populist candidate for governor of Kansas last year; Dr. Joseph E. Chambers of St. Louis, known as "The Father of Populism," and Harry C. Thompson, candidate for governor of Ohio on the Socialist ticket.

Texas, Indiana, Illinois, Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Georgia will be represented by large delegations.

A labor mass meeting on Thursday evenig is to be the high water mark of the convention. It is intended to devote the entire evening to a discussion of the subject "Labor Legislation; What We Need and How to Get It."

New York Jurist Dead.

WHITEHALL, N. Y., March 31.—Joseph Potter, LL. D., ex-justice of the New York supreme court and a member of the second division of the court of appeals, is dead at his residence in Whitehall after an illness of ten days. The funeral services will be held tomorrow. Judge Potter was born in Easton, Washington county, N. Y., Nov. 17, 1821. He graduated at Union college with honors and was admitted to the bar in 1845. He was elected district attorney for Washington county in 1849, serving two terms in that office. In 1863 he was elected county judge, which office he filled for two successive terms, and he was then elected justice of the supreme court, continuing in that office until retired upon reaching the constitutional age limit of seventy years.

Youthful Train Wreckers Arrested.

TRENTON, Mo., March 31.—George Busch, sixteen years old, and George Young, aged twenty, sons of respectable parents of this city, made an unsuccessful attempt last Saturday night to wreck an eastbound Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific passenger train about five miles east of here. The track at this point is on a high embankment, and a derailment could scarcely have occurred without the loss of many lives. Both boys were arrested and have confessed. Their motive appears to have been revenge for having been put off a freight train. Dime novels are believed to have played a part.

Methodist Minister Must Go.

ARKANSAS CITY, Kan., March 31.—The Rev. Granville Louther has formally refused to accept the proposition to stop his teaching and the Methodist Episcopal trial committee has declared him guilty of heresy. This of course means dismissal from the church. The trial committee met behind closed doors, and immediately a statement was presented from Rev. Louther, in which he declined to accept the proposition to acquit him if he would cease his heretical utterances.

The Cork Yacht Races.

CORK, Ireland, March 31.—In response to an inquiry addressed to King Edward his majesty has sent a letter to the lord mayor of Cork, Mr. Fitzgerald, saying that he will give a cup valued at £100 to be competed for in the international yacht race which will be held in connection with the Cork industrial exhibition this year. Local yacht clubs hope that the Columbia, the Shamrock II. and the Meteor will be among the contestants in the international race.

Spinners Demand More Pay.

PAWTUCKET, R. I., March 31.—A special meeting of the Rhode Island Mule Spinners' association was held in this city, which resulted in a demand on all yarn and thread manufacturers of the state for an increase of wages amounting to 10 per cent. The manufacturers are given until Saturday afternoon next to make reply, at which time a meeting of the association will be held.

Fire Breaks Up a Matinee.

CINCINNATI, March 31.—The Pike building on Fourth street between Vine and Walnut streets, in which the Pike Opera House is located, was partially destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. Standing room had been taken at the matinee, which was proceeding when the flames broke out. The audience retired in good order, but some women fainted after reaching the street.

FISHING SCHOONER SUNK.

Three of Her Crew Drowned In Delaware Bay.

PHILADELPHIA, March 31.—With the greater part of her crew of eleven men asleep in their bunks below deck the little fishing schooner Edna Earl, bound for the sea, was run into and sunk in Delaware bay off Reedy island, Del., late Saturday night, and three of her crew were drowned.

The vessel that sunk the fisherman was the Norwegian steamship Romsdal, from New York for Philadelphia, in ballast, which rescued the surviving members of the crew and brought them to this city. To whom the responsibility for the collision is chargeable has not yet been determined. Both Captain Hirsch of the Romsdal and Captain Kole of the schooner say that all their lights were burning and that they were completely within maritime regulations. The sleeping fishermen were awakened by the crash and rushed up the narrow companionway. All but three of them managed to reach the deck. These, being caught by the rush of water, were drowned inside the vessel. The blow struck by the Romsdal was so severe that the little schooner was almost cut in half, and she sunk in less than five minutes.

The surviving members took to the rigging and in half an hour were taken off in a small boat sent to the rescue by Captain Hirsch, who immediately anchored his vessel after the collision.

What Congress Is Doing.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—The friends of the oleomargarine bill hope to secure a vote upon that measure tomorrow, and as soon as it shall be disposed of the Chinese exclusion bill will be called up. It is the hope of Senator Penrose, who has charge of the measure, that the senate will be able to conclude its consideration within ten days after it is taken up. There is no pronounced opposition to the bill as a whole, but an effort will be made to amend it in some particulars. The Philippine government bill will be reported soon, but its consideration by the senate will necessarily be postponed for some weeks. The house during this week will be largely occupied with the Landry civil appropriation bill, which was called up today. It is the intention of the leaders not to bring forward the Cuban reciprocity bill until next week.

Washouts Tie Up Railways.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 31.—Washouts caused by the heavy rainstorm of the past few days have demoralized regular schedules on many roads in the state. All traffic west of Selma on the Southern railroad is suspended owing to the Alabama river overflowing its banks and washing away a mile of track between Lake Lanier and the bridge. All trains on the Memphis division of the Southern railroad were annulled because of washouts in Mississippi. Trains on the Southern railroad can run no farther west than Demopolis. The track is washed out for four miles, and the river is still rising at the rate of a half foot per hour.

High Winds In Michigan.

DETROIT, Mich., March 31.—An extremely severe wind and rain storm swept over Detroit yesterday, attaining a velocity of forty-eight miles an hour during the afternoon. Considerable minor damage was done to signs and fences in all parts of the city, and a number of telegraph and telephone poles were blown down in the suburbs. The storm did the most damage in the suburb of Highland Park, where telephone service was badly crippled. The storm was general over the state, but was most severe along the shore of Lake Michigan. Snow and sleet accompanied it in some places.

British Steamer Lost; Crew Safe.

LONDON, March 31.—The British steamer Holyrood, Captain Renton, from Portland, Me., March 15 for London, has sunk after colliding on March 27 with the Leyland line steamer Bernard Hall, Captain Cassentine, from Liverpool March 26 for Barbados, Trinidad and Galveston, Tex. The crew of the Holyrood, numbering twenty-eight men, boarded the Bernard Hall, which has arrived at Queenstown with her bows stove in. The collision occurred at 8 o'clock in the evening in a dense fog at a point 175 miles west of Fastnet.

Long Fight Over French Budget.

PARIS, March 31.—Both the chamber of deputies and the senate sat all night to adjust budget differences. The senate at 3 o'clock in the morning adjourned until 2 o'clock in the afternoon. The chamber of deputies finally agreed to all the amendments made by the senate and passed the whole budget by a vote of 367 to 80. At the afternoon meeting of the senate the formal elections were fixed for April 27. The chamber of deputies and the senate will reassemble June 1 and June 3 respectively.

Steyn Will Not Negotiate.

PRETORIA, March 31.—The efforts of Acting President Schalkburger to open negotiations with Mr. Steyn, the former president of the Orange Free State, have thus far been unsuccessful. De Wet and Steyn have crossed the main line of the railroad, going west. They were escorted by Vanniekirk and Vandermerwe and have been traced to Parys, about thirty miles northwest of the Heilbron road. Orange River Colony, by Colonel Garrett.

A Boy's Mysterious Death.

TOLEDO, O., March 31.—The dead body of Arthur Shanteau, the seven-year-old son of Maxim Shanteau, a farmer, has been found in an orchard near his house with the head cut in twain as if by an ax. A playmate is suspected, but he denies all knowledge of the deed.

IN CHANCERY OF NEW JERSEY.

MASTER'S SALE.

Between Cornelia G. Dunn, complainant, and Ann Janet Blackford, et als., defendants.

By virtue of and in pursuance of a decree of the Court of Chancery dated the first day of November in the year nineteen hundred and one, made in a certain cause pending in said Court on bill for partition wherein Cornelia G. Dunn is complainant, and Ann Janet Blackford and others are defendants, I, Craig A. Marsh, the Special Master of said Court of Chancery mentioned in said decree will expose to sale at public vendue to the highest bidder, on Tuesday, April fifteenth, nineteen hundred and two, at the hour of two o'clock in the afternoon of said day, on the premises hereinafter described, the following: All that certain tract of land and premises situated in the City of Plainfield, in Union County, New Jersey, bounded and described as follows:

BEGINNING at a stake planted in a corner of lands belonging to Ezekiel Randolph and Manning Stelle, from thence running with said Stelle's line and binding thereon north seventy-five degrees west two chains and one link to a stump, thence north fifty-degrees and forty-five minutes west fourteen chains and one link to a post, thence north ten degrees east, two chains and ninety-one links to a post standing on the public road; from thence along said road north eighty-nine degrees east, one chain and thirty-one links to a stake, thence north sixty-two degrees east, fifty-three links to the centre of the road, thence along the centre of said road north eighty-seven degrees fifteen minutes east twelve chains and eighty-four links to a stone planted in the centre of said road, and is a corner of lands belonging to Gideon Wooden and Manning Stelle's farms; thence to the place of beginning, containing twelve acres and eighteen-hundredths of an acre of land more or less. Bounded on the south by Ezekiel Randolph and Manning Stelle, on the west by said Stelle, on the north by the road, and on the east by lands of Oliver Ayres. Including the estate and interest of James M. Dunn as tenant by the courtesy in and to the one-fourth part of said lands of which his wife Martha R. Dunn died seized as aforesaid and which said one-fourth interest is now owned by Alpharetta D Suydam. Together with all and singular the hereditaments and appurtenances to the said premises belonging or in any wise appertaining.

An Unfortunate Habit.

There is a young man down-town who has the trick, or habit, of saying: "Since you press me." On being offered a cigar he answers smilingly: "Well, since you press me, I will, thanks," and to an invitation to luncheon, to the theater or to a drink his answer is always the same: "Since you press me, I believe I will." It happens that he is engaged to be married, and that his fiancee has a little brother. This lad has heard often and with much wonderment the phrase: "Since you press me," used on all sorts of occasions, and the other night at a dinner party in his house, when, unfortunately, there were some strangers present, he pointed his knife at the young man and said in a loud, childish treble to his father: "Papa, why is Mr. Blank always a-sayin' to sister, 'Since you squeeze me?'"—Los Angeles Herald.

The Rights of Fat Men.

The Paris courts recently decreed that a balcony must be equal to the strain of 17½ stone. The decision was the outcome of a somewhat amusing lawsuit, in which the complainant was a portly person named Rudet, and the defendant the proprietor of a villa near the pleasant resort of Fecamp. One summer moonlight night while M. Rudet was enjoying the cooling breezes from the sea the balcony suddenly collapsed, and the guest, who tipped the scale at 17½ stone, came with a crash to the ground, sustaining serious injuries in his fall. He sued the proprietor of the villa for damages, but the latter sheltered himself behind the abnormal weight of his tenant, and declined responsibility. The court, however, did not take this view of the case, and M. Rudet was awarded £120 as compensation.—Detroit Free Press.

One of Nye's Best.

L. R. Stockwell, the popular actor, says that some years ago in San Francisco when Peter Jackson, the colored pugilist, was a feature in a revival of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" "Bill" Nye was to have lectured at the Baldwin theater, but was greeted by so small an audience that he excused himself and went over to hear Jackson talking of the pearly gates to little Eva. After the performance Stockwell met Nye in the lobby of the theater and he exclaimed: "Hello, Nye! What did you think of Peter?" "Well," responded the humorist, dryly, "anotomically he was great, but Uncle Tomically he was the worst I ever saw."—Chicago Chronicle.

TWENTY-TWO DROWNED.

Southern Floods Unusually Disastrous to Life and Property.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 31.—Reports from the flooded districts of Tennessee estimate that the damage resulting from the storm of rain and wind will reach $4,000,000. Twenty-two lives are believed to have been lost. Several counties known to have suffered heavily are yet cut off from communication, and the loss in property and life may reach larger figures when additional information has been received.

After a perilous night in the top of a tree in the Hermitage district three men were rescued from drowning.

The Louisville and Nashville railroad has a few trains running from Nashville to Lynnville, eighteen miles south of Columbia. The Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis road has succeeded in getting trains through only to Murfreesboro.

The section visited by the flood embraces one of the richest portions of the state, and damage to farm lands would bring serious results. Counties lying between the mountains on the east and the Tennessee river on the west and between the Cumberland river and the Alabama line are included in the flood swept area. Stone fences were washed away on many of the riverside farms of Lincoln county and crops destroyed.

The loss by the flood which swept the Emory valley Saturday may reach nearly $1,000,000 in Roane and Morgan counties. At Harriman the loss is estimated between $55,000 and $125,000. It is thought the damage to one plant in that city will amount to $75,000.

FIRE IN GUTHRIE, OKLA.

State Capital Printing Plant, Hotels and Other Buildings Burned Out.

GUTHRIE, Okla., March 31.—Guthrie has been visited by a three hundred and fifty thousand dollar fire, and as a result The State Capital Printing plant, the Hotel Capitol, the St. James hotel, the Cammack livery barn and the Richey general merchandise store are in ruins.

Everything in The State Capital plant was destroyed, including two presses, machines of every kind, linotype machines, electric and steam heating systems, libraries and a large stock of supplies. Frank H. Greer, the owner, states that the total loss is $250,000. Not a thing but the mailing lists of the paper was saved. The loss in the other building will make the entire loss to the town fully $350,000.

The fire started at noon in the basement of The State Capital and was soon roaring up the elevator shafts. A high wind was blowing, and it was impossible to check the flames. Assistance was asked of Oklahoma City, Perry, Kingfisher and other surrounding cities, but the high wind did the work before help could arrive. Work will commence at once on the construction of new buildings for The State Capital.

As no work had been in progress in the newspaper building during the day it is believed the fire was of incendiary origin.

James R. Garfield Accepts.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—James R. Garfield, a son of the late President Garfield, has accepted the position of civil service commissioner tendered him about ten days ago by President Roosevelt. He takes the place to be vacated on the 1st of April by Mr. William A. Rodenberg. Mr. Garfield is a comparatively young man and is engaged in the practice of law with his brother, Harry A. Garfield, in Cleveland, O. He is a notable figure in Ohio political circles and has served as state senator from his district. He was the author of what was known as the Garfield election law of Ohio. Mr. Garfield is a resident of Mentor, a suburb of Cleveland.

The President's Easter.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Large crowds attended the Easter services at the churches. In the morning the weather was delightful, with bright skies and pleasant sunshine, but in the afternoon a severe thunderstorm marred the pleasure of the people who sought outdoor recreation. The president attended services at the Grace Reformed church, his regular place of worship, where Rev. John M. Schick, the pastor, preached the sermon. Mrs. Roosevelt and her children went to St. John's Episcopal church, which she regularly attends. They were accompanied by Captain and Mrs. Cowles.

Students Sent to Siberia.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 31.—At Moscow last Wednesday twenty-six persons, mostly students, were arrested for disregarding the regulations of the governor general and sentenced to terms of imprisonment varying from one to three months. The university students of St. Petersburg estimate that twenty-five of their comrades have been sent to Siberia. A teacher in a preparatory classical school here was shot four days ago by a student of the school who declared the teacher had given him an unjust rating.

Steamer Ashore; Crew Saved.

WOOD'S HOLL, Mass., March 31.—The steamer Indian, Philadelphia for Boston, with passengers and a valuable cargo, went ashore on Cuttyhunk island yesterday morning during a heavy fog. The vessel lies in a dangerous position. The life saving crews safely landed her four passengers late in the afternoon.

Sultan's Brother Dead.

LONDON, March 31.—A report has reached here from Constantinople, wires the Vienna correspondent of The Daily Mail, that Mohammed Rechad, the sultan's brother and his presumptive successor, is dead. The report says foul play is suspected.

PHILIPPINE FINANCE.

Higher Rate of Exchange Is Fixed by Commission.

AN EFFORT TO STOP GOLD EXPORTS.

Action Causes Discontent Among Importers, but Pleases Government Employees—Mindanao Rebel Offers to Surrender.

MANILA, March 31.—The United States Philippine commission has fixed the government rate of exchange for silver for the second quarter of this year at $2.27 Mexican silver for one gold dollar. The rate of exchange at the banks was $2.23 Mexican silver for one gold dollar, but the banks refused to sell gold in large quantities, not having sufficient coin to do so. The banks have notified the quartermaster's department that it is impossible for them to cash quartermaster checks.

The scarcity of American gold is attributed partly to the banks and largely to Chinese speculators, who always buy American gold at a quotation two points higher than the bank rate.

This action of the commission in making the government rate higher than the bank rate of exchange has created much discontent among importers. They are unable to obtain sufficient gold to pay import duties and must consequently pay these duties in silver at the government rate of $2.27. The employees of the civil government are elated at the new rate of exchange, as it means a considerable increase in their salaries.

It is the intention of the commission to endeavor to retain the gold in the archipelago. The bankers of Manila say that the monetary situation in the Philippines cannot be helped by governmental action and that a region as important commercially as the Philippine archipelago must affect the world's markets.

Senor Valdez, the editor of a local paper, who has been sued for libel by two of the Filipino members of the United States Philippine commission, will subpoena Aguinaldo to appear in court and testify in the case. General Chaffee's permission to this step has been obtained.

Rufino, who spent $30,000 in his efforts to incite rebellion in the province of Misamis, island of Mindanao, now declares he is tired of the rebellion and has offered to surrender, with seventy-five rifles, to the native constabulary.

General Chaffee will leave Manila April 10 on a tour of inspection to the island of Samar. He will visit every port in the island and will witness the surrender there on April 15 of the insurgent general Guevarra. After this surrender the American garrisons in Samar will be largely reduced.

During the last three days there have been ten new cases of cholera here and four deaths from the disease.

Troops Arrive From Manila.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 31.—The transport Kilpatrick has arrived from Manila with the Seventeenth infantry and discharged soldiers, nearly 1,000 in number. There were five deaths on the voyage. Shortly after leaving Manila Mrs. B. F. Pope, widow of Lieutenant Colonel B. F. Pope, died. Mrs. Pope was bringing the remains of her husband home.

Many Mormon Converts.

PHILADELPHIA, March 31.—Mormonism has made many converts in northeastern Pennsylvania and left a trail of disrupted homes and broken hearted wives. Those who have adopted the belief are chiefly men, and they are about to start for Utah against the prayers and entreaties of their wives and children. In a few cases the women have induced their husbands to remain, but generally they have been won over again and will leave for the west with the other converts. Three Mormon elders have been actively at work for several months, and in the counties of Susquehanna, Wayne and Lackawanna they have persuaded thirty-two persons to adopt their faith.

College Chapel Dedicated.

CLEVELAND, O., March 31.—Western Reserve university has dedicated for the use of its woman's college a beautiful chapel. It is the gift of Mrs. S. V. Harkness of New York and Mr. L. H. Severance of Cleveland as a memorial to Florence Harkness. The chief address was given by the Rev. Dr. H. C. Haydn. The architecture is Gothic, with elaborate tracery. It will be used for the daily chapel services and also for the vesper service on Sunday. It is the twelfth building which the university has dedicated within recent years.

Chief Cameau Leaves Haiti.

PORT AU PRINCE, Haiti, March 31.—General Cameau, former chief of police, who was directly responsible for the execution of Leon Gabriel, a French citizen, who fired a revolver at him March 22, and who was dismissed at the request of the French government, took refuge at the French legation here and has sailed since for Willemstad, island of Curacao. His departure, it is believed, was due to the fear that the authorities intended taking further action against him.

Education In Japan Dangerous.

YOKOHAMA, March 31.—The Chinese minister at Tokyo has sent a strongly worded dispatch to Peking in which he advises his government to prohibit Chinese students from coming to Japan, declaring they would imbibe revolutionary ideas here. It was recently announced from Peking that fifty-six Chinese students would soon enter a military school at Tokyo. Their expenses were to be paid by the viceroy of Chili province.

THE EASTER TIME.

With more than the usual elaborateness, Easter Sunday was observed this year in Plainfield. While the day dawned as beautiful as anyone could desire, the afternoon brought clouds and the early evening rain. Long musical programmes, special sermons appropriate to the day and profuse displays of beautiful flowers marked the services at most of the local churches. Even though the rain did appear at nightfall, it only slightly decreased the size of the congregations that assembled for the evening services.

The day was a mild one and brought out the usual Easter display of new spring gowns. During the hours of the morning preceding and following the church services, the streets were bright with the varied hues of hats and gowns. As far as the morning went, it was an ideal Easter Day for all.

And now that Lent is over and Easter has come and gone, society is prepared to resume its activity which ended when the Lenten season began. This week has many attractions for the society folk in the shape of dances, teas, weddings, receptions and amateur theatricals. It promises to be as lively an Easter week as Plainfield has seen for several yeras.

It is welcome news that, if all goes well, the new buildings for Muhlenberg Hospital will be started not later than June 1. Every day increases the need of a new and properly equipped structure for that very worthy institution. Tonight, the hospital governors meet to finally act on the detailed plans for the hospital's new home.

The past winter has been a hard one on the city streets but it will not take very long for the city street department to get them in proper shape again.

Barroom Fight at Westfield.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Westfield, March 31—Several negroes engaged in a barroom fight at Powers' Hotel Saturday night. Two were arrested and each was fined $7.70 by Justice Toncey. The third man got away but was caught later when he was dismissed with a severe reprimand.

Patant Granted.

Geo. W. Saums, of West Front street, received word yesterday from Washington that the formula for his "None Such" polish had been patented and that the label had been trade mark registered.

SUBURBAN NEWS

DUNELLEN.

Easter services were celebrated in all the local churches yesterday. In the Presbyterian church special Easter hymns were sung and in the evening the Sunday school children held exercises. Several pieces were recited and songs sung. A member of Princeton Theological Seminary delivered the address in the evening. In the Methodist church several very pretty anthems were sung in an excellent manner by the choir and an appropriate Easter sermon was delivered in the morning. In the evening the Sunday-school conducted exercises. The only note against the church was burned. In St. John's church high mass was sung by Rev. Father Kerr at 9 o'clock. Joseph Noonan presided at the organ and the choir was assisted by Terrence Romayne. Miss Carrie Heyl sang Battman's mass in an excellent manner.

Very pretty Easter services were held in Holy Innocents Episcopal church yesterday afternoon. Special Easter music was sung and the church was crowded to the doors. The usual choir was assisted by Miss Cornelia Miller, soprano, of Plainfield; Miss Nellie Tabb, contralto; J. E. Low, tenor; and Fred Dayton, bass. The following musical programme was given: "Jesus Christ is Risen"; "Gloria Patri"; "Magnificat"; "Christ is Risen"; "Praise the Lord, Oh Jerusalem"; and "Rejoice, Ye Pure in Heart." The pastor delivered an appropriate Easter discourse. The church was prettily decorated.

The members of the Dunellen Literary Circle spent a unique evening Saturday at the home of Mrs. Lester Meserole. The members were dressed in Japanese costumes and Japanese customs prevailed throughout the evening. Dainty refreshments were served. The papers read dealt mainly with Japanese life and habits.

The Dunellen Juniors were unable to play the baseball game they had scheduled for Saturday morning with a Plainfield team on account of the storm. The game will be played Saturday.

Of the prisoners in the Town Hall, Barry and McDonald were released Saturday as their fines were paid by relatives. The others expect to be released during today.

The members of the Dunellen A. C. expected to practice Saturday, but were prevented by the rain. No grounds have yet been secured.

Miss Elizabeth Herlick, who was taken severely ill Friday night, is considerably better and her early recovery is expected.

A number from here attended Easter services in the Presbyterian church at Bound Brook last evening.

Sessions will be held in the public schools this week, but the schools will close earlier in June.

Good Friday services were celebrated in Holy Innocents' church Friday afternoon.

Court Dunellen, I. O. F., will hold its bi-weekly meeting this evening in Apgar's Hall.

The Banjo, Mandolin and Guitar Club will hold practice this evening.

Mrs. Edna Vail is entertaining her cousin, Miss Case, of Phillipsburg.

A. A. Lake is moving into his new home, on Dunellen avenue, today.

Adam Dealaman is considerably improved from his recent illness.

Walter Vliet entertained relatives from New York Sunday.

NEW MARKET.

Some special Easter music was rendered by the choir of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, Saturday. Among the selections were "Gloria Patria," "Christ, the Lord, is Risen Today," "O, Glorious Hour." The church was prettily decorated with flowers.

No special Easter sevices were held in the First Baptist church, yesterday, but the usual Sunday services were extended. The choir sang only appropriate Easter hymns.

A sale of farm goods will be held on the W. J. Nelson farm, in Piscataway, today. C. E. Kelly will be the auctioneer. The farm of 130 acres will also be disposed of.

The public schools will be closed this week and, in view of the recent small-pox scare, will be thoroughly cleaned and fumigated.

Charles Ward visited friends in Bound Brook, Sunday.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Easter was observed by special services at all the churches yesterday. At the Baptist church the Sunday-school rendered a special progamme of carols and responsive reading at 9:30 o'clock. At 10:45, the regular preaching service was held. Rev. Mr. Shott preached an eloquent sermon on "The Resurrection." The church was handsomely decorated with palms, rubber plants, lilies and roses, the pulpit being nearly hidden with a bank of lilies and palms. At both the Episcopal and Methodist churches special music was rendered and the churches were prettily trimmed with lilies and greens. All services were well attended and the day was most appropriately observed by all.

The drawing for a $50 diamond pin, for which the baseball club has been selling tickets for several weeks past, was decided Saturday night and the pin, like the watch which was chanced off several weeks ago, went to New York city, being won by Mr. Lynch, shipping clerk for the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

Fanwood Council, R. A., will hold a special meeting in its rooms tonight. Several candidates are to be initiated into the mysteries of the order and a full attendance of the members is desired.

"He is Risen, as He Said" was the topic discussed by the Baptist Young People's Union at the meeting in the Baptist church parlors, Sunday evening.

John Haskard and family, of Grant avenue, Plainfield, spent Easter with his mother, Mrs. John Haskard, of Grand street.

Charles Wade led a large and interesting weekly meeting of the Epworth League in the Methodist church last night.

Miss Alice Shott has returned from a pleasant visit of nearly two weeks with friends at Yonkers, New York.

Wm. Alexander, of Westfield avenue, has accepted a position with Edward L. Hand at the Central Hotel.

Miss Mamie Mercier, of Plainfield, has been visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Mercier.

Miss Florence Darby, of Alton, spent Easter with her friend, Miss Cora Miller, of Front street.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

An entertainment will be held April 23, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Baptist church. The society has secured the services of Miss Adelaine Luckey, of Plainfield, who will give a recital in the capacity of elcoutionist.

Mrs. Caleen has returned from the hospital where she went to have an operation performed. The hospital authorities could do nothing with her case.

Mrs. R. B. Manning was taken worse Saturday afternoon, so that a doctor had to be summoned. Today, her condition was much improved.

The annual Easter exercises were held in Marconnier chapel yesterday afternoon. The principal feature was an egg hunt.

It is reported that Thomas VanNest will come home soon from the asylum in Trenton, where he has been doing nicely.

Frank Faulks and Harry Manning, and Miss Emma Faulks spent yesterday with friends in Newark.

Mrs. William Clawson entertained Mr. and Mrs. John Tingley, of Dunellen, yesterday.

A party of young people went to New York City, this morning, to spend the day.

Miss Elizabeth Smith entertained company from Brooklyn yesterday.

John Tingley removed his goods to Dunellen today.

Miss Lydia Faulks is ill with the mumps.

Practically Starving.

"After using a few bottles of Kodol Dyspepsia Cure my wife received perfect and permanent relief from a severe and chronic case of stomach trouble," says J. R. Holly, real estate, insurance and loan agent, of Macomb, Ill. "Before using Kodol Dyspepsia Cure she could not eat an ordinary meal without intense suffering. She is now entirely cured. Several physicians and many remedies had failed to give relief." You don't have to diet. Eat any good food you want, but don't overload the stomach. SOME OF ATTRACTIONS TO BE FOUND AT LOCAL STORES.

A Few Interesting Items Concerning Greater Plainfield's Merchants

Now is the time to order your flowers and plants. Call at C. L. Stanley's on North avenue and examine the stock.

"Fine feathers make fine birds" and so does fine furniture make pretty homes. Powlison & Jones have the right kind of furniture at the right kind of prices. "nuf ced."

Whether you engage in sports or not during the coming season you will want the right kind of shoes to wear. John H. Doane has the kind that fit and feel comfortable all the time.

Fowler, the East Front street confectioner, had an immense sale of Easter novelties, but there are still many pretty ornaments to be found at his store. Watch for the specials in candies this week.

Fresh country eggs in any quantity can be had at W. W. Wilson's model combination grocery and meat store on West Third street. His line of fresh vegetables are as complete as any to be found in the city.

You will find a choice line of pictures in carbon, platinum, engravings and photographs, appropriate to the season at Swain's on West Front street. He also has many pleasing designs in picture framing.

There's no need of sending to New York for Huyler's candies and bon bons. John P. Powers, the Somerset street pharmacist, always has a large quantity in stock. You can get them in one, two, three and five pound boxes.

Having the Easter season in mind, with its somewhat chilly nights, Harry Werner, the West Front street clothier, purchased a fine line of top overcoats. They are all of the fashionable cut. They are selling very fast as the price is low.

The change in management at Crosby & Hill's store took place today, and Charles Schupp, of Rochester, N. Y., is now the resident managing partner. He is thoroughly conversant with the trade, having been in the dry goods business twenty years. He is thoroughly business and genial in his manner and is sure to make many friends. Charles Roberts, who has been manager, goes to Wilmington, Del., to manage Crosby & Hill's store in that place.

The window dressing at E. S. F. Randolph's pharmacy, at the corner of Watchung and North avenues, has attracted much attention. There is no establishment in Plainfield which shows so much originality in this kind of advertising, and on this occasion the display surpasses previous efforts. One window is adorned in white and raised in its centre is a beautiful large white cross well proportioned. At night a electric light star shines from the cross. Another window contains three Belgian hares.

Luncheon for Bridemaids.

A delightful luncheon was given Saturday by Miss Shreve, of Grove street, in honor of Miss Helen Clark and her bridemaids. The table decorations were pink. Covers were laid for ten. Miss Clark's marriage to John J. Swan will take place at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Clark, of Crescent avenue, Wednesday.

Money Disappeared.

In handing his daughter some money, Saturday afternoon, Lorenzo Paoli of North avenue, dropped $60 from a roll of bills he held. He did not miss it until yesterday and then found it had disappeared. Acting under the assumption that it had been stolen, he complained to the police. The latter are making an investigation.

Choir Prizes Awarded.

The choir prizes for the month of March were awarded at the children's festival at Grace Episcopal church last evening. Those who received the honors were Edwin Schiller, Stanfell Forbes, and the Misses Jennie Smith, Margaret Yeager and Mildred Ulrich. Miss Ethel Forbes received the Grace church cross.

KNEW AND WAS NOT AFRAID.

A Dying Mother Gains Courage for Her Journey Away from Her Little Daughter.

A touching and most unusual little incident of a young mother who was hopelessly ill, but quite unconscious of her condition, is described by the Boston Courier.

One afternoon the physicians held a consultation, and afterward announced to the husband and sister of the patient the sad fact that she had but a short time to live.

It was questioned whether it would be advisable to tell the sick woman or not. They talked the matter over quite unmindful of little Edith, the five-year-old child of the dying woman, who was quietly playing with her dolls, apparently unconscious of what was going on about her.

In a few minutes the little girl left her toys, walked slowly up the stairs and went directly to her mother's room. With the aid of a chair she climbed on the bed, kissed her mother's pale cheek, and then asked her in low, tender tones:

"Mamma, are you 'f'aid to die?"

The mother was at first startled by the question and asked: "Who told you? Do they think—"

"Oh, mamma, dear," murmured the child, "you needn't be 'f'aid at all. Hold my hand tight; shut your eyes close. I will stay by you, and when you wake up adain it will be all right."

The eyes were closed, the hand tightly clasped for a few minutes, and when, a little later, the other members of the family entered the room the mother was quietly sleeping, and the child said:

"I told mamma, and she was not 'f'aid to die."

The sick woman opened her eyes and said: "Yes, I know, and I am not afraid."

A SPINNING GHOST.

Upon Investigation Proved to Be a Rat Enjoying a Run Around the Wheel.

On the post road in southern New Hampshire stands an old house which was once famous for its ghost. It had been a tavern, owned and managed by two brothers and two sisters named Mason, relates the Youth's Companion.

The youngest of the family, Hannah, had been jilted in her youth. After her desertion she never entered any door save that of her own home, but gave all her strength to hard work. She would hatchel flax for weeks, spin unceasingly and weave on a hand loom, without apparently a thought of rest.

She died after a short illness, and still travelers said that their slumbers were disturbed by the whir of the wheel. Soon it was whispered about that the Mason house was haunted. Strange sounds were heard from the garret where Hannah had always worked, and plainest of all was the hum of the great wool wheel.

The brothers heard the story, and at once set out to solve the mystery.

Joseph went to the garret and watched. After a time the wheel began to revolve. He struck a light. On the rim of the wheel was a great rat, running around.

Frequent visits to the garret rendered this rat so tame that he would come out on the spinning wheel by daylight, and several others were occasionally seen to take a spin in the wheel, as if it were a pleasant recreation.

A PRINCE'S EDUCATION.

One Thing That Little Edward of York Rebelled Against But Had to Learn.

The present idol of the British public is Prince Edward of York, eldest son of the duke of York, grandson of the prince of Wales, great-grandson of Queen Victoria, and heir in the direct line of the crown of Great Britain. Prince Edward, having been born on June 23, 1894, is now well into his sixth year, and regards himself as quite a big boy, says Youth's Companion.

His brother Albert is a year younger, and the two princes have had, perhaps, their share, but no more, of brotherly "scraps." The duke of York is said not to have interfered with their small wars, saying that to "let them fight it out will make them better men." But he has interfered successfully with another weakness of Prince Edward.

It is customary for the royal children, in meeting the queen, to kiss her hand and not her cheek; but Prince Edward did not like to do this, and objected strenuously. One day he heard some one speak of "her majesty."

"I know who 'her majesty' is," said he; "it's just granny!"

"And who was the naughty little prince who would not kiss granny's hand?"

"That was me," said Prince Edward, unabashed, "and I'm not going to kiss granny's hand!"

But when he had arrived at the age of five he felt himself quite a man, and began to do as other men did—kissed the queen's hand and always doffed his cap in her presence.

Performed a Filial Duty.

Joe was such a pathetic little man. He came from a quarter of the city where crime and misery had formed a background for the five weary years of his unnatural little life. He was late to kindergarten one morning, and was asked to sit by the door until the morning exercises were over. Before being restored to grace the teacher asked him why he was so late. "Well," replied Joe, "the patrol came after my mother, and I waited to see her off." —Chicago Tribune.

SAYS CABLES ARE SAFE.

Hiram Maxim Declares These Interests Need Not Fear the Invention of Marconi.

Hiram Maxim thinks the Marconi system will not be a dangerous competitor of the cable companies for transatlantic business. He argues chiefly on the difficulty of securing secrecy, or even certainty, saying: "An enemy in time of war might set up a wave-making apparatus of every great power giving off waves of all amplitude and making it absolutely impossible to work any system of wireless telegraphy.

"The atuning of a transmitter or receiver to a certain pitch is only feasible to a limited extent, say a dozen different kind of waves. Supposing that in war two hostile fleets were concerned, no one depending on the ordinary system of signaling, no two depending on wireless telegraphy, it would be possible to provide fleet No. 1 with apparatus for making such a confusion of waves as to render the apparatus of fleet No. 2 absolutely useless.

"Marconi now has the atmosphere to himself, but when others enter the field and all are making their little waves, though they may not interfere with each other, nevertheless the operator who receives them and reduces them to the English language will have rather a difficult task.

"The Marconi system undoubtedly has enormous value, chiefly for ships signaling each other or with the shore during fog. Cable companies and Marconi can both live in the same world in perfect accord. One system will not interfere with the other. The Marconi system can perform new services without encroaching on the cable companies' sphere."

ROYAL PURPLE IS CRIMSON.

Color Popularly Known in the United States as Purple Is Vastly Different.

Any standard German dictionary will attest to the fact that the crude conventional color which is popularly known in the United States as purple has never been and is not today the royal purple in which classic tradition and the paintings of old masters robe their kings and queens, says the Chicago Daily News.

Take Muret-Sanders, for instance, a standard German dictionary, and you will find under the word "purpur," which is the German spelling for our purple, the definition: "The Tyrian dye; crimson; deep red." Among the explanatory phrases attached to the definition also is one which, translated into English, means "investing the cardinal with the purple." The color of a cardinal's robes and hat is too well known, one would say, to permit one to think of them as anything but the color which is known popularly today as "cardinal."

This tallies exactly with the classic interpretation of royal purple which has been followed by royalty in its coats-of-arms and its robes of state ever since the precious dye was first brought out of Egypt.

Speaking of coats-of-arms, the colors of the royal house of Prussia, are black, white and royal purple, or what the average person is wont to think of as a deep red.

Victoria--Island Capital of British Columbia

It Is Among the Oldest of the Northwestern Cities, and Is Typically English.

WHEN Factor Douglas, in 1842, selected the southern point of Vancouver island as the site of the principal Hudson Bay company post in the west, he could scarcely have realized that he was founding a city, a city that was to become the capital of a great province, and of commercial importance aside from its connection with the fur trade.

Victoria is the product of necessity. The passing of the American Fur company, of which the elder John Jacob Astor had been the head, first into the hands of the Northwest company, and later into that of the Hudson Bay company, made at Astoria, Ore., the principal, and practically the only commercial port in the northwest. But Astoria was located in disputed territory, both the United States and England claiming it, and the Hudson Bay company realized that the claims of England were virtually groundless, and that the territory in which the post was located would eventually pass into the hands of the United States, and so instructed its officers in the northwest to locate a new post at some point that would lie within British territory when the boundary dispute was finally settled. It was in compliance with these instructions that Factor Douglas selected the southern part of Vancouver island in 1842, though it was not until four years later that the settlement of the Oregon boundary left Astoria in undisputed possession of the United States.

The new post on Victoria island was at first called Fort Camosun, and consisted of the usual log structure, surrounded by high pallisades, with bastions at each corner. With this rudely constructed stockade began the commercial life of Victoria. So long as Victoria depended upon the fur trade for its sustenance and growth the rude stockade served its purpose, but with the discovery of gold in British Columbia in the summer of 1858 came thousands of prospectors, who made of the post their headquarters, and relied upon it as their base of supplies. This brought new commercial life to the then small hamlet, and the growth that began with the rush for gold has continued until to-day Victoria is a city of more than 25,000 people.

I journeyed to Victoria from Vancouver in the company of a party of English tourists. At the latter place I had seen all the hurry and bustle that is typical of almost a countless number of cities in the United States that are industrial and commercial centers. In fact Vancouver had seemed to me a home-land city that had by mistake sprung up across the international line. Vancouver was my ideal. Victoria pleased my English tourist friends.

"Now I feel at home," said one of them, and he could not have put into words a sentence that is better expressive of what Victoria is. It is typically English. There on an island in the north Pacific has been builded an ideal English town; English in its construction, in its government, in its business methods, in its social pleasures and pastimes, and its people.

Victoria is a city of wealth, and its homes typify wealth. There are great spacious buildings surrounded by large plots of ground, and inclosed by beautiful green hedges run over with flowering vines. The occasional peeps the visitor gets of the scene behind the hedges remind him of the scenes among the plantation homes of the south, or the luxuriance of nature in California. Roses, great beautiful roses, are everywhere, they border the graveled walks, they cover immense bushes, and through them one catches a glimpse now and then of wide, vine-covered verandas. Nor do roses alone form the splendor of these home grounds. With them are to be seen almost all of every species of the hardier classes of flowering plants, all combined to form a wonderland of beauty.

Into these homes the casual visitor is not invited. No matter what your business relations may be, no matter what your recommendations and introductions of a business nature may be, your view of Victoria life must be from outside the hedges. The business man will take you to his club; he will entertain you lavishly at his place of business, show you the sights of the city, the public buildings, the government naval yard at Esquimault; his carriage and coachman are always at your disposal, but his home is not. That is the English of it, you know, and Victoria is an English city on a Pacific island.

Pick up a newspaper in Toronto, Winnipeg or Vancouver, and you will find prominently displayed the baseball scores of the teams in the United States and the local teams. Turn to the commercial columns, and you will find the trade quotations from New York, Chicago and other points in the United States given first place. The doings of congress are chronicled with more detail than the doings of parliament. All these things are reversed when you get to Victoria. It is the games of England that fill the columns devoted to sporting news; it is the quotations of London that are given preference in the commercial columns, and the doings of congress are not of sufficient interest to receive even a scant "stick" full of matter. Victoria is English in all ways, and loyally English.

Victoria is a city of wealth. But few cities of its size and age anywhere in the world can compare favorably with this provincial island capital in this respect. There is wealth written in its business blocks, in its homes, in its municipal improvements. It is wealth that has come of commercial transactions and industrial development rather than by inheritance. The business man does business in an easy English way, but he does it just the same. The wholesale merchant will close his store for half a day that himself and his employes may go to the polo game, but at the same time his traveling salesmen are taking orders at every town and hamlet, and in every mining camp throughout the Canadian northwest. Daily steamers ply between the city and the mainland, and the freight rates accorded are the same as from Vancouver to all points. It is this fact that makes Victoria a distributing point. In fact, Victoria is not only the distributing center for Vancouver island, but shares the trade of all the Canadian northwest with Vancouver.

Aside from the uniqueness of its situation and its interesting history, Victoria offers many attractions to the tourist. Its immense stretch of water front, made possible by the numerous inlets and small bays, afford an anchorage for the ships of all nations of the world. Within a short car ride is Esquimault, the British naval station, the headquarters of the British North Pacific squadron, with its dry docks, its marine railway, its ammunition houses, its great guns and its warships. Railroad trains run each day to the rich coal fields of the island, and carry one through charming scenery of mountain and valley, while the trip from the mainland either at Seattle or Vancouver is of sufficient interest and pleasure to warrant the expenditure of time needed to make it.

SHE LOST THE PRIZE.

Sad Plight of the Girl Who Wore a Popcorn and Candy Gown to the Dress Ball.

She got an invitation to the prize masked ball of the Terror club and she determined, on the instant, to win the first prize if it were possible. She spent several hours in hard study. Finally she evolved a plan which seemed to promise victory.

She would wear a costume composed entirely of strings of popcorn and bright-colored candies. It would be novel and effective. She went to work at once and several days before the date of the ball she had completed an outfit which she was sure would be a winner. She showed it to several of her friends and they all agreed it was a splendid effort. On the great night she and hed escort went over to the hall on the street car. There was a big crowd about the entrance, but they climbed the stairs and she left her wraps in the cloakroom on the second floor.

There was still another flight of stairs to be climbed, and when they got to the entrance to the ballroom they were stopped by a big crowd of small boys which was gathered close about the door in a dense mass.

She and her escort pressed into the crowd as far as they could go, but they were caught in the jam and detained for several minutes. Finally they got through into the room and she began to look for the applause which she was sure would greet her appearance. Instead people began to laugh, says the Chicago Tribune.

"I wish," she said to her escort, "you would look me all over and tell me what is the matter."

The man did as he was bidden.

"I am sorry," he said, "but somebody has eaten most of your costume. I suppose those small boys did it while we were waiting in the hall. At any rate, most of the popcorn and candy is gone from the back of your dress."

THEIR RELATIONSHIP.

When Madam Made Up Their Minds, John Simply Said "Yes" and Smiled a Silly Smile.

There are some queer couples in the world, remarked a Boston estate agent recently. The other day a man and woman called to see me about renting a house. The woman did all the talking and turned to the man for confirmation or corroboration. He always agreed with her, and did it very meekly.

"THAT'S SO, ISN'T IT, JOHN?"

"Well," said the woman, "I'll give you $25 for the house. Won't we, John?"

John—Yes.

"And I'll pay my rent promptly, too; won't we, John?"

"Yes."

"And I'll take good care of the house; won't we, John?"

"Yes."

"And I'll take it for three years; won't we, John?"

"Yes."

"But," I inquired, as is usual in such cases, "are you man and wife?"

"Man and wife," exclaimed the woman, sharply. "Indeed, we are not; are we, John?"

"No, my dear."

"What?" said I. "Not man and wife?"

"Not much," she retorted. "I'll have you know, too, that in this family we are wife and man; that's so, isn't it, John?"

And John meekly agreed.

SHE LOVES HIM WELL.

Boston Girl Will Travel Thousands of Miles to Marry the Man of Her Choice.

Not every girl graduate would dare to travel half way around the world to meet her future husband, especially when the man himself was living in a war-torn island among semi-civilized natives. Miss Nettie Dodge, a Boston girl, dared to, though, and she is already on her way to the Philippines.

Her sweetheart, Walter Chapman, was recently appointed a teacher on the island of Negros, and he left Boston to take up his new duties there several weeks ago.

But for that appointment he and Miss Dodge would have been married this spring, after her graduation from the Boston university, where she was in the class of 1901.

Mr. Chapman, who soon found his duties as teacher to the natives of the island of Negros were too multitudinous to be satisfactorily attended to by one teacher alone, wrote to his betrothed a few weeks ago suggesting that he needed an assistant. He intimated further that the assistant he most particularly wanted was named Miss Nettie Dodge. There was no reason, since he could not conveniently leave his school to return to this country for their wedding, why she should not join him there?

Miss Dodge thought out the proposition long and earnestly. Then she decided to accept it. Without any difficulty she obtained the appointment to the position of assistant to the school-teacher at Negros, and she is already on her way to join her sweetheart.

When she left Boston her young friends and classmates from the Boston university gave her such a send-off as only falls to the lot of brides. She was showered with rice, her trunk was decorated with pink ribbons and orange blossoms, and at the station, before the Pullman left, fraternity girls took pains to make a personal call on every passenger in the coach to inform them that the young lady was a bride-to-be.

GOAT HAS NINE LIVES.

Frozen Solidly Into a Cake of Ice, It's as Frisky as a Kitten When Thawed Out.

There was weeping and wailing in Tom Trecco's cabin at Brandt, Pa., when the family goat disappeared. At night it slept in the house, and at meal time it was always under the table. Few children were caressed as much as the goat, and it became the pet of the neighborhood. When it disappeared Tom drowned his sorrows in beer, and Little Italy went into mourning for two days. Men cutting ice from the Starrucca creek for the Erie railroad corps found its frozen body in the ice. The section of ice containing the goat's body was sawed out, carried to Tom's cabin and placed behind the stove. The neighbors dropped in at night, and over cases of beer commented on the many virtues of the late lamented. Mrs. Tom told the women that she would make a rug out of the goatskin, for a reminder of her dead pet.

When the guests had finally departed and Mr. and Mrs. Tom were left alone, the chunk of ice was moved nearer the stove, and the household went to bed. At daybreak there was a clash and clatter. Tom bounded downstairs to investigate.

His eyes fell upon the animate form of the goat, making a breakfast of an old hair cushion. He was a little stiff and bedraggled, but a day's careful nursing brought him around all right again. Tom bought a barrel of beer, took a day off and invited all the neighbors to make merry.

UP TO DATE LINGERIE.

Princess Petticoats and New Corsets.

Parisians make a complete study of lingerie, and each new fashion in gowns is provided with some new arrangement of the corset which molds the figure to the required outline. The little empire corset, or ceinture, merely covers the bust and is held by shoulder straps, and over this the empire toilet hangs to perfection. Then for the figure with hips inclined to spread unduly there are many new basque corsets, where the hips are completely covered by a shaped basque, put on separately and held down by double or triple sets of suspenders. These basques are deftly padded if necessary and are so accurately modeled that they lessen the size of the hips and control the shape and outline. The basques are of coutille or of the brocaded material which is really a kind of jean or coutille as used for the corset.

Princess petticoats are now made quite straight in front and without an atom of fullness at the back. Empire petticoats have short bodices in camisole fashion fastened with a drawing ribbon below the bust, and tiny straps form the armholes. The skirt attached to this is straight and ungored and trimmed with frills at the edge.

The costume in the cut is of tan cloth. The jacket is made somewhat in the norfolk order, with wide lapels of cream satin and lace.

BELTS AND NECK RUFFLES.

Smart Effects in Tulle—Novel Wedding Costume.

There are so many new and pretty accessories that to keep thoroughly up to date requires quite a separate allowance for et ceteras alone. The new shaped belts are becoming when they fit perfectly; otherwise they are a failure. Very narrow belts are worn with blouses and shirts, but if the bodice is made in bolero fashion or the shirt is worn with a short bolero the belt is very wide and much decorated at the back.

Elastic belts studded with metal spots are shown, but are not very popular, although most effective with a short sack bolero. A boa, toque and muff en suite worn at a smart wedding last week showed the fashion for spring.

WHITE CHIFFON GOWN.

The toque had the slightly round turned up brim completely covered by rows innumerable of lightly plaited white tulle. A sweeping paradise osprey fastened inside the brim with a large pearl ornament turned over the crown of tucked black chiffon and alternate lines of black and white chenille completely covered the crown. One immense chou of black tulle and a short length of fine white lace ornamented the front, and the end of the lace was caught up with a cabochon of pearls.

The gown illustrated is of white chiffon trimmed with perpendicular stripes of black lace.

CHAPTER I.

Guy Herbert arrived in Concord, Dakota Territory, on the noon train. As soon as he had removed the stains of travel and eaten his luncheon, he made haste to inquire his way to the office of the Concord Blizzard. The Blizzard was reckoned a very potential power throughout Dakota, and not to have heard of it was synonymous with being a stranger in that part of the country. A man named Keever—Col. Archibald Keever, if you please—presided over the destinies of the Blizzard. He was also the guiding hand that manipulated the affairs of the Concord Townsite Company in those booming times of '85. Guy had to do with the Colonel on matters pertaining to the town, weighty matters so far as Guy was concerned.

The building that harbored the sanctum and its accompanying "plant" was an unsightly two-story structure covered with tar paper held in place by strips of lath. A flight of crazy stairs clung to the outside, and Guy, somewhat doubtful of their stability, laid hold of the hand rail and ascended cautiously. At the landing above he turned sharply to the left and was confronted by a door bearing this printed placard:

Office of the Blizzard.
Fearless Champion of the Rights of Man,
In General.
And of the Republican Party,
IN PARTICULAR.
Welcome.
☞ Wipe your feet on the mat.

Guy scraped his shoes assiduously and passed into the sanctum. One would hardly have thought that in such a misty little cubby hole the powerful mind of Archibald Keever was wont to evolve those gems of editorial wit which had made the Blizzard venerated and feared all the way from Fargo to Bismarck, and from Standing Rock as far north as Turtle Mountain. Yet such was the fact. Guy looked about him with interest. Insurance calendars, farming implement advertisements, a cheap lithograph of Topsy and another of Eliza pursued by bloodhounds did their little mite toward covering the rough board walls. Two ten-penny nails, affixed to the board wall by half their length, supported a white hat and a cane. A window containing eight panes of dusty glass let in a mellow light upon the great man who sat at a desk, his profile to the caller, and took no notice of him. Evidently the editor was in the throes of composition.

Guy had no desire to interrupt and remained standing very quietly in the center of the floor. Scratch, scratch, scratch. Humped over that antiquated desk with his old steel pen, scraping away as for dear life. What fire the Colonel must have been throwing into that editorial! Guy observed him curiously.

The Colonel was not tall, but rather short. He was also very stout—a pudgy man with an extremely pudgy countenance. His face was red, the tip of his nose conspicuously so. He wore a mustache and chin whiskers, both gray and bristling and cut in the fiercest form compatible with high respectability. The better to show the Colonel's illustrious bumps, Nature had denuded of hair the greater portion of his scalp. Phrenology had been a pastime study of Guy's, and he observed how, beginning at the temples, the hirsute fringe bordered the Colonel's head, passing, at the back, no higher than the topmost limits of philoprogenitiveness, imperfectly developed. Two small eyes, murky, but wide apart, claimed Guy's final attention.

The caller realized suddenly that he had been in the office for quite a considerable period. If the Colonel could not grant an interview, he might say so, and Guy would call again. The young man coughed. The Colonel frowned heavily, raised his left hand in token of silence and scratched on.

Guy swung on his heel and started for the door.

"Colonel!" cried a shrill voice. "Don't let him get away! Maybe he wants to subscribe!"

Guy was startled. He halted and peered about the room, finally detecting a cadaverous, ink-begrimed face topped with a snarl of red hair. The face was peering into the sanctum from the workroom through an unused stovepipe hole cut in the partition. The red haired boy grinned as he caught Guy's eye and dodged away to escape a paper-weight which the Colonel hurled at him. The Colonel's aim was bad, and Guy observed that the opening was bordered with dents and abrasions.

"By gad!" exclaimed the editor, angrily. "That imp has knocked the tar out of one of the finest things I have set hand to in many a day. If the people ever find out what they lose on account of that graceless cub, they'll rise up as one man and hang him, no doubt about it." Whirling in his pivot chair, he glowered at his caller.

"Perhaps I had better go and come back at some more convenient time," said Guy.

"The mischief has been done, and my inspiration is knocked into a cocked hat," answered the Colonel, softening. "If you wish to subscribe for my excellent paper, two-fifty a year, in advance, I shall be pleased to enter your name on the books."

"I presume I am addressing Col. Keever?"

"You are sir, you are."

"I do not wish to subscribe, colonel, but came on other business."

The colonel looked disappointed; nevertheless he waved his hand hospitably toward a chair.

"Very well, sir, what can I do for you?"

"My name is Herbert, Guy Herbert," answered the young man. The other acknowledged receipt of the information with a nod. "You were the manager of the Townsite Company, were you not?"

"Were!" cried the Colonel. "I am, sir, at the present moment."

"Three men owned the townsite," continued Guy; "Mr. Harlow Briggs, president of the H. G. & Y. railroad; Mr. Edward Thomas, a lumber dealer in St. Paul, and Mr. Montford Herbert. Mr. Briggs and Mr. Thomas sold out to Mr. Herbert, and Mr. Herbert—" the young man's voice trembled—"died two months ago."

"You don't tell me!" ejaculated the Colonel. "Of course I know all about the company; in fact, I am on familiar terms with Briggs and Thomas and both knew and admired—admired, I say, sir—Mr. Montford Herbert." The Colonel settled back in his chair and shook his head sadly. "And so Herbert is gone," he murmured. "This news comes with appalling suddenness."

"Mr. Montfort Herbert," resumed Guy, "was my father."

"Your father!" The Colonel struggled to his feet, rushed upon Guy and wrenched his hand powerfully. "My dear boy, this would be a happy moment for me were you not the bearer of such sorrowful news." The Colonel dropped Guy's hand, reached behind him to the tails of his coat and brought forth a large bandanna handkerchief. Applying this to his eyes, he proceeded to pace the narrow confines of the sanctum while rallying from the blow.

Guy was surprised at this manifestation of feeling. He was aware that his father had known Col. Keever well; so well that, having acquired entire charge of the town, he was on the point of dispensing with the manager's services at the time his last illness came upon him.

Halting under the stovepipe hole, the Colonel recovered the paper-weight, again seated himself and laid both paper weight and handkerchief on the desk beside him.

"As Mr. Briggs and Mr. Thomas sold out to my father," observed

"WE'LL BEAT THEM, I TELL YOU."

Guy, "and since I am my father's sole heir, it naturally follows that I—" Guy hesitated.

"It naturally follows that you own the town," finished the colonel. "A princely inheritance, my boy."

"Do you think so?" queried Guy, hopefully.

"I do, providing we can keep the county seat."

"Then I hope Concord will be able to keep it," returned Guy, fervently. "Aside from a few hundred dollars, this town is all my father left me."

The Colonel's face lengthened. Guy observed this and augured direfully.

"What's the matter with the county seat?" he asked. "I understood that Concord had it hard and fast."

"County seats, my boy, are peculiar institutions. In this country it takes a county seat to make a town; consequently, every settlement in a county that has been able to euchre the government out of a post office feels in duty bound to step in and try for it. You are familiar, I suppose, with the fight we have had up here?"

"I know that the town of Harmony was beaten at the polls a year or more ago. I thought that settled the question."

CAPT. LUCIEN YOUNG.

Brilliant Deeds Abound in Records of New Inspector of the Ninth Lighthouse District.

Commander Lucian Young, U. S. N., hero of the wreck of the United States steamer Huron, has arrived in Chicago from Washington to relieve Commander F. N. Symonds as inspector of the Ninth lighthouse district.

Commander Young is one of the few officers of the navy who have two medals voted by congress for distinguished bravery.

He began his career as a life saver when he jumped overboard from the United States steamer Alaska in 1873, as she was plowing the Mediterranean under full sail, to rescue a seaman who had fallen from aloft.

When the Huron went ashore in a storm off Cape Hatteras, November 24, 1877, Ensign Young went over the side with a line and attempted to make the shore to summon aid. Of the crew of 195 souls 160 had been lost when Young went over the side.

Up and down the beach for miles went the young officer. Gathering the beach combers, Young returned to the wreck and succeeded in aiding in the taking off of the 35 men left of the crew.

It was for this act of heroism congress made the ensign a master, extended its thanks and gave him a gold medal. The states of New York and Massachusetts each gave gold medals, and the latter a certificate of honor also. His home state, Kentucky, voted him a sword and made him an honorary member for life of the Kentucky legislature. This latter honor had been conferred but once before—upon Henry Clay.

During the war with Spain Commander Young's flagship Hist and the two other gunboats engaged and sunk a Spanish gunboat, captured a torpedo boat and nine vessels that guarded the entrance to the harbor.

MAY SUCCEED POWDERLY.

Frank P. Sargent to Be United States Commissioner General of Immigration.

The position of commissioner general of immigration has been tendered by the president to Frank P. Sargent, chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, to succeed T. V. Powderly, the present incumbent. Mr. Sargent was born in East Orange, Orange county, Vt., in 1851. Early in life he decided to become a photographer, and for some time followed that vocation, but soon tired of it and emigrated to Arizona. In Arizona he decided to cast his fortune with the regular army, and enlisted in the cavalry branch of the service. He served out his full term of enlistment and was granted an honorable discharge.

From the army Mr. Sargent drifted into railroading and secured a start as a wiper in the employ of the Southern Pacific railroad. From this humble and not altogether remunerative position he worked his way up until he reached that degree of efficiency where hard and conscientious work won for him the position of fireman.

When the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen was organized some 30 years ago, Mr. Sargent immediately identified himself with the organization, and soon became one of the most active workers in it. He was at length made the grand master of the brotherhood, and afterward became president of the Supreme Council of Railway Employes, in which position he had thousands of men under his charge.

Mr. Sargent has won general recognition from all of the great employers of labor, owing to his opposition to strikes.

DUEL TO THE DEATH.

Gorilla and Man Have Ferocious Struggle for Twenty Minutes in Marseilles "Zoo."

According to a French correspondent of the New York World, a strange duel was fought lately in the Marseilles "Zoo" between the only adult gorilla in Europe and his keeper.

The Gorilla was killed after a fight lasting 20 minutes, in which the keeper was so horribly mangled that he died five hours later.

The famous gorilla was named Francisco. He was one of the largest species, and always had been perfectly tractable, showing especial affection for his keeper, a man named Journoux, until the latter married a few weeks ago.

The bride visited the Zoo often, and the gorilla was very sensitive about the attention she showed him.

When he perceived that she undoubtedly preferred his keeper Francisco became more and more jalous, and finally Journoux found it impossibl to approach the gorilla, especially if Mme. Journoux was in sight.

Two days ago Francisco was so surly and quiet that the keeper thought he was sick and entered the cage to comfort his former pet.

The gorilla immediately sprang upon his hated rival. Journoux held a short tamer's fork, which alone accounts for the fight lasting so long.

It being dinner time, all the other keepers had withdrawn to a distan shanty. Only three children witnessed the terrible fight, and they were so terrified they failed to fetch help until Journoux had succeeded in escaping from the cage.

The gorilla followed before the door could be shut, and the duel continued outside from one end of the building to the other, as is shown by the blood stains.

Finally the children ran away yelling.

By the time help arrived the gorilla had been killed.

The keeper was found with one eye torn out, rapidly losing blood from many wounds and laboriously trying to crawl away on all fours. One hand had been completely chewed off and the lower lip and part of the chin had also been bitten.

BRUIN ATTENDS BALL.

For a Short Time the Big Bear Had His Own Way, But in the End He Was Vanquished.

South Hebertom, 12 miles from Hazleton, Pa., has just gone through an exciting experience with a tame bear, until recently the property of Hugh

BRUIN ENTERED THE HALL.

Mallow, who bought the animal from a circus.

The bear behaved well while in Malloy's care, but the latter had no particular use for Bruin, so he was disposed of to William Gallagher, a councilman, who owns a saloon. Gallagher last week had a shooting match for the bear which was won by Henry Krause, a tavernkeeper at South Hebron. Krause chained the bear in his barn, where he had intended to keep it during summer. He conducted a dance at his place Saturday night, but the music disturbed the bear, and, breaking his chain, Bruin entered the dance hall on his hind legs. Constable Ludwig and Lorah Schwab, two of the dancers, attempted to get hold of the part of the chain the bear dragged, but were knocked down and rendered unconscious. The animal then attacked Krause, who, with a Winchester, killed the intruder.

Many of the dancers had taken refuge in trees near the hotel, and they did not get down until assured that all danger was over.

EAST SHORE EAGLES.

Bold Marauders, Savage Fighters and Wondrous at Flight.

Encounter Between Two Enraged Birds at an Elevation of 500 Feet —Carp Is the Worst Enemy They Have.

"The eagles of the Maryland coast," said a native of the eastern shore, to a New York Sun reporter, "while not so numerous as they once were, are as fierce and bold and aggressive as in the days when the farmers along the shore and upon the Susquehanna and Bay islands were compelled to employ shepherds to watch their flocks of sheep and protect them against the raids of these great winged marauders.

"The farmers would be compelled to do the same to-day if they were sheep growers still, which they are not, not a few of them having abandoned that branch of farming, in fact, because of the trouble and expense of guarding their flocks against eagles. This was particularly the case in the spring, when the lambs were an important part of the flock.

"In spite of the shepherds even there were eagles bold and active and alert enough to swoop down, seize and carry off many lambs, sometimes dropping upon one so close to a shepherd that he could feel the wind from the broad wings of the bird as it rose with its prey.

"The fierceness of the eagles and the tenacity and power of the clutch they can put into their immense talons are well illustrated by a fight between two big fellows that Capt. Gallup, of Havre de Grace, saw one day. Capt. Gallup, for more than two generations a close observer of the manner and customs of the predatory birds of the coast, says that the eastern shre eagles can fly faster, soar higher, remain in their lofty flight longer and descend from it to the earth with more velocity than any other created thing with wings.

"This battle that he saw was between the two eagles in the air at an elevation of 500 feet. A long time the big, fierce birds fought with beak and talon and wing, rushing upon one another, delivering their blows and retreating for advantage in a new attack.

"Then at last they clinched and fought at close quarters. In that position they came plunging to the earth, but neither made any effort to stay the fall, so fiercely intent were they upon their savage battle. They struck together in the freshly-turned furrow of a plowed field, and the impact failed to separate them or cause an instant's delay in the fight.

"It was continued with increased fury on the ground, and the coming upon the scene of a man with a club, with which he at once took part in the battle, did not distract their attention from one another and the man killed them both. Their talons were buried so deeply in each other that to separate the two eagles it was necessary to cut off their legs.

"A spread of wing of more than seven feet is by no means uncommon with these eagles. Ospreys are also numerous along the coast, and it is a familiar sight to see one on its way home with some big fish it has snatched from the shoal waters of the bay or among the Susquehanna islands, waylaid by some overpowering freebooter of an eagle that has been on the watch for a chance, and robbed of his prize.

"Frequently an eagle will try his own skill at fishing and pounce down on the carp that root on the bottom of the shoal water. These fish are sometimes so large that the eagle is unable to lift them from the water, but the bird is so obstinate that it will not release its hold, even when the fish carries it out into the deep, rough waters of the bay.

"Eagles have been known to be drowned in that way by carp they have set their stubborn talons into and either refuse or are unable to free them again.

Roasts Turkey by Music.

A nobleman in Madrid combines music with his cooking apparatus. He has a musical spit in his kitchen; it will take several roasts at a time and play 24 tunes. The time required for cooking any particular joint or fowl is calculated according to the number of tunes played. Thus, turkey would be done nicely by the end of the eighteenth tune.

DIDN'T KNOW THE LAW.

Recent Arrival From Italy Attempted to Talk Back to Policeman.

Raphael Jannuzi, a recent arrival from Italy, isn't well versed in American laws and didn't know, last evening, that it is not considered good form to apply personal epithets to policemen on duty. He assayed to tell Patrolman Meyers that he was out of order and that from his conduct on the Liberty street post, he should be transferred. The critical Jannuzi was escorted to a cell at police headquarters and this morning he contributed $5 to the city treasury.

SUDDEN DEATH.

Watson Randolph Died After Three Days Illness Yesterday.

The death of Watson Randolph, colored, son of Robert Randolph, of East Sixth street, occurred at his home, yesterday, after a three days' illness. His demise was sudden as it was supposed he was recovering. Heart failure is assigned as the cause.

The young man was twenty-six years old and was quite well-known. Funeral services will be held from the Fillmore Avenue Baptist church, Wednesday afternoon at 2:45. Interment will be at Hillside.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Charles L. Goodrich and son, Carter, of West Seventh street, are visiting Mrs. Goodrich's parents at Montclair.

EASTER SUNDAY IN PLAINFIELD

Marconnier chapel yesterday afternoon when the Sunday-school joined in a special service. The programme in charge of Superintendent H. W. Marshall comprised the singing of carols, addresses by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of Trinity Reformed church, and M. Seymour Purdy, of the chapel. There was also a report of the secretary, Miss VanCourt, showing a steady increase and an excellent condition of the school.

William VanCourt, treasurer, presented his report. April 1, 1901, there was a balance of $76.32. The receipts for the year were $431.77 and there is a balance of $29.26. The programme was concluded with an egg hunt. This is an annual feature and proved to be highly enjoyable.

TRINITY REFORMED.

Easter was a glad day at Trinity Reformed church. The decorations consisted of a large cross, covered with white roses and smilax, surrounded with lilies, palms and ferns. This was the work of Mrs. Henry VanName, chairman; Mrs. L. R. Schofield, Mrs. S. C. Baker, Mrs. B. F. Coriell and Miss Metha Rose, of the Ladies' Christian Work and Christian Endeavor Societies.

The excellent programme of music, previously published, was given at the morning and evening services under the direction of Arthur L. Titsworth, organist. The quartette was composed of Miss Derby, soprano; Miss Williams, alto; H. J. Martin, Sr., tenor; Joseph C. Martin, bass.

At the morning service, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor, delivered an impressive sermon on the "Primacy of Christ."

The Sunday-school service was held in the evening when "Victory," a prepared Easter programme, was given. Superintendent F. E. Smith was in charge and H. J. Martin led the singing, the choir assisting. The programme was made up of anthems, recitations and songs. Those who recited and sang were Rosamond Rogers, Helen Roberts, George Cole, Cora Gray, Helen Smith, Edna Cole, Marion Morris, Jessie Smith, Ralph Martin, Clifford Cole, Arthur Gaskill, Howard Debele, Edson Day, Helen Wooley, Margaret VanDeventer, Edith Richards, Ethel Vail. Mrs. J. M. Tier, superintendent of the primary department, was in charge.

GERMAN REFORMED.

The appointed Easter services took place at the German Reformed church, which had been decorated with azelias, palms, calla and Easter lilies and ferns. There were large congregations present both morning and evening.

AT BETHEL CHAPEL.

The children's Easter entertainment will be held at Bethel chapel next Sunday evening. Yesterday the services were such as would be in keeping with the day, and the interior of the edifice was tastefully decorated.

FIRST M. E. CHURCH.

In the First Methodist church there were no especial features morning and evening, beyond anthem singing and solos by Charles L Lewis, choir master. The children celebrated the day by giving appropriate exercises in Vincent chapel in the afternon.

For the most part, they consisted of recitations and vocal selections given by the following: Duet, Louis Schutt and Carrie Mulford; solo, Charles L. Lewis; recitations by the following kindergarden pupils: Edna Kennedy, Luella Derby, Burnett Doane, Benson Hartney, Ernestine Waldron, Jessie Brown, Irene Doane, Margaret Robley; duet, Gertrude Geier and Edna Kennedy. A short address was made by Rev. Dr. W. C. Snodgrass.

A feature of the celebration was the distribution of carnations among the pupils, every member of the Sunday-school being presented with one.

MT. OLIVE BAPTIST.

An excellent Easter programme was presented at the Mt. Olive Baptist church last evening, when Rev. E. N. McDaniels, of New York, delivered an address, followed by an eulogy on flowers by the pastor, Rev. E. E. Jackson. There was a remarkable discourse by Frank Brown, aged 10 years, and the junior and senior choirs rendered special music. Mrs. Hall J. Smith, elocutionist, gave selections of unusual excellence.

South Plainfield, March 31—Frank Blanchard and Miss Minnie Ingrahm, both of Herkimer, N. Y., appeared at Justice Weaver's office, in South Plainfield, Saturday evening, and the squire performed the marriage service. It is commonly reported that Mr. and Mrs. Blanchard are a runaway couple.

TEAM IS NOT YET SELECTED

MANAGER ALEX. MUIR DENIES REPORT PUBLISHED IN ANOTHER PAPER.

Only One Man Definitely Selected for the Safe Works Baseball Nine for the Season.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Permit me space in your columns to set right a wrong impression which has gained belief through a misleading article in Saturday's issue of a local paper with reference to the probable completement of the Safe Works baseball team.

First and foremost, the players have not yet been selected and only one position has been settled upon, consequently the outlining of the team at this time is premature and hinders the management in its work. All the players must belong to the factory and four of those mentioned in the advance article as being probable members of the team, are not employes nor is there any prospect of their being so.

For reasons which I do not wish to make public, the personnel of the Safe Works team will not be given out until two weeks before Decoration Day, and any outlining of the nine before that time, will be mere guesswork on the part of irresponsible parties. As the applicants stand now they are just as likely to be assigned one place as another and as for Macey, Brompton and Kelley, their names have never been presented as candidates.

ANIMALS WITH THREE EYES.

New Zealand Creatures That Have a Third Optical Organ on Top of the Head.

Nearly everyone has heard of the tuatara, the curious, iguana-like looking creature, now found on only one or two islands off the coast of New Zealand, and supposed to be the oldest living type of animal on the face of the globe. One of the most curious features is an organ on the head, which at one time was spoken of as the pineal gland, but which Dr. Dendy discovered to be in reality a third eye, says the Melbourne Argus. His paper on the subject caused the greatest interest in the English scientific circles, and, as an illustration of the way in which research is specialized nowadays, it may be mentioned that while Dr. Dendy devoted himself to the study of the third eye one distinguished English biologist is "working out" the skeleton, another the kidneys, and so forth. In a short time, therefore, our anatomical knowledge of the tuatara ought to be complete.

More recently Dr. Dendy has discovered another New Zealand creature possessing a third eye. This is the New Zealand lamprey, a favorite article of food among the Maoris. The third eye is situated right on top of the head and is covered with a thin coating of skin. It is doubtful whether it is now of any practical use for seeing, but Dr. Dendy believes that at one time, far back in the world's history, there were two eyes on the back of the lamprey's head. He is further of the opinion that at one time the tuatara also had two eyes where now only one remains. In the tuatara it is the left eye which has survived, while in the lamprey it is the right one.

FREE FIGHT.

Took Place in the Streets of Somerville Saturday Evening Before a Big Crowd.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Somerville, March 31—A disgraceful exhibition, which took place at the corner of Second and Division streets, Saturday evening, was witnessed by a crowd of at least two hundred persons, and only one interferred to stop the affair. Two well known young men were engaged in a fistic encounter and the fight was in deadly earnest. No arrests were made.

The young men fought until completely exhausted. A number of young and old women witnessed the affair and seemed to enjoy a rough and ready fight where some real blood was spilt and swelled faces came in for fair.

DEATH OF MISS HILLMAN.

Passed Away at Home of Mrs. Charles Leveridge Saturday.

The death of Miss Martha Hillman occurred Saturday at the home of her niece, Mrs. Charles Levridge, of Sherman avenue. She was seventy-six years old and was a native of New York city. For the past three years she had been a sufferer but was seriously ill only three weeks.

The funeral services will be held from Mrs. Leveridge's residence, tomorrow at 12 o'clock. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery, Brooklyn.
